THE NORTHWEST HOW INDIANA WAS CARRIED FOR GARFIELD.

Bureau-Drawers Filled With money for Purposes of Corruption.

Into Which Don Cameron Empties a Sack of Sixty Thousand Dollars.

Gangs of Repeaters Sent to the Hoosier State From the East.

Facts Sworn to by a Republican Official Who Assisted Dorsey in the Work.

The New York Sun of the 16th prints the following:

"I was a Republican office-holder at the East in 1880. A fortnight before the October election in Indiana I received an urgent request or command to go to Indianapolis. The summons was in writing. It was signed by Senator Dorsey. I took this letter to my official superior, and was told by him to go. When I reached Indianapolis I reported to Senator Dorsey, and until three or four days before the election worked under his directions. During the canvass I was daily in contact with Dorsey and the other Republican managers at their headquarters in the New Denison House. Dorsey was every thing in that campaign. He thought of every thing, cared for every thing, supervised every thing, was obeyed by every body. When one day he broke down from overwork, and was sick in bed, matters at headquarters were in hopeless confusion. The subordinate managers ran around wildly and helplessly, like so many chickens with their heads chopped off. Dudley and New were on the ground, but their work relatively amounted to little, although they have been superbly rewarded for the work that they did. The one trusted lieutenant of S. W. Dorsey was George C. Gorham. He was cool-headed and efficient. Nearly every dollar of the Indiana fund that was paid out to local or imported agents was paid on the order of Dorsey or on the order of Gorham."

"Swain was also there during almost all of my stay as the personal representative of Garfield. He was constantly at headquarters. He communicated with Garfield several times every day by telegraph or by mail. I also wrote frequently to Garfield to inform him as to the situation. This fact Swain must have discovered during one of his flying visits to Mentor, for he afterward treated me with some sukkiness. He appeared to be displeased because facts went to Mentor through another medium than himself. My particular and immediate functions were the organization and control of the parties of strikers and repeaters and roughs brought to Indianapolis from the East, and distributed in small gangs to different points in the State. The trick of importation and organization had been tried on a much larger scale, but without success, in 1876, when I was also in Indiana. In 1880 the means used to carry the State were different. The chief dependence was put on greenbacks, not on colonists and repeaters."

"In the Garfield year I think not much more than one hundred and fifty outsiders were sent to Indiana from the East for these purposes. One party, as I remember, consisted of forty-five men from Baltimore and Wilmington. There were gangs from Philadelphia, Pittsburgh and other cities. These imported Republicans were letter-carriers, petty office-holders and ward-workers in the cities where they belonged. Their duties were to intimidate Democratic voters, to brawl, create disturbances, knock men down if necessary, to personate Democratic voters and to repeat whenever possible."

"On Wednesday evening, October 6th, about dark, Senator Don Cameron arrived at the New Denison House, and was immediately shown to headquarters. He found Dorsey still confined to his bed. Gorham, Chauncey J. Filley and some of the lesser lieutenants were there. Don Cameron had a small black satchel in his hand. I shook hands with him."

"How are things here?" he asked. "Every thing looks splendid," said I. "We shall carry the State 3,000 majority."

"Well," said he "I have brought some valuable reinforcements."

"Senator Cameron's hand-bag contained $50,000, contributed by the manufacturers of Pittsburgh and other capitalists in Pennsylvania. By ten o'clock the fact had leaked out, and the workers were jubilant over the amount which Don Cameron had extracted from the iron and steel interests of Pennsylvania. The money used in the canvass was kept in the three drawers of a black-walnut bureau in a little back room in the New Denison House. This room adjoined the main dining-room of the hotel, and was separated from Dorsey's main headquarters by one passage way. The use to which this room was put was known only to Dorsey and two or three of his most trusted aids. Gorham had the entry to the room. Its constant and sole occupant was a gentleman apparently about sixty-five years old, nearly six feet tall, of stout build and with a determined face. He had a long, full beard, pretty well sprinkled with gray. I do not know the name of this man. I never asked. This man was the custodian of the campaign funds, and at one time there was not less than $250,000 in bank bills in the three drawers of the bureau which he guarded. The money was of all denominations, from $100 notes to ones and twos. The larger notes were in the top drawer. I saw the money in this bureau. The top drawer when I saw it and the middle drawer were nearly full. The bottom drawer, which held the twos, fives and ones, was about half full. Every bill paid by this cashier was paid on orders from Dorsey and Gorham. Possibly there may have been payments on the order of Chauncey J. Filley or John C. New. I saw a number of these orders. They were tickets or small slips of paper, with the amount in figures, the name of the person who was to receive it and the signature or initials of Gorham, sometimes Dorsey. Sometimes Gorham simply made a ticket, with the amount and name of payee, without any signature. Then he would take the slip into the little room and receive the money from the cashier, who would put the ticket into the drawer at his voucher. No accounts were kept.

