

A bolshevik seldom takes water nor soap.

During the rainy weather a fly waterer is as essential as a hoe.

In the national war garden, the bolshevik is the barberry bush.

What has become of the fellow who used to turn up his nose at hash?

The bolshevik revolution helps to explain some of the Russian ballets.

When the world does settle down to peace and quiet, how it will enjoy the novelty!

Straw hats are higher than ever this year. Maybe last year's bird nest will have to do.

The fellow whose feet interfere has no business wearing white hose with his low shoes.

Turkey has lost Smyrna. Consequently, it can no longer use that place as a first-class rug.

The fellow with nerve will often gain success while the man with brains is still hunting for it.

But does the demand for competent stenographers exceed the demand for good-looking ones?

Germany's digestion, accustomed to many strange viands, cannot seem to adapt itself to crow.

The returned soldier who finds a woman holding down his old job might do well to marry her.

Europe now defines an "intellectual" as a person with an abiding contempt for plain common sense.

Men have been arrested for stealing $50,000 worth of government sugar. This is a sweet mess.

Others may hold the records for distance flight, but for altitude the cost of living has no competitor.

We're for Stefansson if he can make northern Canada produce anything except cold waves and blizzards.

The manner in which the United States avoids giving help to the Russian people is unfurlingly adroit.

What has become of the fellow who used to carry three silver dollars in his pocket just to hear them jingle?

There are two types of schoolgirls nowadays, those who wear fine clothes and those who are good in their studies.

Rising to one's feet when the national anthem is played is rapidly becoming the first law of self-preservation.

It is no longer dollars to doughnuts, as the old saying had it, but dollars for doughnuts, and plenty of them, at that.

Marc Antony thought he was doing a great stunt to make the stones of Rome rise and mutiny. But there are others.

From the shrieks of disappointment one would imagine the German delegates went to Versailles expecting an ovation.

Glenn H. Curtiss speaks of the dirigible as an "aerial barge." That seems to be rather neat and quite descriptive.

That airman who made 457 consecutive loops in a single flight must have felt like a whirling dervish when he got through.

Higher carriage, higher shoes; tax on corses, no more booze. Consumer kicking—getting worse; call the coroner, bring a hearse.

The truth is, a man hates to wear a last year's straw hat quite as much as does a woman. The difference is, he sometimes has to.

When we see how skillfully Armenia draws the United States into the mandrake, we wonder why Armenia is always the loser in war.

In setting up a fire-screen of bolshevism to alarm the allies, Germany may find difficulty in putting it out when its necessity is gone.

There may be no more Liberty bond issues, but there will always be the bonds of matrimony and one may buy presents for the heroic groom and the lovely bride.

Our soldiers not only made the German war lords run, but they made all the world sit up and take notice of Uncle Sam as a military power when he is aroused.

Says a French chaplain: "We have 700,000 girls who will never have the chance to marry." This seems to depend on whether the American troops are brought home speedily.

Here and there, though, Germany got off easily, as, for instance, in the clause that stipulates she must deliver her coal to France. It doesn't say a word about making her carry it in.

According to various exponents, it is perfectly clear that it is solely what somebody else is doing that is responsible for the spread of bolshevism wherever it happens to be spreading.

It is All Gone Now Samuel L. Kramer, Box 95, Sellersville, Pa., writes: "I had kidney trouble for two years and had a terrible backache. That is all gone now after using Foley Kidney Pills and I feel well again." Foley Kidney Pills get results quickly and are tonic in their healing and soothing effect. Sold everywhere.—adv.

PEACE BULLETINS

It is indicated that the policy of the Republicans will be to listen to the President with respect but not to swerve in their determination to adopt modifications of the league unless definite information is given that would warrant them in accepting the covenant. They do not expect to receive such definite information.

The shaping of a peace time military policy was begun in the Senate Military Affairs Committee.

The President in his talk with the Senators dwelt with great emphasis upon the difficulties which attended the settlements at peace conference.

He explained that many of the details were the result of compromise and that unless there had been yielding upon all sides the final negotiations of the treaty would have been impossible.

