

LATE NEWS FROM BUTTE

Preparing for a Grand Democratic Rally Saturday Evening.

A Wedding at St. Patrick's Church—Affair in the Courts—Other Interesting Gossip Gathered by Our Correspondent.

Special correspondence of the Standard. BUTTE, Sept. 19.—There will be a grand torchlight procession on Saturday evening in honor of the great rally of the democrats to listen to the address of W. Y. Pemberton and R. B. Smith.

The case of Peter Martin for beating Jack McIntyre about the head with a revolver has been set down for next Thursday afternoon.

William Cole was arrested to-day on a charge of malicious mischief in breaking down a fence on Elias Simington's property. Cole claims that the fence was built on his property, and for that reason he tore it down. The case is set down for Saturday at 4 o'clock.

Dennis Driscoll and Patrick O'Donnell have begun suits in the district court against the Providence, Washington, insurance company, the Scottish Union and National insurance companies, and the Phoenix insurance company for $2,000 each, claiming unpaid insurance. The plaintiffs are the owners of a fifteen stamp quartz mine. The property was destroyed by fire on September 28, 1888, the loss being $24,000. The companies have not paid the insurance.

J. B. Coulter & Co. have been awarded by the board of county commissioners the contract for building the booths to be used as polling places.

John Noyes has filed an attachment against the property in Silver Bow county belonging to Charles Carver. It is for a debt of $1,400 and interest.

The Butte Miners' union has presented a handsome memento in the shape of a silver watch set, from the jewelry firm of Lopez & Trench.

There will probably be a special meeting of the common council before the next regular meeting. Several important items were not brought up last night, including the opening of the sewer bids. The fact, too, that the next regular meeting will be the night after election makes it doubtful if a quorum could be gathered at such an exciting time. A meeting, therefore, will probably be held next week.

This afternoon as some workmen were engaged in drawing sand in buckets by means of ropes and pulleys to the top of the Capitol building on Main street a rope broke, and a huge bucket filled with sand fell about 20 feet to the sidewalk. A foot passenger had a very narrow escape, the bucket just grazing his shoulder.

M. Meyer, a boot and shoe merchant on West Park street, recently made $1,500 on a real estate deal, buying one day and selling the next.

Before Judge Hopkins this afternoon were tried the cases of the Yarnes vs. William Newman and H. D. Rosenstein, charged with larceny as bailiffs. John Downey, the complaining witness, charged that on June 19 last Newman called on him, offering to clean a suit of clothes. Downey gave him a suit and has never succeeded in getting it back. Downey took the suit to Rosenstein's. Attorneys H. J. Wynn and J. J. Connelley, for Newman and O'Donnell for the defendant. The jury found Newman guilty and he was fined $50 and costs.

Fire Marshal O'Brien has set his new $500 at work examining chimney flues. Mr. O'Brien has already condemned 175 flues in the central part of the city, and in every case the owners have been ready to repair the defects at once. Mr. O'Brien will proceed very soon to train the horses for active service.

One of the most familiar figures in the democratic circles is Secretary Gosman's pretty dog Tony. Tony took first prize at the last dog show at Helena and it is pronounced by all to be the prettiest dog in Butte. He is a great favorite and is admitted to the most secret councils of the party leaders. He takes great delight in political parades, and was at all the political meetings held in the hall adjoining the secretary's room. He will sit perched on his hind legs and listen attentively to the speeches, giving a yelp of applause when the audience demonstrates its pleasure. Tony hates cats and republicans.

Swirl Wedding at Butte. Special to the Standard.

BUTTE, Mont., Sept. 19.—The Catholic church was crowded to-night with the elite of Butte society. The majority of those present being intimate friends of Judge J. J. McHatten and Miss Rosa Morrier who were married at 7:30 o'clock. Rev. Father Vandevan officiating. The altar was beautifully illuminated and decorated for the occasion. The musical service was very fine, Prof. Gabel presiding at the organ while Fr. Carlier conducted the singing. The bride who is one of the most popular young women in Butte, was attired in a white satin costume adorned with natural flowers. Her sister, Miss Josie Morrier, was bridesmaid, and wore a handsome brown silk. The groom was supported by Chas. E. Booth, county clerk and recorder. Judge McHatten is one of the most able and popular young public men of this city. The young couple start wedded life with the best wishes of all the people of the city.