"One case of which I have personal knowledge where money was paid to buy Democratic votes, was this: Six hundred dollars was promised to a Democrat in Fort Wayne, a prominent local politician, for his influence in the ward. The sale was arranged by a special agent of the Post-office, acting under an alleged understanding with Dorsey. This money after having been promised by the special agent to be delivered to the aforesaid Democrat, was sent by another messenger. The special agent resented at the time what seemed to be a lack of confidence in him personally. Among the more prominent managers and agents who were cognizant of all these facts were Marshal Dunn, of Delaware, Special Agents Tidball and Henderson, of the Post-office Department; Surveyor Cauk and Major Wiegand, of Baltimore; Thomas Chappell and Thomas Cavanaugh, of the Treasury Department. The last named was Deputy Sergeant-at-arms of the last House. I think he was the man who accompanied, as a guard, the money from New York to Indianapolis. Also, Detectives McElfresh and Geo. Miller were prominent agents at Indianapolis."

A BIG MAN OR A BIG LIE. Alleged Skeleton of a Prehistoric Man Twelve Feet High.

St. JOSEPH, Mo.,—August 14.—Hon. J. H. Hainly, a well known and reliable citizen of Barnard, Missouri, writes to the Gazette the particulars of the discovery of a giant skeleton four miles south-west of that place. A farmer named John W. Hannon found the bones protruding from the bank of a ravine that has been cut by the action of the rains during the past years. Mr. Hannon worked several days in unearthing the skeleton, which proved to be that of a human being whose height was twelve feet. The head through the temples was twelve inches. From the lower part of the skull at the back to the top was fifteen inches and the circumference forty inches. The ribs were nearly four feet long and three and a fourth inches wide. The thigh bones were thirty inches long, and the entire foot eighteen inches in length. The skeleton lay on its face twenty feet below the surface of the ground, and the toes were imbedded in the earth, indicating that the body either fell or was placed there when the ground was soft. The left arm was passed around the back, the hand resting on the spinal column, while the right arm was stretched out to front and right. Some of the bones crumbled on exposure to the air, but many good specimens were preserved and are now exhibition at Barnard. Medical men are much interested. The skeleton is generally pronounced a valuable relic of the prehistoric race.

Josiah Davis' Trouble.

Josiah Davis, No. Middleton, Ky., writes: I am now using a box of your Henry's Carbolic Salve upon an ulcer, which, for the past ten days, has given me great pain. This salve is the only remedy I have found that has given me any ease. My ulcer was caused by varicose veins, and was pronounced incurable by my medical doctors. I find, however, that Henry's Carbolic Salve is affecting a cure.

Baker's Pain Panacea cures pain in man and beast. For use externally and internally.

Dentons Balsam cures colds, coughs, rheumatism, kidney troubles, etc. Can be used externally as a plaster.

Peru Republican: The Wabash Company has a very complete system of reporting by which every item of information connected with the business of the road, which is of interest to the company, is laid before the general offices at St. Louis each morning. The reports go in by telegraph at 7 o'clock, a. m. All points on the eastern division report to Peru and a synopsis or rather a condensed statement, which is comprehensive, goes in from here. It shows the number of cars loaded in each district during the last twenty-four hours, the number of loads sent out, the number of empties, the number of cars received from the connecting lines and the number turned over to connections and a great variety of other data—such as the time of each train at all important stations, whether late or not; the kind of loads placed in the car and whether they are for the public or the company. This statement is made in very condensed form, and greatly shortened in telegraphing by means of letters to indicate stations and time; other letters to indicate character of loading; others to indicate the state of weather, etc. With each condensed statement is sent in a weather bulletin, showing the temperature, direction of winds and other meteorological conditions at all centers and district terminal points. This would seem to require an immense amount of labor but so complete is the system of condensation that the reports from all divisions of the Wabash are taken at the general offices in a few minutes each morning.

The enterprising firm of Hood & Co. are doing a rushing business in Hood's Sarsaparilla and Hood's Tooth Powder, both well known and appreciated by thousands who have tested their efficacy. The Sarsaparilla has effected wonderful cures, not only in this city, but in various parts of New England, where its merits are known.—Ed. Lowell Daily Citizen, aug-1m Cholera Remedies.

