HE DIED FOR FREEDOM

This is the Anniversary of Robert Emmet's Birth.

IRISHMEN'S LOVED HERO

Erin's Sons in All Parts of the World Will Appropriately Observe the Day.

This is a day especially dear to the heart of every patriotic Irishman the world over—114 years ago to-day Robert Emmet, one of the noblest of Ireland's uncounted thousands of noblemen, was born in Dublin. He was a school fellow of the poet Thomas Moore and was his senior by a year in Trinity college, Dublin. Both were members of the Irish Historical society and the great champions of the people. In 1798 Emmet was expelled from the university on the ground of being connected with the association of United Irishmen. He shortly afterward went to the continent and remained there until 1802, when he returned secretly to Dublin and planned a general Irish revolution. July 23, 1802, deeming that the time had come to execute his scheme, he made an attempt to seize the arsenal and castle of Dublin. But his force of men was small in numbers and poorly armed, and they were dispersed by the British soldiers.

Emmet escaped to the mountains of Wicklow, hoping to reach the continent in safety, but contrary to the advice of his friends, he resolved to have a last interview with the lady to whom he was deeply attached, a Miss Curran, daughter of the celebrated Irish barrister and orator. The day proved fatal to him. He was apprehended and committed for trial for high treason. He defended himself in a speech remarkable for eloquence and power, that would have touched a heart of stone; but the courts of Ireland, then as now, had no heart; he was condemned to death, and Sept. 20, 1803, he was executed by Britain's minions.

Moore, in two of his most pathetic Irish melodies, has immortalized the young patriot in verse. "O, Breathe Not His Name" and "She is Far From the Land Where Her Young Hero Sleeps," coupled with Emmet's speech at the trial, will make good reading for to-day. From Galway to Melbourne; from Wicklow to San Francisco, in every part of the world where Erin's sons are to-day, Emmet's anniversary will be appropriately celebrated. The Irishmen of this city will honor his memory by suitable ceremonies.

The sad story of Ireland's wrongs will be told over and over again to-day. For the pure, patriotic, eloquent and immortal Emmet who died on the scaffold the victim of British tyranny, the guardian genius of Erin will mourn to-day and drop her silent tears of sorrow upon the graves of the Emmets, Bunkers, O'Connells, Curans, Moores, Goldsmiths, Fitzgeralds, Fones, Meaghers, Phillips and Parnells. Few battlefields of liberty but have been dyed with the blood of Irishmen; freedom's wings are to-day spread over nearly every English speaking land; Ireland alone remains enthralled by chains more galling than those which thousands of Irishmen helped with their lives to break from the limbs of the Southern slaves.

To-day the last words of Emmet will come back to Irishmen. "Let no man write my epitaph: for as no man who knows my motives now dare vindicate them, let not prejudice or ignorance asperse them. Let them and me repose in obscurity and peace, and my tomb remain unadorned until other times and other men can do justice to my character. When my country takes her place among the nations of the earth, then, and not till then, let my epitaph be written."

Emmet sleeps in glory's grave; patriotisms workshops at his shrine, feels the inspiration of his valor and resolves to continue the battle for liberty. Emmet needs no material monument; his fame is immortal. History is his cenotaph which time cannot dim nor tyranny destroy.

TWAS WELL DONE.

The Presentation of "Engaged" a Success in Every Way. There was a large attendance at the opera house last night when the comedy "Engaged" was presented by a company of local amateurs. The performance was given in a manner highly creditable to those in the cast; it is possible a company of professionals could put more snap in the piece, not many companies of amateurs could have done it so well. The entertainment has cost the ladies and gentlemen taking part in it not a little trouble and time; they generously donated their services for the benefit of the school library fund, and it is pleasing to know that the presentation was in a fair measure a financial success.

The cast was as follows: Cheviot Hill, a young man of property; Wade Chieftain, his friend; Supt. A. L. Stone, his superior; his uncle, Capt. J. H. Rooney; Angus McAllister, a Lowland peasant lad; Dr. D. J. Macdonald; Major MacGillivray; Peter McKenna; Belinda Treherne; Miss Mattie H. Durston; Minnie, Symperson's daughter; Mrs. Alice C. Hickey; Mrs. MacFarlane, a Lowland widow; Lizzie Smith, Maggie, her daughter, a Lowland lassie; Parker, Minnie's maid; Miss Helen Gleason. It is no more than truth to say each part was well taken, the audience displaying its appreciation by frequent applause. It had been planned to give a matinee this afternoon, but this idea has been abandoned.

MISSOULA NOTES.

Minor Happenings of Interest in the Garden City.

Special to the Standard. MISSOULA, March 3.—C. H. Richmond, the English walker of this city, states that he will walk a 15 or 25 mile race square heel and toe with O'Leary or anybody else in the United States for $200 a side. He will give O'Leary a half mile walk on 15 miles. He will not, however, start for gate receipts.

Dr. T. G. Heine of Philipsburg is at the Florence.

There is talk of putting a track in the old ice rink for bicycle and foot racing and having amateur races about once a week. Articles of agreement have been entered into between Lon Turner, known as the "Sailor Kid" of Spokane, and Matt Casey of Leadville for a fight to a finish Marquis of Queensbury rules, with regulation gloves at the Mascot theater on Saturday night March 12, for a purse of $250, winner to take 75 per cent. after all expenses are paid. Casey is well known, having met with uninterrupted success in the fights he has made here.

