HARTFORD.

Gem City of the Green River Valley.

Where Progress is on the March.

A Partial List of the Various Enterprises that Go to Make up This Thriving City.

SPLENDID OPENING FOR FACTORIES

The Evansville Courier recently contained the following splendid write-up of Hartford:

Hartford, the county-seat of Ohio county, and one of the most attractive in point of location and natural advantages to be found in the entire Green River valley, is situated at the head of navigation on Rough river, thirty miles from its mouth. The river is navigable at all seasons of the year, the steamer being a feature of the trade between this point and Evansville, carry both freight and passengers. Two state and a number of lines meet all trains at Beaver Dam, the nearest railroad connection, only five miles distant, where the Illinois Central affords direct connection, by rail, to all points north and south. The town has a most picturesque location on the banks of Rough river, being on an elevation above the surrounding country, thus affording excellent drainage, conducive to the healthfulness of the town, for which it is famous.

Hartford and Ohio county has been the birthplace of many men who afterwards became celebrated in the annals of the country. Hon. Richard P. Bland, one of the pioneer advocates of free silver, was a native of Ohio county, where he taught school before going west to Missouri, where he won fame as a public man. Another was the Hon. Henry D. McHenry, one of the brilliant lawyers of the former regime, the same of whom Henry Watterson once said that he had James B. Beck "were the brains of Kentucky."

POPULATION.

The town has a population of about 1,200, and while it has never had a boom, so-called, its growth has been of a gradual and substantial character. The business men and citizens are progressive, taking a just pride in their town and in their merited reputation for hospitality, culture and refinement, which fact is remarked by all visitors from afar. Nearly every profession and every line of business, as we may find in a town of like size, are represented, and the merchantly stocks to meet all needs. The fact that there has never been a failure in the history of the town, in which the integrity of the business men has ever been questioned, proves the stability of its citizenship.

EDUCATIONAL.

The Hartford College affords educational advantages of a high order. The school is one of the best managed to be found in Western Kentucky and has graduated many of the State's brightest men and women. The school maintains the well earned reputation as affording a graded school in which both the common and higher branches are taught by competent teachers.

CHURCHES.

The churches—guardians of the religious and moral welfare of the community—are represented by the Baptist, Methodist and Cumberland Presbyterian denominations. The first named have one of the most commodious church buildings to be found in the South, being of brick and of pleasing architecture.

SECRET ORDERS.

The secret and fraternal orders are represented by several lodges. Hartford Lodge, F. and A. M., No. 675, has a membership of fifty-five. The Knights of Pythias have a growing membership of sixty and is in a flourishing condition. The Rathbone Sisters have upwards of twenty members, while the Knights of Honor and the A. O. U. W. show up with a membership of about twenty-five each.

BANKS.

Two banks furnish the banking facilities of Hartford and the county roundabout. They are both financially strong and their management conservative, as well as progressive.

MANUFACTURING INTERESTS.

While the manufacturing interests of Hartford are not numerous, they are of a substantial character, forerunners of many that will follow the advent of a new railroad, for here is found raw material in abundance and cheap fuel. The stock barrel stave factory, of which Frank Koller, formerly of New Albany, Ind., is proprietor, was established last May. The factory has a capacity of 35,000 staves per day, employs upwards of forty hands and disburse about $200 a month for wages, etc. A saw-mill, with a daily capacity of 100,000 feet, is operated in connection. The product of this enterprise is shipped to Evansville, Chicago and elsewhere.

THE HARTFORD FLOURING MILL.

J. W. Ford & Co., proprietors, manufactures flour of a superior grade, which finds a ready market. It is up-to-date in all its equipment, has a daily capacity of seventy-five barrels.

A LARGE TILE AND BRICK-MAKING PLANT

is being established by Messrs. Reed Brothers. Abundance of fire clay of superior quality is found throughout the surrounding country. This plant, when under way, will give employment to many laborers and will prove of substantial benefit to the town.

