

The following intensely true paragraph is taken from the magnificent paper which the Rev. Robert J. Breckinridge, of Kentucky, has just contributed to the literature of the country:

"The secessionists would have mankind believe, that their conduct is prompted by the most elevated principles, and directed by the noblest instincts. In illustration of these pretensions, those who were in the highest civil stations, plundered the government under which they were Senators, members of Congress, and Cabinet officers; those who were in the naval and military service betrayed the flag of their country, and delivered up, not only strong places, but the troops confided to them; those who had the opportunity, robbed the government of money; those who were on foreign diplomatic service, used their positions to the greatest possible injury of the nation; and if there were any exceptions of honorable conduct among them (we do not know of a single one), they occurred amongst those of subordinate rank, and have been concealed by their comrades as marks of weakness. All these degrading evidences of the total demoralization of the party, occurred in that stage of the conspiracy immediately preparatory to the commencement of hostilities by them. At first, they seemed to have supposed that the nation would make no serious attempt to reduce them by force; and that a great people, betrayed and sold, would accept the ignominious fate prepared for it. When they awoke from this stupid dream, their first resort was, very naturally, to an exhibition of the quality of their heroism, and their will of—"No coercion"—resounded through the land, echoed by the concerted cry of their secret allies in the loyal States. "Peace on any terms, with our brethren!" Their next resort, just as naturally, was a manifestation of the reality of their boasted confidence in themselves, in their resources, and in their cause. This, also, they exhibited in a manner perfectly characteristic. Embassies were despatched to all foreign nations, embracing even the distracted governments south of us, and not even forgetting our Indian tribes, or the Mormon Kingdom. Everywhere, under the sun, where the least help seemed attainable, by whatever means they supposed might be effectual, they eagerly sought it. Sometimes by menace, sometimes by solicitation, sometimes seeking alliances, sometimes offering everything, sometimes begging for anything—even for a king, if they could get nothing better. But always, and everywhere, help was what they wanted! Help, against their own country, which they had betrayed! Oh! patriots! Help against their own people, whom they profess to have terrified, and to be able to subdue.—Oh! heroes! A more shameful record does not disfigure the history of sedition."

Conscription in the South. The Richmond Examiner of Nov. 20th, contains an elaborate leading article, evidently paving the way for a general conscription. It begins by saying:

"The campaign of 1861 may be considered as over. In a fortnight the enemy can do nothing more. The early danger of the South, that it would be overwhelmed before it could organize and prepare for defense, by superior numbers and transportation, is at an end. We have so much advantage. But in the struggle an important feature has presented itself in the temper of the United States. Before the war began all sane men believed they would compromise the political quarrel with the South, and had the North offered the South the poorest terms, so corrupt was the public sentiment in Virginia, at least, that those terms would have been accepted. When the war began but a few thought it would last six months. The six months have gone. The United States have endured defeat after defeat, made sacrifice after sacrifice, and have closed an unsuccessful campaign without the slightest sign of an approach to reason. The Peace party of the North, like the Union party of the South, has entirely disappeared. The whole people are completely under the hand of the Government, and all together, people and Government, are bent on the prosecution of this war, even if the consequence be a collision with England and National bankruptcy. Under this impulse they have steadily increased, and are still increasing their vast regular force. Not less than 500,000 men are enlisted for an indefinite period, and equivalent in all parts to a regular army."

After enlarging upon the faults of all militia and volunteer systems, to which alone the South has hitherto resorted, the Examiner says that "the only way to meet the North with any prospect of success is to raise a regular army, by some means resembling the conscriptions of all other nations in the world except England and America," claiming that by this means "500,000 men could be put in the field."—N. Y. Tribune.

There are two remarkable instances of the character of our Northern troops that are worth noticing, which have recently come under observation in regard to the troops sent South with the great expedition. The first is the fact that there were sent to New York from Fort Royal, 15,000 letters, being on an average one letter to each soldier. We venture to say that in no army of the world is there such a degree of intelligence and social and intellectual refinement, as in the hosts of freedom gathered from the Northern States. The other fact, as creditable to their hearts as the former is to their heads, is that they have already been paid $300,000, and have sent home to their wives and children more than two-thirds of this sum. With such men, intelligent and loving, never forgetting the ties which bind them to their homes in the Northern States, who can doubt the final issue in the process of solution?

The Union.

CITY FACTS AND FANCIES.

Our esteemed friend, Dr. Drew, left us a few days ago for Indiana. Make your stay short Doctor—the circle is incomplete without your good-natured "phiz."

