LOCAL NEWS.

Bicycle races are the rage in this town. Rock creek has on its Sunday clothes and is full of overflowing. The Masonic Lodge of Red Lodge is now organized and in working order. Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Shook are visiting Mr. and Mrs. John L. Burns this week. The rain came down in perfect torrents Tuesday and the whole face of the earth is soaking wet. J. H. Conrad & Co. have just received a mammoth stock of clothing suitable for Montanians. To-morrow will be children's day. Services will be held at Blackburn's hall by Rev. W. H. Watson. Rev. Charles Linley will preach in Red Lodge next Sunday morning and evening at the usual hour. Charles Pemberton left this week for upper Rock creek and proposes to work his claim during the summer. John Major, of Helena, the Grand Masonic lecturer of Montana, was in town this week and organized a Masonic lodge. Miss Ella Campbell was out riding last Sunday with friends and in a breakdown of the buggy had her ankle badly sprained. El. Patterson, the census enumerator for this district, started out Monday morning on a tour of enquiry of the citizens of this part of Montana. James Woods, the man who vendors garden vegetation, was in town this week and informs us that he will commence to supply this market in a short time. Peruse the new advertisement of Tinkcom & Tinkcom in this issue. A great reduction is made in prices in order to make room for the fall stock of millinery goods. Mrs. Eva M. Hunter, the county superintendent of schools, left on the train Monday for home after spending several days in the city visiting the public schools. Alex. Ray and D. J. Morse have located a new mining claim up on the west fork of Rock creek and call it the Lone Star lode. The lode is about sixty feet wide and looks well on the surface. When we get married we will have the brass band out, champagne running knee-deep in the streets and would lust up every body shouting glory hallelujah and God bless our happy souls. Johnnie Davis has purchased the interest of William Canick in the saloon business and will continue the business at the old stand in his own name. Note the change in advertisement in this issue. We have not missed an issue for the last ten weeks of publishing a local of a new baby being born. To say that Red Lodge is not prolific is to utter a falsehood as black as Egyptian darkness. Mr. and Mrs. J. D. O'Brien are the happy parents of a brand new baby today at their home. This is their first offspring and the happy couple are as proud as they can be and wear a Jupiterian smile. There is too much promiscuous shooting going on in and around town and a stop should be put to it at once. The people should see to it through their officials and that is the only way that the matter can be properly adjusted. The killing of John Seyssel is still shrouded in mystery. A thousand theories are advanced as to his probable death. The man was shot and killed and whether it was intentional or accidental no one knows, but many think he was murdered and we think so too. Col. Thomas G. Hathway, of Missoula, was in town yesterday and informed us that the Iron clad mine was booming. We hope this mine won't prove to be a rich bonanza because we would be forced to sell out our newspaper and leave our dear friends in Red Lodge. We had a long talk with Dan Brand this week and learn that he and Gilbert Patterson are still at work sinking a shaft on a new mine. Mr. Brand is of the opinion that good times will be struck on Rock Creek when the mining properties are sufficiently developed. The father and mother of John Seyssel came in Monday on the train and had a look at their murdered son before the remains of the deceased were interred in the Red Lodge cemetery. A large concourse of people attended the funeral and every respect was shown the dead man. The City Meat market has a Stevens Cooling room in connection with it and will keep beef not only nice and fresh, but cool and away from the pestiferous house fly. The meat when in one of these patent cooling rooms is kept nice and sweet and will be much better in every way. Thomas P. McDonald is at all times doing his utmost to please his numerous patrons. George H. Town took a couple of girls out buggy riding Thursday. He thought that he would test the bravery and fortitude of the young ladies by driving up an almost perpendicular mountain. Mr. Town drove quite away up the mountain before he realized the predicament he had got in and became so frightened that his teeth chattered like a tin roof on a stormy night. The girls were not a bit scared and laughed at the discomfiture of their escort.

