THE WEATHER.
 The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Playter, druggist, First street. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 31 degrees; 12 m., 40 degrees; 4 p. m., 52 degrees; 8 p. m., 47 degrees.

Subscriptions to the Standard will be received at the business office, or at the store of Crockett & King, Main street. Advertising rates can be learned at the business office, Standard Building, corner of Main and Third streets.

ABOUT THE CITY.
 The regular services will be observed in all the churches to-morrow.

For disturbing the serenity of Front street J. M. Ryan was yesterday sent to Deer Lodge for fifteen days.

Kittie Dean, having no money to pay the fine imposed upon her by Judge Fitzgerald for making an uproar, went to jail yesterday.

A stranger who refused to give his name, complained that he had been robbed of $5 in a disreputable house last night.

A mammoth bird having every appearance of being an eagle flew over the town going south at 5 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

Won Hing scalded himself badly at his laundry shop in Chinatown yesterday by the capsize of a boiler of hot water. His injuries are painful, but not serious.

The thermometer shows a variation of from 30 to 50 degrees in the course of the 24 hours nowadays. On Wednesdays the extremes were 32 and 81, on Thursday 33 and 76 and yesterday 31 and 60.

The news relating to the count of the returns for Deer Lodge county was fully discussed in Anaconda yesterday, and the prevailing sentiment was that if Mr. Power wants to try it on he will get the worst of the bargain.

Two horny-handed sons of toil fell into a dispute yesterday afternoon in a Main street saloon over the news that John L. Sullivan has "gone broke," and both incurred about nine dollars worth of damage to their wardrobe.

Injured by a Premature Blast.
 Special to the Standard.
 MISSOULA, Oct. 18.—Fred Johnson, a workman on the Coeur d'Alene branch of the Northern Pacific railroad, was fatally injured to-day by the premature explosion of a blast. He was putting the powder in place when a rock fell, and in his effort to move the stone with drill the powder was ignited and resulted in the loss of an eye, and his face was terribly mangled. His recovery is considered doubtful. The same man lost an eye while engaged in railway work in Butte a few months ago. This is the first accident that has occurred on this branch of the road.

Guests in Anaconda.
 W. R. Busenbark, general passenger agent of the Chicago, St. Paul & Kansas railroad, was welcomed in Anaconda yesterday afternoon by many old friends. With Mr. Busenbark were F. B. Ross, northwestern passenger agent of the road, and George W. Andrews, Pacific coast agent. Mr. Busenbark is visiting the northwest in the interest of his road, which is rapidly gaining favor with the public and which already enjoys the lion's share of passenger traffic from Montana to Chicago and the East.

The Northwestern Guaranty Loan company of Minneapolis has located an agency in Anaconda and is prepared to make loans on improved farms and town property at low rates of interest. See advertisement in another column.

Ladies.
 We have just received our fall dress trimmings. For elegance, style and beauty they far surpass anything yet shown in Montana. Call and look them over. Respectfully, Bunko Steerers in New York City Who Picked the Wrong Man.

How the Game Was Tried on a Merchant Living in This City—The Last Felony on Earth to Be Caught in the Snare.

When he returned to this city, two days ago, after a two months' trip in the east, John J. Crockett had hardly unpacked his grip sack before half the town knew of his adventures with bunko-steerers in New York city. Owing to circumstances for which people who know Mr. Crockett are quite unable to account, he was picked up in the metropolis as an innocent young man from the cow-boy section who might easily be lured into the three-card rackets. Evidently the schemers were not intimately acquainted with Mr. Crockett.

