Waterproof Matches. Campers and picnickers will hail with delight the new waterproof match, which can be easily made at home in the following way: Melt a few lumps of candle wax in an old can on the stove. Allow this to cool a little and then, before it is set, dip the matches in, one at a time. Treat the heads and about half of the wooden part. Place the matches on one side to cool. Matches treated in this simple manner have been soaked in water for many hours, and they have ignited as readily as those which were perfectly dry. The only difference is that, in striking, it is as usual to do so a trifle more firmly so as to get through the thin film of wax surrounding the head. When once the flame starts, the match burns very readily, owing to the wax which has adhered to the wood. Any ordinary matches can be treated in the manner described.

The Unwelcome Stranger. Scene: Lobby of theater. A little tailor, leading a boy about six years old by the hand, gives the doorman one ticket. Doorman—Here! You've gotta have a ticket for that boy. Tailor—For dis boy? Ah, don't be foolish, mister. He's only a small little feller. He won't do nothing. Doorman—I don't care. You can't get in unless you have a ticket for the boy. Tailor—It's all right, mister. I promise you I won't let him look—Theater Magazine.

MORE THAN ONE WAY.

There is an old farmer in one of our suburbs who is noted for saying quaint and unexpected things. One day last fall he delivered a couple of dressed birds to a customer who remarked: "I should think, Mr. Brown, you'd simply hate to chop off the heads of those innocent chickens." "You're right ma'am," he said, "and so I never do it. I manage to get around it." "Get around it, how?" the housewife asked with eager interest. "Well, you see, ma'am," replied the farmer, "what I does is chop the chickens off the heads."—Boston Transcript. Relaxation Demanded. "So you prefer the films to the stage?" "I do." "But don't you miss the charm of the speaking voice?" "I do not. The human voice is what makes me feel like a tired business person. I work at a telephone switch-board."

The Discretions of Momus. "Do you think that the world is suffering from a dearth of humor?" "No," replied Senator Sorghum. "The sense of humor is abundant, but it has to be suppressed. You have to be careful not to laugh when you feel like it for fear of offending somebody with political influence." NOT BRAGGING AT ALL "I never hear you telling any of the bright things your children say." "No. Our children say so many bright things and so rapidly that I find it difficult to remember them."

Classical Who's Who. Who is the guy with lantern lit And tub on back, some poor half-wit Nay, friend, that's old Diogenes—His tub his place of lodging is. Time Saving. "Do you think much time is saved by not permitting telephone operators to tell the time of day?" "I can't exactly figure it out. But it seems quicker to say 'half past two' than to make the customary polite explanation that its against the regulations."

The Chicago News says psycho-analysis has proved its claim to existence, but not to a seat in the front pews of science. Oh, well, it furnishes an excuse for a number of people to sidestep useful work, and we fancy that was all it was intended for. The increase of 32.2 per cent in the automobile business during March, as announced by the Department of Labor, may explain a few things to the coal trade which is urging domestic consumers to put in their winter's supply without delay.
