Build dams is the suggestion of Martin Allen in the Kansas Farmer. He says:

The Buffalo wallows, that appear everywhere on every acre of reasonably level land upon the plain, holding from one to three barrels of water each, become a leading factor in holding water for a few days, after being filled by heavy rains. We always have a humid and growing atmosphere when they are full. Now, let us improve upon this idea derived from our now extinct buffalo, and build dams of still greater capacity than our wallows, but not the few and expensive ones anticipated by you and our local editor. Let us in working our roads on every section line, where they should be, make a fill at each depression from one to four feet, according to the nature of the ground, and when necessary provide for drainage above this.
This would make dams very numerous—they would appear along every section line and no doubt the result would be, for all ordinary dry seasons, to lengthen out the periods of humidity and growing weather; in other words to largely increase the quantity and better distribution of our rains.
The whole question of dams for this purpose (it seems to me) may be solved by a little discretion in working our common roads.

But in an exceptionally dry year such as the present promises to be, when the whole country is dry from the crest of the Rocky Mountains eastward to the Atlantic coast, then, like the 'failure of all signs in a dry time,' our dams even the large and expensive ones, would be failures, because the streams where located would themselves be dry.

The Washington dispatches of the New York Tribune make an instructive contrast of two periods in the history of the government, of fifteen years each, one Republican, the other Democratic. Between 1865, 1880 Republican administrations have paid off $837,000,000 of the national debt, and reduced the annual volume of interest by $71,000,000. Between 1847 1861 Democratic administrations added $13,000,000 to the debt. In 1861 the government was paying 12 per cent on money borrowed for current expenses; now the four per cent bonds are at a premium all over the world. And the Democratic party now asks that the public servants who have been faithful over many things shall be discharged in favor of those who have been faithless in all things.

It is probable that business in the South will escape its customary interruption by yellow fever this year. The President of the New Orleans Board of Health certifies that not a single case of fever has occurred in that city this summer. The only imported cases were the three sailors from the Swedish bark Excelsior, and there is no possible danger of the disease spreading from this source.

The mammoth steamer Great Eastern, whose visit to this country some years ago excited such lively curiosity, is about to revisit American waters. This time she will be employed in conveying beef from Galveston to England. Her capacity is twenty thousand head of cattle, and she is expected to make four voyages in a year.

The Republicans of Indiana will not enter upon a general campaign until the tenth of August, when an advance will be made all along the line, and the fight will be lively until the October election. Judge Porter will, however, make several speeches before that date.

Dr. Tanner, who proposes to do without food for forty days has fasted four weeks and is still in good spirits and apparently well, though somewhat weak.

The Medicine Lodge Index says that county contains about 75,000 head of cattle.

Hay is very scarce in Colorado, and livery men are compelled to send to Kansas for that necessary article.

When Dr. Tanner gets through his forty days' fast he ought to have no difficulty hiring out his stomach for a bass drum.

Sheep raising is becoming one of the rapidly increasing industries of Allen county.
After a railroad Allen county wants a woolen mill.

In view of the manner in which young society people converse nowadays it has been suggested that we call it the American slanguage.

The Corpus Christi Ledger of the 14th, says: Within ten days Mr. Healy will start his herd of stock cattle on the trail for Kansas, where they are to be ranched.

Medicine Lodge is agitating the question of building a new school house. The people of that place are expecting a railroad soon and they are in favor of having all the boom at once.

The New York Bulletin (careful authority) speaks encouragingly of the business outlook, and says the purchasing ability of the country at large promises to be exceptionally ample.

It is reported that Frank James, the outlaw, was seen to cross the Missouri river at Blue Mills, a few days ago, and that he is again on his old prowling ground in Clay county.

Worms in stock, says the Corpus Christi Ledger, are reported to have been quite destructive during the past few months, and considerable losses are mentioned as occurring among cattle, horses, etc., from this source.

Gen. Grant's rooms at the Beebe house, Manitou, were entered Monday night and robbed of money and jewelry to the amount of $400. The Colorado Springs authorities are investigating, but they have found no clue to the robbers.

On last Tuesday the Miami County Aid Society shipped a car load of meat, flour, bacon, etc., to Larned, Kansas, subject to the order of the State Aid Society. The aggregate weight of the contents of the car amounted to something over 20,000 pounds.

Norton Advance: And now comes another worm larger and more voracious than the web-worm which is devouring said worm at a terrible rate. As yet this new comer has harmed nothing but his neighbor worm, and it cannot be discovered that he eats vegetable matter at all.

Burlington Independent: The sheep boom at it keeps up in Coffey county. Dr.
Illingworth, of North Big Creek, left last Monday for the southern part of the state, where he will purchase one thousand head.
He already has 400 head on his farm.
It is his intention to make sheep husbandry a specialty.

Wamego Agriculturist: The sheep interest is growing in Kansas. A perusal of the papers in the different parts of the State satisfies us that there is hardly a county from which reports have not come of an increase in this industry. Sheep husbandry is a paying business in Kansas, and now that the sheep boom has set in we may expect a large increase of wealth from this source in the next few years.

"THE NOISY MAN."

Is the man who has been rejuvenated by BROWN'S LIVER PILLS; he wants everybody to know that all druggists keep them.