It all happened the day after Mr. Crockett arrived in New York. As usual, he was met on Broadway with the salutatory "Hello Crockett, when did you get in town?" Of course, the stranger was the son of the president of the Second National Bank of Helena. He knew Crockett like a book and wanted to see about sending samples of clothing to firms in Anaconda. As a matter of course, the STANDARD'S townsmen kindly agreed to bring out the samples and soon found himself in a room with the usual third party who had a story, a pocket full of money and the three-card outfit. John saw the capper win $5 at first and then $20. In pursuance of the bunko ritual, the time came when it was Crockett's turn to bet, whereupon he quietly observed, "You fool, do you suppose I have lived in Anaconda, Montana, all these years without learning enough to see through your little game?"

Current rumor has it that the enterprising book and stationery dealer in this city added some very effective seveneenth century English to this inquiry, and that before the session was twenty minutes old the capper was glad to get out of the scrape. It must be said that there is a sort of unsophisticated, clerical air about our genial townsmen when he is dressed up and on his travels, but after all how infinitely amusing it is to think that of all men, should be picked up to be played for a sucker by metropolitan bunko steerers. He could give them points.

THE TRADE CLOSED.

The Revenue Mine Goes to a Sale at Hand-Some Figures.

POBY, Oct. 18.—The sale of the Revenue mine, on Richmond Flat, to George D. Roberts of New York, has just been consummated. The consideration is said to be $500,000 cash. It is understood the same party will acquire a controlling interest in the Potosi silver mine in the near future; and it is more than probable that the mines adjoining the Revenue, which under the able management of S. K. Knox have given excellent promise, will soon pass into the same hands.

A survey for the proposed ranch of Alex Norris, three miles above Red Bluff, has been ordered. This point will be the terminus of the branch railroad from Sand creek to Red Bluff. Deposits of coal and machinery for the new works are arriving daily.

One of the most disagreeable circumstances of the rush now being made to Poby is the lack of hotel and other accommodations.

A lumber yard has been established here by Marshall of Helena.

The services of the Methodist Episcopal church will be held in the parsonage at the corner of Oak and Third streets at 11 a. m. and 8 p. m. Sunday school at 2:30 p. m. Rev. P. Lowry, pastor.

Another Charge.
 From the New York Sun.
 We were talking about the war, when a peculiar man came up and started a peculiarly interested. The Major sized him up for an old trooper, and finally queried: "My friend, perhaps you lost that arm in the charge at Trevillion Station?" "Oh, no, sir. It was another charge," replied the man.

"Where?"
 "Down in a town in Missouri, about five years ago. I charged a man with being a liar, and he cut my arm off with a corn knife."

PERSONAL.
 General Manager W. H. Baldwin, of the Montana Union, was a guest at the Standard yesterday.

Assistant General Manager G. W. Dickenson, Northern Pacific railroad, of Helena, spent several hours in Anaconda yesterday.

Indian Boys' Prayers.
 From the American Missionary.
 One of the older Indian boys was obliged to leave school to work. In the last prayer meeting he attended he said: "It makes me feel very sorry when I think that next week my seat will be filled with my absence." Another prayed that he might walk more "citicumsponly before the world."

J. V. Petritz has purchased a half interest in the Anaconda branch of the Northwestern Bottling Company, and will conduct the business in the future. He will collect all bills due the old company and will collect all bottles and cases of the late company.

CAUGHT IN THE SHAFT.

Young W. S. Henning Meets a Sudden and Terrible Death at the Works.

At 9:30 o'clock last night a terrible accident resulted in the instantaneous death of W. S. Henning, an employee in the silver mill at Carroll. It was a part of Henning's business to oil the shafting in the silver mill. While engaged in that work, last night, he stepped from the portion of the mill in which the pans are located to the next floor below where he climbed a ladder in order to reach a bearing which needed his attention.

Several men employed in the mill were near by, but their movements attracted no special attention until a cry was heard. An instant later, it was discovered that the unfortunate man had been caught in the shafting, and, with all possible haste, the machinery was stopped. Henning's companions hastened to his rescue only to find his lifeless and mangled form caught in the machinery of the mill with every shred of clothing whipped from his body. His head and face were mangled beyond recognition. The ambulance was summoned and the remains brought at once to Elbert's undertaking rooms.

