Bonding to Make an Examination of the City Hall County Officials Reports.

The county commissioners yesterday did not take action on the proposition to submit to the voters the question of bonding the county for $100,000 for the erection of a court house.

Joseph Smith was instructed to examine the city hall building thoroughly, with a view to proposing some remedy for the unpleasant odor which now permeates the place.

The county commissioners yesterday appointed Francis McNally as night janitor and engineer, to take the place of W. L. Augustine, the present incumbent, and also appointed Thomas Geary to the position of day janitor to succeed J. C. Clark.

The sheriff's report showed that $50.85 had been collected.

The commissioners again spent a number of hours in auditing bills, after which the board adjourned for the day.

STOCKMEN'S CONVENTION.

Important Meeting to Be Held in St. Paul in January, 1897.

County Clerk and Recorder Martin yesterday received the following letter, which is self-explanatory:

"To the County Clerk—On Tuesday and Wednesday, Jan. 11 and 12, 1898, there will occur at the rooms of the state capitol, St. Paul, Minn., the American Livestock Feeders and Breeders' convention of the United States and Canada. The object of this convention is three-fold:

"First—To determine the kind of live stock to breed to meet the demands of the market; second, the kinds of feed and manner of feeding to fit live stock to bring the highest market price; third, manner of shipping to market.

"There will be three sessions each day, when these practical matters, which so greatly affect the prosperity of all parts of the country and particularly the Northwest, will be discussed by practical men from this country but from Canada."

The letter requests that the clerk send a list of stock growers, so that programmes, etc., may be mailed them. Mr. Martin in reply has promised to furnish the names of prominent stock-growers in Deer Lodge county, and will forward them to the secretary of the association.

THE TAXES COLLECTED.

The Treasurer's Books Show $9,656.25 as Delinquent.

County Treasurer Hallahan yesterday completed the entries of taxes paid for the year 1897. The total amount of the assessment in the county was $779,940.95 of which sum $170,287.77 has been paid in. This leaves $609,653.18 still unpaid. The above amount does not include the assessments made under the McKinley contract. Of the $30,526.25 still due about $2,400 is due by the Northern Pacific Railway company on its lands in the county. Had the railroad taxes been paid the amount delinquent would be only slightly in excess of $7,000. The percentage remaining unpaid is about 5.77. For 1896 the tax levy was $100,775.77. Of this sum $155,219.74 was paid to before the taxes became delinquent, leaving $5,556.03 still unpaid. From this it will be seen that the tax collections this year compare favorably with those of the previous year.

TESTIMONY OF WITNESSES

James Long Claims to Have Acted in Self-Defense When He Struck John Clinton—A Large Array of Counsel.

The case of the state against James Long, charged with assault in the second degree, came up in Judge Donoghue's court last evening at 7 o'clock. Long is accused of striking John Clinton over the head with a club at an engine room at the lower works.

The first witness called by the prosecution was Clinton himself, who testified that he was an engineer at the lower works; that on the morning of the second he had some trouble with his client, James Long; that as he was preparing to leave, just behind some words, he struck at Long. Immediately after this he stood talking to a man named Brunick, when he received a blow on the back of the head, which knocked him down and rendered him unconscious, and he did not recover sensibility until he was being carried to the hospital. He did not know who struck him.

Dr. Spielman was the next witness examined. He testified that he dressed the wound for Clinton on the morning of Dec. 2, and that the injury was on the left ear. The doctor said that the wound had been caused by some blunt instrument.

John Brunick was then called. He testified that he saw Clinton and the defendant on the morning of the difficulty, that his attention was first called to them by seeing the defendant running through the engine room, which followed by Clinton; that he then saw Clinton strike the defendant about half a dozen times, when he interfered and told them to stop. While he was talking to Clinton, the latter fell to the ground. Brunick did not know what caused Clinton to fall, as he saw no one strike him, but that after Clinton was down he saw Long hit him with a stick, the blow was received upon the shoulder.

At the conclusion of Brunick's testimony the state rested and counsel for the defendant made a motion that his client be discharged for want of proof; that the evidence of the state showed that the defendant was acting in self-defense in striking Clinton, which motion, after arguments by the counsel of the respective sides, and the presence of numerous authorities by the attorney for the defense, was taken under advisement by the court until next Monday evening at 7 o'clock.

Nothing relative to the original cause of the trouble was brought out during the hearing.

Attorney J. R. Boardman appears for Long and Assistant County Attorney Goodman, Messrs. Sawyer & Walsh and J. H. Duffy are attorneys for the state.

DEATH OF JOSEPH MARSHALL.

The Pioneer Passes Away at the Home of His Brother-in-Law.

Yesterday saw the taking off of one of the most worthy and highly respected citizens of this community—in the death of Joseph Marshall, which took place at the residence of T. B. Mallory at No. 410 West Fourth street, in this city. Deer Lodge county loses one of her oldest pioneers. Death was probably due to heart trouble, although Marshall had long been a sufferer from Bright's disease.

Joseph Marshall was born in Ohio 57 years ago, and came to Montana in 1884. He engaged in mining at Cedar creek and other camps. For 15 years he has lived on a ranch on Lost creek, some half dozen miles from this city, one of the most beautiful places in the whole of Deer Lodge valley.

