

GEORGE HOBART'S LOSS

His House, Furniture and $450 in Cash Burned.

NOT VERY MUCH WAS SAVED

By an Accident a Lamp Was Knocked Over and in a Few Moments the Whole House Was Afire.

Yesterday morning between 6 and 7 o'clock George Hobart's dwelling and contents, situated on Cedar street, were destroyed by fire. No one was at home at the time, except the owner of the property, who was dressing preparatory to going to work. He had a kerosene lamp in one hand and with the other raised the lid of a trunk suddenly. The trunk lid knocked the lamp from his hand and it fell to the floor, where it broke and scattered oil about the room. The flame from the lamp ignited the oil, and in an instant the house was in flames. Mr. Hobart himself could do but little more than get out of the house. He ran into an adjoining room, thinking that one of the roomers was there, but he had gone. When he returned to the bedroom again he was driven back by the flames.

He aroused the neighbors and they saved a few articles belonging to Henry Nichols and George Tardos, who occupied the front room. The fire department responded to an alarm but were handicapped by frozen hydrants and the cold weather. Foreman Pat Maloney had his thumb frozen and several others suffered from frost bitten toes and fingers. The fire was confined to the building in which it started and an adjoining residence was unharmed.

In addition to the loss of his house and furniture Mr. Hobart reports the loss of $450 which was carefully stowed away in a small trunk that stood on a shelf in the bedroom. All that remained of the money which was in bills, was a crumbling bit of ashes.

The loss will be about $2,000 and there is only a small amount of insurance. Mrs. Hobart and children are in Butte on a visit with relatives. Mr. Hobart went over to tell them the bad news yesterday afternoon.

TAKEN TO DEER LODGE.

Ed Dechene's Wife Requires Official Recognition.

Ed Dechene was taken to Deer Lodge yesterday by Under Sheriff M. Martin for an inquiry into his state of mind. Dechene is the man who was arrested a short time ago for taking a shot at two of his neighbors for singing "Daisy Bell" and "Sweet Marie." He said at the time of his arraignment that they had annoyed him by persistently singing those songs, and Judge Rockwell discharged him from custody on the ground that his actions were excusable if not justifiable in the premises.

Dechene has developed an idea lately, however, that every one is holding him up to ridicule, and trying to tease him. He held a grudge against the man who had him arrested and has threatened vengeance, exhibiting a large knife on several occasions as the instrument of his revenge. At other times he decided to bring a suit to recover damages for fancied insults and he went to Deer Lodge to consult County Attorney Trippet. He made the trip to the county seat and back one day last week on a bicycle, when the roads were covered with snow, an exploit which no man would attempt or could carry out unless he had wheels in his head as well as under foot.

County Attorney Trippet had his suspicions aroused and came up Saturday to investigate the fellow's actions. It was decided that for the public safety the man should be sent to Warm Springs if possible. Saturday night Dechene was on the way back again, and after midnight was found by Officer Gagner, walking rapidly about the streets without an overcoat and thinly clad, his eyes glaring wildly about, and he was declaring that he could not get justice in Anaconda. He said he would have to kill the men who were making fun of him. Officer Gagner pacified him by telling him that there was a new chief now, and he could get satisfaction if he would go home and wait until Sunday.

He was taken to Deer Lodge yesterday by Under Sheriff Martin who drove down the valley in a cutter yesterday afternoon with his prisoner. Today Dechene will be examined for his sanity before Judge Brantly. The witnesses are Officer Gagner, Narcisse Delodge and probably others.

FORTUNE FORSOOK HIM.

When Ex-Senator Labor of Colorado Separated From His Wife.

Mrs. Augusta Tabor, first wife of ex-Senator Tabor, died today at Los Angeles, Cal. She was at one time the center of gossip for the entire county, owing to the sensational divorce proceedings instituted by her husband. She had been the partner of his early life, and was at his side during the early days at Leadville, when Tabor was only a poor storekeeper and heavily in debt. Following the strike of the Little Pittsburgh, in 1879, Tabor became imbued with ambition to shine in the United States and to cut a broad swath in the world, so as to display his two millions acquired in a year of lucky strikes. Coming to Denver, he became infatuated with Miss McCourt of Oshkosh, Wis., who was visiting here, and the lady reciprocated his affection. However, the presence of one wife was an embarrassing circumstance that would have stood in the way of anyone except a man who had suddenly sprung into wealth and prominence, and who conceived the idea that for one with money there was no barrier to his wishes.

