

HOME HAPPENINGS

Council meeting next Monday night. —Rev. J. M. Kendig's residence on West Main street is being painted. —A Kindergarten is being conducted this week by Miss Alice Winter. There are ten or more pupils. —At least ten automobiles have been seen in Canfield, some to be delivered within a short time. —The cornet band gave the first concert of the season in the park last Saturday night and a large number of people enjoyed it. —A large number of the members of Parkview Rehearsal lodge and their friends enjoyed the anniversary social and banquet last Friday night. —The Missionary Society of the Christian church will meet at the home of Mrs. C. E. Geis on South Broad street Thursday, June 10, at 2 p. m. —Some day, and it will not be so many years, either, Canfield will be a suburb of Youngstown. The city is rapidly growing in this direction. —The wedding of Miss Vera Hendricks of Canfield and William Platt, Jr., of Marshall, Ill., is announced for Tuesday, June 8, at the home of Rev. and Mrs. D. D. Burt, formerly of Canfield, in Marshall, Ill. —A large crowd attended the union school commencement exercises in college chapel last Friday night. The graduating class presented an excellent program and every member of the class did well. Next year most of the young people will enter high school to prepare for college work. —At a meeting of the directors of the Citizens' Co-operative Co. the following dividends were declared: Six per cent stock dividend; 7 per cent on purchases by stockholders; 1/2 per cent on purchases by non-stockholders; 5 per cent of net earnings to educational fund; 15 per cent of net earnings to reserve fund. —At a recent meeting of the village board of education the following teachers were elected for the ensuing year: Tyrrel Robinson, principal; Ernest Holben, Miss Ella Kent, Miss Nola Holben, Hazel Cook, and Miss Bertha Bonnell. Mr. Robinson comes from Petersburg where he was at the head of the public schools for two years. Miss Cook is a local girl and will have charge of the primary department assisted by Miss Bonnell, who comes from Salem. The other teachers were in the school this year. —Vaughn Brothers this week closed their furniture store in the Campbell block and unsold stock has been removed to their main store in Columbiana. The store here was opened a year ago last March and did a good business, but on account of the poor health of Ray Vaughn of Columbiana his brother Lester, who had charge of the local store, thought it best to return to Columbiana and relieve his brother of close confinement to business. Mr. Vaughn is a wide-awake young business man and made many friends here who greatly regretted to have him leave. —On Monday Mr. and Mrs. Almon Eastman celebrated the sixtieth anniversary of their marriage at their home on West Main street surrounded by their children, grandchildren and friends. At noon an elaborate dinner was served which was enjoyed by more than 75 people. During the afternoon many friends called upon the excellent couple and congratulated them upon having been spared to spend so many years together and expressed the wish that they may celebrate many more anniversaries. Mr. and Mrs. Eastman were the recipients of numerous gifts which they highly prize. —Last Friday evening while Dr. C. H. Campbell was making professional calls in the southeastern part of this township his automobile suddenly left the road and plunged twenty-five feet down an embankment. The machine, a Ford touring car, turned over, throwing out the doctor and Otto Bell of Washington, D. C., who was with him. Fortunately the top caught on a strong wire fence where it was held, preventing the machine from falling upon the men and crushing them. The men's escape from any injury whatever is little short of a miracle. A call for assistance was sent to Gardam's garage which was responded to by about 20 men who used ropes and pulled the automobile up the steep embankment into the road. Investigation showed that the only damage the machine had sustained was a crushed fender and a broken top strap. It was cranked up and ran to the garage under its own power. —Noah Hushour died Wednesday at his home a mile and a quarter east of the village of Palmyra. He had been troubled by the effects of paralysis about six months ago but had been confined to his home less than two weeks. Deceased was a farmer by occupation. He was a son of the late Isaac and Catherine Hushour and was born in Canfield township Feb. 11, 1844, consequently had passed his 71st birthday. Thirty-eight years ago he was married to Miss Lois Walter, who with three sons, Floyd, George and Edward Hushour, survives him. He also leaves three sisters, Mrs. Martha Rupert and Mrs. Alice DeCamp of Canfield, and Mrs. Ida Rose of Fowler, Trumbull county. Funeral services will be held from the family home Friday morning at 10 o'clock. Rev. C. E. Geis will be in charge. Interment in Zion cemetery. —Memorial Day was fittingly observed in Canfield Monday morning. The exercises were held in college chapel at 9 o'clock, a large crowd being in attendance. Special music was furnished by female singers from the local churches. The address was delivered by Dr. J. M. Kendig and it was an eloquent, fervent tribute to the men who in the days of war made such supreme sacrifice that the nation might live. After the exercises in the chapel the procession headed by the band formed in front of the campus. In the line of march to the cemetery were eight old soldiers, several hundred school children carrying flags and flowers, and many citizens on foot and in automobiles. The sight was a most imposing one. After the graves of the fallen heroes had been decorated the throng assembled in the center of the cemetery where "America" was sung and Rev. C. E. Geis read President Lincoln's Gettysburg address. The procession then reformed and marched to town hall where the crowd dispersed.