Failure to ratify the peace treaty or approve it with reservations not acceptable to the Allied Powers would leave the United States unrepresented on the many commissions.

President Wilson undertook to disarm opposition in the senate to the Shantung award by issuing a call for a conference at the White House with Republican senators.

Katsujii Debuchi, charge d'affaires of the Japanese embassy, issued the following statement: "The Japanese government has not entered into any agreement with Germany. At no time since the Germans were driven from Shantung has my government entertained any thought of agreement with Germany on any point."

WASHINGTON

Re-organization of the Department of Justice was started by Attorney General A. Mitchell Palmer.

A resolution to create a commission of five senators and five representatives to confer with Mexican leaders of various factions in order to re-establish order and stability in Mexico was introduced in the House by Representative La Guardia of New York.

Federal Reserve Board announced appointment of N. A. Harrison Nesbit, president of the Bank of Pittsburgh, to succeed T. H. Given, deceased, as director of Pittsburgh branch of Federal Reserve Bank of Cleveland.

That an increase in railroad rates is inevitable was the belief expressed by E. E. Clark, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, before the House committee on interstate and foreign commerce.

Under a resolution introduced in Congress President Wilson would be authorized to appoint a special committee to investigate the high cost of living.

Montana wool clip for 1919, is estimated at 20,000,000 pounds.

The United States Grain Corporation has made more than $23,700,000 profit on wheat. President Wilson issued a proclamation giving it greater control of wheat than ever.

Republicans in the house declared war on Wilson because of his veto of the daylight saving repeal, and will force a vote on another repeal rider as a party issue.

House leaders decide on a sweeping investigation of the Mexican situation.

That the League of Nations has become a party issue and will figure in next year's presidential campaign is regarded as a fact in Washington owing to the official statement of the chairman of the Republican National Committee.

GENERAL

Friends in Chicago of Mrs. James Hamilton Lewis, wife of ex-Senator Lewis, learned that she has been decorated by the French Government, having received the Medal of Honor for her war work in connection with La Blouette du Blesse in Paris. Congratulations are being sent to her in France.

Sergeant Barton Eates of Flushing, L. I. was killed at Americus, Ga., in an aerial circus at Southern Field.

Eamon de Valera, President of Ireland, was received at San Francisco amid a great uproar. He arrived as the guest of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in national convention.

At the hearing in Boston counsel for the Board of Directors of the Christian Science Church cited records to prove his claim that the trustees of the Christian Science Publishing Society acknowledged the authority of the directors.

Chairman Clark of the Interstate Commerce Commission told the House Interstate Commerce Commission the $100,000,000 railroad deficit may as well be called a war loss.

A substantial increase in wages will be offered to Chicago street car railway men to forestall the threatened strike.

Alabama Senate refused by a vote of 13 to ratify the Federal Woman Franchise Amendment.

In addition to regular passenger traffic, 7,276,949 troops were carried on railroads in the first six months of 1919.

Fab-River Cotton Manufacturers' Association announced the mills would close down if a strike should be called.

A large producer of electrolyte copper refused to accept 23 1/2 cents a pound for a large block of copper for delivery in October.

Richard Croker, former Tammany leader will return from Ireland to live in the United States.

The Illinois Agricultural Department reports that the big packers are hoarding vast quantities of meat, butter and eggs in Chicago warehouses. Dregs in the House voted down every amendment to modify the drastic provisions of the measure to enforce wartime prohibition.—Wets will continue their fight against similar provisions for constitutional prohibition enforcement, knowing the inevitable result.

Secretary Daniels set aside the verdict of the naval court martial that sentenced Rear Admiral, then Captain, Victor Blue to the loss of ten numbers and his grade.

Lack of ship space may result in assignment of a special steamer to deport 3,000 undesirable aliens held in this country.

Secretary of Commerce Redfield declared the government should assist in laying another Pacific cable.

President Wilson appointed H. P. Dodge of Boston ambassador to Jugoslavia.

Senate and house leaders decided to make another effort to have the daylight saving law repealed.

