

AMUSEMENTS. WOOD'S THEATRE. LASKERS AND BARKER'S REVUE.

WOODS THEATRE. LASKERS AND BARKER'S REVUE. Sixth night of the GRAND COMBINATION COMPANY.

MELODEON HALL. THE ZOUAVE CONCERTS.

THE ZOUAVE OPERATIC CONCERT TROUPE respectfully announces to the citizens of Cincinnati, that they will give their First Grand Entertainment in this city, at the above-named Hall.

ONE CONCERT ONLY.

The following named Ladies and Gentlemen comprise the Zouave Operatic Concert Troupe:

ERIN GO BRAGH.

FOR ONE WEEK MORE, At Union Hall, CATHOLIC INSTITUTE, WEDNESDAY, THURSDAY, FRIDAY AND SATURDAY, MAO EVOY'S VIOLOLAMA.

TOUR IN IRELAND.

WITH NEW SCENES AND SONGS, EVENINGS IN IRELAND.

SECOND WEEK OF THE CAMPBELLS.

AT SMITH & NIXON'S HALL, EVERY EVENING DURING THE WEEK.

LESLIE, BAINES AND PUDY.

IN NEW AND LAMBEARABLE BURLESQUES, LITTLE, BAINES AND PUDY.

CITY ADVERTISEMENTS.

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. Notice is hereby given, that there are on file in the office of the City Clerk, the following Ordinances, to-wit:

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. Notice is hereby given, that there are on file in the office of the City Clerk, the following Ordinances, to-wit:

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. Notice is hereby given, that there are on file in the office of the City Clerk, the following Ordinances, to-wit:

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. Notice is hereby given, that there are on file in the office of the City Clerk, the following Ordinances, to-wit:

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN.

NOTICE TO ALL WHOM IT MAY CONCERN. Notice is hereby given, that there are on file in the office of the City Clerk, the following Ordinances, to-wit:

RAILROAD TIME-TABLE.

Table with columns: Line, Station, Time, and Remarks. Includes routes for Erie, Toledo, and Cincinnati.

VARIETIES.

The deaths in New Orleans, La., for the week ending Tuesday, numbered 106, of which fifty-two were children.

C. C. Conner was frozen to death in driving a team from Winchester to Paxton, Mass., the other evening.

A knave has been arrested at St. Louis for gathering subscriptions for a bogus benevolent fund.

The story of Tom Sawyer's arrival in this country, in the Canada, is both. He is still in England.

An aged woman was found standing against a fence, frozen to death, near New Hartford village, N. Y., on Thursday.

A little boy pulled a basin of boiling water on himself, and was scalded to death, at Scholastic, on Saturday.

A poor, shabby, blind man was found in the streets of Buffalo, nearly frozen to death, on Thursday night.

Why is a solar eclipse like a woman beating her boy? Because it is a hiding of the sun.

The cotton wadding factory of M. Gorgas, in Philadelphia, was consumed by fire Friday night. Loss, $10,000; no insurance.

Goddard & Co.'s Bank, of Canton, N. Y., has failed; but the billholders and depositors are secured.

A contract is now being executed in Philadelphia for the manufacture of a number of cylinders of compressed gas, to be shipped to England.

Since Secession troops have begun, a Boston house has sold 2,000 sets of infantry and other equipments, which have been sent South.

Willard Jackson was instantly killed at a jewelry establishment in Providence, R. I., on Monday, by a piece of steel which, flying from his work, entered his groin.

In the Boston Directory there are 305 Sullivans, six of whom are in the city. One of the latter complains that he "seldom lives in his litter's rig."

There are about 1,100 Indians in the State of Maine. They are the Penobscot, numbering about 625, and the Passamaquoddy, numbering about 475.

The Norfolk Hoistery Company, Connecticut, has introduced a new and improved kind of knitting-machines the past year. They are now running full time.

A large steam carriage, somewhat similar to an omnibus, was tried recently in Paris, and worked with the greatest facility, without any noise or smoke.

