GRAND
Democratic Rally
... TO-NIGHT ...
EVANS OPERA HOUSE THIS
Evening, under the auspices of the Anaconda Democratic Club.
The meeting will be addressed by Hon. W. W. Dixon, of Butte, and Charles Hardbrook, of Race Track. All are invited.

THE WEATHER.
The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Pleyter, druggist, First street. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 32 degrees; 12 m., 35 degrees; 4 p. m., 52 degrees; 8 p. m., 41 degrees.
Subscriptions to the Standard will be received at the business office, or at the store of Crockett & King, Main street. Advertising rates can be learned at the business office, Standard Building, corner of Main and Third streets.

ABOUT THE CITY.
There will be a raffle for a $300 diamond to-night at Toosey & Hunt's place, Main street. The list is already nearly full and there will be no postponement.
For the present B. F. Mahan will make his office in the Matthews store, on Main street. He expects to have an office in the new block to be built by M. Copinus.
The Pacific Express company has decided to remove its office from the present location to the building formerly occupied by W. K. Sloan & Co., near the corner of Main and Second streets.

The contract for the erection of a new smoke stack and flue at the lower works was let this week to Messrs. Burke & O'Connor, of Helena. It is understood that work will commence immediately.
Newspapers are cropping out thick and fast. The first number of the Billings Gazette appeared two days ago. It favors the republican ticket and will be issued daily. The Red Lodge Pioneer is out and in favor of the democratic side.
The Water company proposes to increase its facilities by adding a large stream to the supply now furnished at the headquarters. In all probability a dam will also be built so as to increase very largely the storage capacity there.

Yesterday afternoon the family of Dr. Snyder welcomed the arrival of the most interesting stranger that ever graced their hearth. The little fellow has already made himself quite at home and the doctor's family are the recipients of many congratulations.
Unless you register you cannot vote.
His Chances Good.
The man Allen, who was taken to Deer Lodge a couple of days ago, on a charge of horse stealing, stands in a fair way of clearing himself. The transaction for which he is in limbo occurred last March. Jack Morris, a former resident of the city, and now of Granite, was in possession of the stolen animal for a time, and is prepared to prove that Mr. Allen came by it honestly. From the evidence now obtainable it appears that the theft was made by an Indian, who disposed of the animal to the man Perry, and who in turn sold it to Allen.
Now is the time to register.

Waiting for Figures.
The sewer question hangs fire, but the members of the city council expect to dispose of it to-night. It is understood that the aldermen are waiting for a more favorable bid for the work and they ask contractors to make an offer. Mayor Mahan will furnish specifications to any persons who wish to put in a bid, if they call at his office today. The intention of the council is to push the work with all possible speed, but the expense of the sewer can be brought within the figures originally submitted in the engineer's estimates.
See that your name is registered.

Notice.
All accounts due the Water Company must be paid at their office in the Standard building before the 15th of each month, for the preceding month, or expense of collecting will be added, and the service stopped. Hereafter, the published regulations of the company including the foregoing, will be rigidly enforced. Office hours 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. D. F. HALLAHAN, Sec.
Coal.
The Montana Lumber & Produce company are now receiving large consignments of Lehigh, stone and nut, Colorado anthracite and Rock Springs coal selected especially for family use, which they are prepared to furnish to consumers at bottom prices, in small lots or by the car load.

TO RALLY IN FORGE
Democrats all Ready for the Meeting to Be Held To-Night.

The Registry List Rolling up to Big Figures—Names May Be Added on Sunday, But Everybody Urged to Go on Record To-Day.

All voters are invited to attend the democratic rally to be held to-night in the opera house. Republicans can afford to attend, because there will no word uttered in offensive comment on any one of their candidates in the field. The names of the speakers announced for to-night give assurance on that score. Judge Dixon is a leading member of the legal profession with a record of which every county in the territory is proud. He shares the sentiment of the democratic press that the campaign can afford to be run outside of personalities, and he will discuss issues in which every resident of the territory is directly interested. The Carroll club will take part in to-night's meeting, and a big rally is planned.

