will be destroyed by the competition of the rock oil, combined with the tax proposed; and umbrellas and parasols, a change from specific to five per cent. ad valorem, will be the result; and to combine, entire freedom from the tax on passengers, it being shown that it would be fatal to them in competition with the house railroads. The tax has also been stricken off from the manufacture of cigars. This was done by a bill introduced by the Rochester millers, who showed that it would be fatal to their business all along the line affected by the reciprocity treaty. The tax would enable the Canadian millers to undersell us in our own market.

The Times special says: The Clothing Inspection Board called on to-day, and submitted its report to the Quartermaster General. Over $3,000,000 worth of clothing was condemned. The testimony taken revealed gross frauds perpetrated against the Government. These frauds were committed upon collusion between contractors and inspectors.

The Monitor is lying in wait for the Merrimack at Forts Mifflin and Mifflin.

Commander Goldsborough had received intelligence from the Bureau of the Navy, and was pursuing his plans, having accomplished everything which it set out to do. It was just on the eve of making an attack on Newberne.

The commission to inquire into the case of political prisoners, met at twelve o'clock to-day, and the following facts were ascertained as to the course of action: The examinations will be severe, and ex parte statements will be devoted exclusively to the prisoners held there. The commission will adjourn from place to place, examining the prisoners at the locality of their confinement.

The Herald's special says the relative of Captain Franklin Buchanan, who commanded the rebel iron-clad steamer Merrimack, at the late fight, have written to Gen. Halleck, at Newberne, that he is dead, and his body is to be brought to the old homestead on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, for interment.

A movement is on foot relative to the interment of all those soldiers who have in any form, shape or manner sided or abetted the interests of secession. A member of Congress has now in his desk a resolution, which he will offer at the first opportune moment, to instruct the committee on the Judiciary to inquire into this matter of general impeachment, and report at an early date by bill or otherwise.

WASHINGTON, March 18.—It is considered that we have probably secured great military advantages by the capture of Newberne, and placed the safety of General Burnside beyond question.

Many exaggerated statements having been made as to the mortality in the army, it is ascertained from official sources that the number of deaths among soldiers stationed here for the quarter ending with March, 1863, was 23; for the quarter ending with June, 33 regulars and 46 volunteers; for the quarter ending with September, 43 regulars and 107 volunteers; and for the quarter ending with December, 107 regulars and 397 volunteers. Total deaths, 390, of which one hundred were from wounds.

The above deaths were in two hundred and fifty-seven regiments, including those of the army of the Potomac.

The naval committee formally voted in favor of the appropriation sufficient to complete the Stevens battery, and fifteen millions for the construction of iron-clad steamers.

The fight took place on Friday last, and the capture of Newberne was completed. The Stevens battery, and fifteen millions for the construction of iron-clad steamers.

Second Dispatch.—It is reported that we took three hundred prisoners. Some reports make our loss fifty or sixty killed, and two hundred and fifty to three hundred wounded.

There are rumors that one of our Brigadier-Generals was killed, but they are considered unreliable.

New York, March 18.—A special to the Times from Baltimore says the enemy's works six miles below Newberne were attacked on Friday morning last. They were defended by a force ten thousand strong, having twenty-one guns posted behind formidable batteries over a mile long. The fight was one of the most desperate of the war. Our troops behaved with great steadiness and courage, and after nearly four hours hard fighting, drove the rebels, from all their positions, capturing three light batteries of field artillery, forty-seven heavy siege guns, large stores of food, ammunition, thirty thousand stands of small arms, and two hundred prisoners, including one Colonel, three Captains and four Lieutenants.

The enemy left a large number of dead on the field. They occupied by Gen. Goldsborough, burning the bridges over the Trent and Clomont, and firing the city of Newberne. No extensive damage was done to the place.

We lost about one hundred killed and four hundred wounded, mostly of the New England regiments. Gen. Burnside was severely wounded, and Major General, 51st New York Volunteers, mortally wounded. Lieut. Col. Merritt, of the 23d Massachusetts, and Adj. F. A. Stearns, of the 21st Massachusetts, of Amherst, were also killed.

Bombardment of Island No. 10. CINCINNATI, March 18.—A special from Cairo to the Times says a messenger just from Island No. 10 says our boats kept up an incessant fire against the rebel batteries on the island.

