

The Holmes County Farmer.

OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE COUNTY.

JAMES A. ESTILL, Editor.

MILLERSBURG, OHIO.

THURSDAY, JUNE 2, 1864.

Democratic State Ticket.

Secretary of State—WILLIAM W. ARNOLD, of Adams.

Presidential Electors for the State at Large.

Democratic Position.

Some months ago we urged the Democracy not to be hasty in selecting planks for a platform.

The Democratic masses, as well as many of the opposition, are now fully convinced that war will never restore the Union.

That the restoration of the Union, so much desired by every patriot, is being rendered hopeless by the military policy of the present administration.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

It is apparent that at the approaching National Convention the Democracy must plant themselves upon a platform in favor of a speedy, just, honorable and peaceful adjustment of our National difficulties.

The Progress we are Making in Causing the Last Man.

In order to show the progress we are making in calling out the "last man" for the prosecution of this war, we give the following table of levies made since its commencement:

Table with 2 columns: Date, Amount. Rows include April 1861, May 1861, June 1861, July 1861, August 1861, September 1861, October 1861, November 1861, December 1861, Total.

To this is soon to be added another draft for three hundred thousand men, which will make two millions and a half called out.

The whole number of voters in the so-called loyal States in 1860 was about three millions and a half. We are making better progress for that "last man" than people imagine.

Lincoln is determined to have him. He is the most generous person to dispose of other people's lives that ever was known since the creation.

Another Draft. It is generally believed that King Lincoln will issue his edict for another draft about the 1st of July.

A movement is being made in Congress to repeal the $2000 exemption clause. If this succeeds, which is probable, none drafted can escape being led to the slaughter.

Congress also has up a proposition to allow enlistments for one year. There being a little humanity in this proposition, we have no hopes of its passing.

The Yankees. While Ohio has furnished 20,000 National Guards, a draft is made on her for 18,000 men, yet New England has furnished no hundred day men, and its volunteer quota is yet unfilled.

Western States, in the very busiest season of the year, have dragged from their midst a hundred thousand agriculturists and mechanics. The Yankees know how to "do the thing!"

The Beauty of the One Hundred Days Call. The Somerset Union, published in Perry County, Ohio, says:

"We are informed there are twenty-five farms in Hopewell Township, in this county, left by the late call for one hundred days, without a man to till the land."

"The neighbors are all gone, and the fields are all overgrown with weeds. The farmers are all in the army, and the country is all a waste."

Governor Brough seemed to imagine that it was of no consequence whether the people, next year, raise anything to eat or not, and that fighting was their only occupation.

More Testimony in Favor of the Negro. The Davenport (Iowa) Gazette, a paper of decidedly radical tendencies, is said to testify to a "well established" fact as follows:

"The fact is well established, that the negro is better fitted by nature for the position of a soldier than the white man, from the fact that he can endure more fatigue, is more tractable and docile, and is by nature more cleanly in his habits."

The Abolition party is a progressive party. It used to believe that the negro was equal to a white; but now it believes he is superior.

The President's Body Guard. A company of Ohio cavalry, commanded by Captain Bennett, of Scott's 99th, has been appointed a body guard to the President.

As Napoleon First and Third had their body guards—Caesar and Cromwell had theirs—all the European monarchs have body guards, why should not Mr. Lincoln have his?

Dying—Dying! Senator Doolittle said in Congress the other day: "Slavery, Mr. President, is dying, dying, all around us." To this the Dayton Empire says:

"Yes, and Constitutional liberty is dying; morality, public and private is dying; all that we have prized of peace, or social order, of neighborly kindness, of friendly intercourse in society, is dying. And dying, by hundreds of thousands, are the brothers, fathers and sons of the most frenzied, deluded and miserable people—Why did not Mr. Doolittle tell it all, while he was about it?"

A Perplexed Madame. A short time since, Queen Victoria received from her son (by marriage), Prince Frederick William, of Prussia, a dispatch that his people had gained a great victory over the Danes at Duppel. Just then came a note from her daughter, the Princess of Wales, announcing that her people (the Danes) had been defeated by the Germans.

