

The Reflector. SUPPLEMENT.

An exchange notices that the man who asks, "Is it hot enough for you?" is being knocked out by the man who inquires, "Have you read Robert Elsmere?"

Give Northwestern Kansas a chance. There is such a thing as hoggishness and the great Northwestern portion of our State has suffered from it about as grievously as any place.

The Louisville Courier-Journal says to Democrats, "Stand by your guns." The C. J. would have done well to have warned the party not to make the mistake of Grover Cleveland, and stand at the muzzle instead of the breech.—[Inter-Ocean.

We laugh at the English paper which tells its readers that Harrison seems to be elected to the Federal Presidency but that Mr. Depew will be President of the Hudson River division. Englishmen, however, will have a chance to laugh also, when they read in some American papers references to Mr. Chamberlain as the great Tory and aristocratic leader of England.

Say, monied men, let's bore for natural gas or salt. We can just as well make a little money as not. Within a few miles of Salina is a natural gas well.—[Salina Republican.

Mr. Chairman, we move you that all visionary schemes to sink gas or salt wells in the State of Kansas be prohibited for one year from date—that is until Kansas can earn some more money to throw into holes in the ground.

Judge Thurman writes to Judge Blacker, of Texas, that he shall continue to work for the Democratic party and that he does "not despair of its ultimate success." That last clause may not be equivalent to a last gasp, but it certainly is not thrilling enough for a war-cry. Judge Thurman didn't see so many rainbows as Colonel Brice before the election; unlike Colonel Brice, he saw none at all the day after election, and we suspect that he thinks it would be a waste of time to look for any now.—[Tribune.

Dedicated to the gentlemen elected to represent northwestern Kansas in the lower House of the Kansas Legislature.

The 5th and 6th Congressional districts have talked long and loud about standing together and demanding some recognition in State affairs—but our standing together has been wide apart—no sooner had some gentleman from this part of the State announced himself a candidate for a position no matter what, than every other man in this part of the State became a candidate, hence the same result every year. We get licked handsomely every time. Now this paper suggests that you gentlemen select some person from the 5th or 6th district for Speaker and stay with him to a man. Try it once just for luck.—[Belleville Telescope.
