

The News of the World

A Resume of the World's Happenings

Ogden, Utah, Nov. 9.—David Edwards, a noted officer, was shot and very seriously wounded by black hand men on a lonely road this morning. The black hand men had demanded a large sum of money from Leroy Eccles under threats of death. Edwards, attired in Eccles clothing, and carrying a satchel, went to the place, but apparently was recognized and was shot down without warning.

Kiev, Russia, Nov. 10.—A meeting of the "Society of the Double Eagle" has been called here for today, presumably to try and work up an outbreak against the Jews in connection with the farcial "blood ritual" murder trial in progress here.

Washington, D. C., Nov. 8.—Secretary Bryan announced today that he was negotiating with Denmark a treaty for arbitration of all questions arising, including those of national honor.

Butte, Nov. 6.—Ex-Senator W. A. Clark, who arrived here today, states that copper has never been in a better position, statistically, than it is now.

Durango, Colo., Nov. 9.—Posses are waiting here for orders from the Shiprock Indian agency to assist in quelling a reported uprising of Indians following an attempt to arrest eleven unruly redmen.

Kiev, Russia, Nov. 8.—Troops are being sent to this city to prevent an expected outbreak against the Jews as a result of the Mendel Beiliss "ritual murder" trial in progress here.

Concord, N. H., Nov. 8.—Governor Felker today honored the requisition of the state of New York for the extradition of Harry K. Thaw. The case is now transferred automatically to the federal courts, where a writ of habeas corpus on behalf of Thaw is pending.

Princeton, N. J., Nov. 8.—Harvard shattered an ancient football tradition here this afternoon by defeating Princeton on her own grounds by a score of 3 to 0.

Washington, Nov. 8.—With the senate banking and currency committee deadlocked in its consideration of the administration currency bill, a call was issued tonight for a conference of senate Democrats next Wednesday to discuss the matter.

Denver, Nov. 8.—Five non-union men killed, two perhaps mortally wounded, one less seriously hurt, four troopers of the state militia deported by strikers, two non-union miners badly beaten and an attack upon the state troops at Forbes, four railroad bridges burned on the Denver & Rio Grande lines, marked the resumption of hostilities by the strikers in the southern Colorado coal fields today.

Mexico City, Nov. 9.—At midnight last night President Huerta issued a formal statement to the diplomats, saying that it is now foreseen that the recent elections are null on account of too few precincts having participated in the voting and that therefore when congress convenes it will naturally annul the elections.

COMPLETE BRIDGES ON THE MILWAUKEE

TRACKLAYING TO GREAT FALLS WILL BE FINISHED BY DEC. 15.

With track laid for a distance of 22 miles eastward from Great Falls and about 65 miles westward from Lewistown, with the grading practically completed between the two pieces of track and no obstacles in the way of the track men. It is now estimated by Engineer J. D. MacVicar, given in the Great Falls Tribune, that the Great Falls-Lewistown line of the Milwaukee will be completed as regards tracklaying, between December 1 and December 15.

With the completion of the massive steel viaducts over the several creeks and river beds along the eastern end of the line, tracklaying has been progressing rapidly and it is understood that the construction train had reached mile post 65 last night.

There have been days, since the track was laid across the last big bridge on that end of the line, that steel has been laid at the rate of two and a quarter miles in one day, but this rate has not been kept up and in fact no attempt has been made to maintain such a record, no necessity existing for such speed.

There still remains two small pieces of grading to be completed, one at Shonkin and the other at Highwood, but these will be finished in two weeks, so as to not delay tracklaying, it is expected.

All Bridges Now in Place. With the erection of the big viaducts across Red coulee and across Belt creek east of this city, every bridge is in place along the line, even the small piling structures having been finished last week.

Although the steel of these two big viaducts is in place and the work train which has been engaged in conveying the steel and the big traveling crane used in the erection of the bridges has crossed both structures, there still remains some work to be done before a permanent track can be laid. Considerable of the riveting on the steel trusses and girders is yet to be done and then will come the placing of the concrete decks. These decks, which are built of concrete in the form of slabs with a concave upper surface so that ballast may be placed therein to carry the track, have all been constructed and will be placed in position as fast as the riveting proceeds.

The Belt creek viaduct, which was the last to be erected, is the highest structure on the Great Falls-Lewistown line, although not the largest. Its total length is about 900 feet, but its extreme height is 250 feet. With the exception of the concrete piers, abutments and deck, it is constructed entirely of steel.