We are under obligations to Senator Lane for a copy of Major Delafield's "Report on the Art of War in Europe." If any of our Sunday soldiers want to see some "purty pieters," just call around.

Connections.—We are exceedingly pained at having gotten the name of Mr. Clark Lewis, of Manhattan, mixed up with the Jayhawkers, whom we noticed last week as being incarcerated in Fort Riley. It was unintentional on our part, and we are pleased to announce that Mr. Clark is not one of the number.

The Jayhawkers at Home.—Some Devil incarnate, without the fear of God, or the awful consequences attendant upon Jayhawking in this country, before his eyes, did with malice aforethought, and without one single circumstance to mitigate the turpitude of the act, steal our axe! The enormity of the crime is only equalled by the sang froid with which the act was perpetrated. There is some one in this neighborhood whose hooking propensities seem to run this way to an "alarmin' extent." Our piety forbids us giving vent to our feelings in regard to this misfortune, for we would in all probability shock the moral sense of the community.

We have a very fine sample of tobacco on our table, from Mr. Strickler. It was raised by Mr. Jonas Willard, a few miles above town, on the Republican river. We are not addicted to the use of the weed, and therefore unable to pass judgment upon its merits. We can, however, give the word of those who do use it, which almost universally is that it is an excellent quality. Strickler has some on hand for sale, and the lovers of the weed might to a very great extent extenuate the disgusting habit by encouraging home industry.

From a letter received from E. S. Stover, we learn that in consequence of the order from the War Department in regard to regiments now forming, necessitating their speedy organization, he has joined his men with those of a Mr. Gardiner, forming a full company; and at an election recently held, Gardiner was elected Capt. and Stover, First Lieutenant. They will continue recruiting until they have sufficient men to form two companies, when Lieut. Stover will take charge of his men as Captain. Hurry along, and join him, boys, there's a few more of you left around here that ought to be serving in the "Army of the Lord."

Last Friday two companies of Cavalry passed through town en route for Fort Leavenworth, under command of Captain Otis. They will thereafter await orders from the War Department. They presented a very good appearance, besides having had their metal demonstrated beyond a doubt, which convinces us that the secession had better "make themselves scarce" upon their approach. Furthermore, they are under the lead of a brave and able soldier—a man acknowledged to be one of the best tacticians in the army—and whose slight experience with the traitors that didn't take Fort Wise also convinces us that he is perfectly sound, and will "swear 'em in"—a horn.

The Holidays.—Two weeks more and the dawning of a new year will be upon us. The swiftness with which time flies is beyond realization. It seems but yesterday that we were impatiently awaiting the merry times attendant upon these annual reunions, as they might be called—Christmas and New Years—last year. Again we are at the same period, but under entirely different circumstances. Then, all was buoyant, for there was something more ahead than the mere empty name. Now, the solitude of the wilderness is as inviting as the prospects of a "good time" the coming Holidays. A merry Christmas and a happy New Year we wish one and all of our patrons. May the New Year open upon many a reunion in the social circle, and may all feelings existing contrary to the precepts of the Saviour of Men be obliterated.

MEANNESS WHITTLED DOWN.—Last week we expressed gratification at an accidental discovery of the whereabouts of our municipal government, for which the Frontier takes us to task, and in characteristic lingo, accuses us of an unwarrantable attack on our Mayor, and proceeds to read us a lecture. As if to show up their own duplicity and baseness, there appears in the very next column, and directly opposite the article we now allude to, a notice of the Eagle Hotel, wherein they say that "since the closing of the City Hotel we had almost ceased to hope for another first-class house, and confess ourselves well satisfied that the project is placed in energetic hands." Now, why this slur on our worthy citizens, Messrs. Orr & Weston? Its meanness, and the depravity of the heart which prompted it, will be the more apparent when we say that not a single attaché of the Frontier has ever been in the Eagle Hotel while under the charge of these gentlemen. Now, the difference: The Mayor is a public man, and if we cast any slur upon him it was prompted by the best interests of the community, viz the scenes of last Monday week; Messrs. Orr & Weston are private citizens. The question now is, Why should a public journal so "debass itself, and become so low," as to attack private citizens in this manner?

CITY ELECTION.—Next Saturday has been set apart by the Mayor for election purposes. Our people are called upon to choose a Mayor, two Aldermen, Treasurer, Marshal, Assessor, and Street Commissioner. We have heard no names mentioned in connection with any of the offices as yet, and from present appearances should judge that there will be but little attention paid to the subject. We hope, however, that the people will attend to the matter, and will make such selections, without regard to politics, as will best conduce to the prosperity of our town.