SPORTING

Ferdinand Schupp, it is said, is to retire from baseball. Crestfallen over his tumble from the pinnacle of fame and his transfer to the St. Louis club, the boy who was a marvelous pitcher a brief two years ago, will lay aside his uniform to engage in business with his father, a Louisville tinsmith.

Al McCoy of Brooklyn was knocked out in the third round of a scheduled ten-round go by Mike O'Dowd at St. Paul. McCoy hit the mat seven times before he was counted out. His manager threw the towel into the ring twice, but each time it was kicked out by the referee. McCoy was many pounds overweight.

Jim Thorpe has spiked a rumor that he will not play professional football next fall.

Jimmy Wilde, the flyweight champion of Great Britain, outpointed Pat Moore of Memphis, Tenn., in a twenty round bout at the Olympia in London. Moore made a good showing, and some at the ring-side declared openly that he deserved a draw at the least.

Coach Glen Warner of the University of Pittsburgh football team will be obliged to build up an almost entirely new backfield.

Jack Coombs, who recently retired from baseball after a brief and very unsatisfactory stint as manager of the Philadelphia club, may return to the game as a manager. From the Quaker City comes a well founded report that Colby Jack has $100,000 of his own to invest in the National League club in that city, and that he may lead a syndicate to buy the franchise under which William F. Baker is now operating.

Hen Reeper, driven by Pop Geers, won the $3,000 Paper Mills Trotting Purse on the Kalamazoo track.

Jimmy De Forest gives a lot of credit for Jack Dempsey's success in defeating Jess Willard to one of his sparring partners, Jamaica Kid. De Forest will probably handle Jamaica Kid when he boxes Kid Norfolk on July 28.

Australia has a new bantam champion. He is Jack Green, who knocked out George Mendue at the Stadium, at Sydney, Australia, several weeks ago. The proprietor who staged the fight has named Jimmy Wilde, the flyweight champion, to go to Australia and fight Green a twenty round fight for a purse of $25,000.

FOREIGN

John Murphy, Irish commissioner in Paris, says that Ireland is overtaxed, paying one-eleventh of the British budget, whereas her proper proportion should be not more than one-twentieth or one-thirtieth.

Since the armistice 2,750,000 British soldiers have been discharged, of which number only 400,000 remain unemployed. This means that 80 per cent of the fighting men have been absorbed into industry, and statisticians claim that this is a greater proportion than France, Italy or the United States can show.

A German mission has visited the Soviet government of Russia. Trade relations with Russia are sought by the Germans.

The allies have refused Italy's request that Austria concessions at Tientsin, China, be transferred to her.

The intense heat and drought is alarming western Canada.

Holland recognizes Switzerland's right to navigate the Rhine.

Frederick P. Raynham fell with his airplane when he tried to start from St. John's, N. F., on a flight across the Atlantic. He was unhurt, but his machine was wrecked.

A dispatch from Dublin says that Richard Croker will return to the United States, having found the Irish climate unsatisfactory, and that he will hold a large sale of his horses, but will retain several and will continue to be represented on the Irish turf.

CROWNLESS EVENING HAT

Wide Draped Band of Tulle Encircles Head and is Worn Low Over the Forehead.

The very latest thing in evening hats is the wide draped band of tulle which encircles the head, is worn low over the forehead and is guileless of anything resembling a crown, unless perchance a single layer of sheer tulle may be called a crown.

As a rule it is the collar itself which forms the crown, the high masses of curls and puffs which are now so extensively worn by all women filling the entire space left open by the draped band. Often the bands are adorned at the side with a sweeping spray, or by a long, curled ostrich plume. In the latter case the plume is attached under a bow of the tulle, and sweeps down over the shoulder to curl around the neck. Bands of tulle, tied in broad Alsatian bows at the back, have also been noted at some of the recent smart first nights at the theaters. These evening headresses, with a few models in lingerie hats or garden hats, alone reflect the Alsatian influence.

TROTTEUR COSTUME IS SMART

A smart trotteur costume of wool jersey and tricotette with white georgette vestee and cuffs. The hat is of braid to match.

