MOCCASIN.

Up to Tuesday of this week threshing operations have been going on rapidly in this section and had the favorable weather of the previous two weeks continued the work would be nearly finished within 10 days. While the yield is not as heavy as usual, it is of high quality and the prevailing high prices will offset the shortage of yield. Spring wheat has yielded somewhat heavier than was expected. The best yields that we have heard of thus far are those of the Gordon Young and Frank de Cramer ranches, the former's crop averaging 23 bushels to the acre and the latter's 29 bushels.

The stack had been set afire on Sunday and nothing but a pile of smoking embers remained by Monday morning, when a stiff wind scattered sparks among the stubble and started quite a blaze. A narrow strip of stubble was burned directly toward the farm buildings and caught in another stack of straw in the barnyard.

D. W. KINNARD DIES IN OREGON

FORMERLY EMPLOYED BY THE MILWAUKEE TOWNSITE COMPANY AS ENGINEER.

WORKED FOR YEARS IN FERGUS CO.

Word was received here Tuesday of the death of D. W. Kinnard of Port Angeles, Ore., at that place. Mr. Kinnard had been an employe of the Milwaukee Townsite company and the Milwaukee Railway company for a number of years before locating at Port Angeles. In the capacity of townsite engineer he had done a great deal of work in Fergus county and for several years resided here with his wife and family. During his residence here he made a great many close personal friends who will be shocked to learn of his death. Mrs. Kinnard was a very estimable woman and the sympathy of all her friends will go out to her at this time.

The following was clipped from a Port Angeles paper: "David W. Kinnard, city engineer, who had been ailing for several months past, died last evening at his home here, shortly after his return from a trip to Los Dos Hot Springs in the hope of recuperating his failing health. The funeral will be held in Oregon City next Saturday. Mr. Kinnard, who leaves a widow and two sons, Fred and Thomas, and a sister, Mrs. T. Watkins of St. Johns, Ore., was born in Saratoga Springs, N. Y., October 26, 1852. He graduated from Schenectady Union College and moved to Oregon in 1880.

"Prior to coming to Port Angeles, Mr. Kinnard was townsite engineer for the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul for ten years and had surveyed the Seattle, Port Angeles & Western through this city."

"The body of D. W. Kinnard, who died here Wednesday, was shipped today to Oregon City for burial tomorrow. Mrs. Kinnard and the children accompanied the remains. There was a big turnout of Free Masons at noon to escort the coffin to the steamer."

RALLY AT FOREST GROVE.

COMMENDING SENATOR MYERS

THOUSANDS OF "SQUATTERS" ON PUBLIC LANDS GRATEFUL FOR PROTECTIVE LAWS. WERE PASSED BY MYERS' EFFORTS

HELENA, Oct. 4.—Thousands of "squatters" upon public lands in Montana are commending United States Senator Henry L. Myers and the other members of Montana's democratic delegation in congress as the result of a law introduced in the last session of congress and which has just become effective due to the tireless work of Senator Myers and the other Montana representatives in the national congress.

The law, in effect, gives the "squatters" the same rights and privileges as have been enjoyed by the homesteaders during the past and makes it possible for them to obtain leave of absence from the land on which they are squatting without the danger of having their land "jumped" by other and less scrupulous home seekers.

Surveyor General Henry Gerhart yesterday received notice from the general land office that the law now is in effect. Under its provisions, people who have made settlement on unsurveyed lands in the public domain may obtain a leave of absence in one or two periods each year, provided that the total leave of absence does not exceed five months in any one year. All that is required to obtain this leave of absence is that the "squatter" shall file with the local land office notice of his intended leave of absence and that he also plainly mark the exterior boundaries of the land upon which he has located. When this is done, it will be "jumped" for any other person to "jump" his land.

Heretofore, if a man located on a piece of unsurveyed land he was compelled to remain upon it permanently until it has become surveyed and opened to homestead filing. In many instances, a person was forced to remain upon the land for years at a time and could not even leave it for a day without taking a chance of having some person "jumping" and getting it away from the original locator.

Under the new law which was passed through the influence of Senator Myers, these thousands of "squatters" in Montana have been given the same rights and the same protection as are enjoyed by a bona fide homesteader, and he can obtain his annual leaves of absence until such a time as the land has been surveyed and is open for filing under the homestead laws.

