And the loudest howler of the present lot is one William McKinley, Jr., governor of Ohio and candidate for reelection. "White man is mighty onartian."

THE dedication of the big Ferris wheel was the feature of the World's Fair today, and 2,000 took a higher flight into the air than they ever expected to do in the garments of flesh.

EX-SENATOR INGALLS says the American women can secure suffrage when they demand it. This is not the way the usual partnerships between men and women are brought about.

In these days of summer ice coasters, Ferris wheels, Viking ships and electric pyrotechnics at the World's Fair, Mr. Kalamity McKinley finds it hard to fix public attention upon pessimistic prophets and ready made gods dipped in tin.

THE acquittal of Lizzie Borden, charged with an atrocious double murder, supported by a string of contradictory circumstantial evidence, is the most encouraging sign of the equity of the modern jury we have seen for a long time.

CLAUDE MEEKER, the brilliant young journalist and private secretary to Governor Campbell, assumed his duties as United States Consul to Bradford, England, May 25. Mr. Meeker will have ample time to study why it is that Great Britain, seated on a mist-soaked island of the North seas can turn up her nose at all the world and rake in the shekels of two continents.

COMMENTING upon the beauties of Penitentiary control, in these days of baby burning and blue vitriol, under McKinley rule, the Chicago Tribune, Republican, says: "A convict of the Ohio penitentiary disgraced a fellow-convict for life yesterday morning by throwing vitriol in his face. It seems strange that he did not draw a revolver, shoot the guards, take a bunch of keys from his pocket, unlock the gates, climb into a waiting carriage and escape. Or, in vitriol one of the supplies commonly furnished to the inmates of the Ohio penitentiary?"

It is because Mr. Cleveland has done nothing, when he promised so much, that Governor McKinley holds him responsible for the present business and financial depression.—Cleveland Leader.

Here is a confession for you. Because President Cleveland, in three months has not got the country out of the slough of despond, into which it was plunged by four years of Harrison, with John Sherman and William McKinley attached, he is to be held responsible for a business and financial depression, for which neither Grover Cleveland nor the Democratic party is directly nor indirectly responsible.

GROVER CLEVELAND'S business administration, whose piled up earnings made it possible for Republican "billion dollar Congress" to get in its work, is too fresh in the minds of the people to make it possible to deceive them with such a tin-dip subterfuge as this.

CLARA BARTON, President of the Red Cross Association, who forwarded and distributed the ship load of corn sent by Iowa to the Russian sufferers, has been given a great ovation at the Iowa Building. The Red Cross has already moved to the relief of the Minnesota pine woods sufferers.

SENATOR SHERMAN says it would not be becoming in him to discuss the present financial situation. He evidently thinks that "now is the time for disappearing," and that the least said is soonest mended.

THE Toledo contingent to the Ohio Sunday School Union, now in session in Canton, is represented by two eminent divines, Rev. H. M. Bacon, D. D., pastor of the Central Congregational church and Rev. J. A. P. MacGaw, D. D., pastor of the First Presbyterian church and member of the State Executive Board.

DR. Bacon was a Chaplain in the army and has of late years served as Chaplain of the 16th O. N. G. and Toledo Cadets. He was formerly pastor of the Westminster Presbyterian church of Toledo, but failed to please the ultra fashionable element in the church, who complained that the good Doctor spent too much time looking up the lost sheep of the slums to make a ready figure with the ninety and nine at a society dinner.

One sister objected to the old army slouch hat which the Doctor continued to wear, holding that it was contrary to the cloth and not sleek and shining enough for the pastor of a fashionable church.

The Doctor refused to make his primitive Christian ways conform to the standards of society customs, and not in anger, but to "go about doing good" untrammelled, he resigned his pastorate and went to the wilds of Indiana, to grow up with the country, or rather to bring the country up to him.

But when Doctor Bacon had gone, a large proportion of his congregation found themselves like sheep without a shepherd. They withdrew, in a body, started the Central Congregational church and recalled their pastor. This was some years ago and the Central Congregational is now one of leading churches of the city.

DR. MacGaw succeeded Dr. MacCracken as pastor of the First Presbyterian church when the latter went to Pittsburg to fill a chair in the Western Seminary, which he occupied for a time before taking the chair of history in the University of New York.