COMMENCEMENT AT NORMAL

Opened With Baccalaureate Sermon Sunday Night, Followed By Other Events Full of Interest.

Commencement week at the North-Eastern Ohio Normal College opened auspiciously last Sunday evening with the baccalaureate sermon in the Methodist church. That the people of this community are deeply interested in the cause of education was evidenced by the large audience present, every available seat in the spacious church being occupied. About the altar there was a profusion of plants and flowers. Special music was furnished by the church choir. The services were opened with prayer by Dr. J. M. Kendig followed by the reading of the scriptures lesson by Rev. N. B. Berger. The sermon was delivered by Rev. J. V. Haskell, pastor of the Methodist church, and was one of the best ever heard here. It was listened to with rapt attention. Appended is a brief synopsis of the sermon. "Text: 'But when he came to himself.'" "Luke xv, 17."

That was the first step of the prodigal's return to his father. He might have been carried in a cage to his old home and still have remained in the far country. He could not have come to his father if he had not first come to himself. So, no man can find God till he has first found himself. One's own true self, one's own Godlikeness, is the only possible door of approach to God. However marred or broken the image of our Father within us may be, there is nothing else in us capable of "hearing," "seeing," or "feeling" God. It is that self, however marred, once a man has found it, that is always able to find Him. To know one's self, however humiliating the discovery may be, is to find enough of beauty in man's soul to bring him reverence. And reverence leads to self control and self control eventuates in Christlikeness.

According to Prof. James, quoted by "Twice Born Men," a converted man is one whose hitherto "divided self," "soul," "heart," "inferior," and "unhappy," has become "united, conscious, right, superior and happy." Jesus put the matter more simply: The prodigal "came to himself," and the return to his father followed as the most natural thing he could do. That is why he should spend out time digging up the best in men in everyone. Show a man the best in him; not his sins, he knows them only too well as a rule. But that still glorious something, even in the "worst" of men, is enough to make new creatures of them once they really see it. Dig it up. It is the "pearl of great price"—the "treasure hid in the field." When a man once begins to measure seriously the height of his Father's image within him, he soon finds himself too noble to travel any path but the Christward one. It is the inner divine self that, in the best of men, is everyone. We say "Come to Jesus Christ." Come to yourself first. You can "Come to Christ" no other way.

