RALLY TO-NIGHT.

HON. W. A. CLARK of Butte, and THOMAS B. O'BRIEN of Buffalo, N. Y., will address the voters of Anaconda to-night in Evans Hall.

THE WEATHER. The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Playter, druggist, First street. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 40 degrees; 12 m., 70 degrees; 4 p. m., 87 degrees; 8 p. m., 60 degrees.

Subscriptions to the Standard will be received at the business office, or at the store of Crockett & King, Main street. Advertising rates can be learned at the business office, Standard Building, corner of Main and Third streets.

ABOUT THE CITY.

There were no cases before the police justice yesterday. One arrest was made last night.

It appears to be settled that operations in the new smelter in Carroll will begin with the first of next month.

There will be a dance at the French hall to-night. W. W. Conroy and C. O. Roberts are the floor managers.

The members of the Austrian democratic club are taking hold of campaign work with great earnestness.

It is reported that two of the challenges filed day before yesterday at the registry office in this city have been withdrawn.

Tickets are out which are modeled in part after the official ticket, and a good many voters are busy rehearsing them.

Campaign stumpers wandering about the territory say that they take a world of comfort and rest when they strike the Montana in this city.

The visitors from Butte who took part in the rally last night had a glorious time after the meetings were over and started homeward at 2 o'clock this morning.

The wires of the Rocky Mountain telegraph company got "out of whack" in some way yesterday afternoon, and telegraph business was interrupted last night.

The regular meeting of the ladies of St. Mark's guild was held yesterday afternoon. The ladies propose to make the kindness to be held in December a great financial success.

To Close the Campaign.

Anaconda democrats have their innings tonight and to-morrow night. For this evening a meeting is announced to be held in the opera house, with W. A. Clark of Butte and Thomas B. O'Brien as the speakers. The latter gentleman is a stranger to Anaconda audiences, but he is warmly commended by those who have heard him during the canvass.

To-morrow night Anaconda will witness the grandest turnout of the campaign. A grand parade will be held. The torch light procession promises to be a splendid demonstration. Addresses will be made by J. K. Toole and Major Maginnis and, if the weather is favorable, a monster out-door meeting will be held.

To-night Mr. Toole is announced to address the voters of Deer Lodge and an immense rally is to be held in that place.

To Await Developments.

J. R. Boardman appeared as counsel for Nicholas Kabin before Judge Fitz Patrick, yesterday morning. The prisoner's arraignment was postponed until October 2, to await the result of Mrs. Kabin's injuries. The woman seemed to be improving yesterday, and her chances of recovery grow better daily.

To House Furnishers.

Look at the D. J. Hennessy Mercantile Co. ad. on carpets, house furnishings, etc. This house is moving to the front containing the progress of our city. Call and look them over. They carry the latest styles in all the goods they represent and give courteous treatment to all.

Coal.

The Montana Lumber & Produce company are now receiving large consignments of high stove and nut, Colorado anthracite and Rock Springs coal selected especially for family use, which they are prepared to furnish to consumers at bottom prices, in small lots or by the car load.

MEN WANTED.

McKivir & Co. want men immediately to do railroad grading work at Anaconda. Wages, drillers, $2.25, and shovellers, $2.00 per day. Apply at camp, near Fire Clay Brick Works, east of city.

Look at the bargains in underwear at Losee & Maxwell's.

Losee & Maxwell are agents for the celebrated Red School House shoes. Every pair warranted.

THE Y WERE OUT IN FORCE

Butte Republicans Come Over to Take Part in Last Night's Turnout.

Candidate Carter and Congressman Horr speak in Deers and Out-A Free Excursion and a Torch-Light Procession.

