

LATE NEWS FROM BUTTE

A Young Physician Whose Life Has Been Wrecked By Morphine.

What Might Have Been a Brilliant Career Ruined by the Deadly Drug—Other Notes and Gossip of Interest.

Special to the Standard.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—About 10 o'clock last night a man moving restlessly about in front of a drug store in West Park street attracted the curiosity of passers-by. He was a man of about 32 years old and his face was one of the most pitiful ever seen in Butte. He was deathly pale, attenuated and haggard. The frightful paleness of his face was rendered more horrible by a blackened eye of large proportions, with a circle of livid red around the orb. The young man was dressed neatly in black, his shoes polished, his linen was faultless. It was the young man's movements that attracted more attention even than his ghastly appearance. He could not stand still an instant. Occasionally he would peer into the window of the drug store with a longing gaze, but kept moving all the time. His hands, like his feet, were kept constantly in motion, sometimes in drawing his well-fitting gloves on and off and sometimes in fumbling with his hands nervously in his vest pockets. Occasionally he would start up the steps of the drug store, but would always come down again shaking his head and muttering to himself, before his hand grasped the door handle. The name of the young man is Dr. Wm. Lorraine, and for three years he has been known as the worst morphine eater in Butte. When he came to Butte 10 years ago he was considered one of the brightest and ablest young physicians ever in the western country. He came to Butte from the east, but was originally from Montreal, where he received a splendid liberal and medical education. It is only within a few years past that he has acquired the habit of eating morphine. The habit has resulted in making him a physical wreck, the object of pity alike from friends and strangers.

Dr. Lorraine's case came to public notice by his being arrested on Thursday night, although the case has been kept quiet by the police. It seems that Dr. Lorraine, while scarcely knowing what he was doing, went into a restaurant in Park street for something to eat. He ordered coffee and pie. The waiter refused to serve him, and he remained as long as he paid his way. The dispute resulted in the doctor being roughly handled and thrown out. Officer Leyson picked him up.

"Arrest this man," cried the doctor, pointing to the waiter. "No; I'll arrest you," said the officer. The only entry put on the police books was: "W. Lorraine, Dr. Lorraine."

"Yes, they had me in a felon's cell," said the doctor last night, in rehearsing the story to a STANDARD reporter. "I was never in jail before. They locked me up in the police cells first, and then took me up to the court house. All night long and all day long I was in the court house, but they wouldn't give me a bit of sleep. To-night my friends got me out. Yes, morphine has wrecked my life. But I can't help it, I must eat it, or I will be touched like a dog or a pig in any form. I wasn't drunk in the restaurant and didn't do anything wrong that I know of."

SHE WANTS A DIVORCE.

Mad Matrimonial Experiences of a Cornish Girl in Butte.

Special to the Standard. BUTTE, Oct. 12.—One of the worst cases of cruelty and desertion ever brought to light in this city appeared to-day in a suit for divorce brought by Mary Richards of this city against her husband, John G. Richards. Mrs. Richards a little over a year ago was a pretty Cornish girl named Mary Stewart. She came to Montana from Cornwall 16 months ago and soon became acquainted with Richards, who is a Cornish miner. They were married September 8, 1888. Richards was in humble circumstances and his wife cheerfully shared his fortune. At first he treated her kindly, but last July began mistreating her, it is charged, acting cruelly and threateningly toward her while she was confined to her bed. While in this condition, Richards packed her trunk and declared he would leave his wife. His unkind and harsh language and treatment rendered the young wife well nigh distracted. The result was that Mrs. Richards gave birth to a six months' old babe. The child only lived two or three days. During that time and while the young wife was in bed and near death's door, Richards continued to abuse her, and refused to provide nourishing food or such stimulants as were needed under the circumstances. He procured one bottle of port wine, but that was all drunk by the husband and his mother.

The climax of the husband's inhumanity appeared when Richards refused to provide for the child and declared that he needed any coffin! he exclaimed. The young mother pleaded piteously that her child be given a decent burial, and the husband said finally he would take care of it. He then stuffed the little body in an empty raisin box, and carried it on his shoulder to the cemetery, where he left it exposed on the ground for days. He told his wife the next morning what he had done. She then attempted to rise from her bed and declared she would go to the cemetery herself to see her child in condition and bury the child. The brute then consented to bury the body. One month after this Richards secretly packed all his personal property in his brother's trunk and took it to anyone got it out of the house. His wife has seen nothing of him since nor heard anything. She is left entirely destitute, dependent solely on the generosity of friends and neighbors. She has applied through Attorneys McBride & Hallidore for a divorce. Diligent search has been made for Richards during the past few days, but he has left town and is believed to have left the territory. He owns several hundred dollars, it is said, in various parties. Mrs. Richards is now in the hands of a lawyer in divorce. The husband left town just in time to save himself from severe handling at the hands of the friends of the young wife.

