

The ONLOOKER HENRY HOWLAND

For nine long years she worked away With all the strength she had,
She showed improvement day by day And made her parents glad;
She went abroad to study there,
Her father's purse grew thin, But "maestro" said her gifts were In Paris and Berlin.

She practiced in the mornings and She practiced late at night; She gained much strength of arm and hand,
Her touch grew sure and light; While other girls were having fun In foolish, girlish ways, She practiced steadily and won Her teacher's honest praise.

At last, with nothing more to do, She sought her rest at home,
And there was wooed and won, there, too,
She quickly settled down,
Her babies play upon the floor,
Her husband's purse is thin,
And "maestro" think of her no more In Paris or Berlin.

Lucky.
"I am afraid," said the doctor after He had thumped the gentleman on the chest and again and again tried his pulse, "that there is something radically wrong with your heart. I don't want to scare you, but be careful about running to catch trains, and don't hurry when you go upstairs. If you are careful you may live for years. Still, if you have not made your will and arranged your affairs so that they would be in good condition if you were suddenly taken off it might be well for you to attend to those matters. I would not tell you this if I did not feel that it was—"
"Thank heaven!"
"What do you mean?"
"Now, I'll have an effective excuse when life insurance agents come to see me and I wish to get rid of them in a hurry. Just put it all in writing, will you do?"

Safe.
The night is dark and cold and wild,
The wind is howling through the street;
The snow against my door is piled,
The stars are hidden, and the sleet, Like shot, against the pane is hurled;
I hear the never-ceasing roar Of icy waves that madly beat Against a bleak and cheerless shore, As if they tried to reach the town, But, safely sheltered from the storm,
The child that claims my love is warm, His prayers are said, his dreams are sweet.

The Glory That Was Rome's.
"What most interested you in Rome?"
"In Rome? Say, I'll never forget Rome as long as I live. They had the sweetest little manicure girl in the hotel where I put up that ever trimmed a nail."

Hard for Mother.
"I suppose you often find it rather trying to have six marriageable daughters on your hands?"
"Oh, I don't mind it so much myself, but my wife has a pretty hard time of it, seeing that she can't possibly watch at more than one keyhole at a time."

Common.
A monkey in the New York zoological garden has the mumps.
"That's nothing. I've known lots of monkeys who claim that they have had measles and whooping cough." Appreciated.
"I wish to present my bill."
"Thanks. It's the only thing I ever got from you without being overcharged."
Evidence of Prosperity.
The upper berth continues to be useful only as a place in which the occupant of the lower may store his overcoat.
Inevitable.
If a man were paid for doing the things he likes most to do he would at once begin to want to do something else.
A Difference.
"Have you ever seen me act?"
"No. I have frequently seen you on the stage, though."
There is nothing in the old saying, "Go away from home to hear the news." Home is where the average man gets his news.
It may be said for cold feet that they often carry timid men out of danger.
Faint praise no'er won fair daisies.

'MILLIONAIRE FOR A DAY IN CAPITAL

Rides Through 'Inaugural' Thoroughfare, Preceded by Marine Band.

Washington, Feb. 4.—John Jay ("Butch") McDavitt, self-styled statesman, soldier, patriot, philanthropist, philosopher, publisher, preacher and sometimes writer of rhymes, arrived in the nation's capital Tuesday. With the Wilkesbarre "Millionaire for a Day" came a horde of war correspondents, a coterie of friends and admirers and last but not least a statue of himself. "Butch," when his "special" pulled into the Union station, was met by a band. The Marine band, hired for the occasion, preceded the man in his triumphal march into the city. The congressional delegation from the section made famous by "Butch" was also present, or as many as could get away from the halls of congress. Three of the representatives rode in the automobile with "Butch" down Pennsylvania avenue. Next came a huge auto truck bearing the statue of McDavitt guarded by six husky funkies in livery.

