

Destroys Hair Germs

Recent discoveries have shown that falling hair is caused by germs at the roots of the hair. Therefore, to stop falling hair, you must first completely destroy these germs. Ayer's Hair Vigor, new improved formula, will certainly do this. Then leave the rest to nature.

Recent discoveries have also proved that dandruff is caused by germs on the scalp. Therefore, to cure dandruff, the first thing to do is to completely destroy these dandruff germs. Here, the same Ayer's Hair Vigor will give the same splendid results.

At a recent meeting of the stockholders of the Pittsburg & Lake Erie Railroad it was decided to sell $5,000,000 worth of the capital stock of the company, being part of an issue which was authorized by the stockholders in March, 1907, when it was decided to increase the capital stock of the company from $10,000,000 to $30,000,000. The stockholders were given the right to subscribe to this new issue at par, $20 a share, to the extent of 50 per cent of their holdings, as shown on the books of the company on Jan. 2, 1908, and the right to subscribe to this stock will terminate Jan. 15, 1908. The proceeds from the sale are for the purpose of purchasing new equipment and for reconstruction purposes along the line.

That the republicans will continue in control of both branches of congress at least for another two years was known the morning after election, although the majority in the house had been reduced apparently to forty-five, as compared with fifty-seven in the present house. Cannon was again elected by a comfortable plurality, in spite of the national fight made against him, both by organized labor and by various progressive influences. Most of the republican congressmen in Nebraska and elsewhere who were pledged not to support Cannon for the speaker-ship were themselves beaten at the polls. In Iowa one of the republican veterans who went down to defeat was Hepburn. His democratic successor is a young and hitherto unknown editor, D. Jamison. Other republicans retained are Overstreet of Indiana, McCree of Pennsylvania, Charles B. Leade and others. Warren Chronicle.

Deafness Can't be Cured. By local applications, as they cannot reach the diseased portion of the ear. There is only one way to cure deafness, and that is by constitutional remedies. Deafness is caused by an inflamed condition of the mucous lining of the Eustachian Tube. When this tube gets inflamed you have a rumbling sound or imperfect hearing, and when it is entirely closed deafness is the result, and unless the inflammation can be taken out and this tube restored to its normal condition, hearing will be destroyed forever; also cases out of ear caused by catarrh, which is nothing but an inflamed condition of the mucous surfaces.

FOUR CHILDREN BURNED.

Fire broke out at the home of John Wampfler Thursday night, in which four of his children were burned to death. Mr. and Mrs. John Wampfler live on a farm two and one-half miles north-east of Alliance and one mile north of the Stark electric power house. The family is composed of Mr. and Mrs. John Wampfler and seven children. Five of the children were asleep in the upper story and the other two with their mother and father down stairs. At 12:30 one of the children that was asleep upstairs awoke and saw the fire coming from the kitchen. He at once awakened the others. This noise on the floor aroused the parents and they realized the peril they were in. Mr. Wampfler rushed outdoors and got a ladder that was handy and broke in the window to rescue the children, but only a 11-year-old boy could be gotten out before the fire had gained full sway. From appearances it seems that the children were so frightened that they crawled under the bed, and it was there that the other four suffocated. The cremated children were: Lucile, age 9; Leroy, 7; Catherine, 5 and Charles, aged 3. The first child was taken out of the cellar by some Alliance friends at 4:15 and the last one at 6:45 Friday morning. They were burned beyond recognition.

Mr. Wampfler is wild with grief. His head, hands, face, breast and arms are burned very badly as the result of trying to save his children.

Just how the fire started will never be known, but it was thought to be a defective flue, which had been smoldering all the evening, as no fire was in the house except the kitchen, one that was allowed to go out when retiring early in the evening.

J. J. Thompson, the owner of the farm, carried insurance to the amount of $2,500 on the building, but Mr. Wampfler carried no insurance on his household goods.—Salem Herald.

A FEROCIOUS EARL.

Alexander of Buchan, Known as the "Wolf of Badenoch."

During the restoration of Dunkeld cathedral the workmen unearthed the remains of Bishop Sinclair, one of those who assisted in the building of the cathedral, and of the notorious Alexander, earl of Buchan, whose ferocity won for him the significant title of the "Wolf of Badenoch."

A memorial marks the spot where the "wolf" was buried, and it has often been a subject of remark by visitors that a man who plundered churches and in various ways showed his hatred of the clergy should have been laid to rest side by side with bishops and other high ecclesiastics.

