

Five negroes in Texas hired a colored man to haul a bale of cotton which they had stolen. They afterwards murdered him to prevent him telling. He asked to be permitted to pray, but was refused. After his head had been cut off his mouth uttered "pray," "pray."

Settlers who made their proofs under the fifty dollar installment law should be very careful about paying subsequent installments promptly. The law provides that in case of default being made in any of these installments the whole purchase price becomes due at once, and if it be not paid within ninety days, the land is placed upon the "default list" and again offered at public sale. Avoid difficulty and loss by prompt payment.

In New Mexico, says the Santa Fe Mexican, there is a great deal of trouble at present over freight robberies committed along the A. T. & S. F. R. R. Cars are frequently broken into, it is supposed while on the side tracks, and riddled of their contents. A number have come in in that condition very recently. The New Mexican says that the catching of the thieves would not be so easy a task as might be supposed.

ASHBURNHAM Mass., Jan. 14, 1880. I have been very sick over two years. They all gave me up as past cure. I tried the most skilful physicians, but they did not reach the worst part. The lungs and heart would fit up every night and discompose, and my throat was very bad. I told my children I never should die in peace until I had tried Hop Bitters. I have taken two bottles. They have helped me very much indeed. I am now well. There was a lot of sick folks here who have seen how they helped me, and they used them and are cured, and feel as thankful as I do that there is so valuable a medicine made. Mrs JULIA G. CUSHING.

PROSPECTUS

The Globe-Democrat.

In its prospectus for 1881 the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT announced with pride and satisfaction the election of Gen. Garfield and the belief that his administration would be so wisely counseled and so well conducted that it would give a new lease of power to the party under which the nation had grown free, strong and prosperous. The vile hand of an assassin has since stricken down the good and gifted man who, while we wrote a year ago, stood on the threshold of the Presidential office, in the prime and vigor of manhood, with a future full of honorable promise to himself and his country. The high trust which the people had reposed in him was dropped by the palsied hand of death when but a small part of the great work upon which he had entered had been accomplished. But to quote his own memorable words when the saddest of all American tragedies was enacted, nearly seventeen years ago, "God reigns, and the Government at Washington still lives."

The mantle which was voted to James A. Garfield by the people falls upon Chester A. Arthur under the Constitution of the United States, and there is every reason to believe that he will worthily wear it. He was almost the unanimous choice of the Chicago convention for Vice President, and his name and efforts contributed perhaps more than anything else to the success of the Republican ticket in the State of New York. He is a man of broad views, fully informed on all public questions, and he enters upon the duties of his office determined to discharge them honestly and conscientiously. The GLOBE-DEMOCRAT pledges him its cordial support in every good word and work for the country and for the Republican party. We hope and believe that under his prudent and skillful leadership the evil spirit of faction will disappear from the ranks of the party, and that unity and harmony will prevail in all its councils. This end once secured, there can be no doubt of future success. A large majority of the people of this country are Republicans in sentiment and sympathy, and nothing but internal discord can imperil our triumph at the polls while the choice is between Republicanism and Democracy.

The GLOBE-DEMOCRAT has no new declaration of principles to announce. It can fairly ask judgment as to the issue from the record of the past. It stands firmly by the platform of the party on all national questions; believes in the equal rights of all men in law and politics; a sound currency with an honest silver dollar for part of it; a well-regulated tariff, giving protection without encouraging monopoly, and a system of popular education, so liberal that ignorance and illiteracy shall be inexorable. These are the main questions upon which the two great parties are now divided—the Democrats oppose, and the Republicans affirm as to each of the propositions we have named.

While fully appreciating the magnitude of national issues, the GLOBE-DEMOCRAT will not be unmindful of the importance of questions which affect the West, and especially the State of Missouri. Among these is immigration. We shall do all we possibly can to encourage Europeans seeking a home on this side of the Atlantic to investigate the claims of this great State—its fine climate, its fertile soil, and its great mineral resources. Everything is good here except political domination. Bourbon Democracy is the foe of immigration in Missouri, as it always has been in Kentucky and in other States. A Republican victory in the State would do more to encourage the best class of immigrants to come within our borders than can be accomplished in any other way, or through any other agency. The heaven is working, and we have faith in its success within a few years. In the meantime we shall not forget that while Republicans in a help to immigration, immigration is also a help to Republicanism. The busy farmers of the Eastern States who move West in pursuit of more land to meet the necessities of a growing family are not Bourbon Democrats; and the industrious foreigners who come here for homes and fields will soon learn to choose tightly between the two parties.

As a newspaper the Globe-Democrat will hold the pre-eminence which it has already gained. It will present in all its editions a full and faithful record of current events. Its facilities are unrivaled. No other newspaper East or West has a larger corps of active and intelligent correspondents in all sections of the country and the world. We spare neither energy nor expense in the collection of news, as our columns from day to day abundantly show. Our weekly issue is made up from the most valuable of the contents of seven daily issues, carefully selected and edited with a view to completeness and timeliness. It has, as special features, the fullest and best market reports from all the business centers of the world; the choicest of current literature for the family and friends; and a well-edited Agricultural Department of great value to the farmer.