These different dispatches must have placed Her Majesty in a sad dilemma.

The True Doctrine. The Dayton Empire says: "The Chicago Convention must put the party upon its true platform, or it will find the people missing. An attempt to commit the Democracy to the further prosecution of the war either by direct or indirect means will result disastrously to the country. The people are for peace, and will have an expression on that point. We can all agree upon a compromise where principle is not involved. But honest men cannot compromise their principles. Let it therefore be for peace."

About Niggers. The abolition papers are very severe in their denunciations of rebels for their cruelties to nigger troops. The same papers boast that nigger soldiers show no quarter to rebels. Nigger soldiers are a great institution. Cruelties exercised by them is sublimely glorious; but cruelty toward them is hellish in the extreme.

Banks at New Orleans. It is announced that General Banks, who started out on a cotton speculation, with over thirty thousand men and a full supply of mules, horses and other requisites, including fifty transports, has returned to New Orleans, after losing twenty-five thousand men and nearly all his baggage.

The News Suppressed. No military movements, battles or any thing of the kind is permitted to be published except by order of the "Government." For this reason we have but little from the armies.

Hon. Geo. B. Pendleton. We hope the National Convention will nominate for Vice-President, Honorable George B. Pendleton. He is able, eloquent, fearless, and as a statesman, has no superior in the country.—Hocking Sentinel.

Mr. PENDLETON would make an excellent candidate for President.

Lincoln and the Germans—The Removal of General Sigel.

Lincoln has increased his already immense unpopularity among the Germans, by his removal of the distinguished German Republican, General SIGEL. Of this late act of the Administration, the New York News' correspondent says:

"The supplanting of General Sigel by General Hunter is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

The Morals of Nashville Under Military Rule. Some months since, it was found there were four thousand prostitutes plying their vocation in this place. To correct matters, several hundred of the disorderly women were collected together and shipped off on a steamer. The city authorities at Louisville would not let them land, there, neither would the officials at Cincinnati, so they were taken back to Nashville. As to what then followed let the Detroit Tribune's correspondent speak:

"A new system was then entered upon, viz: that of licensing the evil, but hedging it about with salutary checks. An army surgeon was detailed for the purpose, and periodical investigations are made into each case. Such women as may safely pursue their calling, are furnished with certificates, and all others are sent to a hospital, maintained by the Government, to be cured. The best of terms—committment is unnecessary. It only remains to strike down Carl Schurz, and without a treaty of extradition hand the pair over to the tyrants of Germany, to answer for their aspirations after liberty. Such a course, however, has not been taken within the last three years."

Death of Joshua R. Giddings. Joshua R. Giddings, American Consul General to the Canadas, died very suddenly, at a late hour on Friday night last, in the city of Montreal. He died of heart disease, which twice, at least, prostrated him on the floor of the House of Representatives. Mr. Giddings was born at Athens, Pa., October 6, 1795, and consequently was in his 69th year at the time of his death.

We do not purpose to write an eulogy on Giddings. That we leave to those who were his eulogists while he lived; and to such others as are willing to take back what they said in eulogy of him, and to give the years of his political and public life. We are unable to see how any patriot, any lover of his country, can put himself into eulogy and go off in eulogy of such men as Lovejoy and Giddings, whether dead or alive.

We can add nothing more appropriate here than the following extract from a speech delivered in the House of Congress, on the 9th of February, 1861, by Honorable Samuel S. Cox, in reply to Mr. Hutchins:

"Mr. Speaker, there are various classes of Republicans. The gentleman (Mr. Hutchins) belongs to the worst of the abolition party, and well may defend his predeceator. But I do not belong to that class. I am a Republican, and I will defend my party, but I will not defend a public life devoted to hate, ill will and seditious, was retired because it did one thing that was right—voted for the Crittenden-Montgomery bill. He has since been making up for his loss of office by the vigilance of getting whipped. Senator Sumner, the leading Abolition fanatic in the U. S. Senate has introduced a bill in that body making the appointment of a soldier in the white man, from the fact that he can endure more fatigue, is more tractable and docile, and is by nature more cleanly in his habits."

