

ANACONDA NEWS.

MEMORY OF WASHINGTON

To-Day the 165th Anniversary of the Hero's Birth.

A GENERAL OBSERVANCE

Anacoda Will Appropriately Remember the Great Deeds of America's Grandest Figure—Copy of the Ustler County Gazette.

To-day all true, patriotic American citizens will remember with pride the name of this country's greatest hero—George Washington. To-day occurs the 165th anniversary of the great man's birth—he was born in 1732. In every city, town, village and hamlet throughout the United States American flags will decorate the buildings and the memory of the great deeds of Washington will be refreshed.

In Anacoda there will be no public demonstration, but the day will be observed in an appropriate manner. The stores will close during the afternoon and a general cessation from business will be the rule, and Anacoda's citizens will stay at home and read with intense interest again the history of the life of America's foremost figure. Histories that have been upon the shelves since their owners were boys at school will be taken down, as they are each successively read and their well-known contents will again be decorated with increasing interest.

Many of the stores of the city have decorated their fronts with flags and bunting and many handsome and unique "Washington windows" are to be seen. Among the handsomest among this class is that of the Copper City Commercial company, where a large photograph of the hero is surrounded by a mass of national colors, revolutionary muskets and other reminders of the stormy times wherein General Washington figured, the whole surrounded by an American eagle, the emblem of America. In this window is a copy of the famous Ustler County Gazette, published at Kingston, and dated Jan. 4, 1890. The newspaper is the property of ex-Postmaster Roger Edwards and is held by him as a thing sacred. The edition contains a graphic account of the death of General Washington, of the letters of sorrow that passed between congress and President Adams and other matter relating to the sad occurrence, all of it intensely interesting. Of the action of the house of representatives, after the introduction of a resolution by Representative Marshall, the Gazette says:

"General Marshall and Smith were appointed to wait on the president to know at what time it would be convenient to receive the house. Generals Marshall and Smith having waited on the president with this resolution, reported that the president would be ready to receive them at 1 o'clock this day. The speaker accordingly waited on him. The speaker addressed the president in the following words:

"Sir: The house of representatives, penetrated with a sense of the irreparable loss sustained by the nation by the death of that great and good man, the chief and beloved Washington, this day wait on you, sir, to express their condolence on this melancholy and distressing event."

"To this the president made the following reply:

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: I receive with great respect and affection the condolence of the house of representatives on the death of our nation's chief and beloved George Washington. I sympathize with you with the nation and with good men through the world, in this irreparable loss sustained by all."

"A message was received from the senate informing the house that they had agreed to the appointment of a committee to consider a suitable manner of paying honor to the first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his country, and that they had appointed seven members to join a committee for that purpose."

The senate sent the following message to President Adams:

"To the President of the United States: The senate of the United States respectfully leave, sir, to express to you their deep regret for the loss their country has sustained in the death of General George Washington. This event, so distressing to all our fellow citizens, must be peculiarly heavy to you, who have long been associated with him in deeds of patriotism. Permit us, sir, to mingle our tears with yours on this occasion. It is mainly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis is no common calamity to the world; our country mourns her father. The Almighty dispenser of human events has taken from us our greatest benefactor and ornament, it becomes us to submit this reverence to Him who maketh darkness His pavilion."

With patriotic pride we review the life of our Washington and compare him with those of other countries who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern fames are diminished before him. Greatness and guilt have been too often allied, but his fame is whiter than is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtue. It reproved the impetuosity of their ambition and darkened the splendor of their victory. The scenes closed, and we are no longer anxious lest misfortune should subvert his glory; he has traveled on to the end of his journey and carried with him an increasing weight of honor. He has departed safely, where misfortune cannot tarnish it—where malice cannot blot it. Favored of heaven, he departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity; magnanimous in death, the darkness of the grave could not obscure his brightness.