DR. MacGaw could sing as well as preach and this made him particularly valuable as Superintendent of the Sunday school, which place he has ably filled, in addition to his regular pastoral duties. A practical humanitarian, he is yet a student in the widest sense, of both classic and modern languages and rising as he does, at five o'clock in the morning, he finds his days long enough for a multiplicity of duties.

DR. MacGaw was stood unflatteringly by Dr. Briggs in the Washington General Assembly, for higher scholarship and a free Bible in the Presbyterian church. He stands by Dr. Preserved Smith of Lane Seminary, under suspension in the Cincinnati Presbytery for so-called heresy and thinks that it will not be many years until the Presbyterian church will be proud to take these men back into the fold. Dr. MacGaw cites Rev. John Hall, son of the eminent Dr. John Hall of New York, as an example of the power of the Holy Scriptures as the rule of faith and practice. Mr. Hall was educated in Germany and returned an agnostic. He took a post graduate course with Dr. Briggs and has come out one of the most fervent expounders of gospel teachings inside the Presbyterian church.

FUTURE OF THE REPUBLICAN PARTY. Ex-Senator Ingalls of Kansas, has promulgated a general summary of the mistakes and defects of the Republican party, in the course of which he pays his respects to Chauncey Depew, White-law Reid, William McKinley, Jr., and other "Jonahs who should be cast overboard" by the Republican party can emerge from the swash of the tidal wave of triumphant Democracy. Following are sample extracts:

"Whether rightfully or wrongfully, an impression has been gaining ground that the tariff was an ally of private capitalists, and that the party of protection was too intimately identified with plutocrats and millionaires, and too indifferent to the necessities of the wage-workers and the poor. Of course there are as many wealthy Democrats as Republicans, but they are so much in evidence. They fly lower. In politics it is necessary to be as wise as serpents and as harmless as doves.

"Had Mr. Cleveland made the president of a colossal railroad system his official spokesman and manager at Chicago last summer he would not have strengthened his case before the people. Had the Democratic party nominated for Vice President an uxorious millionaire who had antagonized the labor element of the country by supercilious affronts, its impetidity would have exceeded its discretion. Declarations of policy delivered by gentlemen who step in evening dress from patrician banquets to the porticos of palaces may be profound and patriotic, but they do not thrill the bosoms of the plebeians, the common herd, who eat their dinner from a tin pail at noon and live in tenement houses in the cities and dug-outs on the prairies. As General Rosquet said of the charge of the Six Hundred at Balaklava: "This is brilliant—but it is not war!"

"New times demand new measures and new men, it is said: 'Neither do men put new wine into old bottles, else the bottles break and the wine runneth out and the bottles perish, but they put new wine into new bottles and both are preserved.' The Republican party must readjust itself to present conditions and rectify its frontiers. It has a few Jonahs who should be cast overboard. It must desist from the attempt to fight battles with cartridge shells that have been emptied and to grind its grist with water that has run by the mill. The veteran commanders should go on the retired list and more attention be paid to recruiting stations and less to drum-head courts-martial."

TRAIN WRECKERS. Lay a Rail Across the C. C. & B. Railway Near Robertsville Tunnel.

The watchfulness of a C. C. & S. railroad engineer this morning averted what might have been an accident resulting in the loss of life. As the morning passenger train from Carrollton approached the Robertsville tunnel, the speed of the train was slackened. The engineer, just before the tunnel was reached, noticed a rail on the track. He noticed it in time to stop the train. The rail was removed and the train moved on its way to Canton. It was an evident attempt to wreck the train.

Ugly and Hatelful, but couldn't help it. Everything went wrong with me, and I thought I hadn't a friend in the world; dyspepsia caused this and for months I couldn't eat anything, and just sufficed the misery till I used Sulphur Bitters. Three bottles cured me.—D. Lewis, 22 Bowdoin street, Boston, Mass.

Hammer Reunion. The seventh annual Hammer reunion was held at Meyer's lake on June 13, and excelled in number any one previous, and was one of the most enjoyable and harmonious ever held.