Another Fire in Butte. Special to the Standard.

BUTTE, Sept. 19.—At 8 o'clock this evening a fire broke out in a little hut in the rear of No. 125 Copper street, occupied by a half paralyzed peddler named Sam Travis. A minute named Tom Kenyon was having a spree with him, and the men were drunk together. Kenyon says he was reading a paper by candle light, when the candle tipped over and set fire to the mattress. With difficulty the peddler and his pack were saved. The fire was put out by the Butte fire brigade, but not until the hut was nearly destroyed. There was no evidence of the presence of firebugs. The hut was owned by Adolph Spickhart.

The Real Estate Record. Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BUTTE, Sept. 19.—The following transfers of real estate were recorded at the county recorder's office at Butte to-day: Leopold Schmidt to Fred Loeber, for $3,700, one-third interest in lots 19 and 20, 18, 17 and 16, in West Granite and Alaska streets. Adolph Schmidt and Charles R. Kesster filed notice of claim to the Yarnes lock claim in the independent mining district. Emanuel Kauswerth and George Trichburn filed notice of claim to the Belmonte ledge mining claim in the Summit Valley district.

HIS CASH IS MISSING

It Cost Mr. Petterson Two Hundred Dollars to See the Sights in Butte.

He Doesn't Know Who Took the Money, but Edw. S. Soper Says His Wife of Having Something to Do With the Robbery.

Special to the Standard. BUTTE, Sept. 19.—Charlie Petterson, a Swede, 46 years old, for 19 years an employe of the Union Pacific railway company, and faithful and sensible when he is not under the influence of liquor, came to town three days ago from Helena, with $200 in his inside pocket. Last night he had $165 left. To-day he and the police have been looking all over town for that money and also for Mr. Petterson's gold watch and chain. Mr. Petterson claims that he was "held up" by highwaymen about 4 o'clock this morning, in South Butte, on his way to the Montana Union depot. But he "also admits" that he was pretty drunk and "didn't know exactly what happened. He said that he was down on the flats when a man grabbed him by the arm, and at the muzzle of a revolver went through him. He had two fifty's, three twenties and five dollars in silver, besides a watch and chain. All are missing.

Petterson is of the opinion, which is shared in by several of the police, that his wife had quite a little to do with the loss of his money. Mrs. Petterson is a woman who is known around town by the name of Nina, but whose real name is Kittie. She is about 35 years old and has been good-looking. She came to Butte from Dillon about a month ago, worked at the Rosebud for a couple of weeks and for the last night or two has been at the Eagle with her husband. She and Mr. Petterson have not lived together recently, and the Swede seems not to have held his wife in the highest degree of confidence. At any rate, this morning a squad of officers under Chief Marshal McArthur searched thoroughly Mrs. Petterson's room in the Inverness lodging house on Main street. Bedding, carpets, pictures, bureau, etc., were all thoroughly examined twice. Mr. Petterson being present, but without avail. Mr. Petterson had a warrant sworn out for one John Doer, but no arrests have yet been made.

Mrs. Petterson was seen by a STANDARD reporter this afternoon and denied having seen her husband's money or having been an accomplice in any way. "Charlie is a big fool," she said. "I was with him from 11 o'clock last night till 4 o'clock this morning. I met him about 11 o'clock and he wanted a glass of beer. My God, how that man did quize the beer! At last he got so drunk that I was afraid he would get pulled in. I saw he had a lot of money and tried to get him to give it to a policeman to take care of. 'Charlie,' I said, 'you have a lot of money about you; you are drunk, and you are in Butte, and you are liable to be robbed. But, no, he was bound to hang on to that wad himself. We went around to the McDermott and tried to get him to go to bed, but he thought the clerk was going to rob him, and wouldn't stay there. Then I took him to my room, and thought he was at last safe. But a girl in another room came and he was afraid she would rob him. Then I took him to a lodging house at the corner of Park and Main streets and put him to bed. I waited in the hall outside the door, but he wouldn't go out again, but then I found he had climbed out of the window and was below in the street. At 4 o'clock this morning I left him tied out and hearse from pleading with him to get up and at 6 o'clock, two hours afterward, I was awakened by a squad of officers who wanted to search my room. When they got through I went to bed again, but at 10 o'clock they were around again with Petterson and searched once more. I wish now I had taken his money, so it would be safe. Being his wife, I have a perfect right to do that."