"Such was the man whom we deplore. The light of his glory is consumed. Unmated, Washington yet lives upon earth in his spotless example—his spirit is in heaven. Let his countrymen concentrate the memory of the heroic general, the patriotic statesman and the virtuous sage; let them teach their children never to forget that the fruits of his labors and his example are their inheritance."

"To this the president replied as follows: "Gentlemen of the Senate: I received with the most respectful and affectionate sentiments, in this impressive address, the obliging expressions of your regret, for the loss our country has sustained in the death of her most esteemed, beloved and admired citizen. In the multitude of my thoughts and recollections on this melancholy event, you will permit me only to say that I have seen him in the days of adversity, in some of the scenes of his life, and most trying perplexities. I have also attended him in the highest elevation and the most prosperous felicity; with uniform admiration of his wisdom, moderation and constancy."

"Among the original associates in this memorable League of the Continent, in 1774, which first expressed the sovereign will of a free nation in America, he was the only one remaining in the general government. Although with a constitution more feeble than his, at an age when he thought it necessary to prepare for retirement, I feel myself alone hereafter of my last brother, yet I derive strong consolation from the unanimous disposition which appears in all ages and classes to mingle their sorrows with his, on this common calamity to the world."

"The life of our Washington cannot suffer by comparison with those of other countries, who have been most celebrated and exalted by fame. The attributes and decorations of royalty could only have served to eclipse the majesty of those virtues which made him from being a modest citizen in more resplendent luminary, misfortune had he lived, could hereafter have sullied his glory only with those superficial minds, who, believing that characters and actions are marked by success alone, rarely deserve to enjoy it. Malice could never blast his honor, and envy made him a singular exception to her universal rule. For himself, he had lived enough to life and glory. For his fellow citizens, if their prayers could have been answered, he would have been immortal. For me his departure is a most unfortunate moment. Trusting, however, in the wise and kind dominions of providence over the passions of men, and the result of their councils and actions, as well as over their lives, nothing remains for me but humble resignation."

"His example is now complete, and it will teach wisdom and virtue to magistrates, citizens and men, not only Adams and other matter relating to the sad occurrence, all of it intensely interesting. Of the action of the house of representatives, after the introduction of a resolution by Representative Marshall, the Gazette says:

"General Marshall and Smith were appointed to wait on the president to know at what time it would be convenient to receive the house. Generals Marshall and Smith having waited on the president with this resolution, reported that the president would be ready to receive them at 1 o'clock this day. The speaker accordingly waited on him. The speaker addressed the president in the following words:

"Sir: The house of representatives, penetrated with a sense of the irreparable loss sustained by the nation by the death of that great and good man, the chief and beloved Washington, this day wait on you, sir, to express their condolence on this melancholy and distressing event."

"To this the president made the following reply:

"Gentlemen of the House of Representatives: I receive with great respect and affection the condolence of the house of representatives on the death of our nation's chief and beloved George Washington. I sympathize with you with the nation and with good men through the world, in this irreparable loss sustained by all."

"A message was received from the senate informing the house that they had agreed to the appointment of a committee to consider a suitable manner of paying honor to the first in war, first in peace and first in the hearts of his country, and that they had appointed seven members to join a committee for that purpose."

The senate sent the following message to President Adams:

"To the President of the United States: The senate of the United States respectfully leave, sir, to express to you their deep regret for the loss their country has sustained in the death of General George Washington. This event, so distressing to all our fellow citizens, must be peculiarly heavy to you, who have long been associated with him in deeds of patriotism. Permit us, sir, to mingle our tears with yours on this occasion. It is mainly to weep. To lose such a man at such a crisis is no common calamity to the world; our country mourns her father. The Almighty dispenser of human events has taken from us our greatest benefactor and ornament, it becomes us to submit this reverence to Him who maketh darkness His pavilion."