The Case of Young Lewis.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—McBride & Hallidore today, on behalf of Frank M. Lewis, accused of murder in the second degree, petitioned Judge DeWolfe for a writ of habeas corpus. The petition claims that Lewis is illegally imprisoned, there being no evidence to warrant his imprisonment. The object is to gain the freedom of the prisoner. The petition is returnable next Saturday.

BUTTE SOCIAL WORLD.

Ladies Who Walk Because They Would Rather Go a-foot Than Drive.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. BUTTE, Oct. 12.—There is perhaps as little carriage riding indulged in by the ladies of Butte as in any city of its size in the United States. There are, of course, a few well-known society ladies here who are familiar figures in their handsome equipages upon the streets, but as a rule Butte society people have not adopted that form of recreation which is so common in other cities. It must not for a moment be thought that the luxury of carriage driving is not indulged by the ladies of this city because of its expensiveness. Such is not the case, as it is a well-known fact that Butte ladies have at their command for current expenses more ready money than their fair sisters of the eastern cities. Carriage riding would seem not to accord with the instincts of the hardy western lady, who does not fall in with the notion that she should go through life supported by a chair or cushion. The enervating pleasures of the effete east are not popular here, and therefore the influence of the breezy mountain air, the heart beats quicker and stronger, and the circulation of the blood, like the circulation of the money, is more active. Butte ladies are well able to afford a carriage prefer to walk, and during the bright autumn days of the past week the sidewalks have been thronged with the most beautiful and richest costumes in Butte. It is becoming quite fashionable for Butte ladies to take brisk walks even to the outskirts of the city and over the sides of the mountains that environ it. A STANDARD reporter, who was climbing the butte a few days ago, met half a dozen of the prominent ladies of this camp on their way to the top; and a happier, prettier, livelier bevy of women were never before encountered by a scribe. There was no evidence there of spritless languid, exhausted countenances. Every one of the party looked as if she would scorn that form of physical cowardice which leads too many women, and men too, to be afraid of wind or rain or mud. Against the largeness of nature we are better able to see the littleness of our own lives; against her infinite calm, our own paltry excitements; but against her strength and beauty our habitual feebleness and foolishness. This is why a walk on the gray hillsides on the grayest and most dreary of afternoons is immeasurably better than a few hours ride in a carriage. The body is refreshed and invigorated by the mind, and the ordinary cares of life are thus made lighter.

The social season has scarcely opened yet in Butte. A few pleasant private parties have been inaugurated, however. It is observed that the fall style of mantles as worn in Butte are of unusual length, which, while very difficult to walk in, are still a great protection to the dresses.

Reverend of anxious ladies are awaiting the re-opening of Bonner's, and Hennessy's. Judge McConnell of Helena is registered at the Hotel Broadwater.

A. B. Cook of Helena is at the McDermott. E. S. Stackpole and child of Deer Lodge are in town.

Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Freyler have returned from a six months trip to Europe. Mrs. M. B. Sanders of Helena was in this city yesterday.

A. J. Stapp, general passenger agent of the Union Pacific has been east on an extended holiday trip and returned today. He came back alone, much to the surprise of some of his most intimate friends, who had a well-developed idea that his home-coming would be a signal for congratulations.

Miss Estie Stapleton has returned from the ill-treatment of a certain society lady noted for her beauty and stylishness, by her husband, who is a very prominent person here. If this thing continues some very sensational revelations are promised as the lady has revealed to some of her friends that she will not bear her husband's treatment much longer without taking the public into her confidence.

Mrs. W. A. Clark and her amiable daughter, Miss Katie, spent a couple of days this week visiting friends in Deer Lodge. A large concourse of the society people of Butte visited the Hotel Broadwater, at Helena, today.

Miss Estie Stapleton has returned from a very pleasant visit to friends in Deer Lodge. Many people in Butte regret that Mrs. W. A. Clark and her daughter will not remain to reside in the east. Mrs. Clark is a lady much esteemed here and she and her accomplished daughters will be greatly missed in Butte.

Miss Lizzie Thornton will spend the winter in New York.

Residents of Butte Who Declare That They Are Not the Next Postmaster.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—"Say, did you hear that Butte's new postmaster has been appointed?" inquired a well-known republican of the STANDARD reporter today. The scribe admitted that he had not received the information. "Well I guess it's true," continued the republican, "the report reached here this afternoon that A. F. Bray has been appointed to succeed Mr. Talent. I hope it is not true but I have it on good authority who says that Bray has really been appointed."