Two negro slaves, gambling in the woods, on Saturday, in the Georgia, quarrelled, fought and killed each other on the spot.

Two burglars, twelve and fourteen years old, were arrested at Newark, New Jersey, on Sunday, for an ingenious robbery at a clothing-store the week before.

A traveling showman, who two months ago sold a young girl from a boarding-school at East Fairfield, Vermont, has been arrested at Albany.

Giorgione, the Italian artist, declared that the loveliest woman possible looks like a fury, after rising in the morning from her slumbers.

A little girl the other day reded the cradle, containing her baby sister, so hard as to throw her out on to the red-hot stove, and burned her dreadfully, at East Boston.

Wm. D. Westcott, a New Orleans merchant, was recently murdered in Palestine, Texas, and his suspected murderer, a negro boy, hanged by a noose.

The essentials of consistent and unvarying politeness are benevolence, perception, and a perpetual self-command and readiness for self-sacrifice.

Baldness is blind; whereas it is still in conceal, but good in execution. For in concealment it is good to danger, in danger, not to conceal, except they be very great.

The mind of a man of genius is a focus which concentrates into one burning focus the languid lights and fires of ten thousand surrounding minds.

A burglar was arrested, last week, in Dauphin County, Penn., and fourteen bibles and five hymn-books, which he had stolen from a church, were recovered.

Rebels thought that women were the creatures of the devil, and that God permitted their existence that they might torment men.

A flaw of wind struck two ice-boats, at Poughkeepsie, on Wednesday, and they collided. Three gentlemen were severely injured.

Sir Isaac Newton's house still stands in London, but the place, where his great mind worked, is rapidly falling to decay, and is now used as a poor-school.

Rocking chairs are an American invention. Twenty-five years ago they were sent to Europe as novelties, and in France were then regarded as great novelties.

The ice gave way in a pond at Elizabeth, N. J., on Monday night, and precipitated thirty boys and girls in eight feet of water, all of whom were rescued except one lad.

The Baltimore boat and shoe trade is unusually brisk. The amount of New England work sold during the past year was valued at $2,500,000, and of home manufactures $1,750,000.

The winter has been mild at Lake Superior, the harbor being open at Ontonagon January 15, when usually it stays open from one to two feet thick at that time of the year.

Excitement and Vandalism in Rome - A Young Artist Wantonly Murdered.

A foreign correspondent writes in a late letter: "The morning succeeding the police triumph in cafe Nuovo, Rome clerical was thrown into a great excitement by discovering that the entire city was decorated with the arms of Savoy, surrounded with national banners, underneath which were written large characters, 'Annexation to the Kingdom of Victor Emmanuel.' Even the college of the Propaganda was adorned with awful heraldic devices.

The priests, at sight of Piedmont's arms, took to their heels and fled; one man was arrested in Piazza di Venezia, because found simultaneously laughing and gazing at the cross of Savoy. To laugh under such circumstances is a crime.

The decorations were all higher than a man could reach, and the gens d'armes were busily occupied in rushing for ladders and benches in order to tear down the obnoxious colors. During this lively scene, it was proved beyond a doubt that the gens d'armes carried pincushions, of which they made use in attempting to efface the arms.

On the 23d instant, several young artists, having passed the evening in a garden in the Piazza Montecitorio, were engaged in some singing, as is the inveterate custom of Italians, when they were insulted by a gen d'armes (a hero of Castel Fildaro), in language that decency prevents me from repeating.

One of the youths stopped, saying it was not the office of gens d'armes to insult innocents. 'What! don't you like it, blood?' cried the gen d'armes, and instantly rushed toward the speaker with a drawn pincushion, which the young man avoided by darting back; whereupon the gen d'armes, in a rage, seized the young man by the neck, and, with a blow of his fist, sent him sprawling on the ground.