With patriotic pride we review the life of our Washington and compare him with those of other countries who have been pre-eminent in fame. Ancient and modern fames are diminished before him. Greatness and guilt have been too often allied, but his fame is whiter than is brilliant. The destroyers of nations stood abashed at the majesty of his virtue. It reproved the impetuosity of their ambition and darkened the splendor of their victory. The scenes closed, and we are no longer anxious lest misfortune should subvert his glory; he has traveled on to the end of his journey and carried with him an increasing weight of honor. He has departed safely, where misfortune cannot tarnish it—where malice cannot blot it. Favored of heaven, he departed without exhibiting the weakness of humanity; magnanimous in death,

ABOUT THE CITY.

Roses $1.50, carnations 50c, at Greig's.

The National Union meets to-night.

Baths—Montana hotel barber shop, 55c.

E. S. Stackpole came over from Deer Lodge yesterday.

William Norton of Stuart spent yesterday in Anacoda.

Alderman Fred Gagner and wife spent Sunday in Butte.

Attorney Howard Paschal of Butte was in the city yesterday.

City Engineer E. H. McDonald was a Butte visitor yesterday.

Close prices on artists' materials at Mahan Bros., 319 East Park.

Old fashioned New England supper at 211 East Commercial to-night.

Sisson's Business college, Davidson building over Baker's grocery.

William Griffith purchased John McGreevy's property on Alder street yesterday for $2,400.

P. S. Towey, one of the editorial staff of the Recorder, spent Sunday in Missoula, his former home.

Attend the Boston tea party given by ladies of Presbyterian church at 211 E. Commercial this evening.

H. A. Smurr, brother of J. M. Smurr of this city, came up from Deer Lodge yesterday for a few days stay.

Dr. P. Gattan has his office in the Bradley building. Office hours: 11 to 12 a. m., 2 to 4 and 7 to 8:30 p. m.

There was not even a case of vagrancy in police court yesterday, which says a great deal for Saturday and Sunday drunks.

W. H. Gehrman of the Montana Meat company, returned yesterday from a trip through Idaho for the purpose of buying cattle.

James McDowell and wife left yesterday for Michigan to visit with relatives and friends. They expect to be absent about a month.

Mrs. C. P. Chapman, who has been visiting her sister, Mrs. A. D. Peck, in the city for some days, left yesterday for her home in Deer Lodge.

Evangelist Weber begins his art work to-night in the M. E. church. The most famous paintings by Raphael, Rubens and the old masters will be given by means of a powerful stereopticon, manufactured expressly for this work. The views begin at 8:15 o'clock.

During the performance of "Ole Olsson" at the Margaret last evening, Lawson, the champion bicycle rider, rode a very fast mile on a bicycle machine. The "Terrible Swede" to be the best make of wheel for his purpose that he has ever tried. The Anacoda agent for the Thistle is P. B. White, who is showing some handsome new models for 1898.

THREE ATTACHMENTS.

But Some of Those Interested Say That Matters Will Be Set Right at Once.

Attachments were issued yesterday against the Gold Coin mining company in favor of the Anacoda Copper Mining company, the firm of Walker & Gibbs, and the firm of MacCallum & Cloutier, the aggregate being about $3,000. For about a month past L. U. Loomis, the manager of the Gold Coin company, has been absent. One of the large stockholders happened to be at the property yesterday, and he came to the mine immediately on learning of the attachments. It is understood that he made arrangements last evening for prompt settlement of the outstanding matters, and that all proceedings under the writs will end. The Gold Coin company's property is near Silver Lake. A large amount of development work has been done, and the 20-stamp mill is running right along day and night.

Anacoda Steam Laundry, 205 E. Park.

Cut Rates to Eastern Points Via B. & P. Railway and Connections.

To St. Paul and Duluth, 1st-class, $25.00 To St. Paul and Duluth, 2d-class, 20.00 To Chicago, 1st-class, 31.50 To Chicago, 2d-class, 26.50 Reduction in passenger rates from the points East where rate has been higher than shown above.

Call on ticket agent B. & P. railway passenger station, Anacoda, for full particulars.

Get Young & Dezell to figure on your plumbing and tin work.

"Maloney's Wedding."

