THE WEATHER

The daily record of the thermometer in this city is reported by A. T. Playter, druggist, corner Main and First streets. The record for yesterday was: 7 a. m., 58 degrees above; 12 m., 79 degrees above; 4 p. m., 92 degrees above; 8 p. m., 87 degrees above.

ABOUT THE CITY.

Dr. Jones visited Butte yesterday. F. W. Peckover was in Butte yesterday. B. F. Mahan took a run over to Butte yesterday. Dr. Stephens and wife spent yesterday in Butte, returning last evening. Peter Collins was given ten days by Judge Fitzgerald yesterday for vagrancy. There will be a meeting of the Rod and Gun club at Mahan & Lindsley's office at 8 o'clock this evening. John Scully was arrested yesterday by Chief Hale for vagrancy and was afterwards sentenced to 15 days in jail by Judge Fitzgerald. Arrangements have been completed for a game of lacrosse to take place one week from Sunday between the Anaconda and Butte clubs. The heat was very oppressive yesterday, more so than at any time this season, the thermometer reaching 116 degrees in the sun and 90 in the shade. The happiest man in town last night was G. H. Fay, the expressman. A fine girl baby was born to him and his wife yesterday afternoon. E. N. Wells, who was arrested Tuesday night for fast driving on Cedar street, was yesterday arraigned before Judge Fitzgerald and fined $10 and costs. A great contest is expected next Sunday when the bats and leams will cross bats. Both nines are busy signing first class material and are each confident of victory. A piece of waste fell on the roof of the brick kiln at the upper works last night and caught fire from the sparks. The fire was noticed in the nick of time by Mr. Dunn, night foreman of the watch, and was quickly extinguished. No damage was done. Various speculations are heard among the base ball sports as to the outcome of the Helena-Salt Lake series of games which commence to-day. It is generally believed that the clubs are quite evenly matched, but it is thought the Salt Lake boys will win the majority of games. An enterprising and somewhat bold thief got his work in last night by stealing a pair of shoes from the feet of a man who was asleep in front of the Palace hotel. The thief was seen taking the shoes and after he started away a cry was raised and chase given. The shoes were recovered. A child's blue coat with large brass buttons. Will finder please leave same at STANDARD OFFICE. Edison's Phonograph. On exhibition at the Floral Ice Cream Parlors. Notice. On and after July 20 all barber shops will be closed on Sundays. Money to loan from $100 upwards on good security, by Houck, dealer in real estate, First street. Saturday Night Social. Messrs. Brennan & Gettings will give a grand social Saturday evening, July 19, 1896, at French hall, to which all their friends and pupils are respectfully invited. The Montana Union has arranged to attach a passenger coach to freight train No. 6 on Sundays. This will leave Warm Springs on Sundays at 7 o'clock p. m., reach Stuart at 7:40 p. m., in time to catch the Anaconda express to Butte. By this arrangement parties spending the day at Warm Springs will be able to reach Butte at 8:20 p. m., instead of having to wait for the late train. Great Reduction in Rates. Taking effect August 1, the Northern Pacific Railway will reduce their rates as follows: Unlimited first class, Butte to St. Paul. $40.00 Second class, Butte to St. Paul. 25.00 Round trip between Butte and St. Paul. Paul. 60.00 This is a reduction of $8.75 on first class, $7.50 second class and $33.75 on the round trip ticket. Bear in mind that the Northern Pacific runs the best equipped and fastest trains in the Northwest. Office corner Main and Granite streets. Edison's Phonograph. On exhibition at the Floral Ice Cream Parlors.

Differences About Switching Charges Involving the Railroad Company and the Smelter That May Tie Us All Up.