Among the "Sayings of Jesus," found in the ruins at Behena, Egypt, the home of many Christians in the third century, this one is strikingly in accord with the spirit and teachings of the One who spoke as no one else ever did: "Jesus-saith, . . . the kingdom of heaven is within you; and whosoever shall know himself shall find it. Strive, therefore, to know yourselves; and ye shall be aware that ye are the sons of the Almighty Father." That's the point of it. "Strive to know yourself," and that self is no noble, so Godlike, you cannot fail to realize who your Father is! But "strive," "search," "seek"; these words of Jesus indicate you shall not find this self upon the surface. When the two naval officers of the U. S. fleet, at New Orleans in the spring of 1862, landed unarmed and unprotected, and marched abreast through the streets of the city to the office of the mayor to demand the return of the Confederate stronghold, they did what they could not have done had they not been conscious of the fact that they were officers of the U. S. Navy doing their duty. The mob of civilians, two-thirds of them armed, deserted by the military forces on which the populace had relied for protection, howled and hissed in rage about the two unguarded men, shook cocked pistols in their faces, cried "Shoot them!" "Kill them!" "Hang them!" while the two calm, heroic officers, without word or frown, without looking or swerving to the right or left, marched straight ahead, did the task assigned them, and returned by the same way to the feet. If we would but strive to know ourselves as children of the Almighty Father, as those two men knew they were an ambassador of the U. S., we should be able to do as they did. We should be able to march straight to our posts of duty, do our work like men, fearless, amid all the threatening dangers of life, and be more than conquerors at last. "Strive, therefore, to know yourselves." Come to yourself! The distance is not so great as you think, and what you find will amaze you—will transform your outer, till it conforms to your inner, self.

Monday and Tuesday evenings the senior class presented in college chapel the class play, "Lost a Chaperon," and good-sized audiences enjoyed it each night. The receipts amounted to more than $50. After paying expenses incident to giving the performances the surplus will be donated to the Community Library. Wednesday evening occurred the annual reunion of the Newtonian and Philomathean literary societies. The attendance was quite good, a considerable number of former members from other localities being present. Excellent music was furnished by the college orchestra. For the Newtonian Ivan Thoman introduced the speakers. Miss Esther Kimeric gave the address of welcome and Charles E. Maurer of Cleveland the response. Mr. Maurer was a charter member of the Newtonian society and presided over its first year. His address was full of interest to present and former students. The Philomathean speakers were introduced by president John Miller, Miss Ruth Weikart giving the address of welcome and Miss Helena Delis the response. Thursday evening the annual reunion of the Alumni Association will be held in college chapel and a banquet will follow in the M. E. Church dining room. Commencement exercises proper will be held in college chapel Friday morning, beginning at 9 o'clock, central time. The class is composed of thirteen members and the program announced last week will be followed. The address to the class will be given by Prof. F. F. Stanton, a graduate of the N. E. O. N. C., now superintendent of the Alliance city schools.

TOWNSHIP TRUSTEE LYNN REPLIES TO MR. WILSON

Editor Dispatch:—As trustee of Canfield township I wish to make a statement in regard to the engine gang of men living off of the township mentioned in the article written by Mr. Wilson that the public may not get an erroneous idea as to the expense. The engine was hired for one dollar an hour for time at work, which included a fireman and engineer. In the opinion of the trustees it would do the work of four or five teams. But if it did more damage than good it was money wasted. We ask the public to go over the roads of the township and judge for themselves. We often form incorrect opinions by taking another's word too seriously. Mr. Wilson complains that the ditches were graded out in some places to the depth of three feet. But we have received more complaints of insufficient ditches. The latter complaint I think nearer correct.

The trustees are in favor of the use of the King drag. The township has been laid out in drag districts and superintendents placed over these districts. I am willing to acknowledge that there are others that could attend to the duties of trustees better than I. But after being elected by the voters I am trying to work to the interest of the township as a whole and will not be influenced by any one man or class of men. I realize that I have made mistakes and made hard feelings and enemies by doing what I thought was best for the majority. In trying to serve the public one is continually between two fires. He will be damned if he does and he will be damned if he doesn't. We cannot please everyone's whim. The man that tries will be a failure. The Savior could not please all.