MESSRS. FORD & TAYLOR,

conduct a successful saw and planing mill. Messrs. Martin, Shanks & Co. of Sargeento, Kentucky, are erecting a large tobacco stemmer, recognizing the desirability of location that Hartford offers. Ohio county last year alone raised 4,826,928 pounds of tobacco. Hereafter the bulk of the crop has been marketed on Owensboro. This will not be the case in the future, as the new stemmer will be in position to handle much of this crop at a saving to the grower in transporting same by wagon to Owensboro. This stemmer is one of several that are bound to follow in order to accommodate the development of this growing industry.

TELEPHONE CONNECTION.

Hartford enjoys fine telephone connections with the outside world, same being furnished by the Cumberland Telephone and Telegraph Company and the Hartford Telephone and Exchange Company, of which latter Dr. E. W. Ford is president and Mr. J. M. Mattingly is vice president and manager. The latter operates a local exchange and is extending its lines throughout the country, up and down the Green River valley. The people are giving this independent line liberal patronage and encouragement, as merited. The Cumberland Company will also put in an exchange.

PAIR GROUND.

The town and county are indebted to the enterprise and public spirit of Mr. T. Larkin Griffin, and Captain Samuel K. Cox, of the Ohio County Fair association, for the fair grounds, which exceed those of any other to be found in Western Kentucky. The grounds occupy thirty-two acres, beautifully situated on the banks of Rough river, opposite Hartford. A natural forest, upwards of ten acres, adds to its attractiveness. The race track has the reputation of being one of the finest half mile tracks to be found in America. The entire race course is visible from every part of the amphitheater, which seats 3,000 people.

ROUGH RIVER TRAFFIC.

Through the united efforts of representative citizens and that of the Hartford Commercial Club, the United States Government had a lock and dam constructed on Rough river extending $105,000, appropriated by Congress for that purpose, thereby making the river navigable for boats at all seasons of the year, as far as Hartford, head of navigation. At the present writing Government engineers are raising the dam so as to afford thirteen inches more of slack water.

THE HARTFORD AND EVANSVILLE PACKET

line was organized in November, 1898, for the purpose of operating a line of boats on Rough and Green rivers, the stock being furnished by local capitalists. They purchased the steamer Sycamore, which was at once put in the trade and has ever since been liberally patronized by the business men and citizens in the carrying of freight and passengers. The people take great pride in the enterprise, whose success they back with their patronage and dollars.

HARTFORD COMMERCIAL CLUB.

This organization, whose membership is composed of business and professional men is doing a great service in promoting the upbuilding of the town and the securing of manufacturing plants and to attract immigration to this garden spot of Kentucky.

OPENING FOR MANUFACTURERS.

Hartford offers manufacturers looking for locations, the advantage of excellent factory sites, along Rough river, and an abundance of raw material accessible for the following manufacturers: Brick and tile works, wagon, wheel and furniture factory; plow, hub, spoke and handle factory; tight and slack barrel cooperage stock, straw baling factory, canning factory, and a creamery. Parties looking for a location, would do well to correspond with James F. Carson, secretary of the Hartford Commercial club, who will be pleased to respond to all inquiries.

SANDFORD-GOEBEL DUEL.

A TRUE ACCOUNT OF THE FAMOUS KILLING.

Malignant Misrepresentations Set at Rest by the Statement of Coroner Tarvin.

A CLEAR CASE OF SELF-DEFENSE.

A great deal of talk has been indulged in about the killing of Mr. John Sandford by Senator Goebel several years ago, and a number of people have essayed to state the case who were in no wise familiar with the facts. Senator Goebel has been pictured as a cold-blooded murderer, and many persons are under the impression that he shot Mr. Sandford down without any provocation whatever. The following statement will disabuse their minds of this fallacy. It was a most unfortunate affair from beginning to end, but not unlike many another difficulties in Eastern Kentucky, where feuds have been lamentably common and duels not a rare occurrence.

At the request of friends and in order to get a true statement of the difficulty between Sandford and Goebel, of which so much has been written and said, Mr. B. S. Morris, of Henderson, wrote W. W. Tarvin, then and now the coroner of Kenton county, asking him for the facts. Mr. Morris received from Coroner Tarvin the following reply:

"Office 912 Madison Avenue—Telephone No. 4050—Residence 114 E. Fifteenth street—Coroner of Kenton county, Ky., W. W. Tarvin, M. D.

