

VIOLATED SHERMAN ANTI-TRUST LAW

Federal Grand Jury Returns Indictments in Munitions Plot Cases.

3 HAVE HELD STATE AND FEDERAL OFFICE

All Men Indicted Were Connected With Labor's National Peace Council; Monnett Ex-Attorney General of Ohio.

New York, Dec. 29.—The government Tuesday made its most decisive move against foreign propagandists and their American allies. Eight men were indicted by the federal grand jury on a charge of violating the Sherman anti-trust law. Seven of them are Americans. All are prominent. Three have held high office under federal or state governments. All of the men named were members of Labor's National Peace Council. The indictment writes a new chapter in the romantic life of Capt. Franz Von Rintelen, friend of the kaiser and a master marplot.

The eight men are charged with seeking to foment labor troubles in munitions manufacturing. They are accused of seeking to bribe labor leaders. The penalty for the crime charged is one year in prison, a fine of $5,000, or both.

Others Are to Follow. Sensational as were the developments, the federal authorities say that others that are to follow will dwarf them in public interest. Hundreds of men may be drawn into the investigation, which is to be continued by a special grand jury next week. The eight men named in the indictment are:

Frank Buchanan of Chicago, a member of congress, labor leader and former president of Labor's National Peace Council.

H. Robert Fowler, well-known lawyer, ex-congressman from an Illinois district and general counsel for the council.

Frank S. Monnett, ex-attorney general of the state of Ohio, international lawyer, chairman of the council's resolution committee and former business associate of H. Robert Fowler.

David Lamar, alias Lanauer, alias David H. Lewis, commonly known as "the wolf of Wall St." At present under sentence of two years in the Atlanta penitentiary on a charge of impersonating a congressman.

Henry B. Martin, well known Washington lobbyist, member of the executive committee of the council.

Herman Schulteis, vice president of Martin's anti-trust league, also well known lobbyist.

John C. Taylor of Orange, N. J., who succeeded Congressman Buchanan as president of the council, vice president of the Cigarettes' union; prominent in labor circles.

Franz Von Rintelen, alleged to have expended huge sums of money through Lamar and others among the defendants.

Lamar and several of the other defendants surrendered themselves today and pleaded before Judge Learned Hand in the federal district court.

Others among the indicted men may go before the nearest United States commissioner and give bail, returnable at a convenient date in this city.

"We have just made a beginning," said a high United States official. "The financiers who were associated with Von Rintelen in this and other propaganda are due to be unmasked. We have traced fabulous sums of money expended by Von Rintelen during that daring adventure's four months' stay in this country. One account that Von Rintelen had was in the Transatlantic Trust Co., in Williamsport. The Austrian consul, Von Nuber, is a director in this company. For a time Von Rintelen had his offices in the same building and all reports on the strike propaganda was made to him there. The account of which I speak was for $500,000. Within four months this shrank to $25,000. Von Rintelen had other accounts, too."

Monnett Goes to New York. Columbus, Dec. 29.—Former Attorney General Frank S. Monnett, who was indicted in New York, left for that city Tuesday night and will meet the legal situation there in person. He was surprised at the indictment against him and hurried to New York to get all the facts underlying the action of the federal government. He denies the charge.

Mr. Monnett has been for many months an active worker in the peace congress that was formed at Washington. He has spoken in many of the large cities in the furtherance of that plan and has laid particular stress on its appeal to laboring men. He was assistant general counsel of the organization.

Yeggenmen Blow Safe. Steubenville, O., Dec. 29.—The post-office at Irondale, O., near here, was entered by yeggenmen early Tuesday, who carried the safe out of the building to a barn nearby, where they blew it open. They secured a large quantity of money and stamps and escaped. The exact amount of loot is not known.

Bigger Than London. London, Dec. 29.—New York is the largest city in the world. London, by reason of losses occasioned by the war and because of gigantic error in estimating the population, must now admit the American metropolis is the bigger by about a quarter of a million persons.

Observe the Warning. A cold that promises to "hang on all winter" is to be dreaded. Prompt action should be taken at the first warning of a cold—sneezing, chilliness, slight shivering, Foley's Honey and Tar makes quick work of coughs, colds and croup. It clears air passages, stops coughing, eases difficult breathing. F. A. Morris.—Adv.

AIMING AT SUEZ CANAL

Preparations are being made in the Suez canal region for a great battle between a Turkish army officered by Germans and a British army. The Turks are said to have constructed a double-track railroad leading from Damascus through Jerusalem (A) and Gaza (B) to a point well past the frontier of Egypt. At Gaza 70,000 men are supposed to have been gathered and at Jerusalem 10,000. The British are said to have 240,000 troops in Egypt and to be sending more continually. They are strongly fortifying the Suez canal.

BREAK COMES IN THE ENGLISH CABINET

Two Members Have Handed in Their Resignations and Others Are Expected to Follow.

London, Dec. 29.—Reginald McKenna, chancellor of the exchequer, and Walter Runciman, president of the board of trade, have resigned from the cabinet and others are expected to follow.

The resignations of McKenna and Runciman have not been accepted. The resignations were announced following a long war council after Tuesday's cabinet meeting.

