Walter Larssen, formerly of this city but now a well known young mining and real estate broker of Helena, spent several days in this city last week, leaving yesterday morning for his home. Helena. Mr. Larssen informs the Democrat, is just now experiencing about the most substantial prosperity in her history. During the past year there have been a large number of fine business houses constructed on the main business thoroughfares and all of them are occupied. All business is lively and the people have ceased to depend solely upon the bi-ennial session of the state legislature to keep things moving. The completion of the big dam and power plant down at Hauserlake, but a few miles from Helena, whereby an immense amount of electric power will be generated, will likely be the cause of some good manufacturing concerns being located in Helena. The mining industry has picked up wonderfully in the Helena district and hundreds of men are now employed in rejuvenating old properties and opening up new ones.
