Intended No Harm.

A young man named Meyer gave the family of Mrs. Reinhart, living at the corner of Park and Jackson, a bad scare last evening. Meyer was drunk and wandered into Mrs. Reinhart's house without being heard by the family. He laid down in the sitting room and the family hearing a heavy snoring, went to investigate. As there were no men in the house they were badly frightened by what they found. The police were telephoned for and Officer Smith went out and took Meyer away. As he is a young man of some prominence and it was evident he did not intend any harm, he was not arrested.

Colonel Ingersoll, on his recent visit to the Twin Cities, came up over the Milwaukee road. He found the Milwaukee's pioneer limited the only perfect train in the world, and the colonel has traveled over the world perhaps more than most of our public men.

MET A TERRIBLE DEATH

Pascoe's Life Was Literally Crushed Out.

IN THE STEVENS MINE

The Unfortunate Miner Fell Between the Bucket and the Wall Plates. Died Before He Could Be Released.

William Pascoe, a young miner, met a terrible death last evening in one of the shafts of the Stevens mine. While ascending the shaft from some cause he fell between the bucket and wall plates and had his life literally crushed out.

The scene of the accident was what is known as the old east shaft of the Stevens mine, situated on the west side of Jackson street about at the intersection of Mercury. William Bennetts, an uncle of the deceased, and Frederick Thomas have a lease on the mine and young Pascoe was in their employ. The mine is operated with a bucket and horse whim, which at the time of the accident was being attended by Thomas, while Bennetts and his nephew were below on work at the 100-foot level. About 5 o'clock last evening young Pascoe left his uncle in the crosscut and started to go on top. He loaded the bucket with drills and other tools which had to go on top and climbed to the bucket. Thomas on top got the signal to hoist and took the bucket away. When it reached the 70-foot level he felt a jar and a tightening of the rope and an instant later the bucket stopped. At that moment he heard an outcry in the shaft, and knowing something had happened, made the whim fast and started down the ladder to investigate.

The young man below had heard the outcry and he started up the ladder. When the partners reached the 70 they found the young man fast between the bucket and the wall plates, the body hanging by the head and shoulders. The young man was still alive, but unconscious, and Bennetts and Thomas set to work to release him, but found the body too firmly wedged between the bucket and wall plates for them to get him out alone. They immediately summoned assistance and cut out the timber which held the bucket, but it was slow work, and before the release of the unfortunate man could be accomplished, he died. Coroner Julien was notified and after viewing the remains, the body was sent to Richards' undertaking rooms, where an inquest will be held this afternoon.

It is not known exactly how the young man got between the bucket and wall plates, but it is known that when the bucket left the bottom of the shaft, he was standing on the rim, holding the rope, being unable to get in the bucket from the fact that it was filled with tools. The shaft is an incline for a part of the way, and at the point where young Pascoe was killed, a timber crosses the shaft, lower down than those of the other sets, and for one riding as the young man was doing, it was necessary to crouch down to get under this timber. It is supposed he did not get low enough, and his shoulder striking the timber, he was forced down between the bucket and plates into a space of only five inches. Deputy State Mine Inspector Frank Hunter investigated and his report gave it as his opinion that this was the way the accident occurred. The partners in the lease stated that they never rode on the bucket, because it was unsafe to do so, and that they had several times cautioned young Pascoe against riding on the bucket.

The deceased was between 17 and 18 years of age and was a son of William G. Pascoe, who formerly resided in Butte and who was quite widely known as a Cornish style wrestler. The father now resides at Dodgeville, Wis., where the mother, two sisters and a brother also live. The only relative of the deceased living in Butte is the uncle, by whom he was employed. The deceased came to Butte last spring and worked as a laborer in the employ of Contractor Ryan for a time on the construction of the Jackson street sewer. Later he worked in the quarries near Melrose and only recently went to work for his uncle and his partner. The family were notified of the fatal accident by telegraph.

STOLEN PROPERTY

Alleged to Have Been Discovered in a Servant's Trunk.