If the statutes have been violated there is surely redress. Mr. Wilson quoted several of our taxpayers who were opposed to the action of the trustees which he says are genuine. I respect them just as much as if they had said nothing. I do not think any less of a man because he does not think as I do. We are all human. There are none of us infallible. E. R. LYNN

FARMERS AUTO TOUR

On Wednesday, June 9th, an automobile tour will be conducted into Geauga county for the purpose of inspecting some of the leading dairy herds of that county. Geauga county is noted for its production of high record cows. Of sixteen world's records, Ohio has produced eight and Geauga county four of the eight. The tour will be conducted under the auspices of the Mahoning County Improvement Association, having as president of the county may join the party if they desire to do so. The schedule will be as follows: 7:00 a. m., Eastern time, leave Canfield. 9:30 a. m., arrive at the farm of Dan Dimmick, E. Claridon. 10:30 arrive at the farm of Knapp & Pierce, E. Claridon. 11:15 arrive at the farm of Paul Mc. Nish, Claridon. 12:00 m. arrive at Burton. Stop for luncheon. The party will be the guests of Burton and Geauga county at luncheon. Short addresses by members of the party. 2:00 p. m. arrive at the farm of Peter Small, Chester. 3:30 p. m. arrive at the farm of R. D. Gates, N. Newbury. 5:00 p. m. arrive at the farm of C. C. Smith & Sons, Parkman.

All persons wishing to join the party should notify James M. McKay, Youngstown, or D. W. Galehouse, Canfield, not later than Monday evening, June 7th. If the day set for the tour should be rained out, the party will give the daymen of Mahoning county an excellent opportunity to see what some of their neighbors are doing. A royal reception will be accorded the party by the people of Geauga county.

PRESIDENT ISSUES WARNING TO MEXICO

Wilson Serves Notice On Factional Leaders That They Must Restore Peace.

Washington, June 3.—In a statement to the American people President Wilson served notice on the factional leaders of Mexico that unless within "a very short time" they unite to set up a government which the world can recognize the United States "will be constrained to decide what means should be employed by the United States in order to help Mexico save herself and serve her people."

Signaling a change from the "watchful waiting" policy, which has guided relations with Mexico for more than two years, the president's statement was regarded everywhere in official and diplomatic quarters as notice of a new and vigorous policy to restore peace below the Rio Grande.

Everywhere it was interpreted as a warning that the patience of the United States is exhausted. What steps the president is prepared to take if his warning goes unheeded is not disclosed in the statement. In high official quarters, nevertheless, no doubt existed that he is prepared to proceed.

President's Statement.

For more than two years revolutionary conditions have existed in Mexico. The policy of the United States was to support a group of men who ignored the constitution of the republic and used their powers in contempt of the rights of its people, and with these purposes the president of the United States instinctively and generously sympathized. But the leaders of the revolution, in the very hour of their success, have disagreed and turned their arms against one another.

Are Willing to Co-operate.

All professing the same objects, they are, nevertheless, unwaveringly to co-operate. A central authority at Mexico City is no sooner set up than it is undermined and its authority denied by those who were expected to support it. Mexico is apparently no nearer a solution of her tragical troubles than she was when the revolution was first kindled. And she has been swept by civil war as by fire. Her crops are destroyed, her fields lie unseeded, her work cattle are confiscated for the use of the armed factions, her people flee to the mountains to escape being drawn into unavailing bloodshed and no man knows how or lead the way to peace and settled order. There is no proper protection either for her own citizens or for the citizens of other nations resident and at work within her territory.

'Mexico is Starving.'

Mexico is starving and without a government. In these circumstances the president and the government of the United States cannot stand idly by and do nothing to serve their neighbor. They want nothing but the most speedy restoration of all that they desire to settle her affairs for her or claim any right to do so. But neither do they wish to see utter ruin and bloodshed. They desire to see her set up as friends and neighbors to lend any aid they properly can to any instrumentality which promises to be effective in bringing about a settlement which will embody the real objects of the revolution—constitutional government and the rights of the people. Patriotic Mexicans, sick at heart and cry out for peace and for every self-sacrifice that may be necessary to procure it. Her people cry out for food and will present arms to any man who fear every man, in their country or out of it, who stands between them and their daily bread.