Mr. Henning was a young man who came to Montana about two years ago. For a time he was employed in the sampling mill at the lower works. Afterwards he secured work at the Blue-Eyed Nellie mine. Returning to Carroll he was employed in the silver mill constantly until last night's terrible accident. His home was in Sedan, Kansas, where his parents reside. An opposing party from his father was found last night among his papers. Word has been sent to his family, and the remains will be held subject to whatever instructions are received.

HAD CUT HIS EYE TEETH.

Three Strangers Who Called on Farmer Smith Couldn't Fool the Old Man.

From the Cincinnati Enquirer.
 George W. Smith, who lives about five miles from Elbert, Kan., is smaller than he looks. Mr. Smith is a farmer. He is 76 years old, and has accumulated a fortune of nearly $100,000. He does not wear fine clothes, but he cut his eye teeth long ago.

A few days ago Mr. Smith and his family were at breakfast. Three well-dressed strangers from Elbert, Kan., were seated at the table. Mr. Smith is a farmer. He is 76 years old, and has accumulated a fortune of nearly $100,000. He does not wear fine clothes, but he cut his eye teeth long ago.

The valise containing the $7,000 belonging to the party was lying in the lap of one of the sitting men. Mr. Smith reached over and grasped it.

"You fellows think you are mighty smart," he said, "but I ain't lived seventy-six years for nothing. I won't take any check, and I think I'll keep this valise, too. I understand your little game, and I guess you had better skip. So get along now; I'll attend to the valise."

The sharpest eyesight about the old man was armed, and they departed in hot haste. Mr. Smith brought the valise to town and turned it over to the police. It contained nothing but a lot of brooms, a paper, wrapped in some spurious bills. Mr. Smith had slyly examined it while the game was going on, and knew that the contents were worthless.

Wished to Enter the Priesthood.
 From the Pall Mall Gazette.
 A romantic story says the daily Telegraph comes from Kalocsa, the see of Cardinal L. De Haynald, Primate of Hungary. A short time ago a young student applied for admission as pupil to the priests' seminary, and, being duly provided with examination certificates, was at once received. The new pupil led exactly the same sort of life as the other novices of the establishment, and showed a marked disposition for study. A few days ago Cardinal Haynald visited the seminary, and in the gathering of the candidates bowed respectfully; but, contrary to custom, did not kiss the cardinal's hand. His eminence not only noticed the omission, but it led him to examine the candidate somewhat closely. The offensive face of the young student turned scarlet under the scrutinizing gaze, whereupon the prelate uttered a few words in a low tone that caused the former to return quickly to the house. Five minutes afterward this mysterious personage had left the premises, and has not since gone back. Rumor says the individual was a lady, who felt an irresistible vocation to become a priest. Some of the Hungarian papers even give her name.

Waiting for a Foreign Syndicate.
 From Texas Sittings.
 Charitable lady: "It must be very tiresome to sit here day after day, playing the same tunes over and over?" Organ-grinder: "That is the only way of getting other giving it up a while ago, but Oh! I think I'll shay till O'm bought out be wan o' thim English syndicates."

That Was Strange.
 From the New York Sun.
 Fangle: "I noticed that men whose wealth aggregated $100,000, or more, dined together at Delmonico's not long ago." Curcio: "I suppose there were some very interesting after-dinner talks." "No; there were no speeches." "That's odd. I've always heard that money talks."

Tells on Itself.
 From the Brooklyn Eagle.
 "I wish to know how to tell a good egg from a bad one," cries a young house-keeper; "they all look alike to me." Look at 'em with your nose, Clara, look at 'em with your nose. You must be blind if you couldn't hear the difference then."

GOSSIP IN DEER LODGE

Jailor Bell Explains His Trouble With a Prisoner in the Penitentiary.

