Kentucky Tragedy and Hanging—Other News.

INFANTILE LOVE RUN MAD.

This is a Boston case and not down South. Two young girls, both about five years of age, had for a time loved the same girl. When returning with her from church Sunday Dowd determined to have the affair settled by fighting a duel. Cunningham agreed to the proposition and clubs were selected as weapons. During the fight Cunningham received a blow on the head which so maddened him that he whipped out a knife and rushed upon Dowd stabbing him in the side. The wounded boy is now in the hospital and will die. Both boys as well as the little girl belong to very high mucky families in Boston.

MORTON AND HIS TAXES.

To Vice President Evades His Taxes—A Disgraceful Condition for the Head of the U. S. Senate.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—It turns out that Vice President Morton, who owns that palace of hotels, the Shoreham, with its magnificent bar, does not pay his honest taxes on his investment. The Washington critic says: "The Vice President of the United States, Levi P. Morton, paid an assessment upon $107,520 worth of property, which could find a dozen buyers within an hour at $400,000. The property is the Shoreham, at the northwest corner of Fifteenth and H streets. Three lots here contain 11,880 square feet. The corner is assessed at $300 per square foot. The other two lots, 83, 84 and 85, are some five feet between $20 and $30 per foot. The Shoreham itself is assessed at $70,000. It is estimated to have cost somewhere in the neighborhood of $300,000."

ALLIANCE, O., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Michael Duchen, a salmon, was convicted of violating the Prohibition law and fined five hundred dollars by the mayor, and in default of payment was ordered removed to the Cleveland Workhouse. When Duchen was removed from the mayor's office by the detective, the latter was attacked in a fierce and violent manner by Mrs. Duchen. An exciting scene occurred, but bystanders grabbed the woman, while the detective made his escape with her husband. The affair created considerable excitement.

A KENTUCKY HANGING.

More of the Bloody Work of the Hatfield Gang.

PRETZEL, Ky., Feb. 19.—[Special.]—Ellis Mounie who was hanged here yesterday for participating in the murder of Miss McCoy and her brother, declared on the scaffold that the Hatfield outlaws forced him to engage in the crime. Mounie's friends announced before the hanging that they would rescue him, but they didn't put in an appearance, as plenty of well-armed men were on hand to take them in and do them up.

CHICAGO, Feb. 19.—[Special.]—A committee of French Engineers who have been examining the Panama Canal, are on their way home. THE GRIM REAPER.

H. L. Vogelgesang Called to His Resting Place.

A Well Known Pioneer Dies Suddenly of Heart Disease, Leaving a Record of Credit For His Property.

One by one the pioneers of Stark county are passing away. Henry Louis Vogelgesang has joined the innumerable throng, and gone to that home from whence no man returns. Last night about midnight Louis Vogelgesang complained of trouble with his heart. He arose from his bed and sat in an easy chair. The grim reaper took all that was mortal in less than one hour thereafter. He had been complaining of illness for several years, and when death came he was surrounded by his wife and several relatives. Dr. House was summoned, but no medical aid could be of any benefit. Heart disease did its work, and human efforts were futile. Mr. Vogelgesang was 68 years of age and was born at Wolkmere, Germany. He was a life-long Democrat of the Jacksonian type and was always a strong advocate of the principles of his party, of which he was always proud.

The deceased came to Stark county in 1832, and was married to Miss Josephine Yont on July 17, 1844. Thirteen children were the fruit of the union, and 7 sons, 6 daughters and 11 grandchildren are still living. He was a member of Maubien Lodge I. O. O. F. and was an earnest advocate of that order. He had been engaged in the saloon business at No. 26 East Tuscarawas street nearly twenty years, and achieved a reputation for honesty and fair dealing. The funeral will be held Sunday afternoon at 2 o'clock, interment in Westlawn cemetery.

AN EXCITING SCENE.

An Eight-Year-Old Girl Refuses to Accompany Her Father Home and the Humane Society Takes Charge of Her.

A peculiar case came before the Probate Court this morning, over the custody of a little girl. John Fisher, of this city, is the father of Louisa Fisher, aged eight years and ten months. Her mother died about two years ago, leaving several children. The child refused to accompany her father, and a dispute arose. The humane society took her for nearly two years. A month ago the father sought to secure the child. The matter was reported to Chas. R. Fraser of the Humane Society, who, after an investigation, gave Mr. Spangler instructions to retain the child until compelled to bring her into court.

A few days ago the father secured a custodian who will have to be a trustee of the child. Mr. Spangler not being versed in the law, consented to give her up, but the child refused to accompany the officer. A promise was made to bring her before the probate court to-day; and accordingly Mr. Spangler, accompanied by a half dozen ladies, came to the court this morning. The interested parties met in the probate court this morning where there was quite an exciting scene, the child crying bitterly, and positively refusing to go with her father. She wanted to see her brother John and was granted that privilege. This scene was very effective.