When Col. Corcoran was told that he was to be lunged if one of the privaters was selected, he said:

"Well, sir, I am ready; when I engaged in this war I made up my mind to sacrifice my life, if necessary, in defence of that flag under which I have lived and gained an honorable position."

The following unwilling testimony is borne by the editor of the New York Commercial Advertiser: "It is," he says, "unquestionably true that a large element of the North would see every trace of slavery obliterated as our armies move southward. It is true that this feeling is not confined to what is called the old abolition party, but is largely shared by those who were formerly known as our most conservative citizens."

A MONARCHY FOR THE REBELS.—Recent intercepted letters indicate that there is much apprehension of the establishment of a monarchy in the Rebel States. The passage in Governor Pickens's Message calling for a "stronger Government," the action of the Richmond Convention in restricting the right of suffrage, and similar movements in Alabama and Louisiana, seem to thoughtful Southerners to be regal precursors of the future.

ENCOURAGING TO FLOUR DEALERS.—At Memphis, Tennessee, flour is up to $12.50 to $15 per barrel. The newspapers there say that the way to get flour is to go into the stores and help yourself—and this will be done, too, if the prices go much higher. Thieving seems to be a favorite way of getting a living down South; but it can't last long. The people who are robbed will not be likely to offer any more for sale, and thus the end of thieving will come.

DEATH OF THE KING OF PORTUGAL.—The young King Pedro Fifth, has just died at the age of 24 years. He was a son of Donna Maria, daughter of the Emperor of Brazil, and a nephew of the present Emperor. He travelled all over Europe in his teens, and assumed the government of Portugal when he was sixteen years old. He was, however, of a short-lived race, as his mother and grandfather both died in their prime. Great things were justly hoped of this young king, who was virtuous, energetic and possessed of common sense. His death is a great loss to Portugal. He is succeeded by his brother, Louis Philippe, Duke of Oporto, who was born Oct. 31, 1838.

There seems to be a fatality about the office of Vice-President of the United States. Aaron Burr, the third Vice-President, was a rank traitor and conspirator; John C. Calhoun, the sixth Vice-President, was another virulent conspirator against our national life; John Tyler, ninth Vice-President, and by an accident, President, is now zealous rebel; and John C. Breckinridge, thirteenth Vice-President, dares not show himself in Washington, for fear of the halter he so richly deserves as the most sneaking traitor of them all. Will not some ingenious speculator devote a little consideration to the cause of this singular circumstance, and explain why so many Presidents of the United States should be found in the black list of conspirators against the nation which has honored and trusted them.

RETIREMENT OF OLD OFFICERS.—Secretary Welles advises the retirement of all officers who have been forty-five years in the service, except where specially designated by the President. This will shelve forty or fifty veterans. He also suggests the creation of a grade of flag officer, and the appointment of seven to that rank by the President, without regard to seniority.

Over four hundred freight cars filled with army stores and merchandise, are forwarded daily from Baltimore to the Capital by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad Company. GOOD SOUND UNION PAPER

In Davis, Dickinson, Salina, Ottumwa, Morrish Clay, Riley, Pottawatomie and Wabanssee to assist him in so doing.

The establishment of a newspaper, in times like these, in a new country, is, of course, attended with many embarrassments, and were we not assured that the wants of the people and the material interests of this fair portion of our State actually required a medium through which to make known the many advantages we possess over other sections, and to attract hither the many thousand people who are constantly seeking homes in the great west, we should have relinquished the enterprise long since.

Our aim will be to make
"THE UNION"
A FIRST CLASS FAMILY JOURNAL
IN EVERY SENSE OF THE WORD.
In order that it may be the more generally representative of the interests of the west, and reflect the opinions of our people, we are soliciting communications from the various localities in this section, on all matters of a local and general nature.
Our terms of subscription are as low as we can possibly make them and live by it. In payment for the paper we are willing to receive nearly all kinds of farm produce, though a little cash is indispensable for procuring paper, ink, and paying printers.

The proprietor of the UNION, having at considerable expense fitted up a first class would call special attention thereto. Every thing in the line of Job Work executed with NEATNESS and DISPATCH, and in the latest style of the art. A large four page paper, and will contain a full and reliable account of the movements of the United States forces; the doings of the rebel army, and every item of news of the least interest connected with the Great Struggle. As the publisher will reap no advantage from this undertaking, it is hoped that they will be patronized as becomes a people determined to support the Union, and succor and maintain its brave defenders and their wives and families.

The NAVAL AND MILITARY PATH-FINDER will be published on Monday next, the 29th of April, and every succeeding Monday. Price, five cents per copy.