Most Unique Parade.
To the tune of "Hail to the Chief," the most unique parade ever seen on the "inaugural" thoroughfare marched down on March 4 and halted at the Sterling hotel, where "Butch" had engaged seven rooms at $5 per. The statue was put on display in front of the door, and "Butch" made for the bay window of his southern exposure and made his first speech in the capital. It was a wonder. The Pennsylvania wonder-worker told the populace who had gathered why he had come to Washington with his statue. From where he stood he overlooked a park wherein is the statue of Gen. Grant.

"Gen. Grant has his statue there because he had an opportunity," said "Butch." "I have come to Washington to have an opportunity to place this statue of myself in the statutory hall at the capitol. Some of the statues there are worse looking than mine. I believe that congress will see the feasibility of my plan. I have done as much as any man with as little opportunity."

Tells What He Has Done.
"Butch" then went on to tell what he had done. He said: "Washington was the father of his country. I have never gone that far, but am willing.
Thomas Jefferson instituted the present University of Virginia; I have started a school of advertising. Alexander Hamilton showed how to bank the country's funds; I have shown how to scatter the coin. Grant fought in the Civil war; start another one and so will I. None of these fellows had anything on me; but opportunity.
William Jennings Bryan lived next door to me for three years and see where he is today; I gave him the intention. They say that President Wilson looks like me. If that is so I deserve a statue put in the Hall of Fame.
The physlogs of great men run in the same channel. The only difference between an insane man and an eccentric man is the difference of money. I am broke, or will be today when I spend the $3,000 I have with me."

FORMER STATE BANK HEAD WAS CHARGED WITH USING FUNDS OF DEFUNCT CONCERN.

Columbus, O., Feb. 4.—Frank E.
Baxter of Lima, former state superintendent of banks, cannot be again brought to trial in connection with the affairs of the defunct Columbus Savings & Trust Co. of this city.
The supreme court sustained the exception taken by prosecuting attorney of Franklin county to the rulings of Common Pleas Judge Kinkaid in the case in which Baxter was charged with conversion of the Columbus Savings & Trust Co.'s funds to his own use. It was charged that Baxter used $25,000 of the funds of the defunct bank, which he had charge of as superintendent of banks.

LUKE MCLUKE SAYS

What has become of the old-fashioned man who always had a pocket full of dirty white peppermint loz-engs that he gave to the children he met?
Job imagined he was up against it.
But he never sued a railroad for $10-000 and had to wait 15 years to get a verdict of 10 cents.
There are a lot of busy people in the world, including the men who stand in line waiting for a seat in a moving-picture show.

When a man is going to marry a girl she knows it six months before he makes up his mind about it.
A woman can always see how much her figure is improving and how much worse other women's figures are getting.

It is funny that a man who is so careful not to spoil his features that he uses a safety razor when he shaves will think nothing of fooling around with a married woman.

If a woman loves a man, a little thing like a glass eye or a wooden leg doesn't make any difference. But a man can't see a woman who is built that way.

Considering the fact that you can always start a new religion, it is funny that a lot of men are content to work for a living.
The trouble with being near-sighted is that a man is liable to mistake his wife for some other woman and be polite to her.

After all, it wasn't mother's cooking as much as your appetite that made the difference when you were a boy.
An expert on hygiene declares that women will continue to wear less clothing each year. Some one is going to get arrested this summer, and Luke is mighty glad he isn't blind.

MEN AND CIGARS

Because of his solemn garb a cigar salesman was mistaken for a man of the cloth and invited to make a few remarks. He acceded to the request and ascending the platform said:
"Men are like cigars. Often you cannot tell by the wrapper what the filler is. Sometimes a good old stogie is more popular than an important celebrity. Some men are all right in the showcase, on display, but are great disappointments when you get them home. No matter how fine a man is, eventually he meets his match. A two-for-one puts on as many airs as a 50-center. Some men never get to the front at all except during campaigns. Some are very fancy outside and are selected for present. Others have a rough exterior, but spread cheer and comfort about them because of what is inside.
But all men, as all cigars, good or bad, two-fors, stogies, rich or poor, come to ashes at last."

best remedy for that often fatal disease—croup. It has been used with success in our family for eight years."