C. M. Clark, proprietor of a saloon in East Park street, called on Chief of Police Mulholland last evening and made a report to the effect that recently he had employed at his home a servant girl named Kate Donnan, who, he said, had been employed previously for a year and a half by a Mrs. McCarty of 16 North Washington street. Yesterday he said, Mrs. McCarty came to his house and informed his wife that the girl had stolen a quantity of silver and other table ware while in her employ. Mrs. Clark told the girl she must open her trunk and let her callers see if she had any of their property. The girl complied and the ladies found their property, besides a quantity of table linen, all new, which did not belong to them. Mrs. Clark discharged the girl and she reported the matter, as he said he regarded it as his duty to do so.

NO QUORUM.

More Room Needed for Pupils of the Garfield School.

There was no meeting of the school board last night, only three trustees being present, Messrs. Long, Lane and Dorais. Messrs. Clinton and Macdonald were absent. About the only thing of importance that was to be considered was Superintendent Hendricks' recommendation that more room be furnished for the Garfield school's pupils. There are 14 rooms in that building, and 850 pupils attend, so it must be apparent that more room is required. The enrollment at the city schools for the month ended Jan. 27, was 5,694; including other schools of the district, 5,802. There are in the high school classes 417 pupils; in all the grades of the high school building, 835; increase in high school since 1898, 297. In the Washington building there are 1,157 pupils. Another school building or two must be erected before the beginning of the term next fall.

FOR BURGLARY.

Part of the Stolen Property Was Found in O'Mally's Possession.

John O'Mally, a railroad man by occupation, was arrested at an early hour yesterday morning by Officers Fern and Smith and lodged in the city jail on a charge of burglary. The arrest was made on complaint of J. A. Byrne, a railroad man, who reported to the police Monday evening that on the night of the 27th he went to a hall and when he returned to his room in the Arlington house in South Park street, he found the room had been entered and from a bureau drawer a lot of railroad passes and valuable papers had been stolen. Byrne made a quiet investigation before reporting the burglary and by Monday evening had arrived at the conclusion O'Mally was the guilty party. He furnished a description of O'Mally which was given to the constable and this description of Officer Fern, one of the new specials, picked up O'Mally on the street yesterday morning. When searched at the city jail the passes and papers were found in O'Mally's possession. It is what the police style a "tramp railroad man" and has been several times accused of thievery.

A VAIN ATTEMPT.

James J. Neary Tried to Escape Trial for Murder.

James J. Neary, who is in the county jail awaiting trial for the murder of a man named Murray, made an unsuccessful attempt to commit suicide Monday night by taking morphine. Joe Shafer, another murderer, occupies the same cell with Neary, and he discovered that the man was something wrong with his cell mate and called the night jailer, County Physician Sizeran was summoned, and at once pronounced it a case of morphine poisoning. Neary was brought back to the jail, a great deal of an effort to arouse him. With the aid of a stomach pump and four prisoners who took turns in working up an artificial respiration, Neary was brought back to life again. He was all right again yesterday and admitted that he meant to commit suicide and said he got the morphine from some prisoners in jail, though it is suspected that the poison was smuggled into jail by some friends of Neary.

His Thigh Was Broken.

John Tobin, a miner at the St. Lawrence mine, had his right thigh broken last evening in a very singular manner. While the changing of shifts he came on top with a cage load of men. He was on the upper deck, and when the cage stopped for the men on that deck to get off, he supposed he stepped off, but owing to the cold weather the bucket house was filled with steam, which prevented him from seeing distinctly, and he did not observe that he only took a step to one side and still remained on the cage when it was hoisted back to the lower deck. When he started to walk away, with the first step he fell to the floor of the shaft house. The distance was only the height of the deck of the cage, but Tobin struck in such a way that his right thigh was fractured. He was sent to St. James' hospital.

Social and Card Party.

There is going to be a good time in South Butte to-morrow night. The ladies of the Ladies Aid of the B. & P. have arranged to give their friends a social and card party in Frost's hall. No admission will be charged and friends of the lodge are invited to participate. A list of special prizes will be given to the best as well as the poorest card players. There will be good things to eat and everything who goes is insured of an evening of delightful entertainment. The South Butte lodge numbers 26 members and is in a flourishing condition. It is the custom of the ladies to give a social to their friends every month. Last month was an exception, however, owing to the rush of Christmas preparations.

