LORD PRAISES HIM

Ford County Ranch Owner Speaks of Prof. Larson's Work.

REPORTER TALKS WITH HEALER

Gives Breezy Outline of His Work and Plans—Will Enroll New Patients at Dodge City Once More Only.

"Mrs. Lord has taken five treatments under Prof. J. Austin Larson and shows remarkable improvement up to date. She has suffered for fifteen years with a pain in the back of her neck and head, and her stomach has bothered her. We feel very much encouraged and are now hoping for a permanent cure."

This statement was made by Mr. W. H. Lord of W. H. Lord & Co. to a reporter. Mr. Lord is the well known Ford county ranch owner and before coming here was for several years mayor of Burlingame, Kas. He dislikes publicity, but was willing to make a conservative statement regarding his wife's condition and the remarkable improvement she has shown under Prof. Larson's famous drugless treatment for the benefit of others afflicted as his wife has been.

The reporter also had a few minutes conversation with Prof. Larson and found him, as the Topeka State Journal put it, "brimful of enthusiasm." He is an optimist of a pronounced type; never seeing anything but the bright side himself, he inspires hope and confidence in the minds of all who come in contact with him.

"Have you had a good practice in Dodge City?" the reporter asked.

That twinkles of good humor which Prof. Larson couldn't possibly keep from coming into his eyes and face, beamed forth as he replied, "Well, I usually have about all the cases I can handle, and I guess we will treat enough people and make the cures here that will answer my purpose, that of demonstrating my treatment. You see, Mr. Reporter, I am on the road for reputation. My cures are lasting, because they are not accomplished by artificial means, and what better advertising can I have in this community than walking testimonials to the lasting qualities of my drugless treatment? Then, when I am well enough known in a large enough territory, I am going to open a temple of healing in some large city. That is my one great ambition. And the more towns I make and the more cures I perform, the nearer I will be to the realization of my great aim in life."

"How much longer will you be in Dodge City?"

"My associates and I will have offices here at the Santa Fe Hotel for at least two months longer, but next Thursday will be absolutely the last day that we can enroll new patients. I can't stay in Dodge City long enough to convert all the hide-bound skeptics and I have no inclination to try. But I realize that people who are in earnest are often detained in coming in on the announced day, and from the telephone and verbal messages and letters that I have received I am inclined to think that all the objections used in the Good Book when the people were invited to the feast, were utilized in giving reasons why I should give one more reception day.

"I am out of town. Can't get home in time," writes one.

"Had to go to a public sale," says another.

"The wind blew so hard. I didn't dare to venture out," telephones another.

"And so the excuses run, but I guess it must be too busy a time to get married as no one raised that as an excuse. My business manager is good natured if I am not, and he says, 'O, give them another chance,' and he usually has his way, so another chance it will be."

"But you receive at Bucklin, don't you?"

"Yes, I have offices at the Hotel Bucklin on Tuesdays, and next Tuesday will be my last reception day there. As soon as I get through in this extreme western territory, I am going back near home—That's Salina. You see I have been through all the county seat towns between this point and Topeka. Now I am going back into the smaller towns in the same counties. I already have from one to six cures to my credit in every one of these communities and the people have confidence in my drugless treatment because the results are there to show for themselves. But I'd better quit talking, or you will have your paper full of Larson and those who are not sick are not interested in me."

Carnegie Library Building.

You will have to decide its fate at next Tuesday's Election.

Now is the time to think hard on the library question. Next Tuesday will settle it one way or the other. A large number of the ladies of the town are earnestly championing its cause. A good portion of the business men believe that we should gladly accept the chance of getting a town present in the way of a Carnegie library building. Those who oppose it from the simple fact of the expense it will entail have every right to do so, and their views must be respected by those who think differently.

The idea, however, that the library proposition can in any way directly effect our general fund tax; that it can interfere with our providing for lights, street improvements, etc., is a mistake, and an unfair argument. It will no more interfere with those things than does the money we spend on churches and schools. If we spent so great an amount on churches and schools that as individuals we would have so little left that we could not afford to pay taxes for the general fund then it would interfere with the necessities of the town. If an individual should come before the property owners here and say "I will build a handsome library here, costing $7500. If you as citizens will agree to donate 75 cents, $1, or $2 each a year to maintain it," probably every one in Dodge would say "let us work on your building; we will do our part." Of course in the present instance there is this much more required; a site for the building must be furnished. On the library proposition it is quite possible that most of the opposition is caused more from the mere idea of the amounts paid for maintenance being called a tax.

Every nice public building certainly adds much to the importance of a town and something to the value of other property.

It is worth the while of those who do oppose the proposition to consider it carefully, without prejudice, before finally determining how they will vote next Tuesday. Some who opposed it at first did so on account of the mistaken idea that the support of the library would come out of the general fund levy.

While the above should be carefully considered by those who oppose the proposition, those who favor it should consider carefully the cost and responsibility of the library, and they should respect the views of the opposition. As was stated in this paper several weeks ago, the proposition is simply: can we pay an amount which will range from a few cents to, in a few cases, a few dollars, for a public library with a new public building put in as a gift.

If the proposition is a good thing, its a good thing for every body; if a bad thing it is bad for all alike. Let us use no unfair argument on either side. Let us talk it over together and decide which course will be best for the town and the citizens, and all vote together on the right side.

ELEVATOR IS A GO.

It is a Home Man who will Build it. Ballard Mill Sold.

Plans for a big grain elevator adjoining the Dodge City Roller Mills are now under way. This project has been known to a few here for the past two months, but it has not been made public.

The man who will build the new elevator is Mr. Chikowsky a wealthy miller from Ellsworth, Kansas. He is here and has bought the mill of Mr. Ballard and will take possession next week. Mr. Chikowsky was reared in Germany and learned the milling business in that country. He has been a Kansas miller for the past seventeen years, and a very successful one. He will do an extensive milling business here and will have an adequate and modern elevator for handling this year's wheat.

Mr. Ballard has made a success of the milling business here, but he has enough land and other investments to occupy considerable of his time, and believes he is entitled to a day or two rest each week. Besides these considerations he has several fine bred young grey hounds which need training, and he naturally thinks it a shame to neglect them for mere business reasons. Dodge City people will agree to let Mr. Ballard do just as he pleases so long as he will continue to make his home here, but he may as well understand right now that they will not stand for his loafing elsewhere.

NEW RAILROAD AGAIN

This Time it is Said to be a Sure Enough Road.

A charter has been granted to the Kansas Medicine Valley and Western Railroad Company. Senator Nofziger is in the company and says construction will begin from Anthony and westward at once. The line is to cross the southern part of Ford county and extend to Trinidad. If this road is a Missouri Pacific project it can be brought through Dodge City. It would be worth almost any reasonable kind of sacrifice to secure it. A committee ought to run Senator Nofziger down at once and get posted on this matter.
