Another Murder at Cedar Creek.
DEER LODGE, October 22.—A Louisville special says: Last evening James McGregor, who keeps a feed stable in Quartz Town, shot Charles Young, a Canadian, during an altercation in Ballou Saloon. The ball entered the left temple, ranging downward and passed through his head. Young was not dead this morning, but his life is despaired of.

Considerable excitement exists on account of rich diggings struck in the upper part of Cedar.
Louisville is very quiet, and the miners are seeking winter quarters elsewhere. The sale of ground to Chinese companies continues. Judge Knowles, James A. Brown and Joseph Magee left for Missoula to-day. Any amount of weather to-day—snow, rain, sleet and fog, ad libitum. The Overland coach brought us seventeen passengers to-day.

PERSONAL.—Captain Hugh McCauley, Assistant Assessor United States Internal Revenue for the Gallatin District, came in from Bozeman last night, accompanied by Mr. Stanley, of the Crow Agency.
Sam Scott, proprietor of the Scott House, Deer Lodge, is at the International.

Captain George E. Ford, formerly agent of the Blackfeet, is in the city.
Hon. A. J. Smith, of Bannack, who, with his lady, recently returned to the Territory from an extended visit in the States, has for the past few days been visiting the Metropolis on business. Mr. Smith has for a number of years occupied a prominent place in the politics of Montana, and has always been found working heartily with the great party of Freedom and Progress in its several animated but unsuccessful struggles to release Montana from degenerate Democracy. On this side of the range, as on the other, Mr. Smith has many friends, who are glad to welcome his return to the Territory.

Hon. A. J. Simmons, Chairman of the Republican Central Committee, will tarry in the Metropolis several days longer before returning to the Other Side. It is no easy task for Jack to get away from his friends here, who are many in numbers, and persuasive in their appeals for him to remain with us permanently.

DEER LODGE ITEMS.—The Independent of the 22d inst. contains the following items:
The prisoners confined in the county jail made the necessary preparations for a raid upon the jail door last Monday night, but the vigilance of the officers in charge put a stop to their proceedings. They had taken a bar of iron off one of the cell doors and with this they expected to force the outer door. The leader, Charles Littlefield, has been heavily ironed. Our jail is tolerably secure and the officers vigilant, so there is no reason to believe that these prisoners will not be kept safe.

R. B. Campbell, Esq., informs us that there is now 150 inches of water in the Lost Creek ditch, and that, as soon as the mining season closes, the owners of the ditch will begin enlarging it to a carrying capacity of 700 inches. The mines covered by this ditch are proving to be rich and extensive, hence the necessity of an abundant supply of water.

Charles Kirker recently sold his interest—one ninth—in the discovery claim at Pilgrim Bar, for $5,500. Catching & Smith were the purchasers. These gentlemen also purchased a one-eighth in the same claim, of Mr. Roberts, for the sum of $1,200. This is a pretty good figure for a claim that has been worked two seasons.

Dr. Mitchell has five county patients in the hospital, all of whom are doing well. Dr. Mitchell is erecting a building for the accommodation of the insane.

Sam Scott has placed his hotel in the best of shape and is now prepared to accommodate all customers in good style.

From the Daily Herald of October 25.
COUNTY TAXES.—Those who have not already paid their county taxes had better walk up to Mr. Taylor's office and settle. After the 1st of November a penalty of twenty per cent. will be added.

SALES OF MINING CLAIMS.—Mr. Heese, we are informed, has recently sold a one-half interest in his ground on Ten Mile to Mr. Peterson, formerly of McClellan Gulch, for $4,500. Mr. Simpson has also sold a one-fourth interest in the same ground to Mr. Day for $2,500.

SNOW ON THE RANGE.—Mr. Jacob Kenck, of Washington Gulch, arrived last night, and reports that snow is eight or ten inches in depth on the range between Blackfoot and Greenhorn. This, we believe, is the heaviest fall of snow in the month of October "within the recollection of the oldest inhabitant."

SNOW.—Montana, the past two days, has been visited with a considerable storm of snow, which has extended throughout the Territory. The mountains and divides are covered to the depth of from six to eight inches, and the table lands are mantled to the depth of from one to three inches. Without doubt, this will all disappear presently, judging from precedents established the past three seasons. The present may be an exception to the general rule, and a dash of sleighing may come to us in the autumn months, before the snow melts beneath the sunny skies and frosty nights that usually usher in the winter holidays.

The Grand Lodge of A. F. & A. M. of Montana will meet on Monday next, Oct. 31, in Virginia City, at the Masonic Temple, at 12 o'clock m. Messrs. Gilmer & Salisbury have generously reduced the fare, for the round trip, to $25 for all the delegates from Helena and the neighboring lodges who take their coaches at this point. A number of the Subordinate Lodge representatives have already secured seats, and a full attendance upon the session is anticipated.