The Union Family theater was well filled last night with an audience that came prepared to laugh, and they surely got what they went after. "Maloney's Wedding" is a bright farce-comedy with little or no plot, being constructed for laughing purposes only. Names of specialties of a high class were introduced and well received. Miss Emma Whitney was thoroughly at home in the character of Miss Maloney, as were also the Misses Sutton and Lynton. Frank Rice is an ideal German and made an fine foil for Messrs. Cardigan, Johnson, Fleming and others. The dances executed by Misses Maloney, Sutton and Julia Lynton were picturesque and graceful. Altogether "Maloney's Wedding" is a good show, and could easily hold the boards for an entire week, had not Mr. Manager Sutton advertised it for four nights only.

Auction sale of household goods, near of 299 East Commercial avenue, Anacoda, Wednesday, Feb. 23, at 2 p. m.

Consing Club Meeting.

To-night the first step toward the opening of the coursing season will be taken when a meeting will be held at Judge Donoghue's court room at 7:30 o'clock. The meeting is for the purpose of arranging the coursing season for the coming year, and also to take steps toward providing a place to keep the rabbits which were brought up from the drive at Market Lake on the 5th inst. All the best racing men of the county are particularly urged to be present early in order that all the preliminary business for the coming coursing matches may be arranged at one meeting.

Willow clothes baskets 65 cents at Our Store. M. J. Murphy, Prop.

His Conversion.

Contrary to all expectation, Evangelist Weber, in his sermon on "My Conversion as a Roman Catholic," did not say one word that might be construed

Bucklen's Arnica Salve.

The Best Salve in the world for Cuts, Bruises, Sores, Salt Rheum, Fever Sores, Tetter, Chapped Hands, Chilblains, Corns and all Skin Eruptions, and positively cures Piles, or no pay required. It is guaranteed to give perfect satisfaction. All the money refunded. Price 25 cents per box. For sale by all druggists and dealers.

In the District Court.

In the district court yesterday Silas Day Beebe was granted a divorce from his wife, Virginia Beebe. The divorce was by default. Edward J. Hanlon failed to qualify in his application for citizenship, and he will try again later on.

as abuse of the church of Rome. He gave the most salient points of his history. The eldest of 11 children, he was obliged to battle for bread at an early age. His father was addicted to drink and caused much sorrow and shame. He was a strict Romanist, and his mother was pious. He was converted in a Methodist church in Cincinnati, whose pastor was then the now famous Dr. Payne of the educational work of the M. E. church. He attended college four years and then entered the ministry, and from that to evangelism. Mr. Weber closes his meetings here next Sunday and goes from here to Butte to some of the meetings in Mountain View M. E. church.

For reliable plumbing go to J. A. Hasley, 215 Oak street.

TRUE FRIENDSHIP.

Tod Sloane Remembers the Kindness of John S. Campbell.

The following, taken from the San Francisco Examiner, tells of an incident in which Tod Sloane and John Campbell figured, and which will be read with interest by horsemen in these parts:

Tod Sloane went out to Oakland early yesterday morning to get a little practice in the saddle. He was quite sick and feeling weak, and left the track. He did not show up in the afternoon, but will do a little more work this morning, and has promised to ride May 10, to-morrow.

John S. Campbell in his early days was one of the famous trotting drivers of the country, and among many others handled the great little horse Richard. But after a while Campbell picked up a few runners and gradually lost his love for the trotter. About this time in his career he picked up a weeb of a boy called "Tod" and put him to work driving horses. At that time Tod (Sloane) weighed about 100 pounds, and Campbell took the boy along, advising him and educating him in horse-riding until the youngster began to show some of the "kick" of a very apt pupil and stayed with Campbell, who had gathered together a big stable, until early in the 90s, when they separated. Campbell was then in partnership with Walter at that time, and he, with Fred Taral as premier jockey, and by-the-by, it was Campbell who brought Taral to the front.