The reporter at once sought out Mr. Bray who when questioned about the matter said he had received no notification of his appointment. He said he had made no effort to secure the position and would not take it if it was offered to him as his business was worth more money he said. Mr. Batchelor, who has been for nine years a faithful employer of the Butte postoffice and who has been frequently and favorably spoken of as Mr. Talent's successor was also interviewed by the reporter. Mr. Batchelor said he did not know whether or not the news that a new postmaster had been appointed was true. But he did know that he had served about as long as he intended as clerk. He expected to receive the appointment of postmaster because he felt he had earned it as much as any one. If a new man were to be appointed over him he would feel it was time for him to look for another job. The sentiment of the whole city is evidently in favor of Mr. Batchelor's appointment.

Locked Up by the Records.

Special to the Standard. BUTTE, Oct. 12.—City Marshal McArthur and Chief of Police Smith today locked up the police court records in order that the reporters might not get any news therefrom. This step was taken because one of the daily papers recently published an article which McArthur thought reflected on his dignity as an officer. The action of the police authorities in this matter has caused a good deal of indignation in the ranks of the local scribes. It is generally considered that Marshal McArthur has arrogated to himself too much authority and that he is unnecessarily jealous of his reputation as an officer. Since he is very far from being above legitimate criticism in his official position he persists in the course he has adopted during the past few months he may have his dignity somewhat ruffled.

MADISON MINES.

A Promising Field That Has Already Shown Handsome Returns.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. PONY, Mont., Oct. 12.—Work has commenced on the new mill and concentrator at Pony, under the superintendence of Mr. Frank Rosburg, formerly of the Anaconda Smelting works. A Ball steam stamp is to be erected with Cullum lign, round tables, grinders, copper plates and Frue vanners, some of this machinery having already arrived.

Two hundred laborers from Minneapolis arrived here a few days since. They will go to work on the Pony branch of the Northern Pacific.

The new bluff mining interests are looking up, as considerable inquiry is being made by Cleveland and St. Paul capitalists for mines in that district, and it is quite probable that the sale of the Goldconda group of mines, with the mill thereon, for $125,000, will be followed in a few days by that of the Grubstake and Finckelmine groups.

The Revenue mine and mill which had been shut down for some time since the first one of the new shafts was started, and the vein on the lowest level of this mine shows sixteen feet of paying gold ore. S. K. Knox has purchased the Montana and claims adjoining it from Judge Reel for $20,000, and has men employed in development work. Helena parties have banded the mining interests of D. M. Haggerty on Richmond Flat for $200,000, for our Northrup, who recently acquired the Washington Bar placers for the modest sum of $250,000, have just concluded a recent year's work and have closed down for the season.

On Richmond Flat the deep tunnel on the Ingomar group is being driven ahead, and it is said that the discovery of the leads there fully justifies the enterprise of the owners.

The representatives of the syndicate having its headquarters in Kansas City are working during the coming week, their purpose being to examine the Southern Gal group of mines in Potosi district. These show very large veins, some of them being over 100 feet wide. The formation is porphyry and granite, and the character of the ore antimonial silver. The district possesses great natural advantages for mining and milling being unsurpassed.

It is strange that a region in which such vast mineral wealth is contained should be so backward in its development. The formation of Madison county has had up to the past few months. But the advent of railroads is attracting attention towards it now, and there is no doubt that the future will show up pretty high on the list of ore producers of Montana.

THE ENCAMPMENT ENDED.

Troops Belonging to the Militia to Break Camp at Fort Ellis this Morning.

Special to the Standard.

FORT ELLIS, via Bozeman Oct. 12.—After a successful and profitable week of drill, Colonel C. F. Guitta commanding officer has today issued instructions for the breaking up of the annual encampment of the state militia to-morrow morning. On account of the excellent accommodations which have been at the disposal of our home army, many regret that their military life as a body is now over for another year. The encampment has been beneficial to officers and men alike. The attendance has been large, all of the respective companies being well represented and those in a position to say that there has been a marked improvement in the appearance, military tactics and maneuvers of our national guard when compared with the year before. The Fort has presented quite as active an appearance during this week as it did when occupied by the regulars. The location is especially adapted for an annual encampment, not only on account of the buildings and grounds, but because Ellis is geographically the center of the state. The citizens of Bozeman, Livingston and the surrounding district have taken great interest in the soldier life and regret to think that the old Fort will again be abandoned for an indefinite period.