The French guard appeared, arrested the assassin, and conveyed the dying article to a neighboring hospital. The horror attendant by the French soldiers at this wanton murder was very freely expressed, and it was with great reluctance that they resigned the prisoner into the hands of the pontifical military tribunal, which having awarded medals to the daylight murderers of the 19th of last March, will no doubt dismiss this faithful servant of humanity with impunity. Such deeds are perpetrated in the Holy City.

A deep and guilty silence prevailed. There was a look of horror on the faces of persons of middle age, filled with grief; and there was venerable age, with hair of silver white; even ladies were absorbed in grief. Near the center of the table was a sort of revolving basin, divided into six compartments, each colored black or red. The marble was whirled round in the opposite direction. When the basin remains stationary, and the marble has fallen into a red division, then those who bet on red have won; if it falls into a black division, those who bet on black have won.

Not in this lively manner ran the smooth water of the roulette. The chief of the game, a Frenchman, was a man of middle age, with a face as smooth as a billiard table, and a head well raised up in the play. A deep and guilty silence prevailed. There was a look of horror on the faces of persons of middle age, filled with grief; and there was venerable age, with hair of silver white; even ladies were absorbed in grief.

Appearance of Baden-Baden in the Gay Season - The Gambling-hall at that City.

A foreign correspondent thus writes from Baden-Baden: "Baden-Baden nestles beautifully in the lap of mountains—children of the Black Forest. Its name signifies baths; and it is frequented as one of the most fashionable watering places in Europe. It is situated on its mineral springs were known even to the Romans, who gave it the name of Acqua Aquisgranensis. The town is rather difficult to describe, its streets are narrow and running in all directions, the houses generally built, but the new portion of the town is attractively constructed.

Let me say no more of the town, so insignificant in itself, and speak of that which most excites the curiosity of the traveler's eye. Reader, what is your conjecture that it is? Something invented by the Devil? Nothing less than gambling! The Autumn rays of the sun had not threatened a premature winter. Baden was still crowded with strangers. There might you see the vivacious Frenchman, the stiff Englishman, the half-enlightened Russian, and natives of all countries. There were no common, every-day people either; they were all counts, earls, and comesses, and lords and ladies.

As a matter of course I felt it to be my duty to visit the gaming tables, if it were only to say 'I saw them.' Gladly, as I approach, I look on the military, and I know that while it is not given to me alone, but to the cause which I represent, yet it is given under circumstances which clearly prove to me that I am not a mere spectator, but a participant in the bottom of it. (Enthusiastic applause.) And here, fellow-citizens, I may remark that in every short address I have made to you, and in every crowd through which I have passed, some allusion has been made to the present distracted condition of the country.

It is naturally expected that I should say something of the subject, but to touch upon it at all, would involve an elaborate discussion of a great many questions and circumstances, would require more time than I can at present command, and would, perhaps, unnecessarily commit me upon matters which have not yet fully developed themselves. Immense applause, and cries of 'God bless that man!' 'God bless that man!' 'God bless that man!'

The condition of the country, fellow-citizens, is an extraordinary one, and fills the mind of every patriot with anxiety and sorrow. It is a condition which, if it is not speedily remedied, will lead to the most disastrous consequences. I have seen the condition of the country, and I have seen the condition of the people, and I have seen the condition of the government, and I have seen the condition of the world.

Notwithstanding the trouble across the river, the people of this city are not less patriotic and more so. They are not less anxious to see the Union preserved, and they are not less determined to see the Constitution maintained. They are not less devoted to the cause of liberty, and they are not less devoted to the cause of justice.

But I have spoken long enough on this subject, and I shall say no more at present. I have said that I intended to say something of the subject, but I have said so much, that I have said more than I intended to say. I have said that I intended to say something of the subject, but I have said so much, that I have said more than I intended to say.