During the last few years fortune has favored the veteran trainer any too well, and this season has been decidedly against him, but it is a long lane that has no turning and the horses in the stable have shown to be good enough to win with a good call on. So Campbell hunted up his ex-employee on Monday and asked him to ride for him whenever possible this winter, stating that he would pay as much as anyone else. Tod, in the most grateful manner possible, replied: "Why, Mr. Campbell, you can have first call on me and pay me anything or nothing at any time for you for the sake of auld lang syne. Anything I have is yours."

Speaking of the occurrence afterward the crack jockey said: "Yes, sir; I have given Mr. Campbell first call on me for the Burns handicap. He did a whole lot for me, and I never forget faces; but Mr. Campbell's claim on me is stronger than any one's. He taught me almost everything."

About the first winning mount Tod Sloane had on a big track was at Memphis in 1888 or 1889.

Waterman's Ideal fountain pens sold at L. A. King's book store.

"OLE OLSON."

The Swede and His Company Draw Out a Big Audience.

The Margaret was well filled last evening when the curtain went up on the first scene of "Ole Olsson." The play has been revised and new bits injected into it, until now Ole can hardly be recognized as the same "purty gude fellow" who was here before. "Ole" is now a completely new plot, and the plot is just as good enough to create interest and hold the audience as the plan of the play develops. Everything about "Ole Olsson," of the old and new, is just what the parts are taken, and the audience that is now handling the piece could hardly be surpassed. Ben Hendricks played the part of Ole, and he was rewarded with rounds of applause, by simple yet intelligent Swede appealed strongly to the people, and they were Ole's friends from the start. Most of Ole's work is acting, there being very little to read or to say in what was necessary for him to say Hendricks employed a very clever Swedish dialect. As far as the acting of Hendricks was concerned, he could not be faulted. He was especially good in the part of the fishing scene, where he appears for 15 minutes without saying a dozen words, yet the audience is kept in a laugh at the end.

St. George, Hussey and her celebrated voice were in evidence as they always are when this clever performer appears. She divided first honors with Hendricks, and she had a good deal to do with the biggest hit. Miss Hussey is well known in these parts that the mere mention that she played the part of Mrs. O'Flannigan is enough to interest the readers of the Standard, that there was a laugh every time she opened her mouth.

Among the specialties introduced was an excellent bass solo by C. F. Lorrain, and a dance by the late Hendricks, assisted by Miss Willis, and a few comic songs by Harry Blake. Lawson, "The Terrible Swede," did his much-advertised race on a stationary bicycle. Also advertised was a wheel made the round of the dial, which was said to represent a mile, in 54 1/2 seconds, while Lawson made it in 49 2/5 seconds. The bicycle used was a "Thistle" and his advertisement was thrown in for this make. But for the local interest lent this bicycle specialty through the presence of an Anacoda rider, it is the opinion that it would have been pretty much of a fizzle.

Delicate children! What a source of anxiety they are!

The parents wish them hearty and strong, but they keep thin and pale.

To all these delicate children Scott's Emulsion of Cod-liver Oil with Hypophosphites comes with the best of news.

It brings rich blood, strong bones, healthy nerves, and sound digestion. It is growth and prosperity to them.

No matter how delicate the child, it is readily taken.

See and get it, all druggists. SCOTT & BOWNE, Chemists, New York.

FREE SCHOOL BOOKS.

Children May Have Them To-day for the Asking.

In the back room of Judge Donoghue's court is a big box full of school books, which Constable Walsh got at the foreclosure sale of the stock of A. H. Neal. There are about 500 of the text books, consisting of readers from the First up to the Fifth.

Mr. Wash has decided to distribute these readers among the children of the city, and all who are in need of a reader may have one by calling at Judge Donoghue's court to-day. The distribution of the books will be in the nature of a boon to many poor children whose parents are unable to purchase school supplies for them. The books are all new and in excellent condition.

The Complete Flour Chest.

We respectfully request every family in Anacoda to examine our new article when we call at your homes. Eldred & Morrow, Office: Hotel Shoemaker.

Splitting Hairs.

