USE TESTS TO SOLVE PROBLEM OF INSANITY

Blood and Spinal Fluid Tell True Condition of Patient and Court Acts Accordingly.

The insanity problem is practically solved. This was the declaration of Dr. Jas. Whitney Hall of Chicago, Cook county insanity commissioner, in announcing the success of the new method of treating insane patients in the county court, recently inaugurated by Judge Thomas Scully.

The danger of being erroneously adjudged insane and imprisoned in a madhouse is completely eliminated by the new treatment. Transitory insanity involving merely temporary mental derangements, is now immediately detected and the victims restored.

"As a matter of fact, out of seventy-five cases or more we've had each week," said Dr. Hall, "the greater percentage have been of transitory insanity. Formerly such patients had to bear the stigma of being adjudged insane in the county court and sent to a madhouse."

"But under Judge Scully's administration such patients now are subjected to blood and spinal fluid tests, which readily reveal the character of their affliction. And transitory cases are handled in the Psychopathic Hospital, the patient being returned to his home when cured."

All persons suspected of being insane undergo these tests. Only those found hopelessly insane are arraigned in the county court.

"Another great benefit in the new method," Dr. Hall declared, "is that of making a complete record of each case. This is sent to the state asylum with the patient and proves a positive aid to the asylum authorities in their efforts to handle the case. Previously no records were made and in many instances when patients arrived at the asylums the authorities were completely in the dark as to the nature of their ailments."

TEST NEW AUTOMATIC STOKER

Invention of Iowan Gets Try-Out in School Building

A new automatic stoker being tested in a high school building at Independence, Iowa, consists of a bin holding about three quarters of a ton of coal, located on iron legs probably 4-5 feet above the floor. With an inclined floor just like an ordinary chute and opening at one corner, the opening leads to a trough or carrier the bottom of which is an endless belt 4 or 5 feet long. Pulleys are installed above and the stoker is operated with a one inch horse power electric motor.

The carrier or trough runs to the furnace door, into which it is arranged so that it fits quite compactly. The coal gradually dropping into the carrier is brought along to the end, where a rapidly moving fan hurls it into the furnace in a uniform way that does away with much of the smoke that arises from ordinary shoveling.

The stoker is equipped with a regulator by means of which the amount of coal used is regulated according to the weather conditions and the amount of heat required.

ALLIES PUSH ON IN PICARDY FIGHT

German Line is Strengthened and Heavy Fighting Occurs Near Pozieres.

London, July 26.—Under cover of a strong artillery fire, the French and British are engaged in feeling out the German third line in Picardy, which has been greatly reinforced and strengthened. A series of scattered but violent engagements, each in itself a battle of some proportions, marked the day. Especially heavy fighting took place before dawn on many parts of the front, both north and south of the Somme.

Claim to Have Stopped Attack. The most extensive of these attacks was launched simultaneously by the British and French on the six-mile twisting front from Pauceres to Maurepas. The German lines were found to be tremendously strong. Grand headquarters at Berlin in an official statement says that the German fire was effective in stopping this attack at certain points while at others the allies were repulsed in sharp hand-to-hand fighting.

North of Pozieres, however, the British and Australian troops made further gains as well as in the village itself, while south of Estrees the French straightened and strengthened their lines by seizing a group of strongly fortified houses.

The French also had a local success north of Vermandevillers on the southern tip of the Picardy battle front, occupying some German trenches. Of these advances the most important was that made by the British north of Pozieres. Here the wedge which was driven across the Bapaume high road was widened and strengthened so that now a firm grip has been established on this strategic artery.

Huge numbers of reinforcements have been poured behind the German front according to news from France, and have made their presence known by a series of the most violent counter-attacks yet delivered on this front. Violent as they were the night attacks of the Germans were completely suppressed by an assault launched against Pozieres practically all of which is now in the hands of the Australian and New Zealand corps.

This smash was delivered with the full power of the reinforced Tenth divisions. It was met with a furious shrapnel fire which sprayed the advancing columns with lead, while the heavier shells tore great gaps in the ranks. The attack was completely broken up.

Russians Make Advances. Important advance by the troops of Gen. Sakharoff in Volhynia are announced in the official report from Petrograd. In a heavy night attack Monday the Russians charged through wire entanglements the Austro-Germans had thrown across the Slonovki river. The Russians forced a passage of the river, capturing 1,000 prisoners, four cannon and five machine guns. Heavy fighting occurred near Lezhnoff.

Berlin announces the repulse of weak Russian detachments southeast of Riga and along the Drvina, where the Russians were reported as having torn open the German lines on a front of 30 miles for a 12-mile gain. The official German statement admits the Russians have pierced the Austrian first line trenches at Berestechk, west of the Lupa.

Washington, July 26.—All national guard organizations composed of college students will be mustered out of the federal service in time for them to proceed with their school work at the fall term.

It was announced at the war department that the policy of the government would be to disband such organizations completely as units of the national guard, and to seek the reorganization of the college men into branches of the officers' reserve corps.