Whether the great, ugly, carved griffin, with their huge red eyes and scaly beaks, who showed their open mouths to us above the gate-way, were grinning at us in spite of our sympathy, we know not, but methinks that they had the power to give utterance to the thoughts of the Prince whose gates they guarded, the words would have been somewhat in this wise: "Nations of the Flurry Fling, you came here a long time ago with some big ships, and a sword in one hand and a peace of paper called a Treaty, in the other. Not caring to fight, we signed the paper. By and by you came and ask us to send some of our people to your country, and we having plenty of people and no objections, you carry them away. Well, you bring them back; you have treated them well and given them plenty of food, now what more do you want? We have conferred the obligation on you, so there is an end, and now go home and do not bother us any more."

Very honorable titles.—A recent English paper, in an obituary notice, states, with solemn gravity, that the deceased was notable "for the activity with which he took the management of the Society for the Preservation of Ancient Footpaths." and for the fact that he was "Secretary to the Beer-drinkers' Association," both of which Pictorial titles the writer seems to think conferred upon their holder a passport to fame.

LATEST BY TELEGRAPH.

Speech of the President-Elect at Pittsburgh, February 15.—The weather this morning opened inauspiciously—a heavy rain falling up to eight o'clock, when it subsided. During the morning Mr. Lincoln was waited upon by the Pittsburgh Councils, in a body, and many citizens called and paid their respects. At half-past eight he was formally addressed by the Mayor. Vociferous cheering followed Mr. Lincoln's introduction to the people. After the delivery of his speech, immediate arrangements were made for leaving the hotel, which occupied considerable time, in consequence of the density of the crowd.

The procession moved through several streets, the route being shortened, owing to the delay. On arriving at the depot a solid mass of humanity was in waiting, the enthusiasm exceeding anything ever before witnessed in this city. The military bands, and the militia, approached, and the party embarked, amid the shouts and cheers of the excited multitude.

The following is Mr. Lincoln's speech, delivered at the Monongahela Hotel, this morning: Mayor Wilson, and Citizens of Pennsylvania: I most cordially thank his honor Mayor Wilson, and the citizens of Pittsburgh, generally, for this flattering reception.

It is not given to me alone, but to the cause which I represent, yet it is given under circumstances which clearly prove to me that I am not a mere spectator, but a participant in the bottom of it. (Enthusiastic applause.) And here, fellow-citizens, I may remark that in every short address I have made to you, and in every crowd through which I have passed, some allusion has been made to the present distracted condition of the country.

It is naturally expected that I should say something of the subject, but to touch upon it at all, would involve an elaborate discussion of a great many questions and circumstances, would require more time than I can at present command, and would, perhaps, unnecessarily commit me upon matters which have not yet fully developed themselves. Immense applause, and cries of 'God bless that man!'

The condition of the country, fellow-citizens, is an extraordinary one, and fills the mind of every patriot with anxiety and sorrow. It is a condition which, if it is not speedily remedied, will lead to the most disastrous consequences. I have seen the condition of the country, and I have seen the condition of the people, and I have seen the condition of the government, and I have seen the condition of the world.

Notwithstanding the trouble across the river, the people of this city are not less patriotic and more so. They are not less anxious to see the Union preserved, and they are not less determined to see the Constitution maintained. They are not less devoted to the cause of liberty, and they are not less devoted to the cause of justice.

But I have spoken long enough on this subject, and I shall say no more at present. I have said that I intended to say something of the subject, but I have said so much, that I have said more than I intended to say. I have said that I intended to say something of the subject, but I have said so much, that I have said more than I intended to say.

Whether the great, ugly, carved griffin, with their huge red eyes and scaly beaks, who showed their open mouths to us above the gate-way, were grinning at us in spite of our sympathy, we know not, but methinks that they had the power to give utterance to the thoughts of the Prince whose gates they guarded, the words would have been somewhat in this wise: "Nations of the Flurry Fling, you came here a long time ago with some big ships, and a sword in one hand and a peace of paper called a Treaty, in the other. Not caring to fight, we signed the paper. By and by you came and ask us to send some of our people to your country, and we having plenty of people and no objections, you carry them away. Well, you bring them back; you have treated them well and given them plenty of food, now what more do you want? We have conferred the obligation on you, so there is an end, and now go home and do not bother us any more."

