John Curry Claims to Have Been Robbed in a Concert Saloon.

Special Correspondence of the Standard.
BUTTE, Nov. 1.—John Curry claims to have been robbed of $195 in the Rosebud concert saloon in West Park street early this morning. He says he went in the saloon with $210, mostly in gold, in his purse. He was drunk and had two friends with him. He says that he spent $15 in the place, and that when he left, instead of having $195, he didn't have a cent. He was with Julia McNab in the saloon and had her arrested. He said that they were in the box. After he had been there some time, he bought a bottle of wine. When about to pay for it, he couldn't find his purse. Julia pointed on the floor, and said: "There is your purse."

Curry picked it up and found it empty. The girls of the concert hall declare that Curry spent $100 in the place, and that he didn't have money enough to pay for the last bottle of wine, so that instead of having lost $195, he is $5 in debt there.

John Sullivan was arrested today for vagrancy. When in the court room he complained of the oppressive air and asked to be allowed to stand out in the fresh air a minute. His request was granted and before the officers knew it, he had skipped out.

August Wassner was arrested last night for stealing a pair of mittens from a licee's store. The man was drunk at the time and does not bear the appearance of a thief.

James Sharp, a tough man from Granite, came to town early this week and has been fighting and smashing things ever since. To-day he was arraigned on four charges and fined $100 and costs.

The police have declared war upon the vags and pinkies. It is high time that some action was taken to rid this city of the army of backguards who infest the place.

It is said Bonner's large store will reopen early next week, the difficulty with the insurance company having been satisfactorily settled.

Thomas W. Anderson of Burlington, and Mrs. Lena B. Kadel of Burlington, were married last evening by Rev. C. E. Hank.

Alfred Eckersley died yesterday at South Butte. He was book keeper for Green & Keefe. The remains will be sent to Halifax, N. S., for burial.

The firm of Calkins & Co. has dissolved, Murray Liebenstein retiring.

The Poorman company to-day declared a dividend of three cents per share.

Oscar Stenberg, who was blown into the air last week, this afternoon left his sick room in the Paragon hotel and went to his house. There he met his wife and they had an affecting interview. They kissed and made up, and after an hour Stenberg returned to his sick room, told his nurse he didn't want him any more; that he was going to live with his wife. He then went back home to spend the night. When asked if he wasn't afraid he said he was going home just to show he was not afraid of them.

N. P. Pringle writes J. C. C. Thornton and Sol Levy, owners of Red Elm, the celebrated Montana runner, from Dallas, Tex., that the horse has won 13 races and not lost one since leaving Montana. The horse goes now to Nashville and thence to Birmingham.

Stipulations were agreed to to-day for an extension of ten days time in Wakefield's suit for damages against the city.

Hugh Morgan to-day walked into the house of Minnie Monice, a Japanese, took a lot of her clothing from hooks and started away with it. Officers were called and Morgan admitted that he intended to pawn the clothing.

TO FIGHT AT BUTTE.

Articles Signed for a Fight Between Frank Keller and Jim Fell.

Special to the Standard.
BUTTE, Nov. 1.—Articles were signed here to-night for a prize fight between Frank Keller, heavyweight champion of Wisconsin, and Jim Fell, heavyweight champion of Michigan, to take place in the Butte opera house November 16. Fell bets $300 to $250 he can beat Keller in 10 rounds. The fight will be with two-ounce gloves. Each man weighs 175 pounds. Keller has fought 21 fights, and won 17 with three draws. His only defeat was by Joe Sheedy at Hurley, Wis., last spring in a stubborn fight of 14 rounds. Keller knocked out Pat Manning in Ironwood, Mich., in five rounds, June 24, defeated Ed Wood last August at Hurley, met Mike Conley, Charles Kennick and John H. Clark. Fell is one of the best known heavyweights of the western ring. He whipped Gibbons of Detroit, for a $5,000 purse, Tom O'Donnell of Grand Rapids for championship of Michigan, knocked out Kennard and the Michigan Cyclone, Ed Wynnan and F. J. Solan, fought a draw with Patsy Cardiff and whipped Jack Ashton at Providence. Keller has been training for two weeks at Klancy's, in this city. Fell is also in town. Manny friends of Keller in Butte are arranging to back him for $1,000 for the heavy-weight championship of Montana and Washington.

A Lane With No Turning.

From Time.
Mrs. Laker (of Chicago): Has your husband found work yet, Mrs. Wester?

Mrs. Wester: Yes; he has a lifetime job now.

"What at?"

"He was the first man taken for the Cronin jury."

An Item of Interest.

Nothing is so pleasant to the eye as a well dressed lady. It will be of interest to our lady readers to look over D. J. Hennessy Mercantile Co.'s ad. of to-day, referring them to that class of goods and trimming stock. Their line of these goods has been carefully selected, and it will pay every lady in Anaconda to inspect them.

BRIBED TO DO RIGHT.

The Story of an Ex-Clerk of a House Committee Tells on Himself.

From the Washington Capital.
There is in Washington an ex-clerk of a house committee who glories in the fact that he was once bribed to do right, though he had no intention of doing otherwise. He does his glorifying in a modest way, because the transaction wasn't exactly regular, though there was no dishonesty on his part. His first name is Nelson, which will answer for purposes of recital.

"I was clerk of a committee in the good old days when there were two lobbyists for every member of the house or senate," said Nelson. "A joint special committee had been appointed to report on a land bill, involving a claim almost as big as William McGarrahan's. The decision of the committee was of the greatest importance, and I was worked upon by both sides. One day it was reported that the committee had reached its final conclusion, and would report on the following Monday. This was not the case, but I was pursued by both sides for information. Finally the representatives of the claimants made a proposition that they would give me $1,000 if I would simply withhold from everybody the decision was until it was officially announced. As there had been no decision, and I couldn't under the circumstances give anything away, I took the money, satisfying my conscience with the fact that I was not making a corrupt use of my position, because I was revealing nothing."

"The claimants, however, accomplished their purpose by being able to bank on my story. They had become convinced that the report would be unfavorable to them, but they circulated rumors exactly opposite, and unloaded upon innocent outsiders their claim to the vast realm they were supposed to secure. But they would have done that anyhow, even if I hadn't accepted the $1,000, wouldn't they?"

Nelson evidently has not yet satisfied himself that he did exactly right.

Incapacitated.

From Time.
Humane pedestrian (to woman splitting wood)—I should think your husband would do that kind of work for you.

Party addressed—Oh, he says his arms are too tired to split wood.

"Indeed; what makes him so tired?"

"He's the cannon ball toser in Haver-gall's Herculian Museum."

Logic.

From Time.
Small Boy (at the door): "Please, mum, may I have the pears off the ground?"

Lady of the House: "Yes, my boy."

(Ten minutes afterwards): "Here! What are you doing in that tree. I only said you could have those off the ground."

"Well, the ones on the tree are off the ground, ain't they?"

Dear Little Soul.

From Mumsey's Weekly.
Mr. Honeymoon—Did you sew that button on my coat, darling?

Mrs. Honeymoon—No, sweetheart. I couldn't find the button—but I sewed up the buttonhole and it's all right.

It Would Make Any One Weak.

From Time.
"What tune's that?" he asked of the organ grinder.

"Finnegans' Wake."

"Well, I'd think it would be if he had to listen to it much."
