A TRAMP in Birmingham, Ala., who's suffering from delirium tremens, saw his big toe protruding from his well-to-do coat. Imagining it to be a snake about to bite him, he smashed it with a hammer.

A KANSAS toper is in trouble. He brought suit against his wife, to compel her to support him, and lose it. He supposed she was his wife, but she was his wife's wife, and he is about to lie down and die of despair.

RUSSIAN dress recent wounds with a thick layer of ashes, prepared by the burning of cotton or linen stuff. This simple, efficient and convenient method has been practiced from time immemorial by the Russian peasantry.

The higher education of women is strongly advocated in Australia. The University of Melbourne not only receives female students, but admits them to the same privileges as the males, among which are the free scholarships.

MR. R. LONNEN, of Mayville, N. J., has a wonderful currant bush. He found it growing wild in the woods, and planted it by the side of his house.

IN 1855, Thiers, an eminent French statesman, purchased 25 cords worth of Portuguese wine—worth 102,000 francs, or 1,600,000 dollars. Only 21,000,000, or 13 per cent, spoke English. Now the language is spoken by 400,000,000 people, and 125,000,000 of them, of 31 per cent, speak English.

LAMP-BURNERS, to give good light, should be cleaned at least once a month. To clean them, take a piece of soap the size of a walnut, put it into a quart of water, place the lamp-burner in it and set it on the stove; after boiling for five minutes, remove the burner and, when put back on the lamp, it will be as good as new.

It is said that the Chinese produce a powerful anesthetic by placing a frog in a jar of flour, and irritating the frog by prodding it. This treatment forces the frog to exude a liquid which forms a paste with the flour. The paste, dissolved in water, makes a strong anesthetic. A finger immersed in it for a few minutes becomes numb and can be removed without causing pain.

The best beer in Europe is made in Bavaria, where it is prohibited to mix any ingredients but malt, hops, and water. Even alcohol must not be added, as is largely done in other countries, to give beer strength.

The greatest beer drinkers in the world are in Munich, where the average consumption is a quart and a half a day for every head of the population.

A Detroit physician during the recent war weather in that city, so says a newspaper of Detroit, taught two of his friends a practical lesson in the way to keep cool. The three gentlemen were walking along the street in the hot sun when they passed a saloon.

"I must have a glass of beer to cool off my head," remarked one whom we will call Tom. "Will you have some, friends?"

"Excuse me," said the Doctor, "I never cool off that way. Let me show you something. Tom, let me feel your pulse. Now you hear. Now, then, Tom, get your beer."

"Why, Tom was drinking his beer the Doctor stated Hury in a chair and gave him a fan. At the end of five minutes Tom joined them, saying, "Ah, but that goes to the right spot! I feel cooler."

"Do you?" asked the Doctor. "Your pulse has increased just eight beats to the minute, while Henry's has decreased six, making a difference of fourteen in his favor. Wait a bit; don't let's start quacking."

It was not more than three minutes before Henry laid down in his fan, feeling cool enough, while Tom pulled out his handkerchief, and said, "For heaven's sake! let's get out of this place, or I shall faint."

"There's the case I want to make out," said the Doctor. "You are warmer than before, and will be for an hour to come. Our friend here has lost his third, and is cool enough for a foot-race."

His Fault.

Inventors and explorers are often troublesome to lesser individuals. "How proud you must be of your husband's invention," said some one to the wife of a talented mechanic. "Yes, I suppose it was the grating reply, 'but just now I am only relieved by having the thing completed. For the last year I have been occupied in picking up wheels and screws, scattered all over the house, and rubbing out drawers to learn which of the crank on the fly-leaves of books."

Not long ago a mother looked over the shoulder of her little girl who was growing about a different lesson. The book was open at the map of Africa, and the mother exclaimed:

"Why, how that map has changed since I was a child! Then it had only a few towns about the coast, and all the middle was a blank. We didn't have to learn much about the map of Africa in those days."

"I know it," cried the little girl, almost in tears. "and it's all the fault of that dreadful Mr. Stanley!"

The theory that good apples can not be grown in the South seems to be disproven. Apple trees and twigs inches in circumference are raised as far toward the equator as Southern Florida.

KANSAS THANKSGIVING.

Proclamation of Governor Humphrey sets the exact date of Thanksgiving Day.

TOPEKA, Kan., Nov. 18.—The proclamation appointing Thursday, November 27, for Thanksgiving day has been issued by Governor Humphrey as follows:

"The people of Kansas have abundant reason to feel thankful to Almighty God for His continued kindness during the year fast drawing to a close. Our beloved commonwealth has enjoyed immunity from war, pestilence and famine. Peace, health and a fair measure of prosperity in all the departments of labor have blessed us as a people by the grace and favor of Him whose power we recognize in all things.

Now, therefore, I