On the Road to Monarchy. Senator Sumner, the leading Abolition fanatic in the U. S. Senate has introduced a bill in that body making the appointment of a soldier in the white man, from the fact that he can endure more fatigue, is more tractable and docile, and is by nature more cleanly in his habits."

Mormonism at Home. We learn from the Wheeling, Virginia, Intelligencer that there is in that town of South Wheeling a sect of Mormons, who practice all the doctrines of that sect except that of polygamy. We have had a conversation with an Englishman who belongs to the society, and who finally believes in all the peculiar notions of the Latter Day Saints. He says he was converted to the faith since his arrival in this country. In his opinion all the churches to which the Gentiles usually attach themselves are wonderfully corrupt. He has not had a physician in his house for five or six years. Cases of sickness are cured by anointing with oil, laying on of hands according to the customs of the New Testament.—Ec.

Cleveland Convention. The Fremont Convention met at Cleveland on Tuesday. At the time of going to press we have no further news than an account of its organization. The Convention is respectively large. Some say Grant and Fremont will be nominated for President and Vice-President. Others think Fremont and Corcoran will be nominated.

P. S. Since the above was put in type John C. Fremont has been nominated for President, and John Cochrane for Vice-President.

Rid of Him. Lincoln got rid of a formidable competitor for the Presidency when Banks was defeated, and he had therefore a strong motive to desire, if not connive at the disaster. Banks, it is understood, says that he acted in obedience to imperative instructions.

Chandler Thrashed. It will give general satisfaction to state that the amiable Senator from Michigan (Senator Chandler), has received a first rate physical castigation at the hands of Voorhees of Indiana. He has stood a long time in need of proper attention, and we hope he is now satisfied. He is the author of the remark, "The Union won't be worth a curse without a little blood letting."—Plain Dealer.

It is said that Jones, the sculptor, has made a bust of Chase. Whether it be so or not, it is very evident that Chase has made a bust of the country.

The German Republicans are speaking out Against Lincoln—Here is What One of Them Says.

An able Washington correspondent of an influential Western republican paper writes as follows: "The German Republicans are speaking out against Lincoln. Here is what one of them says."

"Sigel is superseded." Such is the announcement that flashes along the wires, and appears in flaunting headlines in the columns of our journals. "Sigel is superseded," but why? A gallant soldier is disgraced, but that is his crime? A noble soldier who never quailed before the onsets of the Republic, is stricken down, but not by the foe against whom he drew his sword. "Sigel is superseded," and the Lincoln camp is jubilant with joy. The foe of tyrants, the revolutionist of '48, the patriot of '61, and the friend of the German Republics is deprived of his command because he preferred to enact the role of an honorable soldier instead of playing the part of a political prostitute, to lead his countrymen into the embraces of the Baltimore Convention.

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."

He could not be subsidized, he could not be flattered, he could not be won into using his influence as a man and a citizen to mislead the radical Germans and crush out those liberal principles which hang over the heads of this administration as a glittering sword hung suspended over the doomed city of Jerusalem. Fear and hatred alike animate this administration against the German population of this country. Through jealousy and dislike, Sigel was laid upon the shelf in the early stages of the war. His removal is a measure that is likely to create some considerable disension between German Republicans and the Government. It is considered that the exchange is jumping from the frying pan into the fire. General Hunter has done nothing in this way to entitle him to any consideration as an able military officer, and the public need not expect any great military exploits under his administration. Retaining to the subject of Sigel's removal, I will state that the Germans in this city are highly incensed at the President's action, they swear it is a Know-Nothing move, that prejudices have been allowed to prevail, and that in future they will advise their countrymen to let their arms be buried in the earth. This feeling will no doubt spread through the country, and the Germans will likely to settle the accounts with Mr. Lincoln at the next Presidential election. General Sigel is to be retired from command and placed on the official shelf during the continuance of the war."