Hay Fever.

I was severely afflicted for eleven years with Hay Fever, after trying almost everything without avail, I gave up all hopes of being cured, when I purchased a bottle of Elys' Cream Balm. To my surprise, after a few applications I was entirely relieved. R. Watson Harris, letter carrier Newark, N. J.

I recommend to those suffering as I have with Hay Fever, Elys' Cream Balm. I have tried nearly all the remedies, and give this a decided preference over them all. It has given me immediate relief. C. T. Stephens, hardware merchant, Ithaca, N. Y. Price 50 cents.

There are several thousand letters, which are supposed to contain sums of money designed for the purchase of lottery tickets, still held by the Postmaster at Louisville, Ky. This entire correspondence is addressed to the manager of a Kentucky lottery company, and he has sent a lawyer to Washington for the purpose of making another appeal to the Postmaster-General for the release of the correspondence. Of course nothing is known respecting the probabilities of success; but judging from Judge Gresham's attitude toward the lottery business, they are not flattering.

Excited Thousands.

All over the land are going into ecstasy over Dr. King's New Discovery for consumption. Their unlooked for recovery by the timely use of this great life saving remedy, causes them to go nearly wild in its praise. It is guaranteed to positively cure severe coughs, colds, asthma, hay fever, bronchitis, hoarseness, loss of voice, or any affection of the throat and lungs. Trial bottle at J. C. Saur's drug store. Large size $1.

A disease has broken out among cattle in DeFiance county, that effects their eyes, and blinds them. The first symptoms the eyes run off water; then turn white and matter runs from them. Sometimes the eyes turn red. No remedy has yet been discovered that will cure the disease.

Those erudite political prophets who during every campaign fret the atmosphere with predictions of the early death of the Democratic party have failed to observe that of the thirty-eighth States twenty-four have Democratic Governors. The Democratic party cannot be said to be in the throes of final dissolution.—Forum.

Do not be afraid of a little fun at home. Do not shut your houses lest the sun should fade your carpet, and your hearts, lest a laugh should shake down a few dusty old cobwebs that are hanging there. Young people must have fun and relaxation somewhere. If they do not find it at other and less profitable places. Therefore let the fire burn brightly at night in winter and let the doors and windows be cheerfully thrown open in summer, and make home delightful with all those little arts that parents so well understand. Do not repress the buoyant spirit of your children. Half an hour's merriment within doors, and merriment at home, blots the remembrance of many a care and annoyance during the day; and the best safe-guard they can take with them into the world is the unseen influence of the bright little home sanctuary.

A Good Investment.

One of our prominent business men said to us the other day: "In the spring my wife got all run down and could not eat anything; passing your store I saw a pile of Hood's Sarsaparilla in the window, and I got a bottle. After she had taken it a week she had a rousing appetite and did her usual thing. She took three bottles, and it was the best three dollars I ever invested. C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.

At a confederate reunion in Texas last week, attended by 40,000 persons, General M. Lewis said that the name of Jefferson Davis was the grandest in American history. Governor Ireland thought the Confederates had no excuse to make for the part taken by them in the late contest. He said: "We are to forget the political strife which led to the War, but must teach our children of the deeds of those who wore the blue and the gray. We are all Americans, and ever ready to battle with our country's assailants from whatever quarter." A reunion of a different character was held on Friday of last week, at the Wilson's Creek battle ground, near Springfield, Missouri. This reunion was attended by both Union and Confederate soldiers. The men have camped together as though there had never been a difference between them. An organization to be known as the Surviving Soldiers' Union League was formed on the battle ground. It will embrace soldiers of both armies, and the officers elected were chosen from both Federal and Confederate soldiers.

A Perfect Success.

Those two words have a vast meaning when fully comprehended. A perfect success can be truthfully applied to Dr. Jones' Red Clover Tonic, which cures dyspepsia, biliousness, constiveness, all diseases of the kidneys, liver and bladder. It is a perfect tonic and blood purifier; it keeps the skin clear and bright, drives away pimples and makes the general health excellent. Price 50 cents of D. J. Humphrey.

SEPTEMBER SURPRISES.

A Lively Fall in Passenger Rates, and Events in Store which will Greatly Exceed Expectations.

The busy note of preparation in Baltimore for the coming Summer Night's Carnival is heard on all sides, and the city appears to be waking up as never before to the determination to make this year's celebration certainly the biggest event of the character ever conceived of in this or any other country. The novel features being steadily added to the already most brilliant programme speaks strongly of the striking talent possessed among the good citizens who spend day and night in planning and executing.

