It is said that hoops and small bonnets are becoming unfashionable in France.

Sandusky Bay, and the Lake as far as can be seen from Sandusky, is now clear of ice. So says the Register.

The damages by the recent frosts, to the Illinois and Michigan canal, will prevent its opening till the first of May.

The Illinois Central Railroad Company has appointed a clerical superintendent of the "Track Literature," to suppress all magazines, newspapers and books having an immoral tendency.

One of the two annual corn crops of Colorado, the winter crop, is being raised, and the government is urged to suspend duties on Indian corn and meal, these articles being indispensable for cattle and the poorer inhabitants.

A Mrs. Gander, of Mahoning county, committed suicide by cutting her throat, while under depression of spirits. Mrs. G. had been afflicted with drinking laudanum, but had endeavored to abstain, which gave her system such a shock as to produce temporary insanity.

A meeting of between five and ten thousand of the laboring class of London, was lately held, to consider their present distressed condition. It was stated that twenty-five hundred of the building trade alone in that city are out of work, and that the total number of unemployed persons in that great metropolis would probably reach a quarter of a million.

In the libel suit of John Hecker, proprietor of the Charleston, against John H. Hopkins, of the Charleston Journal, the jury rendered a verdict of six cents for the plaintiff.

The Harwich correspondent of the Brantford (Mass.) Patriot furnishes the following:—"Married February 9th, by Rev. Dr. Lathrop, Denon Gamaliel Chase, aged 63 years, to the Widow Phoebe C. Chase, aged 20, after a long and tedious courtship of two nights."

James Robinson, the youthful circus rider, has been offered by a northern circus company $250 a week for three years, and pay all his expenses in Europe. The terms of the editorial corps of the United States do not receive over one-tenth of this salary.

The trial of George Knight, for the murder of his wife, which is going on in a rural village in Maine, excites so much interest that a daily paper has been started for the purpose of reporting it. The court-room has been crowded, chiefly by ladies, who, both young and old, bring knives, crochets and sewing work with them, so that the hall presents a quietude from the trial quite a busy appearance.

It is said that all the gold coin in the world is melted down and cast into a solid mass, which would be a column not more than ten feet square and eight feet high.

A train on the Memphis and Charleston R. R. ran through a flock of wild turkeys, recently and one of them was caught on the head light and secured by the engineer.

A wealthy and quite pretty Jewess of 18 years was clandestinely married to an admiring Gentile at Albany, the bride being her father kept her under close guard, fearing such a result, but love triumphed over paternal watchfulness.

The returns of supervisors elected in New York, as far as yet received, exhibit a Republican gain of 60, a Democratic loss of 30, and a Know Nothing loss of 32.

The latest cotton statistics received at Augusta, Ga., from all parts by mail and telegraph, show a decrease in the receipts for the season thus far at all ports, as compared with the same date last year.

A "gentleman of refinement and education," advertised in the Auburn American for "board in the bosom of a small but respectable family," the members of which, he thinks, will be greatly benefited by enjoying the society of one versed in "oil painting, wood engraving and Latin."

Dr. Wm. A. Alcott is advocating the use of bread so baked as to be all crust. To make bread, he mixes "whole meal (what he says is best)" with soft water, and kneads the mass into this cake, says one quarter to one third of an inch in thickness, and cut into strips from one half an inch to an inch in width; a very hot oven, and quick baking completes a batch of the best bread ever made in this famous diet."

It is said that the New York Central Railroad Company now pays $40,000 per annum for the privilege of crossing the Niagara Suspension Bridge, and that this bridge, costing over $500,000, pays an annual dividend 20 per cent.

John B. Gough, at the close of his lecture in Chicago, was presented with a beautiful casket filled with gold coin, and a rich, elaborate vase, the whole cost of which was estimated at $500. Two hundred ladies of Chicago were the donors.

A man named Foster, living at Millersburg, Ohio, on the 10th ult., bet a dollar that he would walk barefoot a distance of ten miles, barefooted. He won his bet but lost both his feet, which were so badly frozen as to require amputation.

Judge H. P. Broadnax, who died on the 4th ult., Rossville, Ky., aged 38, left a legacy of $30,000 to the Presbyterian Synod at Danville, Ky. The judge is said to have been an infidel the greater portion of his life.

A curious action for breach of promise of marriage has been brought into the Irish Court of Common Pleas. A Protestant woman, having sixteen years ago married a Roman Catholic, now residing in the city, is suing for the return of the £100 which she advanced to the bride of the deceased.

The good people of Mobile seem disposed to carry their modesty a little too far. We notice in the Advertiser of Sunday, that two men have been arrested in that city for vending plaster of Paris images of Powers' Greek Slave, they being deemed immoral and indecent.