Particulars of the Capture of Newberne. BALTIMORE, March 18.—Sergeant Maj. D. H. Johnson of the Twenty-third Massachusetts Regiment, came a passenger by the steamer Commodore. From him we gather the following interesting particulars:

Under Gen. Burnside, landed on Thursday evening near the mouth of Sabine creek, on the west side of Newberne, 15 miles below Newberne. Owing to a dense fog, the naval vessels did not participate in the fight.

Early on Friday morning the fight commenced. Our troops advanced along the country road running parallel with the Neuse river. But a mile or two in the rear the road was skirted on the west side by a railroad and a dense swamp. All along the river side were a series of batteries, which were taken by our troops, one after another, after some bloody hand to hand contests.

Our troops were divided into three brigades, under Generals Reno, Foster and Parks. We advanced gradually, the enemy deserting their guns, until we reached a line of earthworks extending across the road from the river to the swamp on the west, a distance of some two miles. These earthworks were very strong. They were located on a high ridge, and were given, and between these and the city ran the river trench. The country road and the railroad both passed through these works, and crossed into the city by bridges. In front of their works the rebels had felled a large number of trees, forming an almost impassable abatis. Here the flying rebels were rallied and made for a while a desperate stand. Our men fought until all their ammunition was gone, when an order to charge bayoneted their rifles, and the works were finally taken at the point of the bayonet, the enemy flying, and leaving everything behind them in their retreat.

The rebels burnt the bridge communicating with the town over which they retreated, and the railroad ran. As they had their train of cars in their rear, just across the bridge, they were of course unable to carry off their wounded and dead. Their loss is therefore not certainly known, but it is believed to be very heavy.

Rebel gun troops reached this last week, they encountered another, which was deserted before they came up. It was in front of this last fortification that our greatest loss was sustained.

The force of the rebels is supposed to have been about eight thousand. We captured a number of prisoners, including Col. Avery, who was killed in the fight. The force of the rebels is supposed to have been about eight thousand. We captured a number of prisoners, including Col. Avery, who was killed in the fight.

Just as the tide terminated the fog lifted and enabled our gunboats, which had been waiting for an opportunity to participate in the fight, to come up the river, and our troops were furnished with means of transportation across the river. The rebels attempted to fire the town on their retreat, but were prevented by citizens, who extinguished the flames as fast as they were started by soldiers.

None of our Generals or staff officers were killed or wounded. We captured from thirty to fifty cannon. The officers of the rebels left their baggage behind, and the men threw away everything.

The fight terminated at 3 o'clock P. M., on Friday, when our troops remained masters of the field.

A Railroad Train Intercepted by Rebels. LOUISVILLE, March 18.—Yesterday morning the train from Bowling Green to Nashville was intercepted by a party of rebel cavalry, and Capt. Morgan, who was on the train, ordered the train to stop. The train was then ordered to stop, and the bridge over the Cumberland was destroyed.

The only remaining locomotive on the Memphis and Nashville railroad at Nashville, was destroyed by a party of rebel cavalry, killing the engineer, conductor Porter and a brakeman. This suspends rail communication on the branch for the present.

CINCINNATI, March 18.—A special to the Times from Cairo says that in the engagement yesterday the gunboat Cincinnati received a shot, which is said to have damaged her machinery. The shot was fired from a gun on the St. Louis killed two, mortally wounded two, and severely wounded two.

Nothing was heard from the land force at New Madrid.

THIRTY-SEVENTH CONGRESS. First Session. WASHINGTON, March 18.—The Senate, on March 18, from the committee on Finance, reported back the Indian appropriation bill, with an amendment, which was passed.

Mr. Fessenden offered the following resolution: Resolved, That the Secretary of Navy furnish the Senate with copies of all contracts with R. L. Starke for the purchase of batteries, also a statement of all payments made on such contracts, and the report of the commissioners appointed to examine said battery.

Mr. Sumner introduced a bill to remove all legal incapacities of color in carrying the mails. Retained.

Mr. Wilson of Massachusetts, from the Military committee, reported back the joint resolution authorizing the President to assign the command of troops in the same field, without regard to seniority, with an amendment striking out the portion giving the President power to dismiss from service. The amendment was adopted and the resolution passed.

On motion of Mr. Trumbull, the bill to provide for special proceedings on captured property, and for the better administration of the prize law, was taken up and passed.

The resolution offered by Mr. Starke of Oregon, that papers, etc., in reference to the loyalty of Mr. Starke be referred to the Judiciary committee, was taken up.

Mr. Hale thought the question was already settled, and hoped the Senate would speed no more time upon it.

Mr. Hale moved to amend the resolution so as to make it referable to a select committee on the subject.

The resolution was carried.