WILSON ADDRESSES DEMOCRATS

what we wanted from the Aldrich report, but that we could not take the heart out of it. We so absolutely altered the heart that Senator Aldrich himself denounced the thing that we produced.

"The hand is the hand of Esau, but the heart is the heart of Jacob, and that heart is the heart of the democratic party, the control by representatives of the people for the things that concern the whole people.

"There was universal hostility among bankers to the adoption of the present system, and all of that opposition had its impulse from that central group which knew that they were going to lose their grip on the treasury of the United States.

"They are perfectly content to take over the federal trade commission, provided they can select the commissioners and suggest whom they shall consult. They are perfectly willing to have a tariff board provided they can determine before hand what its conclusions are going to be by determining the quality and antecedents of the men who compose it.

"For example, if you want certain things to happen, select the most eminent, it may be the most honest, corporation lawyer in the country and put him on the supreme court. His character is not going to fail you. He may have as good character as any man who ever lived, but his training is going to determine everything that he sees. You do not have to do these things corruptly; you only have to do them astutely.

"Similarly they would be perfectly willing to control the board which is to govern the rural credits system. They will be perfectly content to appoint the board that is to control the development of the merchant marine and the regulation of marine charges in the cargoes of freight on high seas. The only thing that makes them uneasy is that democrats should be running these things.

"In the present judicial tradition, Wall Street controlled the actions of the treasury of the United States. I do not like those words 'Wall Street' because there are some men in Wall Street who have visions; there are some men who see things broadly and see them true; there are some men with fine statecraft and gifts and I do not include them in the main attitude of Wall Street in my given as to how they will act. Wall Street, I mean some parts of Wall Street, and I leave you to select the parts. Wall Street, thus selected, formerly controlled the treasury of the United States. It even had a desk in the treasury department.

"Many of these gentlemen honestly believe that they only understand the interests of the country and they were generally uneasy to see the treasury controlled without their consent. Again and again I have received indications from these quarters during the last three and a half years that they would very much like to be consulted and I have invariably said if these gentlemen have any advice to give I shall be pleased to receive it. All they do is to ask to see me and tell me in the frankest way like any other American citizen what they think ought to be done. But they wanted to be seen for and they wanted to be reasonably certain before they went that their advice would be taken.

"It has been interesting and it has been very amusing that any set of men should think they knew what the interests of the country demanded and nobody else did. So that they would not volunteer to come, we have made shift to conduct the treasury of the United States without their assistance. And it must surprise them in their private thoughts to have to admit that it has been better conducted than ever before in our generation; more successfully as a business administration and infinitely more helpful to the general body of the American people. Such assistance as the treasury of the United States can legitimately expand in times of financial stress, used always to be extended to Wall Street.

"Now it is extended to the country. It was no doubt shocking to see the money deposited in country banks and not in Wall Street, but the country banks knew how to use it and they were very much nearer the great masses of the people who need it than were the great depositories of financial sources in New York. I would not have you consider me proscribed against any city. The great city of New York is one of the vital parts of the United States, but the city of New York does not consist of the gentlemen in Wall Street.

"They used to be able to do a great

Yesterday's Market Quotations

CHICAGO GRAIN.

CHICAGO, Oct. 4.—Export buying which was said to be on a large scale helped to elevate the wheat market today to a new high record price for 1916, and so, too, did denials of rumors that rain had fallen in Argentina. The close was strong at 75 3/4 to 1 1/2 net advance, with December $1.59 1/2 to $1.59 3/4, and May $1.58 1/2. Corn gained 1/4 to 3/4; oats 1/4, and provision 1/4 to 1/2.

At first the wheat market showed a notable tendency to sag owing to prevalent opinions that bullish effect of the Argentine drought had been discounted enough.

Substantial gains in the last half of the session replaced accordingly the earlier losses of wheat values, and left the market in the end at virtually the topmost prices yet this season.

Corn was bullishly reflected by export demand. Oats reflected the strength of grain, but only to a slight extent.

A squeeze of shorts in October pork tended to lift the provision market as a whole. At one time, the covered market was bid up nearly $2.00 a barrel, but it did not appear that any large transactions were involved.

Wheat—December, open, $1.58; high, $1.59 1/2; low, $1.57; close, $1.59 1/2. May, open, $1.57 1/2; high, $1.58 1/2; low, $1.56 1/2; close, $1.58 1/2. Corn—December, open, 74 3/4; high,
