NORTHWEST NEWS.

Topics of General Interest in the Four New States and Elsewhere.

The estimated expense of running the new state of Washington for the ensuing year is $200,000, and the tax levy will bring in only $122,000.

The Nelson placer mine, seven miles west of Baker City, is one of the richest placers on the Pacific coast, and was sold for about $300,000 about a year ago.

A band of 200 sheep recently arrived in Lane county, Ore., from eastern Oregon.

There is in Umatilla county, Ore., a human freak that is a great curiosity. It is an Indian child of the Nez Percés tribe, with but one eye, situated in the center of the forehead like those of the fabled cyclops.

The Vancouver, Wash., Register says: The youngest judge in the new state was elected on the same day that he celebrated his 27th birthday.

Walla Walla has a printer who would do well to emigrate to a distant land. A few days ago the editor of the Statesman was made to publish this startling statement: "W. O. Bush, member of the legislature from Thurston county, has been forty-five years in the penitentiary."

Charles Williams, the alleged mail robber, has been arrested at Long Creek, Ore. Williams is a brother of Tom Williams, recently discharged from the penitentiary, where he served his time for the attempted killing of "Peter the Poet," editor of the Long Creek Eagle.

Something curious happened in Kent's meat market at Walla Walla the other day which seems unexplainable, says the Walla Walla Union.

Captain J. W. White, of Oakland, California, superintendent of construction of life saving stations on this coast, has just inspected the new life saving station at Fort Stevens, just completed by W. B. Headington.

A committee has been appointed by the Astoria chamber of commerce to circulate among the citizens and see if they are willing to give $5,000 as a bonus for the erection of a flour mill in that city, with a capacity of 135 barrels a day.

When the fire was devastating the timber in Idaho last summer, Governor Shoup allowed $150,000 at the disposal of the town of Halex for the purpose of fighting the flames.

James Hammond, one of the owners of the Alps Mining company, came in town last week and purchased a new cook stove from McIntyre & Matthews.

A Pittsburgh boy kidnapped. PITTSBURGH, Nov. 25.—The twelve-year-old son of John M. Bruce, a wealthy gentleman who resides in the fashionable quarter of the East End, has been kidnapped, presumably by Mr. Bruce's wife, from whom he was divorced years ago.

A. T. Plyter has just received a large stock of paints and window glass.

children returning from school. She introduced herself as the mother and induced the twelve-year-old boy to take a walk with her. The boy and his mother left for New York. The police have notified officers in the eastern cities, but as yet have received no reply.

Shot on Account of Jealousy. PINE CITY, Minn., Nov. 25.—This afternoon William Brooker and wife were visiting William P. Coombs' family. After helping Coombs to kill a calf Brooker began abusing his wife, whose sister, Mrs. Coombs, interfered. Without a word she muttered a curse, he sent a rifle ball through her neck killing her instantly.

HE SWEARS OFF. How His Wife Induced Him to Give Up the Practice of Smoking.

A young benedict in this city, says the Kansas City Times, tells a good joke on himself which illustrates the influence a wife has over her husband, provided she can reach his pocket-book.

"I was as good as my word for one month," he said the other evening, "and kept a faithful account of the number of cigars I smoked each day. Sometimes it would be nine, but more often it was a dozen. When the month had passed my wife informed me that I had smoked her $25. That made $81 I had spent for cigars, and my salary was only $150 a month. I saw it would not do. I had numerous consultations with my friends, but they would not advise as to whether a young man could afford to marry on a salary of $1,800 a year and had been told that he could if he wasn't too extravagant in his notions. There were only two things to do, quit smoking or tell a story every night when I got home, would hardly give me time to put on my smoking jacket before she would be scolding about my new habit. How you smoked to-day?" Her tone expressed so much confidence that I would have to fess up, and at last I told her that, with her permission, I had sworn off. She readily consented, and I haven't smoked a cigar since."

A Boy's Wonderful Eyesight. John Thomas Helsop, of Birmingham, England, is a lad whose powers of vision are to be accounted among the marvelous. He is known as "the living microscope," on account of being able to see the most minute objects clearly defined. In 1878 or 1879 he was attacked with some baffling eye trouble, and came very near losing his eyesight forever. After the disease had reached its worst there was an instant and startling change for the better. When his sight returned it was with extraordinarily increased powers of vision. To John Thomas the most minute plant louse was as large as a rabbit and his eye bill was as large as an ax-handle. He could see and describe distant minute objects with startling clearness and precision. He was amazingly skilled upon repairing to the well to get a cooling draught to see the immense number of hideous creatures that were floating, fighting and wriggling about in the water. From that day to this water has never passed the lips of John Thomas Helsop; his drinks consist wholly of coffee, tea and milk, thoroughly boiled. The doctors say that the entire organization of the eye has undergone a structural change; that the cornea has become abnormally enlarged, and that the crystalline lenses have divided into three different discs or circles, each circle surrounded by another light blue.

When He Went to Church. From the Cincinnati Times-Star.

A well-known young lady of this city, who has been called to mourn the death of her second husband, was standing looking over some periodicals. She was accompanied by her son, who is aged about 6 years. Evidently she was in the best of spirits, for, fortunate woman that she is, she was married the third time only a few weeks ago. While standing with her son in the minister who had officiated at all her weddings approached her, and patting the boy on the head said: "Now, my little fellow, that we are well acquainted have called your name so many times, you must come and hear me preach."