A NICE PRESENT.—Col. C. C. Huntley, who took his departure on Sunday for the States, via Virginia City, carried with him on the coach a magnificent arm chair, designed as a present to Gov. Potts. This chair is, we believe, of walnut, uniquely designed and elegantly upholstered, and is sufficiently large to easily and comfortably accommodate the ample proportions of our Executive.

Items from the Surveyor General's and United States Land Offices.

What has been Accomplished since January 1st.
2,100,000 Acres of Public Lands Surveyed.

396 Pre-emptions, 173 Homestead entries, and 75 Cash Sales.

We dropped into the Surveyor General's office this morning and obtained some valuable information in reference to the public lands of this Territory, which will interest our readers. And here we might remark, that everything in this department is conducted with a system and economy which reflects great credit upon General Washburn. Since his arrival in August last up to the first of November, two millions one hundred thousand acres of land will have been returned to the United States Land Office. These surveys embrace Jefferson, Sun River, Smith's River, Stinkingwater, Hellgate, Boulder, and Beaverhead Valleys. The General informs us that the lands which have been sold from the first of January, 1870, will more than three times pay the expense incurred in all the surveys which have been made in this Territory.

During the past week, township 11 north, 4 west, lying north of Helena, and township 8 north, 3 west, lying nearly south, have recently been returned to the Land Office, and are now subject to pre-emption. Township 8 embraces some very fine timber land, which is evidenced from the fact that three saw-mills are already running on this section.

The number of Deputy Surveyors connected with the office are 10, employing in the aggregate about 60 men. This does not include the force in the office.

Regular barometrical and thermometrical observations are taken at the office. For several days past the barometer has been falling; but to-day it is on the stand-still, indicating milder weather. The coldest day of the season was Monday, the 24th inst. The thermometer indicated 20 degrees.

THE LAND OFFICE.

During our stroll this morning we called for a few moments at the Land Office, and found Mr. R. F. May and L. B. Lyman, U. S. Receiver and Register, busily at work. From these gentlemen we obtained the following facts:

Number of homestead entries from the first of January, 1870, to the present time..... 173
Number of pre-emptions..... 396
Number of cash sales..... 95

EXTENSION OF SURVEYS ON TIMBER LAND.

From Mr. Lyman we also learn that the United States surveys have now been extended a little over twelve miles south and west; and also, northwest from Helena, including lands upon Jackson Creek, Clark's, Indian, McClellan, Mitchell's, Blue Cloud, Three Mile, Seven Mile, Silver, Clancy, Dimmick, Hot Spring, and Prickly Pear creeks, comprising in five townships about 115,000 acres, nearly all of which is mountainous, and embracing some of the finest timbered sections of the country, within easy access of this city, and upon which are already located several fine saw-mills. These lands are now all open for settlement and entry.

This is pretty good for ten months, and we challenge any other Territory to make a better showing during the same time. Montana is making rapid strides towards progress, permanency, and substantial wealth. A brilliant future awaits our people.

PERSONAL.—Col. W. B. Carling, of Fort Shaw, who has been stopping in the Metropolis for the past week, left this morning by private conveyance, for Fort Shaw.

Hon. T. C. Pounds, of Carpenter's Bar, has been stopping at the International for several days past.

Tom. C. Power, Esq., of Benton, is at the International.

Early Morn.—Thousands of both sexes, in the country, awake every morning languid, unrefreshed, and devoid of all inclination for breakfast. No matter from what cause these indescribable feelings may proceed, their best and quickest remedy will be found in a dose of PLANTATION BITTERS. The beneficial effect is immediate. The stomach at once responds to the genial influence of the preparation, and a reserve of latent vitality, which only required the awakening agency of this potent invigorant to render it active, is brought into play. Of all appetizers it is the most infallible, and the impulse which it imparts to the digestive functions soon puts dyspepsia to flight.

THE FINDING OF HON. T. C. EVERTS His Wanderings, Hardships and Sufferings.

Full and Reliable Particulars.

To the Editor of the Herald.
BOZEMAN, October 24th, 1870.

I had intended, before receiving your letter, to send you a communication in regard to the finding of Mr. Everts, and had previously prepared one, but the information I was enabled to obtain was based only upon hearsay. I determined, therefore, to wait for reliable news, and to-day I am enabled to give you the full particulars as I have them from Mr. Jack Barnett, the man who found him. I shall endeavor to quote his language as near as possible.

