IS THE LAST DAY FOR REGISTRY.

THURSDAY, SEPTEMBER 12, 1889.

The registry in this city will crowd eighteen hundred before readers of the STANDARD have studied its eight pages this morning. Anaconda will "be there" when the roll is called next October, and towns that take an interest in the coming election will do well to emulate her example in getting the voters in. This city's list is open to inspection. Republican newspapers that speak about "coercion" are requested to scan it with care and to state their objections now, if any names on the list fall of their approval. These eighteen hundred men propose to vote, and objection must come quickly if ever it comes. The Anaconda list will climb to a grand total before Saturday. Probably the workers will make a round two thousand, if that is possible. This information is made conspicuous for the benefit of wall-eyed contemporaries who cannot see that Anaconda proposes to cast a full and an honest vote.

GET TO BUSINESS. If this campaign is marred with personalities, the democratic press of Montana is not to blame for it. If men, not candidates for office, are exposed as targets for cowardly personal assault, democratic newspapers are not the offenders. If citizens who have the unquestioned right to interest themselves in the canvass are assailed by vagrant newspapers, run as dailies during the campaign for a money consideration, the offense cannot be charged on the democratic press.

Henceforth, the STANDARD will be satisfied to print, without added note or comment, the talk of the republican press regarding its townsmen who are made the subject of cowardly personal comment. All the newspapers in politics for pay, high and low, big or little, shall get a hearing here, which they could not hope to secure except as the STANDARD quotes them. The hired scribblers are urged to put their stuff into type. But the democratic press will not insult itself by meeting the opposition in the field of unwarrantable personalities. It will not trouble itself to tell how Mr. Power fared in his dealing with Indian traders, it will not produce the proofs of crooked transactions involving the federal government and republican candidates. It will impugn no decent man's motives, it will not vilify citizens in the walks of private life.

Montana democrats will surely win in October. They are winners now. They named the winning tickets ten days ago. They can take care of the state ticket and the legislative candidates, to boot. They have shown that they cannot be defrauded by a rotten registry law; they will take mighty good care that they are not counted out at the polls. They present no candidate who ever robbed the people; they can easily afford to be decent. They are the aggressors in this campaign and they tell the opposition to get down into the ring and defend itself.

Let the republican press of the territory hasten to array itself on the line of living issues. Pay no attention to the proofs that Carter sought to introduce the religious element in last year's campaign. Do not study the files at Deer Lodge in hope of giving Mr. Power a clean record. Fling your insinuations at Anaconda's nineteen hundred voters if you will, and bring the suffrage of honest laboring men into contempt if you can. Dodge the real issues of the campaign if you want to, assault public-spirited men until you tire of it; but when you are through with a campaign of sneaking vituperation take a new tack and stay with the vital issues of the hour, if you are able to do it. Prove that the democrats of Montana have been recreants in the past, show how "Joe" Toole has betrayed the commonwealth, and wherein Maginnis has failed in fidelity. Point to the public record that entitles Carter to public preferment and suggest the claims which Power has to public favor.

None of these themes have stirred the republican press, which seeks to hide the weakness of its favorites by printing libels on democrats not candidates, and by raising its impotent voice of slander against men in public life whose personal popularity it is invited to put to the test.

YESTERDAY'S FIRE.

There is no reason to suspect that fire fiends have pitched their tents in Anaconda, simply because central property went up in smoke yesterday morning. No one presumes to account for that conflagration which might have occurred under normal conditions; and this is probably what happened. The city can afford to part with the shabby wooden structure that marred one of its most prominent business corners. Of course, the people of Anaconda will feel strong sympathy with those whose losses cannot be made good, but while this feeling will be general, there is no reason to regret the removal of unsightly buildings which, under city ordinances now in force, cannot be replaced except by a structure that will be safe in material and respectable in its proportions. The STANDARD must not fail to point out the fact that the effective manner in which the fire was handled is renewed testimony to the efficiency of Anaconda's fire department. All the surroundings were favorable to a disastrous conflagration, yesterday morning, but there was abundance of water and plenty of organized men who knew how to handle it with effect. The lesson to be drawn from this experience, is that Anaconda is able to take good care of itself in case of visitation of fire, and that it has claims to a revision of insurance rates which the companies having agencies here should be compelled to respect.

ON THE DEFENSIVE.

Before the campaign in Montana was sixty hours old, republican newspapers up and down the territory were put on the defensive. The first duty of these papers was to defend an outrageous registry law which a republican legislature devised with the direct purpose of putting democrats to disadvantage. Partisan newspapers have not been able to defend this outrage. Their ill-timed shafts have been aimed at the Mills bill, the Eiffel tower and the act of Providence that is depriving us of rain, while public spirited democrats have been paying out their money to secure registration for democrats who are not to be robbed of their rights because they are poor. The piece of monstrous legislation which forces the fight along this unfair line has found ready supporters with republicans. They have failed to defend it successfully, as they doubtless expected to fail in the attempt to abridge the rights of citizens. In the second place, the republicans have been forced to rush to the defense of the platform. It does not reflect the convictions of Montana on the tariff issue, it perverts the facts regarding party service in the matter of realized statehood. It fails to give credit where, notoriously, credit is due, it recites alleged history which the people know to be false.