The city illuminations promise to be upon a most extensive scale, and almost altogether in the electric line. Many buildings will be literally ablaze with bright lights in all colors, and it is proposed to demonstrate in hitherto untried fields what can be done with electricity.

The harbor display on the opening night will be as unique as possible to imagine, and a veritable fairy scene. Every description of light will be introduced, and the pyrotechnical features novel and of great scope of design. Baltimore, as the nearest Atlantic seaport to an enormous section of country, will show her unsurpassed harbor to the multitude after a fashion never before dreamed of. The reception of Lord Baltimore on the night in question, with all its attendant effects, will be something to remember for years, and amply repay a journey even across the continent. Pageant night will also prove another memorable occasion, for never in European or American cities has a parade of such magnitude or of such remarkable richness and novelty been attempted. Last Year's pageant was conceded by New Orleans mystic experts themselves, as well as those from Mobile, Memphis, Galveston and St. Louis, to have been beyond all comparison the grandest pageant ever witnessed in this country. If such was the unanimous verdict last year it would be difficult to measure the limit of praise this year, as the pageant, now in its finishing stage, is instinctively superior, larger, grander, and in every way finer than that of 1882. It will require a regiment of men and horses to put it upon the street—upward of thirteen hundred men and two hundred and sixty odd horses. Thirty thousand dollars would not begin to cover the expense of this one display. From this prospective visitors may glean some idea of what is in store for them. Not only will expectation during sojourn in the city the second week in September be more than realized, but travel and from will be looked after with most painstaking care.

The Baltimore and Ohio, not content with making the exceptionally low rate of half fare, or one regular fare for the round trip from all stations on its great system, but has arranged a series of excursions which will afford the greatest possible facilities for enjoyment. The visitor cannot indeed find a single point to criticize, for should he so choose he need not have an hour unoccupied during his entire week's pleasure hunting. What with trips to Harper's Ferry, to Old Point Comfort, to Fortress Monroe to Mount Vernon, to Luray Caverns, to Washington, and the Oriole in Baltimore, the man who could complain would certainly growl if he had the earth. The B. & O. has, with characteristic enterprise, issued an elegantly engraved programme, and which can be had for the mere trouble of an application to any of its representatives or at any of its offices throughout the country.

The B. & O. excursions announced for September afford opportunities for pleasure-seeking unprecedented of late years. With the solidity of organization maintained by the pool of the eastern lines and the rules of maintaining rates so rigidly observed, half fare for any event is a big thing, and no telling when it will be offered again.

Don't fill the system with quinine in the effort to prevent or cure Fever and Ague. Ayer's Ague Cure is a far more potent preventative and remedy, with the advantage of leaving in the body no poisons to produce dizziness, deafness, headache, and other disorders. The proprietors warrant it.

The following touching obituary notice appeared in Billy Bean's paper, the Goshen Democrat the other week: "The Warsaw paper announce the death of an 'old patron' of the Democrat, who took the paper for six years and three months, and then utterly refused to pay a cent. Anyhow, he is gone where he will not be troubled by flies and mosquitoes and screen doors, through the summer, and we are charitable enough to believe he will also go where there is a good even temperature of weather through the winter months, where he will have no trouble in keeping good and warm the year round."

Hood's Sarsaparilla is made of roots, herbs, and barks. It gives tone to the stomach and makes the weak strong. Sold by all druggists.

Mrs. Parvenue sent her boy out the other day to hunt in the trees for birds' nests; for she wanted to have a bird's-nest pudding for dinner.

A young man who went to the late war began his first letter to his sweetheart after this fashion: "My dear Julia:—Whenever I am tempted to do wrong I think of you, and I say: 'Get thee behind me, Satan.'"

FOR THE Domestic Machine!

HENRY HOLTSMAN.

The Domestic is an exceedingly simple machine in all its parts and processes, and is quickly repaired and it needs but little practice or skill in the operator. The superior advantages of the Domestic are: mainly light running, quietness, no creak or fear, wheels are mainly perfect, double thread lock stitch, durability, simplicity of construction and hardness of wearing parts. Self threading shuttle, self setting needle, loose pulley for winding bobbin, automatic take up, automatic tension saving from the snout to the coarsest thread without change of tensions; vibrating motion or presserfoot, underbalancing attachment not used by any other machine in the world in fact the advantages of the Domestic are so numerous that no person can afford to purchase a sewing machine without giving it the Domestic a trial.