Barnett does not remember the exact day of finding Mr. Everts, but says he was traveling on the side of a tall mountain, and described an object on the opposite side of another mountain, walking along and occasionally stooping down behind rocks, evidently seeking shelter from the wind, as it had been snowing and was bitterly cold. The mountain was rough and covered with large boulders, and the object would dodge about from one to the other to gain protection from the chilling wind. He (Barnett) immediately started across the intervening space, and when he got within ten or fifteen feet, Mr. Everts (for it was him) threw up his hands, but could not articulate anything distinctly. Barnett then took him on his shoulders and bore him down in the valley to camp, and made him some tea; then for the first time he ejaculated "Thank God, I am safe." His mind wandered most of the time for some days, but a limited diet of antelope tea and warm drinks gradually restored him, until he was able to give, in a disappointed manner, the way he became lost, and his subsequent trials and hardships, up to the time of his discovery.

Mr. Everts is now at Fort Ellis, too weak to walk, but in mind as sound as could be expected. He will be here in Bozeman tomorrow—a mere child in weight.

Now for his trials, etc., as near as I can remember their relation. The day he was lost he had stepped aside to examine something, but, in attempting to regain the trail of his party, he dismounted and walked around in order to see the trail better; left his horse for a moment to step aside, and when he turned back, saw to his dismay his horse running off with gun, blankets, everything, except a butcher-knife, which he had on his person. He gave up the chase of his horse as fruitless, and then turned his attention to taking care of himself. He went to one of the numerous warm springs in that vicinity, built a little brush shanty just over the spring, and was enabled to keep himself, in a measure, warm, although scalding himself. He subsisted on thistle-roots and small fish, caught with his handkerchief; made himself a rude hook from his breeches' buckle, and caught two large fish with that. The line was composed of pieces of canvass, torn in strips and tied together. His camp-kettle was a yeast-powder box, in which he boiled roots and grasshoppers, but the latter he had to give up as they would not stay on his stomach. He thinks he remained about the springs some sixteen or seventeen days. After leaving there, he went entirely around the southern extremity of the Yellowstone lake, and started down on the east side. He built fires with the aid of his opera-glass, and carried a brand with him whenever and as long as he could.—When found, he did not remember how long he had been without a fire. He thought he had been lost about seventy days. The fish he caught he devoured raw, and thought them the most delicious morsels he had ever eaten. Of his real sufferings and trials no pen can give an adequate description. His superhuman efforts and tenacity to life were remarkable. Too much praise cannot be accorded to Mr. Barnett and others, who gave up their time and attention to taking care of him. One day later, and only the corpse of Mr. E. would have been found to speak in mute language of his terrible hardships and sufferings.

I wish to correct in this communication some errors which have crept into the press. To Mr. Barnett alone belongs the credit of finding Mr. Everts. I would not by this detract from those generous-hearted and whole-souled men who assisted him in various ways after he was found; but it is no doubt owing to Mr. B.'s sagacity and forethought as a mountain man that Mr. Everts was found, and so admirably taken care of afterwards, when the least indiscretion in nursing him might have resulted in his death. Again, no ambulance was sent from the military post, although the commandant and officers are generous and ready enough to do all in their power to be accommodating. It was an instance, simply, of too much red tape. Mr. Chas. Wright, of Bozeman, took from his stable a light spring wagon, and went himself, with Mr. Harry Horr, of Ft. Ellis, and Dr. O'Neil, of this place. Every care and attention has been given Mr. Everts, and everybody in this part of the country has seemed to vie with each other in promoting his comfort. He will soon be at home to gladden the hearts of his numerous friends, and to recount his many and fearful trials. His impression was that his comrades did not make much search for him, but he has been disabused of that opinion. They looked for him too far away from where he was lost. But he has been rescued, and we all rejoice. Beyond a doubt he is sufficiently convalescent to assure his ultimate recovery. This is as near a truthful and reliable account as I can obtain. It is a happy climax to the hitherto seemingly unfortunate denouement attending upon the otherwise magnificent results of the Yellowstone expedition. No shadow now rests over their explorations. The lost is found, and the fatted calf should be killed.

SAMUEL W. LANGHORNE.

P. S.—I failed to mention in the body of my letter the locality where Mr. Everts was found. It was near the mouth of Bear Gulch, a few miles above, and about half a mile from, the trail, and near the top of a lofty mountain. S. W. L.