At 6 o'clock this afternoon, if plans which now appear to be pretty well settled are carried out, the Montana Union railroad will stop the delivery of ore to the smelting works from the yard in this city. A controversy between the railroad company and the works, involving certain switching charges, has been going on for several weeks. The company pays 40 cents a ton on ore from Butte. It is not proposed to advance this rate, but General Manager Baldwin demands that the smelting company assume practically all the expense of switching cars when they reach the Anaconda yard. A bill amounting to something more than $4,000 for the work during a few days in June was presented at the company's office and payment demanded. This demand was not met. It is reported that the owners of the smelting works will not enter in the arrangement, and the correspondence that passed yesterday indicates that after today the Montana Union will not haul ore until its demands are complied with. The outlook now is that all the ore hauled from Butte will stand in an idle yard after this evening. The smelting company has no facilities for distributing it, the proposed charges will not be paid and things will come to a halt. It was said on the street last evening that, at the works, arrangements are progressing for a general suspension of business, so that, unless a change is soon brought about, the establishment across the creek will be dead, and this will involve an interruption at the mines in Butte, as the amount of ore that can be carried in the yards is not large. The proposed switching charge is one which is not levied on any other company in Butte or at any of the great smelters in Colorado. There has been no particular dispute over the 40-cent rate for hauling ore to this city, in fact, it is said that Mr. Baldwin suggested that an agreement on his offer on switching charges might very probably lead to a change in the charge on hauling ore that would be satisfactory to the company. It is claimed in behalf of the railroad company that it is losing money in spite of its large business. Representatives of the Anaconda company say in reply that this is not the fault of the business conducted with the works here and the mines in Butte, but that it is owing to other causes, including the small pro rata shares of earnings credited to the Montana Union by the Northern Pacific and the Union Pacific, and, as well, to the large amount of extra expense involved in keeping up the Montana Union as a separate and distinct establishment. It is not known whether, in case the smelters close, the building operations now progressing at the works will be interrupted. At a late hour last night it was learned that no change in the situation had taken place, and that if the proposed switching charges are not met, the services of the Montana Union in that direction would cease to-night.

HEAVILY FINED.

The Five Men Arrested for Interfering With Officer White Convicted.

The five men who were arrested Wednesday night for interfering with an officer in the discharge of his duty were all arraigned for trial yesterday afternoon before Judge Fitzgerald. The trial lasted the greater part of the afternoon. The officers identified all the men as having interfered with them, and the testimony showed plainly that the men were guilty of the offense as charged. Colonel Leary appeared for the defendants. Nick Roberts $55 and costs, Steve Petritz $10, Mart Cossen $10, M. Corbett $25, and C. Corbett $25. The fines were all paid. The costs amounted to $25 in each case. The man who is alleged to have hit George Martin with a bottle, and who caused the trouble, was arrested by Chief Hale and Officer White early yesterday morning. He was arraigned in the police court last night for preliminary hearing. He pleaded not guilty and was remanded until to-day. His name is George Mecklinberg.

The Czar and His Eggs.

Not long ago a servant made the discovery that an egg could be easily poisoned by the insertion of a thin wire that would leave no mark on the shell. Until then the czar had eaten eggs with absolute security; but now, a continental correspondent avers, they are sent him in all sorts of mysterious receptacles—sometimes in hat boxes—and they are boiled or converted into omelettes in a little kitchen contiguous to the czar's study. Here a Parisian cook named Reynaud operates, under the personal superintendence of the czar, who goes in and out of the kitchen at all hours, and often prepares a dish with her own hands. The czar never eats thick soup or thick sauces. His food is meat broiled or broiled, but the broth or gravy must always be perfectly clear. The vegetables must be served whole, and cut before him with a silver knife. The sugar which he eats with his fruit is also pounded in his sight, and his salt is the common grey salt in large grains with which it would be impossible to mix arsenic, as could be done with the fine white table salt.

Letters Offering Bribes.