Registry rolls up in the Anaconda precinct. The total list, reported at 10 o'clock last night when the registry office closed, footed up a total of 1,846 voters. This city ought to get up to a round two thousand, although the final count will probably drop below that figure. The office will be kept open on Sunday, but it is probable that the important work of registry will be largely disposed of during to-day. Opinions among legal authorities differ as to the right of registry clerks to add to the list on Sunday, but it appears to be settled now that there is to be no dispute over names entered on that day. Those who are in this city a number of names belonging on the registry list, but which are not yet entered. Every effort will be made to-day to get every voter in before the final round-up.

Getting a Square Meal.
A thoughtful looking cow was observed standing still and watching a grocery store in First street, yesterday afternoon such as a dog contemplates a bone out of his reach. The cow presently reached a conclusion from her process of reasoning, and deliberately walking up to the store selected a particularly large, crisp turnip from a quantity on display before the window. Retiring to the middle of the road in the same sedate and stately manner, she proceeded to devour the turnip with great relish. Then she fixed her eyes upon the store and again plunged into meditation. She was discovered in her attempt to steal another turnip, and driven off.

Waiting for a Statement.
In the matter of the assignment of C. M. Parr, Assignee, Aspling has been busy all day inventorying the stock, and the work is not yet completed. Several of the creditors were in town yesterday but no common action was agreed upon between them. Mr. Parr desires to effect an arrangement with them whereby he can continue the business, but, of course that matter cannot be taken into consideration until an accurate statement of the assets and liabilities is obtained. The creditors are principally business men of this place and Butte.

To Be Built.
Main street will witness marked improvements in building during the next few weeks. Mr. Dwyer proposes to erect a substantial two-story brick block on the lot next south of Keppler's jewelry store and is ready to receive bids for the construction of the same. It appears to be settled that a handsome building will take the place of property recently destroyed by fire, at the corner of Main and First streets.

Notice.
The undersigned, having discontinued his business, hereby authorizes Mr. N. H. Morley to collect all outstanding bills and give receipts for the same. WM. SUTTER.

TOOK A DOSE HERSELF.
A Woman Who Preached Temperance on a Train Under Difficulties.

The Northern Pacific train which left St. Paul on Tuesday afternoon for the west included nine crowded colonist sleepers. At least of the adults carried bottles of whisky, with which to brave the fatigue of the long journey before them. On Wednesday evening, while the train was speeding its way through the western part of North Dakota, the passengers began to regale themselves from their flasks pretty freely, and a number went to bed in a rather mellow condition, although no trace of disorder was observable anywhere. A good looking young widow, who had been flirting outrageously all day, passed through two or three of the cars imploring all hands to shun the bowl. She would stand in front of one of the little drinking parties and sing "Father, dear father, please come with me now." "Madam," huskily said one of the travelers, "here's to you and your dear father." "Drink not to me," replied the widow, "I am secretary of a W. C. T. U. in Minnesota." "Well, here's to the W. C. T. U." "This is not a subject for mirth. Why don't you be a man and cast the stuff from you?" At that moment the train, which had been gradually slowing up, came to a stop. The slowest head over into the young man's stomach. In her efforts to save herself from rolling off his lap she clutched at his arm, and the whisky bottle and down she went. Both held onto the bottle and between them it got turned upside down, and the whisky, gurgling copiously out into her upturned dress, finally found its way into the interior of her clothing. "This is a judgment upon you," cried the gasping widow, sitting up on the floor, "and I shall never drink again." "A few minutes later the conductor came along, and the young man advised him to keep an eye on the widow as she was very drunk and disorderly. The conductor told her she ought to be ashamed of herself, and if she was in such a condition that she couldn't drink without spilling it all over her, and making herself smell like a Chicago saloon, she must go to bed at once.

Kind But Firm.
From Time.
"I do think it's too bad that Mrs. Peavy is so harsh with her children," said Mrs. Gilbertson, over the back fence to her neighbor, Mrs. Galt. "I wish I could be harsh with children. They should be ruled by love and love alone. One should be firm and yet kind, never speaking in anger or pun'ishing hastily because—why, Sally and Tommy Gilbertson! You've been into those cookies again, have you? And I haven't been biting them. I told you that I'd skin you both alive if I caught you in those cookies another time! Now, I'm going to warn you both up with straps! Come, my dear, when I say I'll lick you I always do it. March right in here now. Ha, I'll show you how to turn up your noses at what I tell you!"

