HELENA'S HOMICIDE.

Alive at Breakfast Time and Buried Before Dinner.

Fatal End of a Convivial Round-Up.

The Independent of the 10th inst. gives the following additional particulars of Helena's latest homicide: Wm. Brooke (colored) generally known as "Tex," was shot dead early yesterday morning on Postoffice corner by Patrick Lamb, Lamb, it appears, was then working out at Wickes, and came to Helena Sunday night in company with his brother and a Swede.

They reached Helena at about midnight. Lamb's brother and the Swede took a drink at the Cosmopolitan, but Lamb, being a temperate man, did not drink. The three men then went out on the street and visited several saloons. Lamb drank nothing, but his brother and the Swede got pretty full.

About 4 o'clock "Tex" joined the party at Wagner's saloon, just below Edwards street. He made himself very free with Lamb's drunk on a broad street, went out at the street and visited several saloons. Lamb drank nothing, but his brother and the Swede got pretty full.