The Secession Folly.

The Minnesota Convention Resolutions to be Indignantly Returned by North Carolina.—Reported Resolutions by Secretary Floyd of $120,000 to Specie—North Carolina Probably Opposed to Secession—Arrangements for the Union Convention at Philadelphia—Reinforcements for Forts Tortugas and Pickens.

RALEIGH, N. C., February 14.—The House received the Minnesota Resolutions, embodying the doctrine of coercion, and they will be indignantly returned, probably. The Legislature will adjourn next week. News of February 15.—The Times' Washington correspondent says: "It is reported that Ex-Secretary Floyd, before leaving Washington, sent to his home in Virginia remittances in specie amounting to $120,000.

The Senate, to day, prolonged its executive session over the nomination of Pettit as Judge of Kansas. The decision was postponed. Senators Douglas and Pugh are opposed to both Pettit and Black, and their contrivances to defeat it in a full vote. Telegrams from North Carolina say that the contest there will be very close, but the chances are against Secession.

The same correspondent mentions Mr. De Jarnett of Virginia, as a member who has been abstracted from the House library a large number of the books which are now missing. The report in the Times has had the effect of bringing back large quantities of books that have been missing for a long time. Col. Drinkard, chief clerk of the War Department under Floyd, is dismissed.

Reinforcements have started for Fort Tortugas, and other relief has been ordered from Philadelphia, February 15.—A Committee of Workington have been appointed to make arrangements for the Union Convention, to be held here on the 23d of February. De Jarnett is intended to participate in the convention, and to be notified by J. W. Van Houton by telegraph.

Nothing of importance and been done in the Legislature. The opinion was expressed that no Senatorial election will take place this winter. Gen. McDougall is the only candidate who has made a public declaration of sentiments in reference to the violation of the Legislature. He favored the Union by force, if necessary.

Advices from Japan, to December 29, state that the return of the Embassy from the United States had led to no favorable result. It was reported they had been imprisoned at Yeddo, and will not be permitted to mingle with their countrymen.

Near Mass Meeting in Boston. Boston, February 15.—A quite largely-attended Convention of colored people was held here last night, in Stella Martin's Church, called in anticipation of an attempt to disfranchise and drive them from the country. An appeal to the people of Massachusetts was adopted, asking aid and protection.

Salutes of a Steamer Postponed. New York, February 15.—The departure of the North German, Lloyd's steamer, New York, has been postponed from to-morrow to Saturday, February 16. This change has been made necessary by her retarded arrival at this port.

THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY. THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY. THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.

SEWING MACHINES.

WHEELER & WILSON'S Sewing-Machines. PRICES REDUCED! THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY. THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.

WM. SUMNER & CO., Agents, 77 West Fourth-st., CINCINNATI, O. The difference in price being merely a difference in the quality of the work.

UNION MANUFACTURING CO., 63 West Fourth-st., Cincinnati, O. SINGER'S SEWING-MACHINES. COMMERCIAL BUILDING, Corner of Fourth and Race-sts., CINCINNATI, OHIO.

GRENNAN & TRUMP IMPROVED Sewing-Machine. The public are respectfully invited to call and examine Singer's new Transverse-Stitch Machine, for family use.

MISCELLANEOUS. IF YOU WANT REPAIRING. IN THE PLUMBING LINE, PROMPTLY AND REASONABLY, CALL ON H. McCOLLUM.

COKE FOR SALE. COKE FOR SALE. COKE FOR SALE. COKE FOR SALE. COKE FOR SALE.

RETAIL GROCERY CARD. Retail Grocery Card. Retail Grocery Card. Retail Grocery Card. Retail Grocery Card.

Camargo Manufacturing Co., 87 WEST FOURTH-ST., CINCINNATI, O. Manufacturers and Dealers in Wall Papers and Window-Shades.

NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE. NOTICE.

THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY. THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY. THE WHEELER & WILSON SEWING MACHINE COMPANY.