Republicans from all over this section of the state came to Anaconda last night to have a good time, realizing that if they postponed their good time until next week they wouldn't have any. It was a large and good-natured crowd. Through one delay and another, the train did not arrive until 10:30 o'clock, at which hour the speaking at Evans hall had been concluded. The free train from Butte was combined with the free train from the north at Stuart, and one monster train of 19 cars drawn by two engines pulled into the depot at the hour named amid a blaze of red light and the shouts of the juvenile portion of the populace. It was nearly 11 o'clock before the procession started. At the head of all was the superb Boston & Montana band. Then there were the Meadeville republican club, the Centerville republican club, the Parrot republican club, the South Butte republican club, besides unclassified torch-bearers from Butte, Deer Lodge and other places along the way, the rest being brought up by the Anacondians. The Allis band of Walkerville was stationed about a third of the way down, and a drum corps led the last third. An actual count showed 732 torches in line. The procession moved through several of the principal streets on the east side, striking into Main street at Third, and turning down past the Montana, in front of which was stationed a man on horseback who kept calling to each club as it passed: "Cheer for Carter, boys." The torch procession went past the Montana, and then counter-marched and formed finally into an irregular phalanx before the hotel. Thomas H. Carter mounted a wagon and gave a brief summary of the address he had delivered earlier in the evening. He expressed pleasure at the size of the crowd, although he must have known that over 90 per cent of the visitors were democrats. He asserted that the republicans would carry 15 out of the 16 counties, and that his own majority for congress would be over 10,000 than 5,000. J. E. Rickards, the republican candidate for lieutenant-governor, followed with a short and entertaining speech, and then Mr. Horr, like Mr. Carter, gave an abridged edition of his speech in Evans hall. Last of all came Lee Mantel, who ended the exercises a few minutes past midnight. The train homeward bound left at 2:45 o'clock this morning. The great crowd of visitors seemed to enjoy themselves thoroughly, and Anaconda was said to be in a high state of excitement. The procession was brilliant, the Butte boys especially showing up in splendid form. There were as many cheers for "Maginnis and Toole" among the spectators as there were for "Carter and Power" in the parade, and everybody was happy. The fact that so many people were waiting to see the arrival of the visitors tended to operate disastrously on the assemblage in Evans hall. Still the audience was of good proportions. Judge Fitz Patrick introduced Thomas H. Carter as the first speaker, and in his way of preface, spoke of the birth of states in general, and that of Montana in particular. The campaign of the past six weeks, said, had been characterized by a spirit of fairness and honor, and this was due in a large degree to the "high-toned and broad-gauged" chairman of the democratic state committee. The policy of the democratic party, Mr. Carter said, had for the past fifty years been inimical to the development of the great Northwest. Buchanan believed in selling these great tracts of land to the highest bidder, instead of settling them with homesteaders. He believed that the mines should be leased out to the capitalist, so that the government might reap an eternal reward from them and be in a sense a vast landlord. The financial policy of the democratic party, he said, was to bring about ruin to the country's prosperity. Under Cleveland, silver fell from 110 to 92. Under Arthur's administration silver had risen. The records of both parties had been had on the silver question. The interests of Anaconda and the interests of Wall street were not the same, and it was difficult to reconcile them. The republican party, however, had done what the democratic party had not done, had pledged itself to an unlimited coinage of silver, and the next congress would redeem that pledge as soon as it meets. Under Cleveland lead went down from $5 and $6 to $3.00. There was a duty of $30 a ton on Mexican lead ore, but under Fairchild's ruling that ore containing more silver than lead could be admitted free, the Mexicans saw their opportunity and with a few sacks of high grade ore scattered along the center of the car they deceived the inspectors. The high grade silver ore was removed as soon as the car had crossed the border and did not change Fairchild's ruling, but he ordered that the cars be sampled commercially, and lead has gone up from $3.65 to $4.10 in consequence. Mr. Carter then went over the wool question from the usual republican standpoint. He also dwelt upon copper and the history of the French copper bill proposed to reduce the duty on copper only 40 per cent, while the Mills bill took off 100 per cent. When congress reconvenes, Mr. Carter guaranteed that it would not touch the present duty on copper. Toole and Maginnis were in Washington six weeks and with all their efforts got only twenty democrats to vote for admission. Mr. Carter saw all the republicans and all voted for it. The speaker claimed that the republican party was sound on the "business question." In conclusion Mr. Carter made an appeal to Irishmen, telling them that they got nothing from the democrats while the republican party honored them and gave them office. Roswell P. Horr of Michigan undertook to make a funny rather than an argumentative speech. He was bright and witty, but the gist of his remarks could be summed up in the statement that the republican party had preserved and protected the country, while the democratic party was always arrayed against its best interests. He told a good many funny stories. He talked wool, iron, copper, tin, salt and nickel, and was discreetly silent on silver. He thought it a shame that the four new states had been disfranchised so long, and he expected great things of them.

IT WAS ALL RIGHT.

Just after the parade three visitors from Butte who were taking lunch in the L. X. L. restaurant, near the depot, when one of the number suddenly discovered that he had been touched up for his wad, which he said was in his pocketbook. Two of the party swore eternal fealty to the unfortunate who had fallen a victim to the sharpers of Anaconda. They left the party immediately for the supper, and started out with the avowed intention of finding the marshal and the pickpocket if it took till election day. In half an hour or so they returned amid their profuse apologies to the proprietor of the restaurant redeemed the overcoat, saying that the supposed victim of the pickpockets had found his wad tucked securely away in his inside pocket.

At the Rally.