Three weddings in Red Lodge in one week and still some people insist that our town is not booming in a matrimonial sense. If we had a dozen marriageable girls and wanted them to go off like Fourth of July sky-rockets we would want to live in Red Lodge. We could not keep them from marrying unless we imprisoned them. There seems to be something in the air in this town that is very conducive to matrimony and when the epidemic starts it goes whizzing like an electric flash. Arrangements are being made for special services on Children's Day, the second Sunday in June, which is now generally observed throughout the states. Blackburn hall will be decorated for the occasion with flowers and singing birds. Pieces will be sung by the choir and children, and at the morning service the children will give some appropriate recitations. A bright and joyous festival is looked for and it is hoped that parents and others will show their interest in the children by being present. Rocky Mountain Dude. A little Red Lodge girl was walking down the street Wednesday with her aunt while the wind was blowing a perfect gale and not a Rocky Mountain dude while the wind was competing with his iron-sack pants. The little girl screamed out: "Oh auntie, look-why don't that hateful man put his clothes down!"

Bas Club. The Red Lodge Red and Gun club had last night a very successful meeting. The club are making rapid progress. sufficient skill is attained we will punish the score. Some of the boys are not particularly proud of their record as marksmen and desire a little more practice before the score is set up in cold type. The Sunday Outing. Last Sunday morning with the church bells were chiming a welcome to Sunday school children a group of young people all mounted on horseback were rearing galloping down Hauser avenue on their way to Red Lodge river to participate in a Sunday outing. The day was spent in a most enjoyable manner by the joyous pluckers and all was as serene as the shadow of Venus on a moonlight night lurking in the brick-top curls of a female. But the jostling of the horses made some of the party so nervous that they could hardly sit down for two or three days. Where Did You Get That Baby? The census enumerator started out on his mission bright and early Monday morning. In making his rounds of the city and asking the questions and making the query the enumerator is supposed to act in accordance with law he called at a cottage and the husband was away from home so the wife was interrogated about family affairs. He asked the woman how old she was, if any of her relatives had ever been hanged and if divorce was red-headed in the family, turned to the cradle and saw a pretty baby sleeping and said where did you get this? The lady laughed and said: "That is a product of Montana and its high altitude."

A Sad Death. That insatiable monster death has again visited Red Lodge and this time taken away Mrs. A. P. Alvin a lady who was universally popular with all who had the good fortune of an acquaintance. The death of this woman cast a pall of gloom over the entire town. Mrs. Alvin came to this place about ten months ago as the bride of Mr. A. P. Alvin and the newly married couple went to house-keeping soon after they arrived from St. Paul. The deceased woman was only sick a short time and although everything that medical skill and kind friends could do the poor little spirit took its flight to the future world. The ladies of Red Lodge are deservng of kind mention for the humane manner in which they watched by the bedside of Mrs. Alvin and never for a moment left the sick woman's couch during her entire illness. A large assemblage of friends and acquaintances gathered at the residence of A. P. Alvin Wednesday evening to attend the funeral of his deceased wife and after the funeral obsequies the remains were put in a casket and shipped on the train to St. Paul. Johnnie Behind the Rocks Drowned. Last Saturday afternoon George Kleinbart, better known as "Johnnie Behind the Rocks," was drowned in Clark's Fork while trying to drive some horses across the river at the stage station twenty miles east of Red Lodge. Mrs. W. O. Shrine was standing on the opposite bank of the river from the stage station when Kleinbart started the horses in the water and she says that the horse the unfortunate man was riding made a desperate plunge and the rider was thrown off into the water which was about three feet deep and after being thrown from the bucking horse arose and stood on his feet for two or three minutes and then sank down and came up again about twenty feet below. The drowning man arose again about one hundred yards below and came up and threw his hands up and hallooed: "I am gone" and sank to come up no more. It is thought that Kleinbart was hurt from the fall as he was a splendid swimmer and served an apprenticeship on the ocean as a sailor. "Johnnie Behind the Rocks" was a kind hearted little fellow and was liked by every one in town. We learn from F. Bieox that diligent search has been made for the body along the banks of Clark's Fork but it has not been found. It is very doubtful if the body will be found for some time as the river is high and the current is running at a fearful speed. Plans Received. UNITED STATES LAND OFFICE, Bozeman, June 2nd, 1890.
