

HARRISON IN A BOAT

He Would Go Back On His Alleged Promise in Colorado.

FEARS TO SNUB THE WEST

He Will Try Every Scheme to Escape Taking Action On a Silver Bill Next Winter.

DENVER, June 16.—A Washington special to the New says that the silver question has caused the president of late to do a good deal of hard thinking. He wants to be reelected, and he realizes that the free coinage sentiment in the republican ranks is a very strong one.

This is the promise of the president while in Colorado to approve a free coinage bill if passed by the next congress. The president apparently did not go quite so far as this, but there is reason to believe that he has expressed a disposition to sign a bill providing for the coinage of the product of American silver mines.

CURIOUS CONDENSATIONS.

A beautiful piece of sculpture from ancient Ephesus has reached the British Museum. The relief forms part of a marble bull, the head being exquisitely carved, while the figure of a goddess appears on the body. It is supposed to be 2,000 years old.

larly lucky one, and the well-known actress reaped no reward for her outlay. Not a dramatic bone was broken—not a theatrical drop of blood shed.

Here is decidedly a queer advertisement which appeared last week in a Liverpool newspaper: Wanted, immediately in country, a Christian home (clergyman or doctor preferred) for a lady (Protestant), baby, and child. Lady of intemperate habits. Address, stating terms (moderate), C 106.

Some interesting figures showing the cost of some of the guns used in the British land and sea service are furnished by a recent parliamentary return. From this it appears that nine 13½-inch guns have been leased to the navy at an average cost of $55,935. The 10-inch guns cost $28,480 each, and the 5-inch $2,840.

The dwellers around Negombo lake, near Ceylon, have a curious method of frightening fish into the net, which is held by some of the men, while others wave long fringes of torn plantain leaves or cocoanuts similar to those which are hung up as decorations at any festival. The fish thus alarmed jump towards.

A Columbus, O., man owns a very young chicken and a very old dog. The little chick follows the dog around the yard, refusing to run with its mother and three evildoers in a bunch. He gathered one under each arm, their legs dangling in the air, and drove the third along in front, and in that way proceeded to the calaboose, where all three prisoners were locked up.

A West Virginia man has a mule that when thirsty unties his halter, pulls out a pin to open to barn door, goes to the pump, and, taking the handle in his teeth, works it until he fills his trough, quenches his thirst and returns to his stable, shutting the door after him. He then enters his stall and brays until his owner comes to fetch him halter.

The public debt of the United States shows a gratifying decrease within the last 10 years, the burden per capita having been reduced from $38.33 in 1880 to $14.63 in 1890. The indebtedness of the states and territories has also decreased $67,218,769 during the decade, reducing the per capita from $5.09 in 1880 to 3.56 in 1890.

The building of the contagious disease branch of the health board, New York city, becomes like a great nursery during the afternoon. It is then that the mothers take their babies to be vaccinated, and there are babies everywhere—on the staircase, the steps in the hall, in the basement, on the sidewalk—there are babies, babies, babies, until one wonders where they fall from.

Object glasses for microscopes are now made in Germany of glass that contains phosphoric and boracic acid. It is stated that with lenses made of this glass an object one-twentieth-thousandth of an inch in diameter can be distinctly seen.

If we may trust the scientists, the cave-dwellers wore gloves. The word itself is so old that its roots go back to primitive language. "Handshoe," the Germans call it. Among the Greeks, Romans and Jews only dignitaries wore gloves. In feudal times land was held by the glove tenure and faith pledged by the glove. The Saxons set up as glove-makers as early as the seventh century.

An important discovery of Roman remains has just been made in Lincoln, England. In laying down a new water main the workmen came upon the bases of three Doric columns, in an admirable state of preservation. These bases are in a straight line with the shattered pillars discovered in May, 1878, and correspond exactly with them in character and arrangement. The new discovery proves that the building of which these columns formed the facade, instead of presenting, as was thought, a six-column portico of 70 feet in breadth to the street, must have shown a colonnade of at least 11 columns, that number being already accounted for, and extending to the length of 160 feet.

A Freeport, Ky., man now at a St. Louis hotel tells a remarkable story. He says that when he was about 20 years of age he was an ardent sportsman and used to frequent the woods about his native village. One day he met a vast army of squirrels advancing straight toward him, and he accidentally trod on one and killed it. The sight of their dead brother seemed to rouse the fighting blood in the rest, and they swarmed all over him, biting through his clothing and lacerating him terribly. He screamed with pain, and his dog, which was near by, came to his assistance, but before the faithful animal got within a dozen yards of its master it was set upon by the maddened squirrels and torn to pieces. At last the young man managed to break away and escaped with his life, though he was confined to his bed for weeks.

The number of Hebrews in Poland is 1,380,000 in a total population of 8,252,000. They form 43 per cent. of the population of Warsaw, and in all the other towns an average of 50 per cent., while in villages it falls to 7 per cent.

Trades and industries in the city of Warsaw are almost entirely in the hands of the Hebrew population. In the higher branches of commerce the ratio is 16 Hebrews to 3 Christians, and in the lower branches 19 Hebrews to 2 Christians, and in the agency and brokerage business 43 Hebrews to 1 Christian.

Of the large industrial enterprises of the city 63 per cent. are in the hands of Hebrews, and only 18 per cent. belong to native Christians. But few of the race are common workmen.

The American archeologists who are at work at Palatca, in Greece, have come upon the remains of an ancient temple, parts of which apparently go back to the sixth century B. C., or within 100 years of the authentic beginning of Greek history. Developments of great interest are expected.

Shakespeare's "Julius Caesar" will be played by colored tragedians at Savannah this week. "Othello" will doubtless come on later.

An Englishman has invented an apparatus through which, he declares, he can see the soul leave the body. He arranges lenses that so magnify the particles of dust in the air that their disturbance by anything passing upward can be detected. How he is to see those souls pass downward is not explained.

To All Whom It May Concern.

NOTICE is hereby given that on the 23rd day of June, 1891, an application to the honorable secretary of the interior will be presented to the register and receiver of the United States land office at Missoula, Montana, by the following named persons, to-wit: Kenneth Ross, of Freochtown, Missouri county, Montana, petitioning for leave and license to cut and remove timber for the purposes of merchandise for domestic use and for the purpose of mining, from the following described land, to-wit: The land for a distance of one and one-half miles on each side of the said railroad, and intersecting a line running one south from mile post 20 on the line of the said railroad. Also the land for a distance of one and one-half miles on each side of the said railroad, and intersecting a line running one south from mile post 20 on the line of the said railroad. As per map of the said land and tract of the said railroad, and the plan of the register and receiver of the United States land office at Missoula, Mont.

The area of the said tract above described is about 10,580 acres, and the character of the land is rocky hills, cut by a deep, narrow canyon, and deep ravines and wholly unfit for agricultural purposes. The timber growing and standing thereon consists of pine, tamarack and fir, of which eight million (8,000,000) feet are pine, three million (3,000,000) feet are fir, and one million (1,000,000) feet are tamarack, making a total of twelve million (12,000,000) feet.

Said petitioner will petition for permission to cut and remove from said tract pine, fir and tamarack timber, of suitable sizes for, and to be manufactured into lumber for mining purposes, and for the purposes of sale, and domestic use, and all to be sold and used within the state of Montana. KENNETH ROSS. Dated this 3d day of June, 1891.