A man who declined to give his name was shouting for free whiskey and the whole republican ticket on the depot platform, while his fellow enthusiasts were doing yeoman's duty drilling through the streets of Anaconda. His somewhat muddled remarks aroused the ire of some urchins who were in the vicinity, one of whom threw a coal-bunch with disastrous effects to the face of the enthusiast from Butte. He declined to stay over and prosecute the offenders, who are known to the police.

IT IS BIG ENOUGH.

Competent Authority says That a Twelve-Inch Sewer is All That Is Needed.

When election is out of the way, residents of Anaconda will probably take up the question of bonding the city for the construction of a sewer and give the subject a thorough discussion. The only objection urged against the project is that the proposed sewer is too small. It will be large enough for the future use of the city. It should be understood, however, that the proposed sewer is not intended to carry any surface water, but simply to dispose of the actual sewage of the town, including the drainage from dwellings, stores, stables and shops. It has been found by modern authorities that the larger sewers formerly built are less healthy and much more objectionable than those of smaller area. Careful calculation has been made by competent engineers regarding the proposed sewer in this city, and the authorities are satisfied that the size of pipe which it is proposed to use, with the fall which can be secured, will be ample for either four or five times the size of Anaconda. There will always be an abundance of water at command with which to flush this sewer.

TOWN TOPICS IN BUTTE.

Mike Nugent Again Charged With Highway Robbery—Other Notes.

BUTTE, Sept. 26.—For the second time this week Mike Nugent was today tried for highway robbery. The first case was that of the Swede Peterson, but the evidence was not sufficient to hold Nugent. This afternoon Nugent was tried on a charge of attempting to rob Chris Curry in an alley back of East Galena street. Curry claimed that Nugent attacked him there and tried to rob him, but he got the better of him. The defense was mistaken identity. Judge Newkirk reserved his decision.

Hon. George W. Cassidy and W. J. Penrose will address a meeting of electors at Centerville, to-morrow evening.

To-morrow evening, at democratic headquarters, East Galena street, L. M. Rand, from Minneapolis, will address the Scandinavians of Butte.

On Saturday night, Hon. W. A. Clark and G. W. Cassidy will address a meeting in the Butte opera house.

The Republican Protective Labor club meet to-morrow evening at Caplice hall, 100 E. Broadway, under the leadership of Marshall George Irvine and Lee Mantel.

William Wakefield, the miner who was injured by falling into a sewer early this morning, will bring action against the city.

H. F. Grogan, an engineer on the Montana Union railroad, died this morning of typhoid pneumonia. He was 29 years old, unmarried, had been sick but three days. The body will probably be sent east for burial.

What is considered the finest school building in Montana is the new St. Patrick Parochial school, which has just been completed at the south west corner of West Park and Washington streets. The building is a two-story structure, which is well finished and speaks well for the confidence of Butte's citizens in the permanency of the city. The building is so nearly completed that the school will be ready to open in two weeks ago for the purpose of taking charge of the school. Sister Loretta is superior, and the others are Sisters Armada, Constantia, Mary Cecilia, Mary Francis, Frances Sales, the music teacher and Henrietta.

The exterior of the building is of brick and the style is elegant and substantial. The first floor contains a prettily furnished parlor and four class rooms, 26x32 feet. The rooms are finished in cherry and are provided with steam radiators, blackboards and desks. The second floor is the sisters' pleasant dormitory, a large wardrobe, four piano rooms, the sisters' recreation room, well stocked with books and games, and a billiard room 70x42 feet, the largest room in the building. It is the main school room and will also be used for exhibitions, concerts, lectures and other amusements. The building is wide and built of oak, while the halls are finished in pine. Water is provided on every floor. In the cellar is the dining room for the Sisters, kitchen, pantry, store room, janitor's room, boiler room, etc.

There is also a room which may be fitted into a smaller or larger school room. None are taken into the school of less than six years of age.

The erection of the schoolhouse was begun on August 1st, and cost $20,000. Of this sum $10,000 was for the lot and for furniture and other appurtenances. Father Van der Veer and his parishioners are greatly pleased over the completion of the building which for so long a time has been an object of deep concern with them.

LATE NEWS FROM BUTTE

Sheriff Lloyd Will Try to Close the Saloons on Election Day.

A Rather Unusual Case in the City Police Court—Mining Notes and Other Gossip of Interest in the City of Butte.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BUTTE, Sept. 26.—The phenomenon of a sober day in Butte is on the programme for next Tuesday. Sheriff John E. Lloyd said to a STANDARD reporter this afternoon that he shall strictly enforce the laws of the territory regarding the sale of liquors on election day. The enforcement of this law has never been tried but the sheriff declares that there is no use of having such a law if it isn't enforced, and as long as the law is on the statute books, and he is sheriff, he will enforce it strictly. If the laws are not meant to be enforced he thinks they should be repealed. The sheriff has prepared a thousand circulars, which read as follows:

TAKE NOTICE.