He made propositions to his wife looking to an amicable separation, but the lady refused to entertain any of them. She was a sterling character, and when Tabor found he could not bribe her into acquiescence he began divorce proceedings, alleging incompatibility. These trials resulted in favor of the wife, and then a compromise was effected by the wife agreeing to a separation in consideration of property valued at that time at $75,000 and the care of her only child. Since then the reality has become worth over $500,000. Mrs. Tabor prospered, and the husband lost wherever he ventured. Today his estate is in the hands of assignees, and the rejected wife and her son own the best part of Capital Hill. Having dismissed his wife, Tabor took his newly-found partner and went to the United States senate, where he introduced No. 2 and got a good deal of free advertising by exhibiting his grand $5,000 aluminum role. Upon returning to Denver Tabor was ostracized in society and the second partner of his sorrows was denied admission to the charmed circles of the upper ten.

All in On-Ton of Coal.

From one ton of ordinary gas coal may be produced 1,500 pounds of coke, 20 gallons of ammonia water, and 140 pounds of coal tar. By destructive distillation the coal tar will yield 69.6 pounds of pitch, 17 pounds of creosote, 14 pounds heavy oils, 9.5 pounds of naphtha yellow, 6.3 pounds of naphthalene, 4.75 pounds of naphthalol, 2.25 pounds solvent naphtha, 1.5 pounds phenol, 1.2 pounds aniline, 1.1 pounds benzene, 1.1 pounds aniline, 0.77 of a pound toluene, 0.46 of a pound anthracene and 0.9 of a pound toluene. From the latter is obtained the new substance known as saccharine, which is 530 times as sweet as the best cane sugar, one part of it giving a very sweet taste to a thousand parts of water.—Science.

BULL BEATS LION.

A Wonderful Contest Provided to Please Madrid Spectators. From the Courier des Eats Unis. The lovers of bull fights in Madrid have recently been treated to a novel spectacle—a fight between a Senegambian lion and a bull from one of the most famous granaderias of Castile.

For several days before the sensational representation great posters were placed on all the corners of the streets, picturing the favorite animal of the Spaniards at the mercy of the king of the desert. But this was more than the citizens of Madrid could stand, and in their fury over the outrage they tore down the posters and trampled upon them in bully fashion.

Scouting a good business speculation the ticket buyers, who form a solid association in Madrid, bought up all the places the immense plaza de Toros and resold them at an enormous profit.

In the presence of 15,000 persons the magnificent lion Rogardo made his debut in a vast stage specially constructed to meet the exigencies of the terrible dust that was to take place. Then the toril on wheels, containing the bull Caminero, was drawn in. The bull was evidently out of temper, for he roared furiously at the spectators. But he was soon placed in the presence of his adversary. At this moment the entire plaza became silent as a tomb—something rare, indeed, in Spain. The spectators, holding their breath, watched for the first onslaught. As if measuring their distance, the two animals eyed each other and then sprang forward. The lion endeavored to fasten his teeth in the bull's throat, but he received a terrific butt, which sent him reeling back several paces. He gathered himself together, bounded upon his enemy and fastened his claws in his side. But Caminero managed to shake him off and at last tossed him in the air a second time. Three times more the lion sprang at the bull and was tossed each time.

The advantage now appeared to be on the side of Caminero, and the crowd, silent up to this moment, gave him a wild ovation. The lion retired to his corner and endeavored to climb to the top of the cage; but, before he could succeed, he was again successfully by his redoubtable adversary. At last, when utterly vanquished, with his side torn open, his shoulder crushed and his teeth broken, he was taken from the cage, while the crowd booed and laughed. The victor was then brought around the arena in triumph, and he went into the toril under a perfect shower of fans, hats and objects of all sorts. The enthusiasm was beyond description.

As for poor Rogardo, he died the next day in his cage. So now go tell the Spaniards that the lion, and not the bull, is the king of beasts!

LANGUAGE OF THE WIRE.

The Gossip and Chatter That Passes Between Friendly Operators.

From the Cincinnati Tribune.

At the main office of the Western Telegraph company or at the Postal Union, no matter what time of night one enters, one is sure to hear the incessant click of the sounders, and persons unacquainted with the habits of the versatile telegraphers are apt to wonder if the tales told by wire have no ending.

Operators have a habit of discussing the current questions of the day with persons hundreds of miles away, and when the wire is not busy they do not hesitate to give their personal opinions and a history of their private affairs to every one on the circuit.

Travelers who have heard some slang idiom for the first time in New York, are surprised to find the phrase in general use when they reach San Francisco. Some New York telegrapher realizing that he has something new to "spring" upon the "plug" at the other end of the wire, puts him in possession of the latest slang. In this manner the expression travels all over the United States in the course of one night.

Stories of double entendre are favorite subject matter for many of the operators, and, as a half hundred others listen to the first sender and then send it to some one else, its circulation is impossible to compute without recourse to geometrical progression. The noisy wires talk of more things than newspaper, commercial and private messages, and only those who know its mystic language appreciate its capacity for transmitting intelligence.

A Cincinnati operator who had been in the habit of "talking" to a distant operator has cut him now and will not answer his "call" after business hours. The estrangement was brought about the other night when the offending operator tried to send him a brand-new plan for currency reform of which he was the author.