Worst of all, the republican press is forced to defend its candidates. It cannot present Power as a clean man, it cannot back its claims in favor of Carter. It is compelled to place its favorites in contrast with the men who achieved statehood for Montana and it fails to catch the popular ear or strike the popular heart in its efforts to belittle the men whose names head the democratic ticket.

The republican press will be forced to face the issue on the line of defense. Democrats have passed the peril that threatened them on an unjust registry, and, as they have scored a victory on that point, so they will record a more substantial triumph when the people walk up to the ballot boxes in October.

If voters fail to get their names on the registry list, they will have themselves to blame for it. The STANDARD prints elsewhere, this morning, extracts from the decision of the Attorney General, who says that Sunday registration will stand. This opinion may be all right, but the safer way is to get registered before the week ends, reserving Sunday for the pious devotions, which have their votaries in all good democrats.

If current comment conveyed in press dispatches is of account, Senator Hiscock has got Tanner ousted of the pension office and put Major Poole in his place. Confessedly Tanner is a fool, and that's a good deal more than can be said of the man whom Senator Hiscock proposes as his successor. In the war of the rebellion, Major Poole lost his right arm. The county in which he lives paid handsomely for it by making him county clerk, an office worth a clean $25,000. Then the government made Major Poole a pension agent, an appointment which he held until a few months ago. The Major was Tanner's rival for the office of commissioner, but he failed when the appointment was made. If Mr. Hiscock succeeds in getting him named now, it will be the triumph of an extravagant right arm.

CURRENT COMMENT.

One of a Kind is Enough. From the San Francisco Examiner. Whether Graham went over Niagara Falls in a barrel or not there seems to be no doubt that Steve Brodie has gone over in a rubber suit, and that knocks all the romance out of Graham's exploit. Now that it has been conclusively proved that the thing can be done, it is to be hoped that the next half dozen idiots who attempt it will fall to report on roll-call after the trip. Something is an embodiment of ingenuity, but the person who deliberately imitates a feat like Brodie's is merely offensive.

Some Costly Ships.

From the Chicago Herald. The total original cost of the British war-ships of all sorts at the last Spithead review, paraded for the inspection of the Emperor, was $16,853,765. The number of ships present was 73; of torpedo boats, 28. The weight of metal contained in the heavy guns was 8,000 tons. The tonnage was approximately 300,000 tons. Five hundred and sixty-nine heavy guns, irrespective of quick firers and machine guns, composed the armament.

A Campaign in French.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer. There seems some question as to the accuracy of the report that General Boulanger is going to stump Ohio for Foraker.

Probably to do Both.

From the Philadelphia Press. Another lot of the bread-basket anders who want to come to America have arrived in New York. It is not known whether they come to fold their tents or merely to steal away.

Eastward It Takes Its Course.

From the Rochester Democrat. "What a lively year 1892 will be in Chicago!" exclaims the Chicago Times. Yes, at the railway stations when excursion trains are starting for New York.

A Question in Arithmetic.

From the Louisville Courier-Journal. If twenty strikes occur in one week under a "prospective" protective administration, what would happen under an ordinary government?

The Age of Comfort by Machinery.

From the New York Sun. Mrs. Cochran, of Shelbyville, Ill., has invented a dish-washing machine. This is only one of the comforts that will crown the domestic of the twentieth century. The "hired girl" of that happier time will light the kitchen fire by pressing an electric button at the head of her bed, grind the coffee by starting an automatic mill, drop 5 cents in the slot and have the eggs and chops sent from the grocers' and butchers' trust, catch the rolls as they jump off from the bread-basket under ground supply train, and set the table by turning a crank. The only irregular thing in a house in the age of comfort by machinery will be the cat. The cat can not be regulated or kept out of the milk by any device short of the guillotine.

Too Late.

From the Clothier and Furrier. "No, George," she muttered, as the miserable youth knelt in a passionate frenzy at her feet, "I can never be yours." "Well, Clara," he answered bitterly, as he rose quickly, "you might have told me so before, and saved me from bagging these trousers."

DEMOCRATS OF MONTANA:

The most important election in which the people were ever called upon to participate is but thirty days off. Never since the organization of the territory has the Democracy been so united or seemingly so invincible. Our cause is just, our candidates invulnerable, and our victory ought to be certain. There is but one danger to be feared, and that is a failure to register. Let every man that deserves well of the coming state, see to it that he is not disfranchised by that vicious and partisan registration law, which ought to have been entitled "An act to disfranchise the farmers, miners and stockmen of Montana," and which was born of the first republican legislature of Montana.

Register, and do so at once, and thus rebuke the party that enacted such a law. Delay is dangerous. In order to vote you must register on or before September 15.