Frankly State Policy.

It is time, therefore, that the government of the United States should frankly state the policy which in these extraordinary circumstances it becomes its duty to adopt. It must presently do what it has not hitherto done or felt at liberty to do—lead its active moral support to some man or group of men, if such may be found, who can rally the suffering people of Mexico to their support in an effort to bring about the most speedy restoration of the country, return to the constitution of the republic so long in abeyance, and set up a government at Mexico City which the great powers of the world can recognize and deal with, a government with whom the program of the revolution will be a business and not merely a platform. I therefore, publicly and very solemnly call upon the leaders of factions in Mexico to get together and to promptly for the relief and redemption of their prospective country. I feel it to be my duty to state that I am not prepared to accommodate their differences and unite with this great purpose within a very short time this government will be constrained to decide what means should be employed by the United States in order to help Mexico save herself and serve her people.

SAVING STOPPED IN ERROR

GERMAN GOVERNMENT EXPLAINS THE GULFIGHT CASE TO AMBASSADOR GERARD.

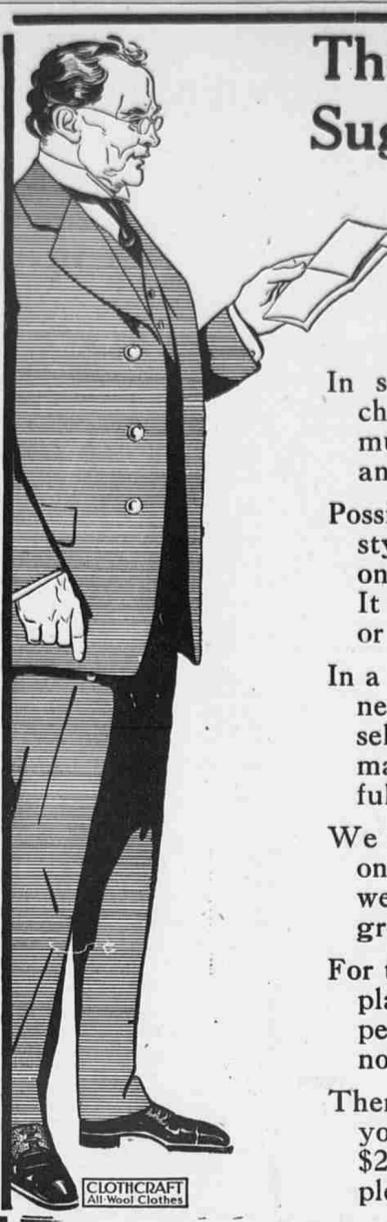

Berlin, June 3.—The German government has transmitted a communication to James W. Gerard, American ambassador at Berlin, explaining that the torpedoing of the American tank steamer Gulfight off the Scilly Islands, May 1, was a mistake.

Germany disavows any intention of attacking harmless neutral ships, and in cases where she is at fault, she offers to compensate. Ambassador Gerard was informed two days ago by the German admiralty staff that the Gulfight had been torpedoed in error.

The Power of Suggestion

Usually about this time of the year every man is debating with himself as to what he will wear during the coming Summer.

In some cases the styles have changed quite a lot and a man must do some tall thinking to answer the question.

Possibly he thinks that the new style may not look exactly right on him when he first puts it on. It may seem a little too snug or too loose.

In a case of this kind a man really needs the suggestion and counsel of an experienced clothing man--one who has made a careful study of the business.

We consider ourselves authority on this, competent to talk, and we feel absolutely sure of our ground.

For that reason we ask you to place your confidence in us--experience shows that you will not have any cause to regret.

There's surely something to suit you in Clothcraft at $10 to $20. Our spring line is complete.