The war council was attended by Premier Asquith, Lord Kitchener, Sir Edward Grey and A. J. Balfour.

The cabinet meeting, which preceded the council of war, lasted two hours and a half. Conspicuous was the question discussed.

The cabinet decided by a majority that it is bound by Premier Asquith's pledge, and generally approved the principle of compulsion as a result of the Derby campaign, which is generally understood to have failed.

Asquith's pledge was that married men would not be sent to the front until available single men had gone.

The cabinet has virtually decided upon a modified form of conscription bill to be introduced in the house of commons next week, giving the government the necessary power, should it be found needful, to force in single men.

'RANKEST OF POLITICS'

TOLEDO'S MAYOR IS NOT WORRIED BY THE INDICTMENT AGAINST HIM.

Toledo, Dec. 29.—Mayor Carl H. Keller, who goes out of office Jan. 1, was indicted Tuesday by the Lucas county grand jury on a charge of having accepted a bribe. Keller, it is charged, was given a Peerless automobile by R. O. Gamble, an "agent of the Peerless Motor Car Co. of Cleveland," in order to influence his vote as a member of the city board of control on the proposition of awarding a $65,000 contract to the Peerless company for motor fire apparatus.

Officials of the Peerless Motor Car Co. Tuesday denied any connection with the matter.

After he learned of his indictment, Mayor Keller said: "This is the rankest kind of politics. I'm not worried in the least about anything. I've been aware for some time of efforts to find something to use as a pretext for causing me trouble."

HIT, CLIMBS ON ENGINE

MAN FOUND EXHAUSTED BY THE CREW ON RUNNING BOARD; CONDITION CRITICAL.

Massillon, O., Dec. 29.—While running through a heavy snowstorm at a rate of 35 miles an hour, about three miles east of Massillon, Monday night, the crew in the cab of a Pennsylvania freight train engine heard a tapping on the front window and investigating found William Conway, all but exhausted and frozen, lying on the running board.

His condition was reported at the city hospital as critical. It is believed Conway was struck and picked up on the pilot shortly after the train left Canton.

Several Barges Sunk. Gallipoli, O., Dec. 29.—Several barges loaded with coal were sunk at Lion Island Tuesday when the steamer W. K. Fields' machinery became disabled. The boats and coal belong to the Monongahela Consolidated Coal & Coke Co.

Women May Be Trustees. Sandusky, O., Dec. 29.—Women may be elected to the board of trustees of the Congregational church here for the first time in its history. The women have raised a cry of "taxation without representation."

Our Jitney Offer—This and 5c. Don't miss this. Cut out this slip, enclose with five cents to Foley & Co., Chicago, Ill., writing your name and address clearly. You will receive in return a trial package containing Foley's Honey and Tar Compound, for coughs, colds and croup. Foley Kidney Pills, and Foley Cathartic Tablets. F. A. Morris, Canfield.—Adv.

EXPECT AUSTRIA'S SECOND REPLY SOON

Believed Note Will Be Friendly but Will Suggest a Compromise; Another Big Question Looming Up.

Washington, Dec. 29.—The reply of Austria to the second American note demanding her adherence to international law and disavowal and punishment of the submarine commander who sank the Ancona will arrive today or tomorrow at the state department.

This information is contained in dispatches from Ambassador Penfield at Vienna, who has already communicated to the department his opinion that Austria's reply will be friendly and will suggest a compromise.

One of the high officials of the department said that the reported suggestion by Austria of an international commission had been considered. He did not know, however, whether Austria will propose to arbitrate questions of law or questions of fact. Officials repeated that no matter what reply Austria makes the United States will stand firm on the demand that Austria subscribe to the American interpretation of international law, and that the act of sinking the vessel without warning be disavowed.

The general opinion among American diplomats is that Austria cannot now appeal to the arbitration treaty of 1909 because the United States, by demanding a disavowal, has made the Ancona case one of national honor or vital interest, neither of which is arbitrable under any treaty.

Ambassador Page at Rome sent to the state department Tuesday a rumor that an Austrian submarine had sunk an Italian liner named the Port Said. The rumor gave eight lives as lost, but no Americans were mentioned.

High state department authorities admitted Tuesday that the constant report of attacks by submarines on merchantmen in the Mediterranean of which no particulars as to the flag or actual nationality of the submarines can be ascertained present the next big question for settlement in the department. It was pointed out that some mysterious change has taken place in the methods of operation in the Mediterranean, and that, in retaliation, the same methods must soon be followed by Great Britain, France and Germany in the operations in the Atlantic and the North sea. One official said:

"The instances, which appear to be beyond investigation, have become so numerous that the department is now giving thought not only to its possibilities but to its probabilities. A concealment of the identity of a submarine attacking merchantmen, should it become a general practice, would necessitate the sending of a circular note to all the belligerents. Such a communication is already under consideration. It is obviously the most perplexing problem ever presented to the state department. If it is adopted by all parties, we will have a situation in which all the belligerents will be on one side violating international law and the United States on the other side making a sweeping and general protest against such violation."

