TOLLED HIS LIFE AWAY

While the Deacon Rang the Church Bell the Sexton Was Dying.

FROM EFFECTS OF POISON

He Had Sounded the First Summons, But While the Congregation Was Waiting to Hear the Last Strokes He Died.

WARWICK, N. Y., Nov. 19.—It was 7 o'clock when Sexton Howard Totten tolled the bell in the village Baptist church. It was the first summons to the worshippers. The feeble old man had tolled that bell many many times before and had seen the people slowly assemble, as he did on this occasion. Finishing his task, the sexton descended from the belfry and tottered out into the street. Unheeded, he passed from view. At 7:30 o'clock, the hour for beginning the service, the church was filled and the pastor was in his pulpit, but the preacher did not move. He was waiting for the last stroke on the old bell. They did not come. The pastor glanced inquiringly at a deacon, and the deacon quietly left the auditorium. In a few moments the bell was clanging just as it used to clang when the old sexton pulled the rope. The deacon returned to his seat and the preacher began his duties.

Unknown to the congregation and the pastor, the deacon had tolled away the sexton's life. And his wife was in the audience, too. After the sermon had been preached and the benediction pronounced, Mrs. Totten went to her children's home, where she had lived with her husband. Usually he had met her at the church door to accompany her, but this time she had to go alone. In the front room of the humble home she saw the form of her gray-haired life companion lying on a lounge. The form was motionless. She spoke, but there came no answering sound. She touched him, but he did not move. The old sexton was dead.

On his lips was a green stain; on his hands a green powder and on a nearby table a package containing Paris green. The old sexton had taken his life by poison.

RONANZA FOR UNCLE SAM.

Felicitations Favor Pushing the Nicaragua Canal.

BALTIMORE, Nov. 19.—The Manufacturers' Record of this week published special letters from a large number of United States senators and congressmen, giving their views on whether the government should give financial aid to secure the early construction of the Nicaragua canal. The letters are probably about equally divided between the democrats and republicans.

Senator Sherman of Ohio writes that he is thoroughly committed to the construction of the Nicaragua canal, and emphasizes the report made to the senate in favor of government aid. Senator Walsh of Georgia says that the Nicaragua canal is the greatest enterprise now before the business world. He believes that it should be built and controlled by the United States government; that it would open new markets for our products, the field, the mine and the factory; and would enable America to compete successfully with European nations for the trade of the Spanish Americas, and the countries of the orient.

Hons. H. C. Lodge of Massachusetts, J. H. Gallinger of New Hampshire, W. B. Allison of Iowa, C. H. Grosvenor of Ohio, George D. Wise of Virginia, Alexander McDowell of Pennsylvania and W. I. Curtis of New York also write in a similar strain, each urging the paramount importance of the enterprise to the United States.

TO BOLSTER UP FINANCES.

An Extra Session of the 54th Congress May Be Held.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 19.—There has been a great deal of talk about an extra session of the Fifty-fourth congress early next spring. It is argued with considerable force that some provision must be made to bolster up the finances of the government and to provide against the necessity of another issue of 5 per cent. bonds.

It is very well known that the present house is so constituted that it is impossible to secure any financial legislation whatever and on the other hand it is believed that the newly elected members will be better disposed toward the national banking system, as well as toward a bond issue. Nearly all the leading republicans from the East favor the issue of low interest bearing bonds in small denominations which would become popular as investments among the people who have small savings and who desire safe means of disposing of their holdings.

The president knows the difference between the present and the incoming congress in this respect. Besides the republicans will be naturally anxious to organize the house as there are nearly 1,000 places to be filled by the party in power, which will remain as democratic prerequisites until December, 1895, unless the house is sooner organized by the republicans. It will be a simple matter to force an extra session if the republicans decide that such a course would be advisable. They have only to prevent the passage of one or more of the regular appropriation bills until after March 4, when an extra session would be imperative.

WICKED.

The Dead Car Held Up to Scorn by President Andrews.

