

FORTY-ONE DROWNED

TWO STEAMERS IN COLLISION ON PUGET SOUND.

Steamer Jeannie Strikes the Steamer Dix and Latter Disappears—Cause of Accident was a Misunderstanding of Signals—Water Was Smooth as Millpond—Jeannie Was Not Injured.

Seattle, Wash., Nov. 20.—In a collision between the steamship Jeannie, belonging to the Alaska Coast company, Captain P. H. Mason, and the Puget sound steamer Dix, belonging to the Alki Point Transportation company, 41 people were drowned Sunday night. There were 79 passengers on board.

The cause of the accident was a misunderstanding of signals. The Jeannie struck the Dix on her starboard side just abaft midships, and keeled her over. She filled with water, then righted and went down stern first, sinking within five minutes of the time of the collision. The Dix was on her way to Port Blakeley from Seattle, and the Jeannie was going from Smith Cove to Tacoma to unload ore for the smelter.

Water Smooth as Millpond.
The Jeannie was not injured in the least and no member of her crew was lost. The master of the Dix was saved. The collision occurred while the Sound was almost as smooth as a millpond and after the boats had been steaming within sight of each other for a quarter of an hour.

The Jeannie was backing when she collided with the Dix and the impact was very slight. The Dix was struck aft of amidship on the starboard side. She listed heavily to port for a brief period, righted herself, then sank stern first. There was hardly time to launch life crafts or boats before she was almost entirely submerged.

Passengers Jump Into Water.

Passengers jumped from the decks into the water; women screamed and officers and men called orders that could hardly be heard above the din. The passengers of the Dix who could swim made their way to the sides of the Jeannie and were dragged aboard. The Jeannie was not moved until after all who had reached her had been hauled aboard. Then she cruised about, picking up several who had managed to stay above water. It was after 10 o'clock before the Jeannie left the scene of the catastrophe and steamed to the Virginia street dock, Seattle, with her 39 survivors.

Robbers Completed Job and Started a Disastrous Fire.

Walker, Mo.—Robbers here started a fire that destroyed six of the best business buildings in Walker, to cover up the robbery of between $2000 and $3000 belonging to the Bank of Walker.

Again the robbers, believed to be the same gang that committed the first robbery, cleaned out the safe, set fire to the building and escaped.

PEARY PARTY ALMOST STARVED.

They Had to Eat Fourteen Dogs on Way Back From the Pole.

New York.—In a special from Sydney, N. S., the World today gives some details of the hardships endured by Lieutenant Peary and his men in their futile dash for the north pole. After reaching the most extreme Greenland settlement, it is stated, 70 Esquimaux and 100 dogs were secured and then, taking the ice, the steamer Roosevelt drifted on and steamed through the barrier of 82.27 degrees north, where winter quarters were taken up, being the farthest north winter quarters in the history of Arctic exploration.

Arrangements to secure the ship and make all comfortable were completed by February 7, 1906, and on that day Peary, with his Esquimaux and three teams of dogs made his start for the pole. Other parties also went out in charge of Captain Bartlett, Dr. Wolfe, R. G. Marcin, J. Clarke and M. Ryan, respectively.

These were relief parties, and they kept 50 miles apart.

During the first part of the journey moderate weather prevailed and Peary made good speed. Before his return to his ship, 117 days later, however, conditions changed and terrible suffering from hunger and privation was endured.

Undeterred, Peary went further forward into the Arctic night until he reached the highest point ever reached by any explorer, 87.06 north latitude, within 153 miles of the pole.

Before he started on the return voyage the food supply had almost given out. During his return Peary encountered a fierce snowstorm which lasted a week and which drove the party out of its course. Peary immediately set out to recover his lost course, but before he succeeded hunger threatened and Peary was compelled to kill some of his dogs. The commander enjoyed the luxury of dog meat equally as well as his Esquimaux. When Peary returned to the ship only three dogs out of 17 remained, 14 having been eaten. Musk ox and deer killed on the road by Esquimaux helped the famished men.

Clarke, with one of the relief parties, also went astray and he was compelled to kill some of his dogs to provide food. Clarke, it appears, was unable to find his way back, but Peary luckily came across his tracks and went to Clarke's rescue. Clarke, it is stated, has not yet recovered from his trying experience.

BOMB IN CATHEDRAL

TERRIBLE EXPLOSION IN ST. PETER'S, ROME, ITALY.

Belief in Some Quarters That Anarchists Planned to Assassinate Pope—Big Panic in Cathedral—As If by Miracle, All Escape Injury and Great Structure Is Not Damaged.

Rome, Nov. 19.—The outrages of the desperate anarchist band now terrorizing Italy reached a climax Sunday morning in a bomb explosion in St. Peter's cathedral, at the Vatican, just at the conclusion of the morning mass.

It is a miracle that hundreds were not trampled to death in the mad stampede to leave the great church immediately after the explosion. The explosion made a thunderous report, which echoed and reverberated in the immense auditorium with a deafening volume of sound. The church immediately filled with smoke. The nave was crowded with worshippers, among whom were many women, and an indescribable panic developed. Men shouted wildly that the roof was falling and without heed for others rushed madly toward the exits. The utmost confusion prevailed for many minutes.