FROCKS FOR SMALL GIRLS

Pink and Blue Chambrays Come in Dainty Models and Popular for Summer.

Frocks for the small girl this summer are both quaint and practical. The gingham are attractively combined with plain one-tone materials, or have collars, cuffs and chemisettes of sheer white materials. Plain pink, blue, green, yellow or lavender chambrays are also made more dainty and becoming by collar and cuff sets of white organdie, dimity, batiste or linen lawn.

One house which shows numbers of children's clothes makes a specialty of quaintly charming frocks made from imported dimities, chambrays and swisses.

Two of the models in an exhibit were made of chambray, one being in a clear, apple-green tone. There is a plain short-waisted bodice belted with a two-inch band piped with black. The belt is embroidered with colored posies and green leaves. The sleeves and neck are piped with black. Another frock is of pale-pink chambray, with the sheerest of scalloped white collars and cuffs. The frock also has a short waisted bodice and a very full skirt is attached to the plain little bodice, the joining line being defined by a piping of color. Embroidered posies, uneven in height, rise from the piping and embroidered lines to about one-third the bodice length. The skirt is also trimmed with embroidered lines.

Dotted swiss is essentially a fabric for children's wear, especially that weave which shows the finest of embroidered dots. Two dainty models recently noted were made of imported dotted swiss. One of the models was made of the dotted swiss, trimmed with black velvet ribbon and narrow frills of plaited organdie.

Boots and shoes are an important item of the toilette, for no one can look well dressed who wears bad or unsuitable footwear. But oh! what a price are all the boots and shoes nowadays. All the more reason to take great care of those which we have.

Boots and shoes should be kept on trees, and it is important that they are adjusted to fit the shoe, for if too loose they are useless, and if too tight they strain the sewing and cause it ultimately to tear.

If a girl cannot afford trees for all her footwear she should treat them in turn, keeping the toes well stuffed out with paper in the interval.

Boots and shoes, if wet, should be freed and slowly dried, never put very near the fire, or in a too warm cupboard, and any leather footwear, including that made of patent leather, and not often worn, should be slightly greased and kept in a cool place.

ALL KINDS OF SHOE BUCKLES

Shoe buckles of cut steel, of silver, gold, gunmetal, bronze and jet are sold for street wear. Silver and gold buckles are elaborately set with rhinestones, Amethysts, sapphires, emeralds and rubies, and shoes thus adorned are worn with afternoon and evening costumes.

A pretty fad is the matching of the stones in the shoe buckles and back combs and in the ornaments used on the evening gown.

For morning wear, cut steel buckles lead in popularity, with bronze a close second for brown or tan pumps. Buckles of bronze beads are also shown for wear with brown and tan pumps.

Mr. Wisler Cured of Indigestion. "Some time in 1909 when I had an attack of indigestion and everything looked gloomy to me, I received a free sample of Chamberlain's Tablets by mail. I gave them a trial and they were such a help to me that I bought a package, and I can truthfully say that I have not had a similar attack since," writes Wm. B. Wisler, Douglassville, Pa.—adv.

It would seem that even in the first round Willard was willing to call it square.

DADDY'S EVENING FAIRY TALE

By Mary Graham Bonner

SIR DAVID DUCK.

"David Duck," said Daddy, "was such a proud duck and he strutted and quacked so much that everyone in the barnyard called him Sir David Duck."

"One day, not long ago, Sir David Duck, quacked and quacked and wobbled about and made a great fuss. All the ducks came around, as did most of the other barnyard creatures."

"What is it that you have to say, Sir David?" they all asked him. "Have you something to tell us, Sir David?"

"Now Sir David was very fond of his title. He liked to be called by such a name and have all the barnyard creatures think he was very fine."

"Yes, I have something to tell you," said Sir David. "All gather around me and I will tell what I have to tell. The news has just reached me. I heard some men talking. I heard them and I listened, and that is always a very sensible thing to do. Ears weren't given creatures to see with any more than mouths were given people or creatures to hear with."