Among the guests at the Missoula are D. J. Hennessy and J. M. White of Butte, Amos Buck of Stevensville and Eph Hackett of Victor.

This morning Dr. Hanson received from C. A. Barnes, who is in New York, the stump of a Hiji cigar, about an inch and a half in diameter. He has it hung up in his office.

Thomas C. Marshall and Thomas L. Greenough to-day decided to Joseph Solomon certain lots in the Manitoba addition for the sum of $5,000.

Harriet A. Bartlett and J. H. Bartlett of Anaconda to-day filed notices of location of nine placer claims, three mill sites and right of way for a water ditch in the neighborhood of Vermillion creek.

The board of trade met to-night and transacted some routine business. Arrangements were also made for the furnishing of a new room and getting it ready for a display of minerals, etc. A committee consisting of Fred C. Stoddard, W. J. Stephens and J. R. Riddell, was appointed to cooperate with Postmaster Myers to secure for Missoula a free postal delivery. A resolution was adopted to request the city council to have the houses of the city officially numbered, and President Marshall was instructed to draw up an ordinance for that purpose.

Bobby Gaylor Coming.

BUTTE, March 3.—The most popular and best-known Irish comedian that ever trod the boards in Butte is Bobby Gaylor. He will appear here next Thursday evening in his great "Sport McAllister," which is a burlesque on McAllister and the 400. His success in New York, Boston, San Francisco and Philadelphia was most phenomenal, and surely Butte, his old "stamping ground," will compare with the best of them all.

Bobby Gaylor is more interested in Butte than most professionals. He had the good sense to invest in Butte real estate some years ago and to-day is on this account cutting off his coupons.

A Great Bargain.

Owing to the increase of my business in Deer Lodge, I have determined to dispose of my ranch close to Warm Springs station, five miles from Anaconda. It consists of 520 acres of farming, hay and pasture land, all under good fence, a seven-room house and the best stables and grainaries, with all kinds of out-houses, 15 milch cows, two span workhorses, harness, wagons, plows, two mowers and in fact as good a lot of implements as can be found on any ranch. Cooking and heating stoves and all that is on the place and is used on it goes. One hundred and fifty tons of meadow and oats hay, 7,000 pounds of oats, all of which I will sell for $7,000, $4,500 in cash and the balance in mortgages on the place. Call for particulars in Deer Lodge, and call soon as the time is approaching when I may have to lease or sell.

PETER LANSING.

John W. Innes, one of the Bozeman syndicate, is at the Montana. Those desiring to purchase lots in Bellamy Place, Hoffman Park, Springbrook, Drum Lummon, Granite or Central additions, will find him at room 44. Mr. Innes is a heavy holder in the Gem of the Gullatin and is able to make terms to suit. He also has an entire addition for sale.

The Capital Question.

It is now evident that Bozeman is making friends every day, and in consequence the capital question is assuming a brighter aspect to those of our citizens who have been favored with gratifying expressions of esteem from the outside. Helena, Bozeman's most powerful rival, by reason of its wealth and its possession of the prize at the present time, is not showing its hand, except by giving an impetus to public improvements which will employ a large number of voters. All kinds of insinuations of political trading, calculated to benefit Helena in the capital fight, have been made; but up to the present time these insinuations have not been verified. Perhaps it would be well for the Bozeman people to keep their eyes open, however. When the capital question was first broached and Bozeman threw itself into the contest, the residents and friends of Helena were wont to smile at the earnestness displayed by Bozeman people; they regarded it as a joke, that one so small should offer to do battle with such a Goliath, as Helena deemed itself to be. Gradually, however, the contemptuous smile has given place to a facial expression of a different kind. Helena is beginning to see that Bozeman, as a residence city, as a quiet, orderly and well conducted city, where it is a pleasure to live, has no equal in Montana. It is beginning to learn that Bozeman is the most convenient site in the state for the capital, as it is easily reached from Dillon, Butte and Anaconda on the south, and is no farther than Helena from these and intermediate points; that it is closer to White Sulphur Springs and Castle on the north, Virginia City and the numerous mining camps, and beyond all, 100 miles closer to Yellowstone and Eastern Montana points than is Helena. These are considerations that are being taken under advisement by the thoughtful people of this state; and they are the considerations which cannot be affected by fair argument or illegitimate means at election time. Bozeman's chances for the capital are bright and if our people will continue in the work as they have begun, it will make a winning fight.—Bozeman Chronicle.

Liberal Senator Gatch.

DES MOINES, March 3.—The prohibition question came up in the senate again to-day in the consideration of the Gatch bill, providing for county local option. In presenting the bill Senator Gatch goes against the wishes of all his republican colleagues except Senator Brown. It is thought the bill will pass with the help of the democrats.

A most interesting relic, which British Columbia propose to send to the world's fair, is the wreck of the old Hudson Bay company's steamboat Beaver, which was the first steamboat to stir the waters of the Pacific of the North American coast. The wreck of the Beaver lies with its nose on the shore and its stern in about 12 feet of water at the entrance of Vancouver harbor, where it was run aground and abandoned in 1835.