In 1894 he was elected to the Montana legislature on the populist ticket. He served his constituents in an honest, able and fearless manner, and was noted for his conservatism and his consistency. He was universally respected because of those high qualities which indicate an honest man.

Mr. Marshall was married to Mrs. Martha Hagey in 1884. He was the father of two daughters, one of whom died in her infancy, and the other, Frankie, is now 12 years of age. His widow is a sister of T. B. Mallory and Mrs. Dennis Shovlin. He was also the stepfather of Edward Hagey.

He leaves several relatives in the East, one of whom, a sister, lives in Warren county, Illinois. He also had two brothers in Missouri, one of whom is a resident of Kansas City. He was considered to be well-to-do, although he could not be said to have been wealthy.

Mr. Marshall had been ailing for about three months prior to his death, and about a week ago he was confined. Until Thursday morning he had been able to be about most of the time. He was possessed of a remarkable constitution and his vitality resisted death to the utmost.

The funeral will be held at 2 o'clock on Sunday afternoon. Rev. M. E. Easter of the M. E. church will conduct the services.

A LOST CHILD.

A Three Year Old Waif Was Crying on Park Avenue.

Yesterday afternoon at about 5 o'clock, as W. L. Walls was passing along Park avenue, he saw a little boy, about 3 years old, on the sidewalk crying bitterly. The child had evidently strayed away from home and becoming mixed with the dense throng of people, passing to and fro, had completely lost his way. When Mr. Walls inquired of him what his name was and where he lived, the little waif answered nothing, but only stared about in a bewildered manner.

Mr. Walls took the child to his office in the Shields block, where it was found that the little fellow was but scantily clad, and that he was accompanied by the cold, heavy winter on all the occupants of offices in the Shields block and sufficient clothing was provided to keep the child comfortable. All attempts to elicit information from the lad proved futile. Late last night, after a diligent search, the child's mother was discovered. The family is an Austrian one and the little waif was unable to speak English.

Consumption's Victim.

M. J. Kitts, a sufferer from consumption, died at St. Ann's hospital yesterday morning. He had been ordered sent to the hospital by the county physician, and had not been in the institution more than a few minutes before death came. He was a Canadian by birth and was about 45 years of age. He had been in this city for about a year. He was a document from a Butte lodge, appointing him as its representative in business matters. A telegram was sent to Butte, but no reply had been received in a late hour. The body was removed to Ebert's undertaking rooms.

HINDOO SERVANTS POPULAR.

Many English Families Employing Colored Men in Their Homes.

The servant question in England is being solved by the importation of East Indians. Since Queen Victoria imported some of these men for service in her household colored men have become more and more popular with British householders. A dozen years ago the Indian homes in the east one finds scarcely a smart London house that has not one Indian servant in its employ.

These men are peculiarly adapted for service in the titled families of England. They are usually utilized as waiters and are obliged to retain their native costume, dressing all in snow-white, with huge turbans would around their heads, gold rings or buttons in their ears and have snowy feet thrust into embroidered, beaded slippers. They never gossip, never quarrel and are respectful to the point of homage.

In one household the Indian butler waited on the table, managed the dining-room, served as valet to the master of the house and any male guests, kept the accounts, poured the tea on reception days, laid exquisite darts in the table linen when needed, decorated the menu cards in water colors, and at a pinch, when the lady's maid went away in a huff, did his helpless mistress's blonde locks into the most fascinating wend-dress ever seen. All for the nominal sum of $20 a month. The duchess of Devonshire employs an East Indian butler who stands on bare heels 6 feet 6 inches and who occasionally rides on the box beside her powdered coachman when she drives in Hyde park. But only a duchess or a millionaire could afford to keep a man like that, because the Mohattans are hated by the English servants for, on account of their religion, they have to be provided with fire, stove, food and a table separate from the Christian devils, and, finally, owing to the fact that one Indian will take no larger wages than a white butler or valet, while his accomplishments are simply unparelleled.

INDUSTRIAL CENTERS OF FUTURE.

Will Be in the Foothills, the Electric Power Coming From the Mountains.

From Casler's Magazine.

The modern industrial city has been dependent for its rapid expansion upon its superior advantages with respect to coal—that is, it must have either a navigable water front or be a natural railway receiving and distributing center or iron region. All this will be changed in the great electrical waterfalls of the future.

The power, as a rule, will be produced in the mountains, while the cities will be scattered far and wide over the foothills. There will be better air, more room, better drainage, more elevated conditions of living than in the case with the present overcrowded industrial centers, built for the most part on the swampy deltas or in the valleys of great rivers. Under the pressure of dear coal and with the development of the great British and English engineers already making plans for saving the energy of the falls of the Nile, 15 miles below Cairo, and it is well within the bounds of probability that the Nile cataraets will some day supply the power necessary for running trains of cars from Alexandria to Khartoum. Not only are there magnificent falls on the Zambesi itself, in south central Africa, but many of which, with their mountain tributaries, reach the plains, after taking innumerable giant leaps down the mountain sides. It is nonsense to say that the development of this water power is visionary; the falls of the Zambesi are much more within the range of civilization to-day than any part of Montana, for example, in the United States, was 30 years ago.

As they put it in Rockland, Me. Mr. and Mrs. Irving Harrington of Hawthorn Point, "were the recipients of a daughter Thursday night."