A Light Attendance.
PHILLIPSBURG, Sept. 13.—The arrival today of T. C. Power, Lee Mantle and H. C. Botkin, caused a small number of local Republicans to assemble at Moore's hall, where they were addressed by the above named gentlemen, and C. H. Moore of Georgetown. The meeting was called to order at 8 o'clock. The speech made by Power, was decidedly most of the usual republican flavor. The attendance was not large and the absence of that enthusiasm which marks democratic meetings, was noticeable. The party will leave in the morning.
It May Be.
From the New York Sun.
Mayor Grant to a member of world's fair committee: "I tell you what we can have that will be a great novelty during the fair. We can have a public execution of Kenan's." Member: "Nonsense, your honor!" Mayor: "Why, don't you think that the manner of his death will be decided by that time?"
Mr. Chant, piano tuner, from the well known firm of Estey & Camp, Chicago, is making a short stay in Butte and will visit Anaconda in the evening. Orders for tuning should be sent care Montana Hotel.

THEY ARE WIDE AWAKE
Great Falls Democrats Getting in Line For the Fight.

Rousing Speeches Made by Toole and Pemberton—The Issues Set Forth in Eloquent and Enthusiastic Addresses.
GREAT FALLS, Sept. 13.—Great Falls gave an enthusiastic welcome to Hon. J. K. Toole and Hon. W. Y. Pemberton. The great hall was crowded with people, including leading merchants, well-known townsmen, prominent miners and stalwart workmen. The hall was decorated profusely with the national colors, and a flag bearing the words "Magginnis, Toole and Victory" was displayed. Many ladies were present. Hon. T. E. Collins presented to the audience Hon. J. K. Toole. He referred to Mr. Toole's honorable public career and to the active part he had taken in advancing the welfare of Montana, securing her finally a place in the galaxy of states.
Mr. Toole, who was received with great heartiness, said that never had he found the Montana democracy so strong. Never did it present such an unbroken front as at this election. He spoke of the claim which the party had to popular support, referring especially to its long record of economy and honesty. He alluded to the burdens entailed by the republican law on the rural districts and the immense expense it entailed on the territory. Mr. Toole referred at considerable length to the democratic record on statehood and silver. He spoke of the criticism which the republican press had exhaled, and showed how in due time he obtained for Montana all that the northern counties desired, the opening of the northern reservation, and the right of way for the Manitoba railroad. He would, he said, follow as governor the broad non-partisan policy which he pursued in congress whenever the material interests of Montana were concerned.
Col. Pemberton was also introduced by Mr. Collins and received a warm welcome. He said that he intended to refer to a scurrilous attack made on him by Rolfe, but as he had expressed regret for it he would not allude to it further. Col. Pemberton then made a masterly review of the policy and tendencies of the two parties, showing that the democratic party had demonstrated its sympathy with the rights of labor in dealing with such questions as the Chinese, silver coinage, the public lands and internal revenue. He urged the democrats to act unitedly and to speak in glowing terms of the public career of Major Maginnis. The speaker referred with characteristic humor to Carter's extravagant claims to public support. He called for generous support for the whole democratic ticket, state and county. The demonstration was in all respects a striking success.

The lad received the announcement with perfect composure.

A Novel Refrigerator.
From Forest and Stream.
A young friend of mine, who has for several years each summer with his father on a camping trip on the south shore of Lake Superior, tells me of a novel experiment they often employed for preserving their venison in warm weather. In that country some of the streams are flanked by long rows of sand hills, whose consistency is such that they shift about continually under a wind of any force. In the winter time the high winds often blow the sand over the great snow banks, and in the spring the north side of the sand dunes, covering up the snow to the depth of several feet. The snow is thus kept unmelted, and even in the middle of summer it can be dug down through the sand to it and find the best imaginable natural refrigerator. In this way, said my young friend, they buried their deer and trout, and found them kept fresh so long as they could be eaten. This is certainly a new instance of nature's bountifulness with the sportsman.
