

FLOOD RELIEF WORK NEARLY COMPLETED

Committees in Various Sections Are Complimented.

RED CROSS DIRECTOR TALKS

Says Society Has Already Given $800,000 to the Ohio Fund and More Money Will be Received From the Organization.

Columbus, May 14. — By the middle of June the bulk of the flood relief and rehabilitation work in Ohio will have been completed, according to Ernest P. Bicknell, American Red Cross director, who is supervising all this work. "The relief committees in the various flood districts are doing fine work and there are practically no complaints as to the way in which both the local committees and the state commission are doing things," says Director Bicknell. The American Red Cross has already given $800,000 to the Ohio fund, and much more money will be received from the organization. The state flood relief commission, of which Col. John M. Patterson of Dayton is president, met in Columbus Wednesday and appointed a local relief committee for that city. Under an emergency law, the state committee has authority to make such appointments.

Won't Enter Fight. The fight of the liability companies on the Green compulsory workmen's compensation act failed Tuesday afternoon to receive the support of the insurance men of the state, as represented by the Insurance Federation of Ohio. At a meeting of the executive committee held here formal resolutions were adopted declaring "hands off" on the fight between Gov. Cox and the so-called Equity association, supposed to represent the liability companies. "While our organization as a body does not attempt to control or direct the individual conduct of its members, it is not now deemed expedient to take any action," the resolution reads.

With one investigation on hand at the Dayton state hospital and another in prospect at Athens state hospital, the state board of administration will have its hands full for a time. The discharge of three attendants at Athens by Superintendent O. O. Fordyce has stirred up a storm there. Two of the discharged attendants have been arrested for alleged cruelty to patients. It is reported that these attendants will try to make trouble for the superintendent. President Davey of the state board went to Athens Wednesday to inquire into the trouble. This is the first outbreak that has occurred at that institution for some six or seven years. Formerly the Athens state hospital was the football of the politicians. For many years it reeked with one kind of scandal or other, causing more than one governor considerable anxiety. The board has been satisfied with the administration of Superintendent Fordyce, and it is expected that his action will be upheld by that body.

Discuss Canal Question. The joint legislative committee to decide what to do with the canals held its first meeting in the office of John I. Miller, superintendent of the state departments of public works Tuesday afternoon and partially mapped out its program. About the middle of June the committee will begin trips over the state to inspect all canal property. The committee will recommend a policy as to whether the canals should be abandoned and sold or retained and improved. Superintendent Miller is an ex-officio member of the committee. The legislators serving on the committee are Senators W. A. Weygant, Portage; J. J. Wise of Stark, and E. J. Hoppole of Cuyahoga, and Representatives C. J. Smith of Butler, Guy Detrick of Logan and J. R. Clark of Hamilton. Senator Weygant is chairman.

Lawyers and litigants will be interested in the ruling of Attorney General Hogan that the three-fourths jury will not be in effect until after June 14, when the law for this becomes effective.

MAY NOT OPPOSE CHANGES IN BILL

Wilson Talks With Officials About Tariff Measure.

Washington, May 14. — President Wilson Tuesday permitted those in authority about him to say that he will not oppose any amendments to the tariff bill that are in the interests of fair play and intended to equalize inequalities that may have crept into the house measure.

This is the first public intimation that the president is feeling the effect of the letters and telegrams pouring in upon him urging him to stand on his declaration in his first annual message to congress. In this message Mr. Wilson said that in the revision of the tariff along Democratic lines no industry must be destroyed.

May Allow Amendments. Innumerable telegrams and letters personally read by the president since the Underwood bill passed the house have apparently convinced him that the house bill spells destruction for many flourishing industries. Instead of standing pat as he did a week ago, refusing to listen to the sugar men and disdaining to receive arguments from men who understand the sugar and wool industries, Mr. Wilson has been compelled to admit that changes may be essential. Tuesday he gave it out through those who talked with him that whatever the finance committee of the senate did, must be done in the broad light of day.

The attitude of the people of the country is best illustrated by the case of Senator Thomas of Colorado. Mr. Thomas is a member of the finance committee and presumed to know a few facts about the tariff, particularly as it affects his own state. Friday he declared that the workers in the beet sugar fields of his state received only 22 cents a day. He said it was the poorest paid labor on the American continent. Thomas' mail Tuesday was filled with postcards, placards and coupons across the top of which in big black letters was printed, "Don't come."

Gets Letter From Home. "If you cannot be true and loyal to your state and its welfare and help protect its vital sugar and wool industries don't come back to Colorado," was the message.

In the senate Mr. Thomas apologized for his misstatement of fact. He explained with much ingenuousness that he was thinking of the average monthly wage in the islands of Hawaii and unthinkingly twisted the $22 a month received in Hawaii into 22 cents a day in Colorado. Mr. Thomas admitted that the sugar beet workers of his state were paid between $1.50 and $2.00 a day. Even this was denied as accurate by Senator Smoot, who said he had figures to prove that the wages were between $2.50 and $3.00. The Colorado senator admitted that that might be right, but he "would look it up."

Senator William Alden Smith of Michigan said that if a member of the finance committee knew no more about the facts relative to an industry than that committee intended to do about the senator from Colorado did about the industries of his own state, the demand for public hearings surely ought to be compelled with. The debate over the question of hearings grew acrimonious at times.

CHICKENS WARD OFF FROST

Roost on Apple Trees and Save Fruit Crop for Farmer in the Buckeye State.

Findlay, O., May 14.—A few more than 200 chickens at night saved the fruit crop of a farmer of Blanchard township. Taking a tip from the weather bureau that frosts might be expected and fearing that his 800 cherry and apple trees might freeze, the farmer manacled the henery for every chicken that knew how to sit upon a limb. Each was carried to a tree, some of the larger ones containing six and eight chickens, where they remained all night. When the trees were examined in the morning it was found that the frost had not touched any of the blossoms. The warmth of the chickens had saved the day. Other trees in the neighborhood were frozen.

The jury which had heard the case before Federal Judge Carpenter, took one hour and a half in reaching a verdict.

CERTAIN RESULTS

Many a Canfield Citizen Knows How Sure They Are. Nothing uncertain about the work of Doan's Kidney Pills in Canfield. There is plenty of positive proof of this in the testimony of citizens. Such evidence should convince the most skeptical doubter. Read the following statement: Eli Rhodes, Canfield, Ohio, says: "I still use Doan's Kidney Pills when my kidneys are out of order, and I think just as highly of them as when I made a statement in 1906. You may continue to publish that testimonial. The pains I had were something awful. My back was occasionally so lame that I could not get out of bed without assistance. I frequently got up seven or eight times at night and if the kidney secretions were allowed to stand, they deposited sediment. I suffered from these troubles until I could stand the misery no longer. A friend told me that Doan's Kidney Pills had cured him of kidney trouble and I got them at Morris' Drug Store. I noticed relief from the second box. I was encouraged and continued using Doan's Kidney Pills until I had taken six boxes. By that time I was well." For sale by all dealers. Price 50 cents.