There is reason to believe that a most carefully planned attempt was made to assassinate the pope while he was at mass.

As soon as the echoes of the tremendous roar had ceased, a canon sought by reassuring words to quiet the people, but in vain. They fled in all directions, and a number of women screamed and tried to protect their families in the crush. The church is so large, however, that there were ample room for the crowd to scatter, and no one was injured. No trace of the perpetrator of the deed has been found.

Since Saint Anacletus, who was ordained by Peter himself, erected an oratory in 90 A. D., on the site of the present basilica to mark the spot where the remains of St. Peter are buried, no such dastardly occurrence is noted in the annals of the church.

Anniversary of the Dedication.

Today was the anniversary of the dedication of the basilica to St. Peter and it was beautifully decorated for the occasion. Cardinal Rampolla, formerly papal secretary of state, was among those present. He took part in the services in the choir chapel. The last mass had just been concluded when the explosion occurred, and only one canon, who had not quite finished, remained at the altar of St. Peter. This altar is at the end of the right aisle, and it was near here the bomb had been placed. As the canon turned to bless the communicants there was a tremendous roar, which echoed through the lofty arches of the immense dome like a thunder clap. At the same time a dense smoke spread throughout this portion of the basilica and a strong odor of gunpowder filled the air. Confusion and panic at once seized the people.

As soon as the smoke cleared away a hasty examination showed that nobody had been hurt in the crush, and further more that no one had been wounded by the explosion. Calm was gradually restored, and some of the people returned to view the extent of the damage.

Placed Bomb Under Scaffolding.

It was discovered that the bomb had been placed under a scaffolding that had been erected to facilitate repairs to the roof, exactly over the celebrated tomb of Clement XII., by Canova, which consists of a figure of the pope and two lions and which is the most remarkable piece of sculpture in the basilica. This tomb ranks among the finest efforts of modern sculpture, and by its execution Canova established his reputation.

The tomb was found to be uninjured, and even the pavement shows scarcely any signs of the explosion. It is believed the bomb had a very long fuse in order to give the criminal time to gain the exit. It has been impossible to trace him and no one has any recollection of seeing a man who by his movements, might have aroused suspicion.

The pope was engaged in his regular noon hour devotions when the bomb went off. He heard a muffled sound, which surprised but did not alarm him. Monsignor Misciatelli, superintendent of the apostolic palace, and Monsignor Bislet, major domo of the vatican, at once hurriedly entered the pontiff's chamber. They were so pale that the pope immediately asked, "What has happened?"

"Do not be alarmed, holy father," was the answer. "A bomb has exploded in the basilica, but fortunately there are no deaths to deplore, and no one has been wounded."

Third Outrage in Four Days.

This bomb explosion makes the third anarchist outrage in Italy in four days, the other two being the murder of Professor Rossi in Naples Saturday and the explosion of a bomb in front of the Cafe Aragno in this city on November 14. The attempt of Sunday has caused deep seated and universal horror and indignation on account of the locality selected by the miscreants, and the resentment of the people is very great.

St. Peter's is the greatest basilica in Christendom. It took 350 years to make the building what it is today and is a result of the efforts of 43 popes and the genius of Michael Angelo, Bramante and Rafael. The commission of such an outrage in such a place has called forth unlimited condemnation and is characterized as proving that the perpetrators of the crime were actuated by feelings worse than those which moved the Vandals and the Saracens.

One theory is held that this attempt was not directed against the papacy, but rather a challenge to society in general by attacking religion, the most sacred institution of the people.

FERNIE STRIKE IS OFF.

John Mitchell Orders Fernie Strikers to Work.

Fernie, B. C., Nov. 20.—The following telegram has been received from John Mitchell, president of the United Mine Workers of America, from Minneapolis, dated today:

"Agreement made by Burke recognized by international union and men will return to work."

This finally settles the question despite the fact that the district and local officers of the union, with their following, amounting to about 25 per cent of the local union, were unwilling to accept the settlement made by Mr. Burke.

The Michel union and about 50 per cent of the members of the Fernie local union accepted Mr. Burke's settlement without dispute and went back to work without waiting to hear the result of Messrs. Sherman and Patterson's interview with Mr. Mitchell.

There is nothing now for the malcontents to do but obey the instructions of President Mitchell and apply for places in the mine. This ends a strike which had far reaching results.

Anarchist Kills Learned Man.

Naples, Italy.—An anarchist named Lagan, who returned here recently from Paterson, N. J., by way of London, Saturday stabbed and killed the famous zoologist Giovanni Rossi, of the University of Naples, because Rossi in a recent lecture condemned anarchism as barbarous. Lagan, after the crime, boasted that he was glad he committed the deed, and said if he were free he would begin again on other enemies of anarchy, all of whom were condemned and would be killed at the earliest moment it was possible to carry out the plan arranged by the anarchist party.