MacFarland in the Philadelphia Record. Every Cabinet officer and every Civil Service Commissioner, and every other public officer having or supposed to have any power over appointments to office, gets on an average a letter a day the year round offering him money for an office. Sometimes it is only $10—I did not hear of a minimum of $5—and it ranges from this to $100. Of course the poor wretches who make these insulting propositions do not know any better. But this particular blunder is certainly a crime, and one punishable with absolute exclusion from any office of trust, profit, or honor under the United States government, too. New officials are properly indignant over these letters; but the old ones only smile as they make a minute of the name and drop the offensive missive into the waste basket.

MAUDE GRANGER.

The Talented Actress Will Appear Next Week in "Inherited."

BUTTE, July 17.—After a lull in theatrical matters the announcement of the engagement of the distinguished artiste, Maude Granger, will be received with pleasure, particularly to those who appreciate a thoroughly artistic performance, such as might be seen on the stages of the principal New York theaters. Everybody has heard of Maude Granger, and every one will be anxious to see her, especially so as she will be seen in a new and powerful play that has received the heartiest endorsements of the press of Paris, London and New York. "Inherited," in which Miss Granger will open her engagement, is from the pen of Mrs. Lucy Hooper, the famous American correspondent at Paris, and Richard Davey, the accomplished critic of the London Times. The play received its initial production at the theater De l'Application, Paris, about a year ago, and created something of a sensation at the time on account of its peculiar dramatic intensity. Mr. Francisque Sarcey, the critic of the Paris Temps, was enthusiastic over it and writing in his paper pronounced it as a play of singular beauty and intensity, like a story by Edgar Allen Poe, and worthy the attention of Sara Bernhardt or Mme. Pierson. Indeed it is a well known fact that the great Bernhardt at the suggestion of M. Sarcey, endeavored to secure the play but Miss Granger was also desirous of securing it and as usual American pluck and enterprise came out victorious.

When Miss Granger left Paris, she brought "Inherited" with her and gave it its first American production at the new National theatre, Washington, the home of Mrs. Hooper. She is now enroute to San Francisco, from whence she will return directly to New York, where "Inherited" will be put on for an extended run at one of the principal theaters. Miss Granger's engagement in Butte opens Thursday night and continues the balance of the week. It is quite likely that another play will also be announced. Her engagement here will prove, as it does elsewhere, one of the fashionable events of the year.

FRONTIER TRIALS.

The Man Who Found Glory Serving On a Coroner's Jury.

From the New York Press. Possibly with the single exception of being a survivor from some dire calamity, the distinction of being called to sit on a coroner's jury is the proudest in the life of the every-day clodhopper. This was exemplified the other day the case of an illiterate laborer who had been called to "sit upon a corpse" in a Southern California town. A dead man was found on a hillside near the village, and a jury was called to sit upon the corpse to determine whether the man was really and truly dead, and if so, how it happened. As idle men were scarce the coroner called on the porter of a store to serve on the jury. The man, arrayed in his best suit of Sunday clothes, took his new duty as a serious matter. After the case had been duly disposed of and the potter's field enriched by the addition of another tenant, the porter proceeding to fill himself up with beer, and put in a full day in walking up and down the street to let all his acquaintances know that he was one of the coroner's jury in the case of the unknown dead man. His employer met him and inquired what developments they had discovered in the case.

"Well," he said, "we, the jury, went out there and sat upon the dead corpse and found that he was dead. We also further found a verdict that the fellow had committed suicide to himself, and that no other person had done it but himself. That wa'n't nobody to blame for it but jist his own self."

Next in importance to the jurymen is the country justice of the peace. When in the course of events a blacksmith is called upon by the free and untrammelled suffrages of his fellow citizens to leave his anvil and dispense justice, to adjust the scales and to let all his acquaintances know that he was one of the coroner's jury in the case of the unknown dead man. His employer met him and inquired what developments they had discovered in the case.

"Well," he said, "we, the jury, went out there and sat upon the dead corpse and found that he was dead. We also further found a verdict that the fellow had committed suicide to himself, and that no other person had done it but himself. That wa'n't nobody to blame for it but jist his own self."

SOME UNTOLD HORRORS

Discoveries Made by the Health Officers in Butte Restaurants.