Refreshments were served in the halls of the Casino. Officers elected for the ensuing year: Pres., Dominick Hammer, Cleveland; Vice Pres., W. F. Schario, Canton; Sec., E. J. Hammer, Canal Fulton; Treas., C. L. V. Hammer, Doylestown. Committee on refreshments: Pres., Mrs. W. F. Schario, Canton; Vice Pres., Mrs. Hanson, Massillon; Sec., Miss Mary L. Hammer, Doylestown.

Committee on arrangements: John Hammer, Canal Fulton; John Gill, Canal Fulton; Jos. Schario, Canton. A letter from Dominick Shunk of Waukegan, Ind., in which he expressed his regrets on account of his inability to participate, was read.

Pres. Dominick Hammer, in a few brief remarks, made a touching memoir to his deceased brother, who had been present at all former meetings. The next speaker, a vote of thanks was tendered the proprietor of the Casino, Mr. Neuhau, who so kindly gave possession of the whole house for the convenience of the occasion. The committee on arrangements recommended that the next meeting be held at the same place.

Moved to adjourn to meet the 23 Tuesday in June, 1893. DOMINICK HAMMER, Pres. SIMON HAMMER, Sec.

"Almost as Palatable as Milk"

This is a fact with regard to Scott's Emulsion of Cod Liver Oil. The difference between the oil, in its plain state, is very apparent. In you detect no fish-oil taste. As it is a help to digestion there is no after effect except good effect. Keep in mind that Scott's Emulsion is the best promoter of flesh and strength known to science.

WEARSTLER REUNION.

A Day Long to be Remembered.—A Splendid Address by Miss Celia Leifer. Thursday was a day long to be remembered by the Wearstler family; it was the occasion of their fourth annual reunion, held at the home of Mrs. Caroline Wearstler, near O. About one hundred of the friends boarded the C. C. & S. train from Harville, Middlebranch and Canton, with well filled baskets of the very best of their own produce. They joined their cousins for a royal feast. Each did their best and it was indeed a day of pleasure for about 250 of the family that met. As they gathered under the old vine and fig tree, they were received with friendly greetings. Promptly at 11 o'clock the meeting was called to order by President George Wearstler. A piece of music by the Justus couple, entitled, "Friendly Greetings," followed by an address of welcome by Miss Celia Leifer. She spoke as follows:

"Friends and neighbors, we welcome you to this ancestral home, to enjoy with us this day the pleasure of holding the fourth annual reunion of the Wearstler family. In the enjoyment of this privilege today we recognize the beneficent hand of Providence, and as we recall the history of our ancestors who, by their toil and industry, have made this land the beautiful dwelling place for their children, we cannot but feel grateful to Him, who is the giver of all good. We are glad that we can find much in the history of our fathers and mothers that speaks to us today and commends their lives to us. The diligence with which they discharged the duties that devolved upon them, the earnestness of their purpose to do right, their faith in a higher power, and many other noble traits of character, speak to us today in parental language, bidding us to be worthy of our heritage. The two farms immediately north of this one were purchased by Grandfather Wearstler, the original deed of entry is still in the possession of one of the family. It was executed at Canton, Ohio, under date A. D. 1815, and signed by the late Rev. President James Madison. This farm on which we have gathered today was purchased by George Wearstler, a son of Jacob Wearstler, and is now owned and tilled by the descendants of Grandfather Jacob Wearstler; on these farms four generations of the Wearstler family have lived; up and down these roads they traveled; from these beautiful fields they have cleared away the forests; from these homes some have gone out to live elsewhere; some have gone to the silent land whence no more return, and some still occupy these homes and bid you all welcome. In behalf of the representatives of the Wearstler family of this community we extend to all a cordial greeting; old and young, in price welcome. We trust that we all may find here that which will make us some better for this day's social gathering; we hope that we may so spend the day together that we can in the future look back to it with many pleasant recollections. There are some present who have never been here; some perhaps are strangers to each other, although linked together by the ties of brotherhood, while some of us meet each other for the first time. But friends, whatever these circumstances may be, let us remember today that we are friends and that we have common heritage. After an invocal by Rev. Rinker, a sumptuous dinner was served. The day was pleasantly spent with music, rehearse, short speeches and reminiscences of the Wearstler family. The next reunion will be held at the residence of Wm. Wearstler, Middlebranch, O., third Thursday in June, 1894.