DETROIT, Mich., Nov. 19.—President Andrews of Brown university created a sensation at yesterday's session of the Baptist congress by attacking the late czar of Russia. A significant thing about the attack was that when he employed his strongest invectives against the dead ruler the audience, composed for the most part of dignified doctors of divinity, applauded the sentiments vigorously.

Dr. Andrews introduced his remarks on the czar by deprecating the disposition of most men and most newspapers to say nothing harsh about Alexander now that he was gone. Nearly everybody who had given utterance to any thought about the dead ruler had lauded him almost without stint.

"He is dead, and I am willing to say with the world, 'Peace to his ashes,'" said President Andrews. "But that does not obscure the fact that he was one of the greatest persecutors of the human race who ever lived. He was worse than Charles I. He was worse than any other monarch who ever lived, because he lived in our time, in the blaze of an enlightened public sentiment. He persecuted men because of their religious beliefs. He put men to death who disagreed with him. Those whom he did not put to death he hustled off to Siberia. He was, perhaps, a pure man in his personal character. I am glad of it. He had a certain kind of faith in God. I am glad of it. I am not here to discuss that, but the tendency of the American people to commend that wicked man."

ELOPED WITH HER HUSBAND.

Fled to Europe With Him For a Second Honeymoon.

NEW YORK, Nov. 19.—Miss Julia Juengling of the Lafayette portion of Jersey City fell in love with Joseph de St. Martin, son of Count de St. Martin of Paris, while traveling in Europe several years ago. The couple were married and established a handsome home in Jersey City. They quarreled, and finally the wife brought suit for divorce against her husband. The case was to have come up for trial in a few weeks in the New Jersey court of chancery. Mrs. de St. Martin's mother, it is said, was anxious to have the couple separated, and was largely instrumental in inducing her daughter to bring the divorce suit.

During the past few weeks Mr. de St. Martin and his wife have held secret communication. Several days ago Mrs. Juengling missed her daughter. She was at a loss to know what had become of her. The mystery was explained yesterday. Mrs. Juengling received a cablegram from Belgium from her daughter. It was to the effect that she had become reconciled to her husband and had fled with him to Europe on a second honeymoon tour. There will be no divorce suit after all.

Celebrated Men on a Celebrated Railroad. Gen. Lew Wallace, the renowned soldier, statesman, traveler and author, pays this compliment to the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul railway in the St. Paul Evening News-Record, Oct. 6, 1894:

"I have traveled all over the United States and Europe, but never before have I seen such magnificent train services as I enjoyed on 'The Milwaukee, between Chicago and St. Paul. The private compartment cars are superior to anything of the kind I ever saw."

The train referred to by the author of "Ben Hur" are vestibuled throughout, heated by steam, lighted by electricity and arranged with the famous electric berth reading lamp.

J. T. CONLEY, Asst. Gen. Pass. Agt., St. Paul, Minn.

"I Think That the Buffet-Smoking Library Coach on the North-Western Limited between St. Paul, Minnesota and Chicago is the greatest institution in modern railway travel I ever ran across—or rather rode in—and I have traveled a few miles myself since I was able to go it alone. That Coach means solid comfort to a fellow and makes a long journey a delightfully short one. By all odds it is the best feature of the best train I ever rode on."

Railroad Notes.

J. W. Halley of Batavia, N. Y., conductor on N. Y. C. railway, and one of the best known men on the road, said of Park's Tea: "For 10 years I have suffered from constipation. Tried everything and found nothing of lasting value. Hearing so many talking about Park's Tea, I tried it without much hope. The first doses moved my bowels easily and now I am cured. It works like magic." Sold by Smith Drug Co. and Parthen D'Achoul Drug Co.

"Thrice With good traveling accommodations is mankind to-day. But Blessed good is not enough for the traveling public who are used to luxury when they are at home. They must have the Best and up in this country when we say Best we mean The North-Western Line." Improvement Bulletin, Minneapolis.