Special Dispatch to the Standard. Missoula, Feb. 21.—Local surgeons are interested in the result of a case that the Christian Scientists have in hand. They are removing superfluous hair from the face of a young woman by their own peculiar methods.

An Earthquake Shock.

Missoula, N. H., Feb. 20.—What is believed to have been an earthquake shock was felt here at 5:30 o'clock this morning. Barn doors were thrown open, windows rattled and the earth had a perceptible tremble.

BERLIN'S BRUTAL POLICE.

Woman Criticises an Officer and Is Dragged to a Station.

Berlin Letter in London Mail. "Lately when a German was badly treated by the police at Fort and Prince, Germany sent men-of-war to obtain reparation. A case has occurred here in Berlin in one of the most frequented streets, which, though I have grown accustomed to much, I should not have thought possible. A lady allowed her newly engaged housemaid to go out, but requested her to be in at 10, the hour at which Berlin houses are closed. At a quarter past ten hours in her dressing gown and slippers and without a hat, she went down the public stairs to see if the girl had perhaps been locked out. She found her in front of the door in the company of a man, who, when the lady summoned the girl to come in, cried that he would not allow her, but would take her with him. The mistress asked a policeman, who happened to be passing for his assistance, but was refused, whereupon she said:

"Well, you are a nice policeman. What do you care for?"

The policeman very gruffly ordered the lady to go into the house. She objected, and all at once he seized hold of her and declared her to be arrested. She tried to rush to the door, pointing to her dress, and declaring it was impossible to be dragged out to the police station on a cold winter night and so thinly clad. The policeman locked the door, the lady rushed at her, seized her by the waist and dragged her into the street. He then grabbed at her arm and shoved her on before him.

An empty cab came along, and his prisoner begged him to allow her at least to get in and be spared the disgrace of wandering to the station accompanied by the usual mob. She jumped into the cab, but the rascal pulled her out with such force that her gown was torn and her arms were black and blue. She was obliged to walk when she was got to the police station. When she was got to the police station, she was told to get out, with the words: "Die off or you will be arrested, too." After a short inquiry the lady was released.

As much for the incredible story, but still more monstrous is the way in which the police brought an action against the lady for having insulted a member of the force. Of course, she was acquitted, but so far nothing has been heard as to whether the policeman was punished by his superiors.

CLIMBS THROUGH FLAMES.

Brave Ohio Girl Rescues Her Mother and Sister From Death.

Miss Mary Joyce is the heroine of the hour at Canal Dover, Ohio, because of her bravery and skill in facing the flames to save the lives of those dear to her. She carried her infant mother and sister Margaret, lived in a two-story frame dwelling. The sister sleeps up stairs and the mother and other daughter below. Mary was awakened at 3 o'clock one morning last week by smelling smoke, and growing out of the door, she met by a volume of flames and smoke. The stairway was by this time a mass of flames.

She called to her sister and, getting no answer, she climbed through the flames up the frail stairway, and the top she found her sister hysterical from fright, and, picking her up bodily, carried her down through the fire into the yard. By the time she returned the fire had crept into her mother's apartment, and the latter was lying on the bed unconscious from fright. The brave sister picked her up and tenderly carried her to a neighboring house. By the time the fire department was summoned the house was fastened and there was nothing saved from the wreckage. The fire started from the explosion of a lamp in the hall.

Nicki Makes Right.

Thirsty Throckmorton (fully)—It's mitey lucky for me dat I got dis beer keg spigot in me hand for a revolver, or der folks dat owns dat ders chicken coop mite objee' ter me callin'."

THE COPPER CITY

A Perfect-Fitting DRESS IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT A Perfect-Fitting CORSET

We are now prepared to FIT YOU in any of the leading lines of

Corsets and Corset Waists From 50c to $5.00

TRY A W. B. W. B. W. B. THE PINK OF PERFECTION. AMERICA'S LEADING CORSET.

New Silk Waists Just received by express. Come in and see them. You may find just what you want.