Edwards Is Taken to the Hospital, From Which He Makes His Escape and Is Now at Large—News and Notes.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.
 DEER LODGE, Oct. 18.—George H. Bell, the jailor of the Deer Lodge jail, was to see our correspondent to-day in relation to the account, which appeared in the STANDARD of the 17th inst., concerning the indictment against him charging him with inhumanity to a prisoner. The account as given purported to come from the prosecution. Mr. Bell says that the altercation between him and the prisoner had no reference whatever to what the prisoner might have said to the grand jury. That some little time after the grand jury retired from the jail the jailors were giving the prisoners their supper, when the prisoner, Edwards, made a vile remark about Mr. Bell. This was overheard by Mr. Connors, another jailor, and reported to Mr. Bell. Mr. Bell then had some words with the prisoner, and stated to him in substance that if he could not behave himself he would put him in an outside cell and feed him on bread and water, as the law gives him the right to do in such cases of refractory prisoners. Bell then opened the cage door where Edwards was and requested him to come out to be taken to a side cell. Just as Edwards came out the door he jumped on Bell and was pounding him, when Bell yelled for the assistance of his co-jailor, Connors. Connors came to his aid, and by using a billy rescued Bell. Bell denies emphatically that he pounded Edwards over the head with a billy. Neither was this the cause of Edwards being taken to the hospital. Edwards had a breaking out about the head and arms, and the physician first called in advised that he be taken to the hospital. After he was taken to the hospital the county physician saw him and could not see that there was much the matter with him. Yesterday Edwards skipped, and the county physician now thinks that Edwards had simply used some crooked means to get out of the jail for some other prisoners, causing the breaking out, and thereby creating an excuse to be taken to the hospital where escape was easy.

A very large meeting of mining men was held last night, called in obedience to a telegram from Lee Mantle of the board of trade of Butte. A meeting will be held to-night by the board of trade of Butte to take some action to prevent the Northern Pacific railroad from obtaining title to the lode of the mineral belt until the mineral character of the lands is determined. The meeting here last night was to appoint delegates to meet with the board of trade to-night, and Wm. Facer and H. G. Hogen, both prominent mining men, and Theodore Brantley, a laborer, were appointed as delegates. Thomas G. Merrill, chairman of the executive committee of the board of trade, and who held last year in Helena, and who is now in Washington, telegraphs that there is danger of patents being issued at once to the railroad for these lands. A great deal of uneasiness exists here among mining men upon this subject. If patents issue to the railroad for these lands it will almost certainly result in the loss of the Oro Fino mining district as many of the most valuable claims are upon the old sections.

The full board of county commissioners was in session to-day. The whole day was taken up in auditing election bills. Taking into consideration the blanks and books furnished to registers, the per diem of the registers, the expenses of the expenses of booths and the printing of tickets, the pay of judges and clerks and numerous other incidentals, Deer Lodge county will have a net result of $1,788. The board made no changes of any consequence in the tax roll and allowed it to go into the hands of the assessor.

It is rumored on the streets that Mr. Nat Y. Hoss, a newspaper gentleman lately of Stevensville, Missoula county, will be in town to-day, and that he will be in the city at least it is known that negotiations are on foot for the purchase by him of the plant.

A new mining corporation was organized here last night and called the Minneapolis mining company. It possesses three claims in the Oro Fino district called the Robin, the Lead, and the Moonlight, and one of them, the Robin, is said to be very promising. The company has consultation in the fact that all of its properties are situated in an even-numbered section, so that it will have no trouble with the Northern Pacific railroad company. The stock is divided into 500,000 shares of the par value of $1. Three hundred thousand shares will be held as treasury stock and working capital, 100,000 of which will be placed on the market at once, at 10 cents. Charles F. Barbeau is president, J. W. McGowan secretary, and P. C. Fallouso treasurer.

 Why not amend the Geary bill by condemning murderers to become linemen in the service of the various New York electric light companies? There would then be no doubt of speedy (if not painless) death, and no mystery about it.