IT KILLED HIM.

The Sad Accident That Befeit a Five Year Old Boy

Who, While Hanging Over the Bill of an Open Window, Lost His Balance and Fell to the Ground Below.

A sad accident happened yesterday at four o'clock in the northwestern part of the city. It was one that will be remembered by many persons as a most sorrowful affair. During the afternoon the two little children of Jacob Switzer and wife, who live at the corner of Franklin and Cassell street, were engaged in play, while their grandmother had gone up stairs to do some sweeping. The dust in the rooms required her to raise one of the windows. A little five-year-old boy had gone up with his grandmother, and was unnoticed by her. Suddenly she heard the little boy scream with terror and fright. She rushed to the window and saw his body lying on the steps of the outside cellar way, a distance of twenty feet below the window. While looking out of the window he had lost his balance. They hastened to his relief and carried him into the house. They found that the back part of his head was badly crushed. A messenger was sent at once for Dr. Morrow and Dr. Fraumfelder. They found that the skull was fractured and that death would soon relieve the little sufferer from the terrible pain which he was enduring. Death finally came at four o'clock this morning.

Mr. Switzer, who was down in Columbus county, was telegraphed for and arrived here at six o'clock this morning. The funeral will take place some time Wednesday, the hour of which has not yet been arranged.

OUR MASSILLON LETTER.

MASSILLON, Feb. 19.

Mr. Mathias Erdle announces himself as a candidate for the office of township trustee, subject to the Democratic primaries. This is too bad for the editor of the Rep. should miss any of these athletic and game events, when his moral and mental being is so badly in need of spurs, gills and feathers. It excites our commiseration, and we have called the attention of our business manager, (who is humane agent) to the case; with the request that when the next fight takes place he be duly notified of the time and place. Perhaps to make sure of seeing the fun he may be thought competent to act as one of the judges, as he is known to be very chicken-hearted.

Capt. Walter Putnam of Wilmet was in this city yesterday.

"Keep it Dark," a play with a humorous but immoral plot, was satisfactorily produced at Buckner's last night.

Summer Brown, a former Massillon business man, whose divorced wife is living in this city, has disappeared from Toledo, and is charged by Hood Bros. his employers, with embezzlement and forgery.

Charles H. Foraker, of Canton, and Miss Rosa Weibel, of this city, were married yesterday afternoon at the pastoral residence of Rev. James Kuhn.

COURT MATTERS.

New Cases Filed in Common Pleas Court—Other Notes of Interest.

Jonas Lutz has commenced suit against Christian Wielandt et al, to recover the sum of $480 claimed to be due the plaintiff on three promissory notes.

For several years past a divorce case of Jacob Reider against his wife Ellen, has been pending. It was called for trial last Friday but owing to the failure of either party appearing, the case was dismissed by the court. Saturday a new case for divorce was commenced by the wife against her husband, alleging that he has been guilty of extreme cruelty.

A petition has been filed by M. A. Brown & Son against John Geisel and John Young, of Canton, and Son, averring that Geisel is indebted to them in the sum of nearly $500 and that Youngblood owes Brown & Son a sum of money, which they wish to be paid to them instead of to Geisel.

Marrriage licenses have been issued to Albert H. Zwahlen and Joseph Clair, of Louisville; Madison B. Eckerman and Mamie Fogle, of Robertsville; Fred Rolli and Maria Borben, of Canton; Charles Oresney and Rachel Lewis, of Canton; Will Kuehner and Minnie Unker, of New Franklin.

Amey N. Cooke has been appointed guardian of four minor Coates heirs of Alliance.

Alliance is Somewhat Excited.

ALLIANCE, Feb. 18.—[Special.]—Alliance citizens are much agitated over the injunction case, and both sides are talking much in stores, on the street, in the speak-easies over the outcome. Public opinion is pretty evenly divided on the question of the legality of the contract to pay a detective to work up cases, and get half the fines. The lawyers, however, think the city council has exceeded its authority in agreeing to pay when the fines are not collected. The council has no authority to take the money of the people and pay the same over to a private party, not to support the government.

HE WENT ALONE.

Mr. Henry Muhs Visits Washington, D. C., is Run Down in the Street, Taken to a Hospital and by Chance is Discovered by His Sister.

Henry Muhs, a man nearly 60 years of age, who has been making his home with the family of David Huffer, living about two miles from this city, has had quite an experience for a man of his age during the past two weeks.