Alexander, earl of Buchan, was a younger son of Robert II. of Scotland. During the closing years of the latter's reign the chief powers in the state were delegated to his sons, the earls of Fife and Buchan, and after the accession of Robert III., an amiable but weak prince, this unfortunate delegation was allowed to be continued. The Earl of Buchan ruled over the northern part of Scotland with an authority little less than regal. He has been described as scarcely better than a savage—cruel, ferocious and relentless. Among his exploits was the destruction of the magnificent cathedral of Elgin. He carried off the chalices and vestments, polluted the shrines with blood and finally set fire to the noble edifice, the houses of the canons and the town itself. He also laid waste a large part of the country.—Pall Mall Gazette.

LEGAL VERBIAGE.

A Kick From a Layman Against Its Solemn Senselessness.

"As fond as I am of reading," said a merchant, "I never peruse a legal document without feeling irritable over my inability to grasp the real meaning of such a paper at a glance. Like many other persons not engaged in the legal profession, I sometimes have to read contracts and other agreements drawn up by lawyers, and I often wonder why in this age of common sense the 'whereases,' 'aforesaid' and 'parties of the first part' are not relegated to oblivion. The technical verbiage employed is a relic of the age when that which was mysterious and could not be understood was esteemed to be beyond the comprehension of the common herd. The use of uncomprehensible in purely business circles would not be endured. Why, then, should the transfer of a piece of property be a process so labyrinthine and so mysterious that a man of sound sense cannot fathom it? It has been estimated that the clipping of the letter 'w' from such words as humour, labour and the like has added to the world each year what is equivalent to the productive capacity of 500 able-bodied men. What would we not gain if from every legal paper arising from every legal suit there should be removed that vast mass of superfluous, antiquated verbiage, that bulk of repetition and solemn senselessness that now wraps them as the shell wraps the clam?"—Chicago Inter Ocean.

He Knew His Business.

An open moving van, piled high with furniture, was proceeding slowly up Third avenue in the Harlem section. The driver, whose face denoted contentment and an inclination to doze, sat cross legged, building the reins loosely. The driver had arranged a comfortable support for his back. This was nothing less than a framed oil painting about 3 by 4 feet in size, uncovered, and with the painting unprotected from the countless, warm weathered shoulder blades. A citizen hailed him from the curb.

"Hey! Don't ruin that picture leaning against it that way?" "Ah, gwan!" said the driver. "Dis ain't de first time I drove furniture. I know me business." And the van passed on.—New York Globe.

WHEN AUTHORITY VANISHED.

The Judge's Admonition When Disaster Befel Him. Some years ago," says an Indianapolis lawyer, "a certain county district of Indiana boasted of a justice who was oppressively imbued with an idea of his own responsibility in seeing that the peace was kept in his bailiwick. He never lost an opportunity to show his authority. Now, this justice of the peace was also a farmer, and his arm bordered on the State of Ohio, indeed, one of his fences was exactly on the State line."

"One day his son and a hired man indulged in a fistie encounter near his line fence. The justice, quick to see the situation, jumped to the fence, as a better bench of justice, and assailed the fighters, demanding 'peace in the name of the State of Indiana.'"

"No sooner, however, had the justice-farmer asserted his authority, than the fence upon which he was perched gave way, carrying him over backward—into the State of Ohio. As he fell himself falling he shouted to his son: "'Soak it to him good, Bill! I've lost my jurisdiction!'"—Philadelphia Ledger.

A Matter of Indifference. A Northerner riding through the West Virginia mountains came up with a mountaineer leisurely driving a herd of pigs. "Where are you driving the pigs to?" asked the rider. "Out to pasture 'em a bit."

"What for?" "To fatten 'em." "Isn't it pretty slow work to fatten 'em on grass?" "Up where I come from we pen them up and feed them on corn. It saves a lot of time."

"Yess, I s'pose so," drawled the mountaineer. "But, um, what's time to a hawg?"—Everybody's Magazine.

The Resemblance. "The buckwheat cakes at my boarding house always remind me of a baseball game." "How so?" "The batter doesn't always make a hit."—Puck.

Dr. Shoop's Restorative

Heart Strength, or Heart Weakness, means Nerve Strength, or Nerve Weakness—nothing more. Frequently, not one weak heart in a hundred is, in itself, actually diseased. It is almost always a hidden tiny little nerve that really is all at fault. This obscure nerve—the Cardiac, or Heart Nerve—simply needs, and must have, more power, more stability, more controlling, more governing strength. Without that the heart must continue to falter, and the stomach and kidneys also have these same controlling nerves. This clearly explains why, as a medicine, Dr. Shoop's Restorative has in the past done so much for weak and ailing hearts. Dr. Shoop first sought the cause of all this painful, belching, softening heart distress. Dr. Shoop's Restorative—this popular prescription—is alone directed to these weak and wasting nerve centers. It builds up strength in these real, genuine heart help. If you would have strong hearts, strong digestion, strengthen these nerves—re-establish them as needed. With