The special train for the return journey will leave at 7 a. m. sharp. The Butte and Dillon companies will reach Butte at 4 p. m. The company from Virginia City will return overland, and the Helena cavalry will gain further experience as to endurance in the saddle by following the old stage road for the next three days.

Handy With an Ax.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—Late last night Frank Wilson walked into the Peckdilly saloon, kept by Steve McNichols. He held a hatchet in his hand and was drunk. Wilson was standing at the bar drinking when he was called out of here," yelled Wilson, with a dirty epithet, brandishing his hatchet and starting for Curran. He raised the hatchet over Curran's head. McNichols jumped over the bar, seized the wrist that held the hatchet, and the other hand choked Wilson. Curran went out and called in Officer Swansome.

Wilson was arraigned this afternoon on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon. He pleaded not guilty and said he had no remembrance at all of any such occurrence. The saloon keeper said Wilson was very drunk and he couldn't tell if he hit Curran or not. Wilson said he was only fooling. Both sides say there had been no quarrel or ill feeling between the men.

Judge Newkirk has reserved his decision in the case until Monday.

DEER LODGE TOPICS.

The Jury in the Kahlbin Case Decide That He is Guilty.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. DEER LODGE, Oct. 12.—William Wier of the Upper Deer Lodge valley is down on business with the Probate court. The county attorney called Nick Kahlbin, the man who used a hatchet upon his wife at Anaconda, to be brought before the Probate court to-day and examined as to his alleged insanity, before any indictment was returned by the grand jury. Some witnesses were brought from Anaconda and examined. The most that could be made out of the evidence was that the wife of Kahlbin would annoy him in small ways and that thereupon he would become very angry and violent. And this seems to have been all that occurred on the outbreak when he struck his wife with the hatchet. Dr. George C. Douglass was one of the jurymen who were empaneled to make the inquiry, and he gave Kahlbin and all the witnesses a preliminary medical examination, the result of which was a verdict that Kahlbin was not insane. This seems to accord with the views of those on the outside who have heard the testimony and all other fore have to stand his trial in the district, though he will doubtless there set up the plea of insanity.

The jury has been constantly at work since it was empaneled Wednesday morning. The judge has not been present since then, consequently no bills of indictment have been returned, but we may expect a batch of them on Monday morning, when the court will convene.

Slipped Through Their Fingers.

Special to the Standard. BUTTE, Oct. 12.—It has been known for some time that the police have been on the track of two men who are suspected of having been implicated in the recent incendiary fires in this city. They were said to be Paul S. Ingersoll, the man now under arrest, and another man whose suspects were carefully watched by a number of special detectives but notwithstanding the negligence of the officers one of them slipped and the other would doubtless have been allowed to do the same but he is sick in bed. It is thought that by the aid of his force of special detectives Marshal McArthur will be able to catch the sickman before he recovers sufficiently to get out of town.

His Trunk Stolen.

Special Correspondence of the Standard. BUTTE, Oct. 12.—George Rockwell was to start east last night and just before going to the depot placed his trunk out in front of his lodging house in south Main street. Then he went to look for a hackman to be paid for a trunk and himself down. He secured the hackman, but after he got back to his lodging place, the trunk was nowhere to be found. He said it contained about $150 worth of goods, of little value however to the thief. The police went to Chief Smith with his story, but the trunk was not found.

New Hose for Butte Fire Ladders.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—The fire committee of the city council to-day ordered 1,500 feet of new hose to replace that destroyed at the recent fire. The hose will be the best in the market, the maltese cross kind. It is to be furnished by the Gutta Percha Rubber company of New York. There was also ordered a two-wheeled hose cart from the same firm, and two dozen fireman's badges. The total cost will be $1,600 or $1,700. The fire department will be in good shape when these supplies arrive. They are to be here in 30 days.

Rich Strike in the Tuxedo Mine.

Special to the Standard.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—William H. Brown reached Butte this afternoon from the mining district 15 miles southwest of Divide station. He reports a very rich strike in the Tuxedo mine in that district owned by him, and says there is quite a stir of excitement there. He brings specimens of rich ore to Butte, but after he got made at a depth of 55 feet and seems to be very extended and valuable. The ore is the sulphur ore, containing silver and copper. The specimens will be assayed on Monday.

A Pair of Drunks.

BUTTE, Oct. 12.—John Peters was found at an early hour this morning lying in a gutter on South Main street, besmeared from head to foot with mud. In a handkerchief in his side pocket was wrapped up $5.00, besides some valuable papers. He was so drunk he couldn't move, and was taken into custody by Officers Leyden and Smith. In police court to-day he was fined $1 and costs.

John F. Seeley was found drunk on the sidewalk in East Park street last night and was fined $1 and costs.