Where you find "Schaltzlein" in small letters at the bottom of a sign, you will find a good sign.

Gave Himself Up.

John Albers, for whose arrest a warrant was issued day before yesterday on complaint of Mrs. Marie Schrepper that he had threatened her well being, came in last evening to give himself up. Albers came to police headquarters and said he had signed his papers that a warrant had been issued for him and he had decided to save the officers the trouble of looking for him. He was sent by the police to the sheriff's office.

The funeral of Mrs. Rose Shea will take place to-day at 2 p. m. from Sherman's undertaking rooms.

Demurrer Filed.

Counsel for the Anaconda Copper Mining company filed a demurrer yesterday in Justice Harrington's court to the complaint instigated by the state mining inspector charging the company with violating the statutes by operating mining cages without safety appliances at a greater depth than 300 feet. Justice Harrington did not set the date for hearing arguments.

The body of Mrs. E. M. Ball, who died in Salt Lake, Utah, was shipped last night to KallsPELL via the Great Northern by Undertaker Sherman. The remains were accompanied by her daughter, Mrs. J. H. Brandow.

Patrick E., the 2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Anthony Neary, died yesterday. The funeral will take place this afternoon at 2 o'clock from the residence, No. 3 Buffalo street, Centerville.

Miles E. Desjardine, aged 7 months, died yesterday at the residence of his parents, 432 South Arizona street, from where the funeral will take place to-day at 2 p. m.

THEY WERE BOUND OVER

Phil Carr and Ike Cohen Must Face a Jury.

CHARGE IS A SERIOUS ONE

They Are Accused of Attempted Criminal Assault on Mrs. James Dillon and Also With Assault in the Second Degree.

The preliminary hearing of Phil Carr and Ike Cohen for assault in the second degree and criminal assault on Mrs. James Dillon, alleged to have been committed on the 23rd of December, which was begun last Friday, was concluded yesterday in Justice Harrington's court, resulting in the defendants being bound over to the district court. As at the previous session, Chief Deputy County Attorney Stivers prosecuted the case and Attorney Thompson Campbell appeared for the defendants.

James Dillon, the husband of the prosecuting witness, was recalled for cross-examination when the hearing was resumed. Referring to Mr. Campbell's questions, he said he first saw the defendants the night of December 23d, about 8 o'clock, when they came to his house. They demanded beer, and to keep peace, witness went with Ike Cohen to a road house to get it. Mr. Stivers was called and took the stand to testify that Mr. Dillon came to his office to complain of the assault. He examined her and found bruises and discolorations on her neck, bosom and face which appeared comparatively fresh. Cross-examined by Mr. Campbell, Mr. Stivers said he was a graduate in medicine, but was not a practicing physician, and his examination had been made in the capacity of a prosecuting officer, and not as a physician.

The state rested its case and the motion moved to dismiss, and on the motion being overruled, Phil Carr, one of the defendants, was called. He testified that he had known the Dillons four years and had frequently visited them. On the night of the 23rd he and Cohen were on their way to Bertl Bros' ranch on business, when they met the Dillons in the road about a quarter of a mile from their home, which was near the Cross-examined by Mr. Campbell, the defendants testified to visit their house, which the witness declined, as he did not have time. The Dillons pressed the invitation and said if defendants would come they would have some beer. Witness and Cohen readily accepted the invitation and went to a small barn near by to put up their horses. While thus engaged, Dillon produced a hatchet and Mrs. Dillon a butcher knife, and threatened to kill witness for having been the cause of having Mr. Dillon's children sent to the poor farm. They proceeded to attempt to carry out the threat, Dillon striking witness on the head and shin with the hatchet and Mrs. Dillon cutting him in the left side, the right arm and leg with the hatchet. The knife thrusts caused wounds, but the blows with the hatchet did not. Witness exhibited cuts or holes in his clothing which he said were made by the hatchet and Mrs. Dillon. Cohen testified that he was in the barn with the horses when Mrs. Dillon and her husband in their testimony, said that neither he nor Cohen entered their house at all, that he fought them off as best he could when the intent to kidnap was abandoned. Mr. Carr and Mr. Dillon went in the direction of their house, and defendants came to town without proceeding on their original errand.