UPPER MISSISSIPPI NAVIGATION.—The well known Capt. Houghton, formerly commander of the Mollie Mohler and other Mississippi and Missouri river steamers in days gone by, has recently built a light draught steamer on the Upper Mississippi, which is now regularly plying from Little Falls to a point near Lake Pokegama, but a few miles distant from the line of the N. P. R. R. This steamer, though small carries a large load, and Capt. Houghton, on a late trip, took up 100 passengers and 50 tons of freight. The voyage takes in a long stretch of river navigation—300 miles or more—which is now made subservient to the uses of commerce and travel. The building of the Northern Pacific Railroad gives the little steamer a good passenger and freight traffic. A few days ago says the St. Paul Pioneer, Capt. Houghton pushed the steamer from the Mississippi up into Sandy Lake through its outlet, crossed Sandy Lake, and ran some distance up Sandy river, during high water. This is a stream generally only about twenty feet wide, and it was quite a champion feat of navigation to push a boat so far up. The Indians were astounded, and told Captain Houghton the "Great Spirit" must have helped him. He actually reached a point where he could hear the locomotives whistle at the Junction, and the Junction people heard his boat whistle. Soon those whistles will echo regularly to the steam whistle; now it is a desolate wilderness. Captain Houghton says the scenery along the Mississippi is generally very fine, and some day it may become a much traveled route.

What is Quillaya Saponaria?—It is a tree, the bark of a Chilian Tree, which yields, when macerated, a fragrant vegetable soap with cleaning and anti-putrescent properties not possessed by any other vegetable production. OFFICE GEN'L SUPT. U. P. R. R.
Omaha, Neb., Dec. 16, 1869.

Hon. T. M. AVERT, Pres. National Watch Co., Chicago, Ill.

DEAR SIR:—During the months that I have carried one of your B. W. Raymond Watches it has not failed to keep the time with so much accuracy as to leave nothing to desire in this regard. For accuracy in time keeping, beauty of movement and finish, your watches challenge my admiration and arouse my pride as an American, and I am confident that in all respects they will compete successfully in the markets of the world with similar manufactures of older nations. They need only to be known to be appreciated. Yours, most respectfully, C. G. HAMMOND, Gen'l Supt.

HELMBOLD'S COLUMN.

TO PHYSICIANS.

New York, August 15th, 1868.

Allow me to call your attention to my PREPARATION OF COMPOUND EXTRACT BUCHU. The component parts are BUCHU, LONG LEAF, CUBEBS, JUNIPER BERRIES.

MODE OF PREPARATION.—Buchu, in vacuo. Juniper Berries, by distillation, to form a tincture. Cubebs extracted by displacement with spirits obtained from Juniper Berries; very little sugar is used, and a small proportion of spirit. It is more palatable than any now in use.

Buchu as prepared by Druggists, is of a dark color. It is a plant that emits its fragrance; the action of a flame destroys this (its active principle,) leaving a dark and glutinous decoction. Mine is the color of ingredients. The Buchu in my preparation predominates, the smallest quantity of the other ingredients is added to prevent fermentation; upon inspection, it will be found not to be a Tincture, as made in Pharmacopoea, nor is it a Syrup—and therefore, can be used in cases where fever or inflammation exist. In this, you have the knowledge of the ingredients and the mode of preparation.

Hoping that you will favor it with a trial, and that upon inspection it will meet with your approbation.

With a feeling of confidence,

I am, very respectfully,

H. T. HELMBOLD,

Chemist and Druggist of 15 years' Experience.

[From the largest Manufacturing Chemist in the World.] NOVEMBER 4, 1864.

"I am acquainted with Mr. H. T. Helmbold; he occupied the Drug Store opposite my residence, and was successful in conducting the business where others had not been equally so before him. I have been favorably impressed with his character and enterprise."

WILLIAM WRIGHTMAN.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, for weakness arising from indiscretion. The exhausted powers of Nature which are accompanied by so many alarming symptoms, among which will be found, Indisposition to Exertion, Loss of Memory, Wakefulness, Horror of Disease, or Forbodings of Evil; in fact, Universal Lassitude, Prostration, and inability to enter into the enjoyments of society.

The constitution, once affected with Organic Weakness, requires the aid of Medicine to strengthen and invigorate the system, which HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT BUCHU invariably does. If no treatment is submitted to, Consumption or insanity ensues.

HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU, in affections peculiar to Females, is unequalled by any other preparation, as in Chlorosis, or Retention, Painfulness, or Suppression of Customary Evacuations, Ulcerated or Scirrhus State of the Uterus, and all complaints incident to the sex, or the decline or change of life.

HELMBOLD'S EXTRACT OF BUCHU AND IMPROVED ROSE WASH will radically exterminate from the system diseases arising from habits of dissipation, at little expense, little or no change of diet, no inconvenience or exposure; completely superseding those unpleasant and dangerous remedies, Copalva and Mercury, in all these diseases.

Use HELMBOLD'S FLUID EXTRACT BUCHU in all diseases of these organs, whether existing in male or female, from whatever cause originating, and no matter of how long standing. It is pleasant in taste and odor, "immediate" in action, and more strengthening than any of the preparations of Bark or Iron.

Those suffering from broken-down or delicate constitutions, procure the remedy at once.

The reader must be aware that, however slight may be the attack of the above diseases, it is certain to affect the bodily health and mental powers.

All the above diseases require the aid of a Diuretic.