It seems that Mr. Muhs desired to visit his daughter in Washington, D. C., and started alone about two weeks ago for that place to see her. He is somewhat childish and would not permit anyone to accompany him on this trip. Word was sent to the daughter, requesting her to meet him upon his arrival there, but for some reason the letter did not reach her until the day after her father arrived in that city. When Mr. Muhs arrived at the capital he endeavored to find the location of his daughter's house but was unsuccessful. After searching for some hours he realized that he was wandering around through the streets when a railroad way horse attached to a wagon ran over him. He was found lying in the street badly injured and was taken to a hospital for medical attention. It seems that by some peculiar circumstance or incident the daughter heard that an aged man had been injured and taken to the hospital. She did not even learn of his name, neither could she learn until the following day that her father was in the city at that time. When the letter reached her she thought struck her that it was possible that the man injured was her father. She went to the hospital and found him lying in a critical condition. She removed him to her home where the best of care was taken of him until he returned home yesterday afternoon.

A CHICKEN-HEARTED CHUMP.

He Gets Booped on a Notable Cooking Main and Boo-Roses in Public.

The editor of the Rep. is very much annoyed because he got left on the recent cock fight, near Canton. He seems to think it is a terrible outrage because the News-Democrat had a reporter there, while the Rep. had none and had to pick up all his information on the event from hearsay. This is too bad for the editor of the Rep. should miss any of these athletic and game events, when his moral and mental being is so badly in need of spurs, gills and feathers. It excites our commiseration, and we have called the attention of our business manager, (who is humane agent) to the case; with the request that when the next fight takes place he be duly notified of the time and place. Perhaps to make sure of seeing the fun he may be thought competent to act as one of the judges, as he is known to be very chicken-hearted.

The Circuit Court Affirms the Decision of the Lower Court.

Last December an action was brought in the court of common pleas by Mrs. Margaret Roban against her husband, James, to have the court set aside a divorce which had been granted by him fraudulently on the grounds of willful absence. In the meantime Roban had been married to one Dora Wilson. The court decided that the divorce had been obtained lawfully, but allowed her $200 alimony. The case was carried up to the circuit court, and the decision of the common pleas court was affirmed this morning by that court.

Mrs. Lizzie O'Brien, nee Bernhorst, died at Wheeling, as chronicled in these columns yesterday. She was to have been buried at Canal Fulton this morning, but a telegram stating that her child, aged six months, had died last night, the remains were held until this afternoon, so that mother and child could be buried in one grave.

Under the Wheels and Out Up.

An Accident in the C. & C. Yards.

Harry W. Blythe, a Well Known Railroad Man, Attempts to Board a Shifter and Misses His Footing—Both Legs and One Hand Cut Off—Death Believing Him Two Hours Later.

"I am going to get a job on the Pan Handle, and will see the boys on the shifter." So said Harry W. Blythe to some of the employees of the Cleveland & Canton railway near the roundhouse yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock.

No sooner had the words been spoken than the shifter with one car attached came along. He attempted to board the engine, but missed his footing. In less than one minute he had received injuries which caused his death two hours later. The engine and car passed over both his legs and part of his left hand. The left leg was almost a jelly from a short distance above the knee, while the right from the knee down was in similar condition. The fingers of the hand were an unrecognizable mass, nothing but the mangled remains. His bones were completely crushed.

The boys of the railroad crew were horror stricken, and a cry was at once uttered, the victim being taken into the roundhouse. Dr. Brant was quickly summoned and was soon at the side of the victim.

Superintendent Kennedy and Master Mechanic Jack Bean were present in a short time. The doctor made an examination and summoned counsel. Dr. Post responded and it was decided to remove the sufferer to his home at No. 185 East Eighth street. A short time before his removal his wife appeared on the scene, and the meeting caused those who were present to shudder and reflect on the uncertainty of railroad life.

He was removed to his home, being entirely conscious, exhibiting unusual nerve, and clinging to dear life with remarkable tenacity. What remained of the left leg was amputated, when the patient showed signs of sinking. The doctors on consultation decided that it was useless to take off the other leg, as it would do no good. At first it was thought that he would pull through, but reduction set in and at six o'clock Harry W. Blythe went into that "Yea Forever" of the time and place. The deceased was until nearly a year ago a freight conductor on the Cleveland & Canton railway. He left that position and went into the employ of the Valley Railway until about six weeks ago, which position he resigned. He was known among the railroad men as an apt and agile man in the vocation, and his accident and death is a surprise to those who knew him. He was aged about 27 years and leaves a wife and four children. The eldest of his sons is aged 7 years and the youngest is 8 months of age. He was a member of the S. O. U. A. M., who will attend the funeral in a body, which takes place Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. The remains will be interred in Westlawn cemetery.