"All the creatures looked at each other and said, 'Oh, isn't Sir David so very, very wise?'"

"He nodded as if he agreed with them and continued, 'Yes, I listen when I hear and I hear when I listen, and I eat when I take food and I take food when I eat. I speak with my voice and walk with my legs and feet.'"

"Very interesting, very interesting," said the other creatures of the barnyard.

"And I heard these two people talking as I have already begun to tell you."

"Listen," they all said, "Sir David is about to tell us his story."

"These two people were men, both were men, for when I say two were men it means the same as when I say both were men."

"How very wise," said the other barnyard creatures, "he has more than one way of expressing himself."

"One was a young man and the other was a young man, and two young men mean two young men. You might think, creatures, that one young man and another young man added together would make one old man, but it doesn't, no it doesn't. Young men don't go together like that."

"How wisely he talks," said the barnyard creatures. So, as they liked whatever he said, and as they thought he was so fine Sir David thought so too and went on saying the most ridiculous things as though they were splendid and never became any smarter because no one ever said,

"It's jolly to hear what you have to say, but it's not so very clever."

"Well," continued Sir David, "these two young men told of a duck they had seen like me. It had been a make-believe duck, one made out of board or wood or some such thing and it was supposed to be a wild duck."

"Of course they knew I wasn't a wild duck and they knew they mustn't harm me. But for a moment I felt a little bit worried until I saw that they thought it was funny that this make-believe duck hadn't been better made, and that they knew while we might look alike, that I was a tame duck and that no one could harm me."

"But the point of my story is that this make-believe duck was in a sporting shop where it was sitting on the end of a canoe and that this sporting shop was advertising to sell guns and things to catch ducks who would come and sit on the end of canoes."

"The foolish thing to my mind was that people could get up such silly things and could believe that ducks ever would come and sit on the end of a canoe where there was a man and a gun and would say,

"Pray shoot me, good people!"

"These two young men merely thought it was funny that I looked so much like the make-believe duck, but I thought to myself,

"There are some creatures who don't understand our cousins, the wild ducks, if they think they sit around on canoes waiting to be shot. Ah, if those sporting shops (though I wouldn't work for one) really wanted brains used in advertising they should employ me!"

Edward Kept Tab. Mamma (angrily)—Edward, how many times have I told you to stop that noise. Edward (after a pause)—Seven, mamma.

Summer Complaint in Children There is not anything like so many deaths from this disease now as before Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy came into such general use. When this remedy is given with castor oil as directed and proper care is taken as to diet, it is safe to say that fully ninety-nine out of every hundred cases recover. Mr. W. G. Campbell of Butler, Tenn., says, "I have used Chamberlain's Colic and Diarrhoea Remedy for summer complaint in children. It is far ahead of anything I have ever used for this purpose."

Saving Coal Saves Money

And Helps The Nation

There's a wealth of proof to show that your home may be thoroughly comfortable at a third or a half less fuel than you have been using. The Caloric Pipeless Furnace is a remarkable fuel conserver. Many say it saves half. Here is just one sample letter taken at random out of thousands which the manufacturers receive from pleased Caloric owners:

"I am heating very comfortably seven rooms and not using any more fuel than I did with a double heater, heating only two rooms.—S. P. SHERIFF."

PIPELESS CALORIC FURNACE
The Original Patented Pipeless Furnace

Over fifty thousand homes, many of them in this state, have found this furnace the economical, common-sense method of keeping comfortable. They bought on a guarantee of real fuel saving and perfect satisfaction, and the Caloric made good. One register delivers all the heat from the fuel directly into your living rooms and draws out the cold air, insuring an abundance of balmy, moist warmth right where you want it. The collar is just right for the storage of perishable products. The Caloric can be installed in a day. It is a triumph of engineering skill that embodies many patented features which have made it the leader and which are not found in imitations. Come in and see this wonderful furnace. We will tell you frankly whether it is adapted to your home. If we say it is, we will give you our personal guarantee that it will make good or we will take it out. Come in and talk it over.