"I was married to Petterson a few years ago in the parlors of the Windsor Hotel, Clinton, Iowa. He was a very nice man, worth $50,000 and I wanted some one to take care of my child. But he was awful mean, and I left him. Last May I met him and went to live with him at his home in Pocatello. But he was fearfully jealous and thought I preferred young men to him, but that is not true. I work for my living. On the second day of last July he tried to hang me from a scotch. He twisted one of these roller towels around my neck and hung me up to a lamp bracket. All that saved me was the breaking of the nails. You bet your life I slipped to Ogdenville very quick. Ten days later I met him again and we lived together for awhile, but he was too jealous. He is worth lots of money in Helena, and is entitled to one third of it as his lawful wife, and if he doesn't look out I will get it."

Mr. Petterson to-day telegraphed to Helena for $50 more to tide him over his present needs. He says he doesn't know who took his money.

Not a Nettle. From the Peoria Transcript.

"Oh, ma," said the little girl who was watching a lawn-tennis player on a warm day, "see what a funny necktie that man is wearing." "Hush, my dear," said the experienced matron. "That is not a necktie. The experienced matron was right. It was the player's flannel shirt."

ALL THE CHANGE HE WANTED.

A Very Smart Youth Meets With a Surprise While Traveling. From the Kennebec Journal. A young man who lives in Penobscot county, has recently been practically testing the many advantages of traveling "with a large bill."

A short time since he drove from his home to Northport. Among the equipments for this trip was a $50 bill. This he presented in payment for all the little expenses incurred on the drive, and when he finally arrived at the end of the journey he found himself still in possession of the bill. The following day he went on an excursion and sprung the bill upon the captain of the tug with the same result. So great was his success in avoiding the payment of small debts that he came to look upon the bill somewhat in the light of an extension paper which relieved him from all liability to such small cares. Emboldened by his success he hired an old skipper to take him in his sail boat for a cruise about the bay. When they had returned again to the wharf the $50 bill was again called into use and offered the old tar in payment for his services. The young man supposed it would prove a poser, and great was his surprise when the old skipper put it in his pocket. Then began the work of making change; from various lockers came canvas bags filled with silver of various denominations. This was laboriously counted out into little heaps, and began to look very bulky, when the young man said hastily: "See here, you needn't bother to count that out. Give me back the bill. I find I have the exact change here after all!"

"Can't do it," was the laconic response. "Why?"

"Well, I've been waiting for a chance to get rid of this 'ere stuff, and I don't think I'll ever get a better one. Just run that over at sea if it's correct."

The efficacy of the big bill was gone. The young man endeavored to bear up under the affliction, but even the presence from the skipper of a large canvas bag in which to carry his "change" did not altogether alleviate his chagrin.

He was Consoled. From the New York Sun.

A New Yorker who met a Kapsas man at one of the hotels the other day heaved a sigh as he said:

"I was in your town two years ago, and that piece of property west of the railroad station was offered to me for $30,000."

"Yes."

"I hear that it was sold last year for $75,000."

"It was."

"What short-sighted people some of us are! Had I bought for $30,000 I could now probably sell for $100,000. Think of that!"

"My dear friend, let me console you. That piece of property can be bought to-day for $30,000. The boom has passed."

The Alternative. From Life.

"Sonny, how can I get to the railway station from here?" "Have you got a grog or a little 'lad.'" "Oh, then you'll have to walk."

Frasuelo, the Spanish torero, has retired, with a fortune estimated at $600,000. Although ranking among the greatest bull-fighters, he was recently criticised by many experts for being unusually liable to accidents.