Let the naturalized citizens of this territory who have been voting unmolested for years, hunt up their papers that they have not seen for ten years, and go to the place of registration and register, and at the same time register a vote to rebuke the political party that puts you to this great inconvenience and practically disfranchises you by the absurd provision which requires you to produce your papers, and in some instances to travel a hundred miles to register, before you can exercise the rights of freemen.

We ask all who are interested in good government, to read the platform of our party. Examine the public and business records of our candidates, pursue and investigate them in all their relations to the public, to the last and final analysis, and we are confident that you will find them worthy Montanians, men who will guard and protect her interests at all hazards.

MEN AND WOMEN.

Three generations of one family are now serving in the royal engineers. They are Gen. Sir Alexander Cunningham, Col. Cunningham, and Second Lieutenant Cunningham. Gen. Cunningham was gazetted in 1831.

Horace Greeley once preached a Christmas sermon in Dr. Chapin's church. He began by saying: "It has been said that I am the poorest speaker in America." P. T. Barnum, who was present, said that it was really true, but what he said enchanted every hearer.

It was Roger A. Pryor who first made use of the phrase "impossible conflict," not Wm. H. Seward as has been supposed. Andrew Carnegie has announced himself as a candidate for the presidency of the Institute of Civil and Mining Engineers of the United States. Abram S. Hewitt will be his chief opponent.

John Mullen of Oxford, Me., is 133 years of age. He has led a wandering life and attributes his good health to his habit of wearing woollens and leaving liquor alone. He runs a farm of 53 acres, doing most of the work himself. He has always lived on a very plain diet and his habits are remarkably regular. His only medicine is wormwood, which he makes into a strong tea and drinks when "out of sorts." He is quite a philosopher in his way and a close student of nature.

Brown-Sequard now holds the chair of experimental medicine in the College of France. He has a wide practice as consulting physician in diseases of the nervous system. He has been especially successful in treating obscure diseases of the spinal column. While practicing in New York he started in conjunction with Dr. E. C. Seguin, a medical journal entitled Archives of Scientific and Practical Medicine. Dr. Brown-Sequard was born in 1818, but is not in his dotage, as some hasty people have asserted. In fact, he does not look his age by ten years and his mind is as clear as ever.

WHERE TO REGISTER.

The Various Districts, the Agents and Their Offices.

In conformity with the new election law the commissioners of Deer Lodge county at their June meeting districted the county for registration and appointed agents as follows:

- District No. 1—Anaconda, Anaconda Upper works, Olsen Gulch and Blue Eyed Neille precincts; H. S. Stewart, agent; office at Anaconda. No. 2—Carroll, Willow Glen, Mill Creek and Lost Creek; A. M. Walker, agent; office at Carroll. No. 3—Stuart, Warm Spring and Race Track; E. Girard, agent; office at Warm Springs. No. 4—Oro Fino; Benjamin Franklin, agent; office at Oro Fino. No. 5—Deer Lodge; H. H. Zeno, agent; office at Deer Lodge. No. 6—Creek and Pioneer; Wm. B. Cline, agent; office at Garrison. No. 7—Ayon, Elliston, Hidden Treasure, Blossburg and Blackfoot; Jesse Jones, agent; office at Elliston. No. 8—Lincoln, Seven-up-Pete and Methuen; J. C. Hopper, agent; office at Seven-up-Pete. No. 9—Washington Gulch, Helena and Fitzpatrick's; J. C. Moore, agent; office at Helena. No. 10—Ovando, Boyd & Swift's Camp and Blanchard; Ovando Hotel, agent; office at Ovando. No. 11—Sunset and Elk Creek; J. J. Kenned, agent; office at Sunset. No. 12—Bearmouth, Beartown and Harvey Creek; J. D. Armstrong, agent; office at Beartown. No. 13—New Chicago, Drummond, Stone Willow Creek, Henney's and Dunkleberg; Wm. Dingwall, agent; office at New Chicago. No. 14—Phillipsburg, Tower, Black Pine, Hope Mine, Hasmark and Kirkville; Warren E. Evans, agent; office at Phillipsburg. No. 15—Granite, Ramsey and Sydney Mine; Don Greer, agent; office at Granite. No. 16—Georgetown, Cable and Silver Lake; C. Moore, agent; office at Pyrites. If the amount of the Queen's savings is

NOTICE OF ELECTION.

There will be an election held in the city of Anaconda on Thursday, the 10th day of October, 1889, at which time the qualified electors of said city, the question as to whether the sum of $25,000 of the bonds of the city of Anaconda shall be issued upon the credit of said city, to run for the term of ten years, and to draw 7 per cent. per annum on interest, for the purpose of constructing sewers, in said city. The voting places in the several wards will be the same as designated by the county commissioners for the general election to be held Tuesday, the first day of October, A. D. 1888. The judges and clerk of said election will be the same persons designated by the board of county commissioners to act as such at the general election to be held Tuesday, the first day of October, A. D. 1888, within the city of Anaconda. By order of the City Council of the city of Anaconda. J. R. BOARMAN, City Clerk.