All Work Now From East End. The track, which now is completed from this city to the Belt creek bridge, will not be constructed any further from this end and all the balance of the tracklaying will be done from the Lewistown end, due to the fact that the materials for the uncompleted stretch of about 43 miles are all stored at Lewistown and to bring any materials here would necessitate the payment of freight charges to another system.

It is not the intention of the company to lay new track through the Royal mills cut and over the park fill this fall, but the steel which has been utilized by the contractors will be straightened up and utilized until next spring, when heavier rails will be laid.

On the east end of the line the construction train is being followed up by work trains engaged in ballasting the line and it is understood that the line has been ballasted to the extent of the first lift as far as the new town of Denton.

According to a bulletin received at the local engineering office, the Lewistown terminals, Sweet Grass, Hilger, Great Falls-Lewistown, Dog Creek and Roy ranches of the Milwaukee will be known as the Northern Montana Division. So far no announcement has been made as to the appointment of operating officers for this division, as at present all these lines are under the supervision of C. L. Whiting, superintendent of construction.

It is announced that the grading on the Great Falls-Choteau line is now about 85 per cent completed and that work will be continued, it being the idea that the grading will be entirely finished by January 1. Nothing will be done toward the laying of track on this line before next spring, by which time the bridge across the Missouri at this place will be finished and materials can be brought in over the Milwaukee tracks.

"Now when this man came in the restaurant, when I knew what he had done, it made my blood boil. He seemed to know that I knew and to enjoy rubbing it in."

Tanquary here asked if Crawford was dead.

"Yes," answered County Attorney Marshall, "he is dead."

"Murder!" commented Tanquary. Then he added, "Well, he had only

Keen
Kutter

The Keen Kutter safety razors are all that their name implies. They have the most perfect angle of any razor made. They are made of the best of material, with the highest grade Swedish cutlery steel blade. And give a most perfect shave. They come put up in neat cases, in all styles from the K K junior at $1.00 to the gold plated traveling set at $12.50. The blades are put up in packages of five at 25c the package.

You buy a Keen Kutter junior for $1.00 and get enough blades with it to last you four months, saving you from $2 to $4 in barber bills and about $7.54 in time.

See our window, or better still, come in and let us show you the razors. You will enjoy a real shave if you use a Keen Kutter.

himself to blame for it. I'm glad he's dead."

Just then Mrs. Tanquary, the cause of the tragedy, came in and put her arms around her husband's neck and kissed him.

"This is the only woman in the world I'd stay in jail an hour for," commented the prisoner.

Turning to his wife he said, "Well, he'll never fuss around with any other man's wife, will he?"

"No he won't," replied Mrs. Tanquary.

Kept Shooting Gallery.

Crawford came here a few months ago from King City, Missouri. L. S. Butler, who comes from the same town, knew Crawford's father well and speaks highly of the family of the decedent. Crawford's wife had worked some as a waitress at the Temple cafe, but has not been there for some time.

The body has been embalmed and will be shipped to King City tomorrow, it is expected.

The Inquest.

The inquest was held last night at Creel's undertaking parlors, the jurors being Arthur B. Lehman, Carl Emigh, Joe Frell, Walter Haggerty, N. Kennison and Kingsley Matthews. They returned a verdict setting forth that the deceased came to his death from gunshot wounds inflicted by Edward Tanquary and that the killing was felonious. County Attorney Marshall will at once bring a charge of murder in the first degree against the defendant and hopes to have the case tried at the present jury term of court.

Wife Tells All.

The most important witness last night was Mrs. Tanquary, who corroborated the statement made by Tanquary to the Democrat immediately after the killing. She said that last Thursday morning, after her husband had gone, Crawford came into her room before she had arisen and practically compelled her to let him remain. He returned Friday morning, but on that occasion she offered no objection. That night her husband, who had suspected that her relations with Crawford were intimate, wrung a full confession from her.

Dr. Nichols described the wounds and G. W. Francis gave a vivid account of the last phase of the shooting, which occurred in Van Wormer's exchange. He was at a bench alongside the rear door working when Crawford ran in past him and had taken only three or four steps when Tanquary appeared in the doorway and fired the fatal shot, this bullet striking Crawford in the back and going through his chest. As he fell Tanquary advanced and snapped the weapon at the prostrate man, but the cartridges had all been used. Crawford was unarmed. Mr. Francis seized Tanquary and turned him over to Officer Ray. Mr. Van Wormer was advancing into this rear part of the establishment when Crawford entered and stood on a direct line with him, only a few feet away, when the man was killed.