New Officers Elected.—On Monday last the State officers elected last fall, assumed the duties of their respective offices. John Waddle as member of the Board of Public Works; C. P. Wolcott, as Attorney General; Anson Smyth, as Superintendent of Common Schools; and Josiah S. Sewell and Ozias Bowen, as Judges of the Supreme Court.

A new counterfeited Twenty on the State Bank of Ohio, Portage County Branch, Ravenna, is in circulation. The figures "20" on either end are pale, but otherwise the note is well executed.

In Michigan they have no law to hang persons convicted of murder, but sentence them to imprisonment for life in the Penitentiary. A few days since 5 men convicted of murder made their escape, by digging through the wall. A reward of $200 each is offered for their apprehension and return.

At Pittsburg, lately, a Miss Martha Simpson drowned herself in the Allegheny river. From the testimony before the Coroner's jury, it appears that a villain named Nicholas, under promise of marriage seduced her, and then refused to marry her, which caused her to commit the act.

The lieutenant of the Levant, who led on attack upon the Chinese troops at Canton, deserves at least to have his name printed correctly. It is George Colvocoressis. He is a Greek by birth, and entered the United States navy in 1854.

Alfred Hyde, indicted for issuing fictitious Bank paper, at Chicago, has been found guilty, and sentenced to four years imprisonment in the penitentiary.

At Janesville, Wisconsin, the wolves by the severity of the winter and, have besieged the town and are endeavoring to venture out at night. They chased one man who narrowly escaped. Every night their howling is awful. Not a very comfortable place to stay in.

EXTRAORDINARY MARY.—A physician of Rochester, N. Y., was called to see a young lady who was in the habit of sticking pins, needles, hair pins, etc. into her flesh, without inconvenience until then. He attended her from April 1853 till Jan. 1854, during which time she extracted from her body, arms and legs 197 needles, 67 pins, 2 darning needles, 5 hair pins, 5 knitting needles, 5 pieces of wire, making a total of 362.

Three years and a half ago there was not a foot of telegraph in all India. A year ago there were four thousand miles in excellent working order. The telegraph has recently been given for the construction of three thousand miles of additional lines.

The Lee and Hume Difficulty at Washington.—Death of Mr. Hume.

Mr. David Hume, a well-known citizen of Alexandria, attended the President's levee last evening, in company with his daughter. While so moving with the immense throng that literally filled the entire first floor of the Executive Mansion, a gentleman immediately in front of him turned suddenly around, seized him by the collar, and accused him of picking his pocket.

As might have been expected, very angry words ensued, which resulted in an exchange of cards, the accusing party proving to be Col. D. C. Lee, who has for several years held a clerkship in the Pension Bureau.

About 9 o'clock this morning, Mr. Hume, in company with Mr. Walker, the reading clerk of the House of Representatives, proceeded to the Pension office, and as there was nothing in his appearance indicative of a hostile errand, was on a chair next to the room occupied by Col. Lee and several other clerks. Mr. Hume informed Colonel Lee who he was, briefly alluded to his social and business position, and, after attempting to show the absurdity of connecting him with pocket-picking, demanded a retraction of the offensive charge which had been made during the previous evening. This demand it is stated, was made twice, if not three times. Col. Lee refused to retract; whereupon Mr. Hume struck him several times with a cane, and while assailing him, Col. L. drew a pistol and fired. Mr. H. exclaimed "I am shot," fell to the floor, and expired in a few minutes.

The evidence adduced before the Coroner's Jury developed the following additional facts: King F. Page testified to being in an adjoining room, and hearing a noise as of scuffling or striking; and entering, deceased was falling; assisted in laying him back and opening his clothes; Col. Lee was walking back and forward, and said: "You must not blame me gentlemen, I did it in self-defense," saw no deadly weapon in the hands of the deceased.

[The Coroner stated that no weapons were found upon the person of the deceased.]

Solomon G. Henton saw the transaction at the President's levee; was passing towards the East Room with a lady, and near the doorway of the President's reception room came up in the rear of Col. Lee; noticed that he had one or two ladies with him; stood there for a moment, the crowd being so great could not pass; a gentleman coming from the reception room met them and seemed to be trying to pass and go out; deceased was this gentleman; Col. Lee stood rapturously facing deceased, and while in that position saw Col. Lee put his hand on his pantaloons pocket; he then spoke to deceased, and at the same moment stepped up to him and collared him, saying, "You have my pocket-book;" could not say if deceased had a lady with him or not; Col. Lee remarked further that he should not let him remain until he gave up the pocket-book; and the Col. then called for assistance, turning his head towards witness; deceased did not reply immediately, but looked surprised; his first reply, that witness heard, was "For what reason do you make this charge?" Mr. Lee did not seem to be particularly excited; Lee said: "Sir, I felt your hand in my pocket, and saw you take it out;" deceased replied that he had not taken the pocket-book, and seemed surprised at the charge, and immediately inquired of Col. Lee his name; Col. Lee gave his name, and turning to witness said, "Here is a gentleman who knows me;" Col. Lee still retained his hold upon his coat during this conversation; witness said to deceased that he knew Colonel Lee; deceased began to get a little excited, manifesting some feeling, and said to Col. Lee, "Come, go with me;" witness then passed Col. Lee, and that is all that was said of the occurrence then.

