BANNER "BLUE LAW" CENTURY.

Seventeenth Saw Draught Rules Made for the Government of Manners and Morals.

The Seventeenth century, according to historians, was the banner for blue laws. Legislators vied with one another to win either the plaudits of the people or to provoke the wrath of the mobs by thinking up new measures for the statute books. One blue law in particular which coincides somewhat with some of the legislation rumored to be contemplated in this country is interesting. This was in the form of an ordinance in a Swiss city, and it virtually put such stage folk as jugglers, maskers, jumpers and "such like" out of business. They were prohibited from plying their profession, for the reason that "they do things which God did not intend the human race to perform."

Gambling was frowned upon throughout Europe during this period, but the blue laws did not seem to make much of an impression. It is to be also noted that a prohibition movement was alive in that period. Reformers were engaged at various times in efforts to stop drinking at taverns. In a little city in France the dry wave did not gain much headway, as the leaders turned to the alternative of reducing, or trying to reduce, drinking to a minimum on Saturday afternoons so that worshippers might attend evening services with full possession of their faculties.

SECOND BIRTH FOR JAPANESE

Burial of Nails, Teeth and Hair, and Change of Name Made Official Another Person.

The following item from the Japan Advertiser reveals one of the interesting peculiarities of national ideas and customs which continue to lead variety and interest to world civilization. "Burying themselves to escape death, and then being born again by the simple process of changing their names, Baron and Baroness Ban held full funeral services for themselves at the Gokurinsai temple in Nagoya recently, erecting a fully engraved tombstone over their nails, teeth and hair. The baron now calls himself Mr. Kogoguro Otau.

"When Baron Ban was first born he was far from healthy, and 40 years was predicted as the extreme limit of his life. However, he recently celebrated his sixty-sixth birthday, which brought to his mind that his father had died at that age, and that he could probably best avoid his fate at an early death by bowing to that date and officially 'burying' as much of himself as possible without interfering with any of the vital processes."

Mice Made Robbery Possible.

"Church mice," notoriously poverty-stricken, occasionally are able to throw riches in the way of others. A thief entered St. Ignatius church, Baltimore, Md., the other night and stole valuable jewels from a safe in the rear of the altar. Inquiry at the rectory developed that to a little band of playful "church mice," now dead and forgotten by their brethren, may be traced the existence of circumstances which made it possible for the thief to strip the sacred vessels without detection. Many years ago a burglar alarm system was installed in St. Ignatius in anticipation of just such a visitation as the recent one. One night some mice established a contact with a concealed element of the alarm system and brought the priests and the police to the scene. The burglar alarm was disconnected to prevent a repetition of the false alarm. The view was taken by the priests that there was in existence scarcely a thief degraded enough to tamper with the consecrated vessels.

Legion Has 10,000 Posts.

The American Legion entered 1921 with virtually 10,000 posts, according to the estimates based on the latest figures. During the week ending December 10, 15 new posts were added which brought the total to 9,930. Arkansas led with three posts, says the Stars and Stripes. The Women's auxiliary in the same period obtained 27 new units, enlarging its list to 1,580. Four new units, gained by the New York department, placed that department in the lead for the week. Foreign posts added recently are at Chiquicamla, Chile, and Guatemala City, Guatemala.

Proposed Pipeline in the North.

The proposed pipeline to convey oil products from the Mackenzie river basin in northern Canada to Bering sea, from whence they would be carried by tankers to the markets of the world, would run from the Mackenzie river to the Yukon river systems by way of Rat river and Ball river, thence by the Porcupine and Yukon rivers to salt water. It is reported that sanction for the project will be sought from parliament. The strike at Fort Norman is said to be a rich flow.

Pledged to Use Irish Tongue.

In Ireland many persons are to be seen wearing a plain brass ring on their breast. It is known as "The Foinne," which is the Gaelic equivalent for "ring," and is the badge worn by those students of Gaelic who have attained a colloquial knowledge of the tongue which its advocates declare was for centuries in daily use in Ireland. The wearer of the badge pledges himself or herself to speak only Irish to those who are acquainted with that tongue.

FERTILIZERS AND LIME INCREASE OATS YIELD

That oats respond to the use of limestone is brought out by tests at the Ohio experiment station, where in 1920 plots that had received no lime nor fertilizer since 1894 gave a yield of 27 bushels to the acre, while on plots which had been limed the yield was 49 bushels to the acre.

The average of the limed plots has been 35 bushels since the beginning of the test and the average of the unlimed plots, 29 bushels.

Where acid phosphate has been added in the rotation, 80 pounds being applied per acre each on corn and oats, the yield has been 52 bushels on the limed land, but only 45 bushels on the unlimed section.

When both acid phosphate and muriate of potash have been used as a fertilizer, 80 pounds of the muriate being applied on the corn and oats each and 100 pounds on the wheat, the yield has been 52 bushels on the limed land, but only 45 bushels on the unlimed section.

Barnyard manure applied to corn and wheat in the rotation, at the rate of 8 tons per acre on each crop, the oats receiving no treatment, has given a residual effect of 56 bushels of oats on limed land and 54 bushels on unlimed land.

If you want anything badly enough you can usually get it.

SOME STRAY THOUGHTS

A writer signing himself "Just a Commoner" has been contributing clever paragraphs to the Leontonia Reporter. Last week he had the following.

Some one has said that the deepest disappointment comes to one when he has unselfishly served his community, his friends or his country, without pay or thought of it, but with the solitary hope of appreciation, and finds that not only is appreciation denied him, but finds even his motives maligned.

That man drinks the bitterest cup who drinks the draught of ingratitude. It is still true that "Man's inhumanity to man makes countless thousands mourn," and from present indications it will continue to be true for ages and eons to come. Huge are the tasks of the homes, the churches, the schools and the reformers!

That stub end of a cigar or cigarette! Is there anything more annoying to a non-smoker (and there are a great many) than to have to endure the dying gasps of a cigar or a coffin nail? If there is, it should be enshrined with the pests of earth. Who has not been sickened by the fumes from a smouldering cigar as some swell and self-important duc paces leisurely through a railway car, carrying the detestable stinker between two fingers with an air that says "I am a man of consequence and still worse, and the limit, is to