Stinking and Diseased Meat, Decaying Food and Dirty Premises Encountered in Places that Look Clean on the Outside.

By the Standard's Special Wire. BUTTE, July 17.—Untold horrors were revealed to Sanitary Policeman Pinkham and Health Officer Roberts to-day during part of their inspection of Butte's restaurants, hotels and butcher shops. Some of the restaurants look well enough in front, but the health officers went to the rear and took particular notice of the kitchens and back yards. In one of the most prominent restaurants, great piles of dirt, rubbish and food, rapidly decaying, were found, shoved under the kitchen tables.

In some of the kitchens the filth was indescribable. The meat in many cases was unfit to be eaten and would be no temptation to a dog.

The officers found the Chinese restaurants as a rule to be decidedly the cleanest. Only one of them proved had enough to necessitate action on the part of the officers. The restaurants which were found objectionable were notified that they must have everything cleaned up by to-morrow, or they must take the consequences.

One butcher shop was found which is a disgrace to civilization. It is well patronized, too. Much of the meat was in bad condition. Twenty-five or thirty pounds of meat were cut and piled up, all fly-blown, but handed out to customers right along. From the examination the officers were convinced that some of the mutton was from diseased sheep, but this was strenuously denied. Some of the meat was ordered thrown away. The peits were thrown out carelessly in the back of the shop.

The officers found that the offenses at the fruit stands and groceries which had been visited yesterday had been removed to a large extent, most of those notified showing a desire to clean up things.

The health department find that the work of cleaning Butte will prove a mighty task but they had any conception of. For years the filth has been piling up in alleys and back yards, and until now there has been no effort to remove the accumulation. The task is appalling and Hercules would indeed admit that in the Augean stables he had a snap compared with that which presents itself to the Butte health department.

BE CAREFUL ABOUT ALARMS.

How the Fire Department Often Suffers Great Annoyance.

By the Standard's Special Wire. BUTTE, July 17.—Chief of Fire Department Jordan desires that persons in possession of keys to the fire alarm boxes should exercise a little judgment in using them. As soon as this morning's fire was discovered the policemen on that beat turned an alarm from the nearest box, No. 43, located at the corner of Galena and Wyoming streets. In a few moments afterward another alarm came dancing into the station from box No. 32, at the corner of Main and Park streets. Fortunately the hose company had already started to answer the first alarm, otherwise some confusion and possible delay might have resulted. People should remember that an alarm sent in from one box sounds only the number of that box, and it is taken for granted by the men on duty at the station that the fire is located in the neighborhood of that box. A box at the corner of Main and Granite streets should not be used to sound an alarm in the lower end of the city, for the department is not supposed to hunt for the fire, but to drive at once to the locality of the box from which the alarm was sounded. Always send an alarm from the box nearest to a fire and not from one located in another part of the city. By doing this, time and annoyance will be spared the firemen and their services rendered more efficient.

A. O. F. Picnic.

By the Standard's Special Wire. BUTTE, July 17.—The Ancient Order of Foresters to-night decided to hold its annual picnic on August 15. After some discussion Columbia gardens was selected for the place. Committees were appointed to arrange all details.

A Hero's Deed.

At a fire in Blittingen, in Aitmark, Germany, it was discovered that a lady was in the burning house. Suddenly from the crowd came a voice: "A hundred marks to whom one brings out Frau Werner!" Hereupon one Stemann, a married man and the father of a family, quickly elbowed his way through the throng, and saying as he did so, "Who thinks of thalers when a life's at stake?" rushed into the burning pile. The crowd awaited his return with breathless anxiety, and at length the half-suffocated man was seen on the burning threshold, bearing in his arms the insensible form of Frau Werner. Scarcely had he reached the street and delivered his burden into the custody of her friends than the walls fell in. The hundred marks were instantly forthcoming, but the brave fellow emphatically refused a pfennig, saying he had only done an act of common charity.
