NEWSY WASHINGTON LETTER

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—The question is often asked and it is pertinent, if congress does not represent the people whom does it represent?

It is possible that we entered the world war and made Germany safe for democracy, while we are still in a class with the imperial kaiser, and are holding the class that now rules the present German republic as fit subjects for the penitentiary?

There are at present 66 members of the labor group in the British house of commons. They were an active and aggressive force in securing that timely benefaction of 50 millions to save the striking coal miners from starvation.

What is congress doing for our starving miners in the way of relief. First call out the army, commence shooting to kill, and then declare martial law. How does it happen that imperial England, under a hereditary king, has 66 stalwart friends of labor in the commons, while the United States with a free ballot in the hands of every citizen, has nobody?

England the labor groups and all who sympathize with the toilers, unite on one candidate. The independent labor party, the socialist and the famous Fabian society all get together and work for a common cause.

Belgium, with her hereditary king, made desolate by war's butcheries, has elected 70 labor members. France, still wild for war, wrecked and bankrupt in victory, has 55 socialist labor members in the chamber of deputies.

Denmark is still ruled in a mild way by an inoffensive king and has a dominating group of 39 socialist-labor in her 114 members of parliament. Norway, away north of the sympathetic zone of human action, owner of a king by inheritance has 24 representatives of the labor group in a parliament of 123 members.

INCREASED POSTAGE

Stamp Taxes Shown To Be Unpopular, But Productive. In the search for sources of revenue to make up the total of $4,000,000,000 a year required to meet the expenses of the government...

Therefore if it should be decided now to be the part of wisdom to resort to the unpopularity of the philosophy would prevail among the people. It would be as much of a war tax now as it was a few years ago, and could be justified upon that basis.

It is to be hoped, however, that congress will not find it necessary to revive the stamp tax on bank checks. In view of the fact that the great volume of business transactions is done by check, stamps constitute a great annoyance to people of all classes.
