FRIDAY, JANUARY 23, 1914

How soon the great are forgotten.

The Alliance Review prints a picture of former United States Senator Foraker and labels it "Gen. James B. Foraker." In an elder day the N. Y. Sun was wont to refer to Joseph Benson as "Ire Alarm Foraker."

In that way it avoided getting Joe mixed with Jim.

The Ohio legislature convened in extraordinary session Monday morning.

Gov. Cox hopes to have the work for which it was called cleaned up in three weeks, but it will probably take double that time.

As the legislature now stands the democrats have 83 members in the house and the republicans 32.

In the senate the democrats have 28 and the republicans 7.

Former Congressman James Kenney makes it clear at every opportunity that he wants none of the progressive sort of politics in his.

He is "for square republicanism," as he puts it. He is not saying much about it, but when the time comes he is likely to be found in the running for the republican congress nomination.

He will hardly permit either Det Anderson or Dave Tol to pull down the plum without letting them know he has been around.

Now Trumbull county republicans are grumbling just because Mahoning county republicans ignore the other counties in the district when considering candidates for congress.

And why the "plaint"? Is not Mahoning much more populous and important than either Trumbull or Ashland, and has she not more favorite sons who crave office? Pipe low, Trumbull and Ashland. Mahoning must have the good pickings, if the gloomy prospect of electing a republican congressman is so considered.

That Congressman J. J. Whitacre means business was made certain when he announced that not only would he run for governor in opposition to Cox if no other man is found to make the run but that the present gubernatorial incumbent will find all of his candidates for state offices opposed by strong men at the election next fall.

If you run for governor, what do you figure will run in your place for congress?" he was asked. Whitacre replied he was urging William R. Thom, his secretary, to get into the next congressional race.

MR. WHITACRE TELLS WHY

He May Oppose Gov. Cox For Renomination This Year.

Washington, D. C., Jan. 14—A singing first person arrangement of Gov. James M. Cox by Representative John J. Whitacre of Canton, and a conference between Republican State Chairman Harry M. Daugherty and Senator Theodore Burton were developments in the Ohio state political situation here today.

The basis for the Whitacre statement was an outline of the plans of the Canton Congressman should he decide to contest with Gov. Cox for the democratic gubernatorial nomination. While admitting that Gov. Cox has been instrumental in securing some good progressive legislation in Ohio, Representative Whitacre announced it to be his purpose to challenge the Cox machine.

"If I make the contest for the democratic nomination I will give Governor Cox the stiffest fight he ever had, and I will be backed by an opposition to him that will win. I will make the issue the personal machine of Gov. Cox which has been built up under the cloak of progressive legislation, which, everyone admits, has possessed some good features. But all through these new laws run the thread of more state jobs and more office holders for Gov. Cox to add to his machine.

"The Democrats of Ohio no longer have anything to say about who shall hold the offices. Sons of the officeholders Cox appoints personally. He is now attempting to dictate the nomination of all the rest. He has selected my successor in congress, for instance, and has taken another congressman, who was a candidate for the United States Senate and set him out of the race. This machine will be used against me if I am a candidate and if I run I will be glad to meet it."

Congressman Flays Gov. Cox.

Columbus, Jan. 19—Democratic administration seriously is being sorely broken these days by one John J. Whitacre, of Canton, congressman.

Mr. Whitacre is the man who holds the stated that he has built a fund at least to make the race for the democratic nomination for governor against James M. Cox. But if Mr. Whitacre's first statement of his intentions was sensational, his second statement is far more so.

The second statement literally says the Cox administration with verbal lashings. It accuses Gov. Cox of building a political machine, of dictating congressional and other local politics, of using state patronage for selfish purposes, and of many other things. The governor thus far at least has not replied.

MEANDER

Jan. 21—Mrs. Robert Turner and son Glen visited at Frank Young's Tuesday.

Dr. Schuurmeier of Sipple was in this locality Tuesday.

Nathaniel Klingeman and Elt Bailey are among the sick.

YOUNGSTOWN

A special meeting of the grand lodge of Ohio Odd Fellows will be held in this city Feb. 4. Grand Master H. C. Kuntz of Zanesville and Grand Secretary C. H. Lyman of Columbus will attend. Many members of the order from neighboring cities and towns are expected.

Five postoffice employees, J. B. Watson, Howard Hollabaugh, J. E. Will, A. J. Thomas and Richard Brown, were taken to Warren Monday and arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Glimmer, charged with rifling the mails.

They were bound over to the federal grand jury under a $500 bond each. It is announced that the taxable property in Columbiana county is valued at $81,410,185.

Alliance is surely getting good. An attempt was made last Sunday to keep the poultry show open but Mayor Barnum and a cop and order of the day was closed. And there are no moving picture shows open on Sunday. People of the city are rubbing their eyes and wondering whether they are at home.

Mrs. John Gaunt, an invalid for several years, died Monday afternoon of heart trouble, aged 80. Funeral Thursday morning with burial in the Franklin Square cemetery.

Chief of Police Charley Cook proved himself to be a good shot with a revolver Sunday forenoon. He had arrested Frank Bradley and Frank Nelson for stealing free turkeys. Bradley attempted to escape and was running like a deer when Cook shot through the fleshy part of Bradley's right foot. Then he halted and held up his hands. Both men pleaded guilty to the charge made against them and each was fined by Mayor Johnson $50 and costs.

The charges made against L. N. Russell as waterworks superintendent are being investigated by three leading citizens appointed for the purpose. Mrs. Barbara Emmer, the oldest resident of the city, died last Saturday night, aged 97. She was a native of Germany. She has a number of children, some of whom reside in or near this city. Funeral services were held Monday and burial was made in Grandview cemetery.

Mrs. Jerry Zimmerman, who resides south of the city, last Saturday celebrated her 80th birthday and present on the occasion were her children, grandchildren and great-grandchildren.

From stories told there is a good deal of wickedness going on in this town, but that is probably true of every other locality.

It looks now as though the day is far distant when trolley cars are again running on Main street.

The body of an unknown man was found Wednesday morning near Sell's Crossing. He had evidently been struck by a Pennsy train and killed, his head being badly battered.

SALEM

Mrs. Annie Brooks, widow of the late J. M. Brooks, long prominent resident of this city, died Monday morning, following a surgical operation of some months ago. Her age was 75 years. Four children survive her. Funeral services Thursday afternoon and the remains will be placed in the family mausoleum. Numerous sleighing parties in and out of the city the past two or three weeks.

The Dunn Coal Co. of this city has leased considerable land northeast of Beloit and will open extensive mines early next spring.

It is announced that the taxable property in Columbiana county is valued at $81,410,185.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Goodman were Sunday visitors at H. A. Knauf's.

Floyd Detrow moved to Salem last week. He is employed as driver of a wagon for the Freedom Oil Co.

P. S. Fisher has pumped water and cleaned out the old coal shaft on his place and expects soon to be getting out coal. This shaft was opened about 48 years ago by Mr. Stout and never operated much. It is claimed the coal is the No. 4 vein and of a quality that can be used for blacksmithing. It is likely to be more valuable than the ordinary Albany coal.

All voters in this section seem to be in favor of good roads and intend to make marks that way Saturday, Jan. 24.