New Wrappers Not many of them, but they are splendid values at $1.75

THE COPPER CITY

THE Guarantors' Finance Co. OF PHILADELPHIA

Issues Policies for Employers' Liability, Steam Boiler, Public Liability, Team, Elevator & Sprinkler Insurance, Personal Accident and Burglary Insurance; Bonds of Surety and Fidelity Insurance. CAPITAL $1,000,000.00.

Thornton & Wellcome, Agents Room 7, Bank Block, Anacoda.

THE ANACONDA CLASSIFIED BUSINESS DIRECTORY. PHYSICIANS. J. M. SLIGH, M. D. PHYSICIAN AND SURGEON.

318 1/2 E. Park Avenue. Office hours, 2 to 11 a. m., 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p. m. Residence, 617 Cherry street. DR. N. S. SNYDER. Surgeon to St. Ann's Hospital.

Office next to Montana Hotel. Telephone No. 15. Anacoda, Mont.

ARCHITECTS. P. J. DONOGHUE, ARCHITECT.

Over Kennedy's drug store, Anacoda. Silver How block, Butte. Money to loan on realty.

FRENCH CLEANING AND DYEING. Plush, Woolen, Velvet and Silk Dresses, Gentlemen's Garments, Kid Gloves, Feathers and Furs, Lace and Curtains of all descriptions, Silk and Woolen Underwear and Neckties. Scouring by the French process. All work guaranteed. ANACONDA STEAM DYE WORKS. 224 West Commercial Ave., Anacoda.

WILLIAM L. HOGE, M. B. BROWNLEE, R. C. CHAMBERS, MARCUS DUTY, F. E. SARGEANT, W. M. THORNTON.

HOGG, DALY & CO., Bankers ANACONDA, MONT.

Buy and sell Domestic and Foreign Exchange and transact a General Banking Business. Collections promptly attended to. Exchange drawn on London, Edinburgh, Glasgow, Dublin, Belfast, Hamburg, Berlin and all the leading cities of Europe.

CORRESPONDENTS. National Park Bank, New York. Omaha National Bank, Omaha. First National Bank, St. Paul. Wells, Fargo & Co., San Francisco. Utah National Bank, Ogden. Hoge, Brownlee & Co., Butte. Larabee Bros. & Co., Deer Lodge.

THEO. EHRET Undertaker and Embalmer. Main Street, Anacoda, Mont. OPEN ALL NIGHT

Building Paper Ready Roofing Preservative Paint. These materials are carried in stock by THE HARRIS & LANE CO. 103 E. Broadway, Butte, Mont.

When you have a house for rent. When you have a house for sale. When you have rooms for rent.

Administrator's Sale of Horses and Cattle. Notice is hereby given, That in pursuance of an order of the District Court of the County of Deer Lodge, State of Montana, made on the 18th day of January, 1898, in the matter of the estate of Hugh Whitcraft, deceased, the undersigned, Ed. Whitcraft, Administrator of the estate of Hugh Whitcraft, deceased, will sell at public auction, to the highest bidder for cash or approved security, on Saturday, the 19th day of March, 1898, at 10 o'clock a. m., at the ranch of said estate, near Warm Springs, in said Deer Lodge County, the following personal property, to-wit: Ten head of stock cattle, two hundred and four head of draft horses, and a miscellaneous lot of farming implements and machinery. Dated Feb. 18th, 1898. Ed. WHITCRAFT, Administrator of the estate of Hugh Whitcraft, deceased. EDWARD SCHAEFFNER, Atty. for Administrator.

THE COPPER CITY

ANACONDA, MONTANA

A Perfect-Fitting DRESS IS IMPOSSIBLE WITHOUT A Perfect-Fitting CORSET

We are now prepared to FIT YOU in any of the leading lines of

Corsets and Corset Waists From 50c to $5.00

TRY A W. B. W. B. W. B. THE PINK OF PERFECTION. AMERICA'S LEADING CORSET.

New Silk Waists Just received by express. Come in and see them. You may find just what you want.

New Wrappers Not many of them, but they are splendid values at $1.75