Real Estate Man Suicide. Cleveland, Dec. 29.—Ivy L. Miller, vice president of the Bratenah Land Co., shot and killed himself Tuesday at the home of his brother, M. O. Miller, at Canton, according to relatives. Miller was 54. Relatives said Miller was ill and was visiting at the home of his brother pending recovery of his health. He had been in Canton for a month. Miller was interested in land around Cleveland and Canton and oil lands near Lima.

Milk for Starving Babies. Washington, Dec. 29.—The state department has instructed Ambassadors Page at London and Sharp at Paris to obtain safe conduct for a cargo of condensed milk to feed the starving babies of Germany. The Red Cross committee declares that millions of babies in Germany are threatened with starvation, due to shortage in milk.

Ambition has led almost as many men into trouble as has the lack of it.

SELF-MAKER VS. SELF-BREAKER.

A number of years ago two prospective safe-breakers succeeded in obtaining employment in two different safe factories, worked ever a period of years in the various departments, gained all the information that they desired, and, subsequently working together, managed to baffle the safe-makers by their skill in opening complicated safes in different parts of the country. The police were at a loss to understand how the safes had been opened, and only upon the apprehension of the two men several years later was it learned that the jobs had not been "inside" ones, as was originally suspected, but had really been the work of two men who had been initiated into the mysteries of safecraft, and had put their knowledge to criminal use. This put the safe-makers on their guard, and an exceedingly complicated system was immediately put into force, whereby not only was the pedigree of every workman looked into closely, but the work among the employees was so separated that no one man or two men could gather enough information about a safe to put it to dangerous use afterward. Furthermore, when an employee is discharged, or when he voluntarily leaves his position, his actions are watched, and, although the safe companies refuse to discuss the particular point, it is a matter of record that any former employee of a safe company, who is possessed of intimate information regarding the secrets of that company's safes, is kept under constant surveillance. As an illustration of the thoroughness with which this is done, there may be cited the case of a former superintendent of one of the principal safe companies, who was discharged eight years ago for intoxication, who subsequently sought and obtained a position as superintendent in an iron foundry in the middle west, who has now held that position for the last seven years, who has done his work well, and who is yet kept under the eye of a detective in the safe company's pay. There is not the slightest reason to doubt the man's integrity, but as has been suggested by the man's employer, who knows his superintendent is being watched, the safe company seems unwilling to take the slightest chance.—Harper's Weekly.

WHAT THE FARMER DID. A city man recently visited with his "country cousin." The man from the city, wishing to explain the joys of metropolitan life, said, "We have certainly been having fun for the last few days. Thursday we autoed to the country club and golfed until dark, then trolled back to town and danced until morning."

The country cousin, not to be outdone in the least, began telling some of the pleasures of the "simple life": "We have had pretty good times here, too. One day we bugled out to Uncle Ned's and went out to the back lot, where we baseballed all that afternoon. And in the evening we sneaked up to the attic and poked until morning."

A sturdy old farmer, who was listening and who was not to be stumped in the least, took up the conversation at this point and said, "I was having some fun about this time myself. I muled to the cornfield and geohawed until sundown. Then I supered until dark and piped until nine o'clock, after which I bedstended till the clock fiveed, after which I breakfasted until it was time to go muling again.—From Judge.

OUR BOYS and GIRLS

SUCCESSFUL BOYS

Who are the boys that succeed in the world? This, my young friends is a very important question for you to answer. Shall I answer it for you? As you and I are strangers, let me say that I have had thousands of boys under my care as a teacher, and that I know who succeeded in all the nobler walks of life. I have watched those successful in the schoolroom, in the store, in college, on the farm—everywhere.

One trait of character is possessed by all of them in a greater or less degree, viz, they all have great powers of concentration. Whatever they do they do with all their might.

In a lesson to be learned they bring all the powers of their mind to the task until it is mastered. They do not allow their minds to wander off, now upon this subject and then upon that; but, with an iron will and an unconquerable determination, they give the task to be performed, whether of the head or the hand, undivided and close attention till the work is done.

This power of concentration is the secret of one scholar's success over another in the same class. How you study is of far greater importance than what or how much you study.

I have in my mind now several of my old scholars who are eminent as lawyers, physicians, ministers of the gospel, civil engineers, builders, merchants and farmers, all of whom were noted in school for their undivided and close attention to whatever was to be done, either at their desk in preparing their lessons, or in the classroom at recitation.

I remember one of these boys in particular, although it is nearly thirty years since he was a student in my school. I can see him now at his desk, working at a difficult problem in algebra or arithmetic, or trying to translate a sentence in Latin or Greek.

It mattered not what the study was, he always entered upon it with the same resolute determination to master it in the least possible time. He seemed to bring his whole body as well as the powers of his mind, to the accomplishing of his task.

Now he would extend one leg and then the other, now run his fingers through his hair, his eyes meanwhile intensely fixed upon his book, and he saw nothing, heard nothing, until that lesson was thoroughly prepared.

He never failed at recitation. That boy has been for several years one of the most prominent judges in this country and one of the most eminent of the governors of New Jersey.—Arkansas Optic.