Cross-examined by Mr. Stivers, Carr admitted he had previously been convicted of a felony, and in response to further questions said he and Cohen remained in Butte till the Monday following the 23rd of December. He, and Cohen then left for Idaho, but not to escape arrest, as they did not know there was a warrant out for their arrest. He and Cohen next took the stand. He denied being at the house of the Dillons the night the assault is alleged to have occurred, and proceeded to tell the same story Carr had related, that he and Carr while horseback on their way to the Bertl Bros' ranch, met the Dillons in the road about a quarter of a mile from their home. Dillon invited them to go to his house, but they declined to go as they did not have time, but the Dillons insisted, and said if they would come over they would have some beer. Witness and Carr at length decided to go, and went to a stable 200 or 300 yards away to put up their horses. While they were in the stable they were attacked by Mr. and Mrs. Dillon, the former having a hatchet and the latter a butcher knife. They threatened to kill Carr because he had been convicted of a felony, and Mrs. Dillon threatened to send Mr. Dillon's children to the poor farm. Dillon struck Carr with the hatchet, on the head, but did not do any great injury, and Mrs. Dillon cut him with the knife, cutting him in the region of the abdomen. On cross-examination the witness said he stood by and witnessed the assault, but did not interfere beyond asking the Dillons not to both kill Carr.

Guy Bertl was next called. He said that about 8 o'clock on the evening of Dec. 23, Mrs. Dillon came to his house and said Phil Carr was after her. He did not see Carr, however, and he could not tell whether she was intoxicated or not. Cross-examined, the witness said he was dark and did not recall the cell whether Mrs. Dillon was excited or not. Mr. Stivers in opening the argument, flayed the defendants in strong language, and said that in view of Carr's testimony, that he had been previously convicted of a felony, and of the past record of both defendants, he did not believe their denial of the truth of the allegations of the prosecuting witness and her husband was to be credited over the testimony of the state's witnesses. Mr. Campbell made a strong plea for his clients, holding that the charges made by Mrs. Dillon were trumped up to get even with Carr for having had her children sent to the poor farm, and after a brief reply by Mr. Stivers, Judge Harrington made his order binding the defendants over and fixing their bail at $500 each, which they were unable to furnish, and were remanded to the custody of the sheriff to await trial.

A Light Docket. For a trial day, yesterday's police court docket was a light one. Ed Suprenant, who exhibited a slungshot in a row at a variety theater a few nights ago, was convicted of carrying concealed weapons and fined $15. The charge against William Mauss of doing a plumbing business without a license was dismissed. On the charge of carrying a slungshot, Mauss was fined $10. Percy Graham was fined $5 for drunkenness.

CASE DISMISSED.

Armstrong Was Accused of Assault in the Second Degree. Justice Harrington dismissed the case of assault in the second degree against John Armstrong, and that of petit larceny against Joseph Noonan yesterday. Armstrong is bartender in a Galena street saloon, and about two weeks ago was accused of an assault on W. B. Ryan, in which Ryan was so badly beaten up that he nearly lost an eye. Yesterday it came to the notice of the county attorney that Ryan was unconscious at the time he received the injury to his eye, and as he could not therefore swear positively that Armstrong was the one who struck him, and no one saw the assault, the case was dismissed at the county attorney's request. Joseph Noonan was accused of stealing $35 from Thomas Waters and was to have had a hearing yesterday, but Waters had disappeared and the case was accordingly dismissed.

CRIMINAL PROCEEDINGS

Began Against Gregor Werder—The Charge Is Grand Larceny.

Criminal proceedings were begun yesterday against Gregor Werder, in the filing of a complaint in Justice Harrington's court for grand larceny for participating in an attempt to steal a brass plunger valued at $157.25 from the yards of the Boston & Montana smelter on the morning of Jan. 13. The defendant is the man who was implicated with Joseph Miller, who was bound over Monday by Justice Harrington. He is the man captured by Watchman Captain Waters in the act of loading the plunger into a wagon and who gave his name at the time as George Worden, but whose right name has since been learned to be Gregor Werder. He sets up the plea that he was innocent of the attempt to commit a crime, but was merely hired by Miller, who represented he wanted assistance to load some junk he had purchased.