Sec. 25. Hereafter it shall be unlawful for any person, either as principal, agent or otherwise, on any general election day to sell, barter, give or furnish, or cause to be furnished, to any person or persons whatsoever, any spirituous or malt liquors, wine or cider, or any intoxicating or other beverage, of any kind or character. That each and every person violating any of the provisions of this section, shall be punished by a fine not less than $10 nor more than $100, or imprisonment in the county jail for not more than one month, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. The provisions of this court shall not be construed to include drugstores or other persons who shall in good faith sell or dispose of the articles hereinbefore mentioned for medicinal or mechanical purposes only.—R. & M. Mont.

Sec. 34. No officer of election shall do any electioneering on election day. No person, whatsoever, shall do any electioneering on election day within any polling place or any building in which an election is being held, or within 25 feet thereof, nor obstruct or hinder in any way, or prevent free ingress to and egress from said building. Any election officer, sheriff, or other person, who shall violate the provisions of this section, shall be deemed to be in contempt of court, and shall be liable to arrest and to be imprisoned in the county jail for not more than one month, or by both such fine and imprisonment, in the discretion of the court. Sheriff Silver Bow County.

These circulars will be distributed throughout Butte to-morrow. The outcome will be watched with interest.

The naturally rustic and virtuous air of the police court was tainted this afternoon by the trial of the case of The Territory vs. Peter Martin. It was the Dublin galech case, where John McIntyre was badly smashed over the head with a revolver by Peter Martin, the latter's wife being concerned in the case. F. C. Corbett appeared for the prosecution and E. S. Bonney for the defense. McIntyre testified that he boarded at Martin's house, and late in the evening sat talking with Mrs. Martin on the steps. Presently she went to bed. He felt sick, got up and went into the kitchen to get a drink of water. He heard a scuffle and the first thing he knew received a rap on the head from Martin. On cross-examination McIntyre said that in going to the kitchen he passed through Mrs. Martin's room. He denied having had any improper relations with Mrs. Martin. He was dressed in his underclothing. He denied that he was in her room when she undressed. He did not strike Martin.

Mina Martin, the woman in the case, said that she was sitting on the steps reading when McIntyre came to get a drink, and told her if she stayed up too late she would oversleep in the morning. She said she heard the door open and she feared he would take her child, as he had threatened to do. Martin had not lived at home for some time. He handled witness pretty roughly. McIntyre stepped in to take her part and was struck in the face over her shoulder. Mrs. Martin went into the bedroom to get a gun, which she had kept for protection. McIntyre threatened to kill McIntyre, and here she heard a shot fired in the adjoining room and then she shot, merely to frighten Martin. She said that Martin had a revolver in his hand when he entered the house.

After a severe cross-examination the witness was allowed to go. The jury waived all testimony and asked for judgment. Attorney Corbett for the prosecution demanded that the prisoner be put in heavy bonds to await the action of the district court. The judge reserved his decision until to-morrow.

Quite a number of Butte's prominent citizens will participate in the excursion of the Blue Bird Company to Washington next week, to participate in the twenty-fourth triennial convocation of the order. Those from Butte who have already decided to go are: James A. Murray, Chester A. Small, Fred Laro, Collins, Senior H. R. Dufrene and Wm. E. Whitman for the recovery of $25,000 damages levied on the part of their ores and minerals wrongfully extracted by means of a shaft sunk on or near the Darling lode claim. It is charged that by means of drifts, level and other underground workings from their shaft the Blue Bird vein was infringed on. The action is also to obtain a decree of the court perpetually enjoining the defendants from working or excavating in the Blue Bird vein and particularly at the point of said shaft. Copies of the notice were served on the defendants to-day.

Butte Real Estate Record.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BUTTE, Sept. 26.—The following transfers of real estate were recorded at the county recorder's office at Butte to-day:

James W. Forbis to Cornelius Drennan for $2,300, lots in Rier's addition to Butte.

The Glangary mining company has purchased the claims of E. Wainwright and Charlotte D. Wainwright, of St. Louis, the Glangary lode mining claim in return for 50,000 shares of $10 each of the capital stock of the company.

Clifton H. Hand and Maggie McLoggan have given notice of the location of the Jennie May claim.

H. F. Bailey has given notice of the location of the Sunny Side lode mining claim, and of the Blue Cloud claim in the Divide district.

Simon V. Kemper has decided to Abraham N. Foster for $28 his interest in the Sunny Dell mining claim.
