Strained Nerves

Palpitation of the Heart and A Good Break Down

The Good Effect of Hood's was Marked and Permanent.

"C. I. Hood & Co., Lowell, Mass.": "Gentlemen:—I was taken down sick last December, and became very weak with nervous trouble, palpitation of the heart, and a general break down. I had a good physician, but improved along, getting no better. I could sit up only about half a day, until the 19th of March, when I concluded I would give Hood's Sarsaparilla a trial. When I had used it a short time, I felt a great deal better, and I was able to get up and go all about the house all day. I have never enjoyed perfect health, but I am now taking my fifth bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and know it has helped me wonderfully. I have used Hood's Pills, and think them excellent." Mrs. A. E. LANIER, Bush's Mills, Ohio.

Hood's Sarsaparilla Cures

It cures a trial. When I had used it a short time, I felt a great deal better, and I was able to get up and go all about the house all day. I have never enjoyed perfect health, but I am now taking my fifth bottle of Hood's Sarsaparilla, and know it has helped me wonderfully. I have used Hood's Pills, and think them excellent." Mrs. A. E. HER IDENTITY IS LOST

Cleveland, Ohio, Woman Has a Romance in Her Life.

STOLEN IN INFANCY.

She Was Rescued from a Life of Beggary in the Streets.

TOLEDO, O., Nov. 26.—For some time past a woman in the city, recently married and in the opinion of her socially, has been endeavoring to solve some important questions, viz., who she is, who is her father, and who is her mother. The woman's husband is working through the various detective agencies endeavoring to solve the mystery.

She was stolen from Buffalo when a small child, taken to Cleveland and was then brought to Toledo, where she was compelled to beg on the streets. She remembers the names of Nettie Ayers and Dacy Carry, the women who brought her here, and they lived in what was for years known as the "haunted house" of lower summit street. The last she remembers of her home was a big brick house on a corner in Buffalo. She was on the streets in her old dress when two nicely dressed women came along and condescended to go to the park, promising her candy. When she got to Toledo, her fine clothing was taken from her and shabby garments were given to her. At nightfall she was always compelled to go to bed. While she was begging about the streets, a prominent man of Toledo became interested in her. He finally succeeded in getting her away from the women and sent her to school. At the age of 15 she was sent to Delaware, Ohio, to college. While she was there, she says, a middle-aged, richly-dressed woman called one day and asked to see the girls in a certain class. "We all went into the room, the lady related, and the moment the visitor saw me she said: 'There she is. She's my girl.' Then they held a talk and the girl became frightened. The lady said that she lived in Michigan. The girl wrote to her guardian in Toledo, who died a short time later, and he advised her to remain where she was. She would like to know whether this was her mother or some one with evil designs against her. The lady's husband will go to Buffalo and investigate. Meanwhile if any letters are sent to A. Stant, of this city, they will receive prompt attention.

Late Periodicals.

The Art Amateur probably has never given two more attractive color plates than "The Boot-Maker," by G. G. Brown, and "The Old Home," by E. G. Brown, by F. H. Brown, which appear in the November issue. Looking at these highly artistic facsimiles of oil paintings, it is easy to understand why a medal was awarded at the World's Fair to the Art Amateur, and why the Chicago Board of Education lately introduced into the High Schools of that city the Art Amateur. But these charming pictures are equally valuable for farming, and indeed they are so used in thousands of American homes. The very practical art magazine, however, by no means depends on its color plates alone for its popularity. What most appeals to its enormous success, that by giving a profession of working designs, with easily understood directions for carrying them out, it enable so many young people of both sexes, to earn a living by painting, carving, designing and illustrating. No person of artistic taste, who wishes to turn them to profit, can afford to be without this indispensable work. (Price, 50c.) MONTAGNE MASS., Publisher.

23 Union Square, New York.

Coming events cast their shadows before, and the coming Christmas season is already imparting flavor to the pages of a fashion paper. The Thanksgiving number of Harper's Bazar gives charming descriptions of toques worn by heads of fashion, and designs for the coming season. The designs from Paris are fitted to please people of taste of either sex. The opera and evening gowns and cloaks, the elegant house dresses, and richly embroidered visiting costumes are likely to commend themselves to one who enjoy seeing their wives and daughters brilliantly and beautifully arrayed. The stories of the Thanksgiving number are unique in their way. Mr. Ezekiah Butterworth's "Wych Hazel" is founded on a real and very dramatic incident. Besides Charles, the hero, there are other delightful subjects to the outside and the reader of the story. "The Larks" is a comedy for parlor setting, from the pen of Fannie Aymer Matthews.

NOVELTIES IN LADIES' SKIRTS.

The portion of the costume which seems to be the leading subject of enquiry at the present moment is the skirt. While bodies and sleeves are still following to some extent the general lines of the former season, skirts are the absorbing theme of interest in the new importations. Great is their variety. The question of choice embraces an extensive field, both in extreme novelties and simple practical designs. Models to suit every taste and occasion are illustrated in the popular "McDowell Fashion Journal," which we have to hand. One finds, moreover, in these magazines in their copious patterns, a feature exceedingly convenient for those who desire a cheaper grade of patterns than the more expensive made up models. Among these copious patterns are being very appropriately a general design for the latter, "La Mode de Paris" and "Paris Album of Fashion" cost $3.00 each per annum, or 35 cents per copy. "The French Dressmaker" is $3.00 a year or 30 cents a copy. "La Mode," which is the best home magazine of its kind, costs only $1.50 per year, or 15 cents a copy. If you are unable to procure any of these journals from your newsdealer, do not take any substitute from him, but apply by mail directly to Messrs. McDOWELL & Co., 4 West 14th Street, New York.

You will save money if you go to Norden & Bruns and price their goods before you buy.

Ex-Secretary Foster Goes West to Sell Some Mining Stocks.

FOSTONIA, O., Nov. 28.—Ex-Secretary Charles Foster left Saturday for California to dispose of some mining interests owned by him before his resignation in 1893. The prospects for disposing of the stocks are good, and by doing so he may realize something to enable him to pay a small dividend on his personal and the indebtedness of Foster & Company, bankers. Unless he derives something from the mining stock, the creditors of the banking concern who are not preferred will not even get a 1 per cent dividend. The suit brought by the creditors' committee has been continued until the February term of common pleas court.