After the examination of several other witnesses, the case was given to the jury, who, after retiring for a short time, brought in a verdict that the deceased came to his death "from the effect of a pistol-ball from a pistol in the hands of Dorrice C. Lee."

The news of Mr. Hume's tragical end caused the most intense excitement in Alexandria. A committee of one hundred citizens reached this city about two o'clock, and having obtained the body returned with it immediately to Alexandria.

After firing the fatal shot, Col. Lee immediately surrendered himself to the civil authorities.

Bears, Wild in Ohio.
Who would suppose that any portion of Ohio, so new and sparsely settled, that bears run wild in it, and that hunters far and near go there to have sport? Such is the case. Our good friend James D. Ladd, has been there, and tells us marvelous stories of peril, and adventure. The spot is ten miles from Napoleon, in Henry county. A body of some twelve hundred acres of land, owned by the Wadsworths, of New York, is checked with bear paths, and deer is as plenty as sheep.

The bear hunter arms himself with a brace of pistols, mounts a good horse, gets on a trail, and follows it until he overtakes his trail. The bear will not run, but permits the rider to approach within a few paces. If the shot is fatal, all well. If not, the horse will soon put one out of the hunter's way.

Stealing cats is a rare sport. If they squall all the old ones within ear shot are on hand, at once, and will pursue the robber to the door of his dwelling, and try to force it.

This is a densely and bravely timbered region. A company is now taking ship timber from it to New York city. It is cut and put on boats, on the Manneer river, or canal, and thus transported through the lake to Buffalo, and thence, by the Erie canal, to the Atlantic. Our informant saw one stick of this timber, which was valued at $30. In bears, big trees, and game, that Mammee country is hard to beat.—Ohio Farmer.

Our Best Society.
Upper-ten-dom and snob-dom generally, have had a great time at a party given by "Doctor Townsend," the Sarsaparilla man, in the Fifth Avenue, New York. The party—like his famous Sarsaparilla—was suited to all tastes, and it—the party, not the Sarsaparilla—got through by "day-light." The Tribune gives the bill of the party as sent with each card of invitation as follows:

Mrs. S. P. Townsend
Requests the pleasure of—
Company on Tuesday evening, Feb. 24, at 9 o'clock.
Dancing in the Drawing Rooms,
Panorama of the Hudson River in the Theatre and Picture Gallery,
Parlor in the Second Story for Conversation,
Parlors in the Third and Fourth Stories for Whist Parties.

Music will commence at 9 o'clock.
Dancing at 10 o'clock.
Supper at 11 o'clock.
Panorama will move from 10 to 11 o'clock.
Carriages at 12, 1 and 2 o'clock.

Doctor Townsend has stowed away a great many bottles of Sarsaparilla in his Fifth Avenue Palace, not that he keeps his medicine there, but he has expended the price of a great many bottles in its erection. It particularly delights the Dr. to have strangers ring his door bell, and slipping a half into the hand of the servant, ask the privilege of inspecting the house. This is done daily, and the visitors are attended through the palace, wondering at the efficacy of Sarsaparilla.

But to the party. The Tribune says: "This programme was carried out almost to a letter, so far as the host was concerned, except that the Panorama did not move quite so long as announced, and the supper was a matter of ten or fifteen minutes before the better of their politeness or anxiety to save their coats harmless. The guests did not do their parts as thoroughly. But one pack of cards were put in use all the evening, although to stories were devoted to whist. There were calls through the great room for carriages before the moon of night; and conversation was not confined to the story appropriated to it, in defiance of all rule, went on in every apartment. But the ball was a great success. As one approached the house, it seemed wrapped in a blaze of light from turret to foundation stone; and as one entered, the effect of the chandeliers falling upon the richly ornamented walls, and upon the berries of beauties who whirled in the dance leaned over the galleries, or flitted up and down the stairs, was superb; and as the "music arose with its voluptuous swell," one could not but ask whether fairy-land could boast of aught more magical than this.
