The "Grand Opening" of the Board of Trade saloon Monday evening was patronized by a crowded house. The Havre Band furnished the musical numbers and there was one continual round of pleasure until a late hour.

Robbers blew the front off of the safe in the Bank of Endicott at an early hour Friday morning, but were frightened away without getting at the contents of the strong box. The noise of the explosion gave an alarm, and the robbers took to their heels under a rain of revolver shots. One of the alleged thugs, named Joe Buler, was captured later.

"Tell me not in rotten ragtime, things are always as they seem, for there's little modern butter that is really made of cream. Breakfast foods are built of sawdust left in bulk or chopped up fine, and one often orders beefsteak and on horse is forced to dine. Lives of great men oft remind us, if we want to be thought wise, we must take some brand of pickles, then pitch in and advertise. Let us then be up and doing, there are many we can run, and if we don't do the others they with us will have their fun."

MIKE DELIVERED THE GOODS.

Jim Smith got in trouble in a Western town and when the affair was over Jim realized that he was in a bad way, as he had killed his man. And to make it worse he landed in the hands of the police. It was a case of trial for murder.

When brought before the court in the old school house Jim recognized the foreman of the jury as his old friend, Mike Maloney. The prisoner was setting near the foreman, and during the bustle preliminary to the proceedings he managed to whisper to him: "It's dead against me Mike and I wish for the sake of old times you would hold out for a life sentence. I can't expect anything better. Do this for me and I'll never forget you."

"All roight, Oi'll do the best Oi kin, Jim," replied the foreman in a whisper.

The trial went on and it was not long until all the evidence was in. The jury retired and they must have had a heated debate, as they did not return until late at night. The verdict was imprisonment for life.

Smith was the happiest man in the court room, as he had been afraid of drawing a pass to the gallows. He rushed up to the foreman and said:

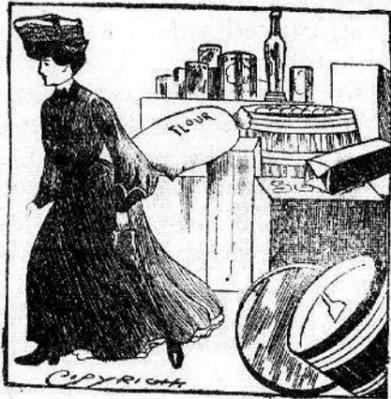

"I'm a thousand times obliged to you and I'll never forget your kindness. How did you manage it?" "Well Jim," replied Mike, wiping the perspiration from his forehead, "it wor th' toughest argumint Oi iver had. You see elivin of the jurymen stuck together until a few minutes ago. They wanted ter acquit yer, but Oi held out and got ye a loife sintince."

HAVRE VICTORIOUS.

The Chinook school foot ball team played the return game with the Havre High School team Saturday, the game resulting in a score of 20 to 0 in Havre's favor. Both elevens resorted to every advantage of the game and the contest was well worth coming miles to witness. Each team has a unique and original yell that enhanced the enthusiasm of the spectators. The deciding game will probably be played next week as both teams have a victory to their credit. A large crowd of "rooters" accompanied the team up from Chinook.

A HAPPY SURPRISE.

The Modern Woodmen of America were pleasantly surprised at their lodge room Saturday evening when the Royal Neighbors raided and took possession of their hall. The ladies brought all sorts of good things to eat and a regular jollification was indulged in. Besides refreshments in adundance, speaking, music and dancing was in order in which all joined with equal enthusiasm.