"COVINGTON, KY., Sept 25, 1898.—B. S. Morris, Esq.—Friend Jack: Yours of the 23d received and I'll try to give you the information you desire, as you are correct in supposing that I was coroner at the time of the Sandford killing, and that I held the inquest in that case.

"I am unable to state the cause of the beginning of the enmity between Goebel and Sandford, as opinions differ widely. Some say it was because of a proxy at a convention; some that it was on account of the law Goebel had passed reducing the tolls of a turpentine in which Sandford was a stockholder; and some that it was because Goebel was instrumental in having the city funds removed from Sandford's bank and deposited in another bank.

"At any rate, after the feeling first started, it grew steadily and the fact that some of Sandford's closest friends were identified with the feeling which always opposed Goebel, did not help matters any, and Sandford said he would rather kill Goebel or be killed.

"But to come down to the actual cause of the killing, the daily Commonwealth had for several months been publishing articles 'roasting' Goebel at every opportunity, and Goebel was informed that John Sandford was the author of those articles. In fact, I remember rightly, Goebel was shown the original copies, and they were in Sandford's handwriting. At last, probably exasperated beyond endurance, Goebel wrote and caused to be published, in a little weekly sheet issued every Saturday, an article in which he referred to Sandford in severe terms, and that was the immediate cause of the meeting.

"On the day of the encounter, about 1 o'clock, Goebel and W. J. Hendricks, at that time Attorney General, were coming up town together, and on Fifth street met Frank Helm, president of the First National bank, and as Hendricks wished to get a check cashed, they all three continued on Fifth and on Madison avenue toward the bank. As they came in the vicinity of the bank they saw John Sandford standing at the foot of the steps leading into the bank, with one foot on the lower step, and leaning upon the railing at one side. Sandford was leaning upon the railing with his left arm, with his right hand in his front pants pocket. The three (Goebel, Hendricks and Helm) came up to the foot of the steps and halted. Helm spoke to Sandford, who responded, and after a reminder from Helm, Sandford spoke to Hendricks, held out his left hand, with his right still in his pocket, and shook hands with him. Then, turning toward Goebel, who was standing three or four feet from him, with his overcoat over his left arm and his right hand in his front pants-pocket, Sandford said: 'I understand that you assume the responsibility of that newspaper article.'

"Goebel answered promptly, 'I do,' whereupon Sandford withdrew his hand from his pocket, holding a revolver, thrust it forward quickly toward Goebel's abdomen and fired, the ball entering through Goebel's coat and lower edge of his vest. Goebel made one step backward, dropped his overcoat and withdrawing his hand (right) from his pocket, also holding a revolver, threw his hand up and fired, answering the first shot so quickly that it almost sounded as an echo, and the ball struck Sandford in the forehead, making a fatal wound. Besides Helm and Hendricks, there was a number of people upon the street who witnessed the shooting, some of them strangers to both men, and the evidence clearly proved that Sandford drew his revolver and fired the first shot.

"My jury was composed of six good citizens, one an ex-sheriff (acting), one the principal of a district public school, and one who has since served a term as president of the board of aldermen and is now county assessor, and the other three were honest, reliable workmen; and that jury brought in a verdict that the shot was fired by Goebel in self-defense.

"The county judge, a Republican, held a preliminary examination and discharged Goebel, as the evidence showed that Sandford had threatened to kill Goebel and had drawn and fired first. Two attempts were made to indict Goebel, but the grand jury refused to return true bills each time. Hoping this is a clear explanation of a very unfortunate matter, I will close with best regards. Yours truly,

"W. W. TARVIN, C. K. C., Ky."

Appointment of Election Commissioners.

[Danville Advocate.]

In the selection of the County Commissioners it was not expected that the State Election Board would perform the task to the entire satisfaction of every one, but the fact that complaints have been few and that the Republicans themselves admit that the appointments as a whole are most excellent, proves that the work has been remarkably well done. The members of the State Board have made the selections with a view to a fair and honest election. The character of the men appointed above this to be the case. It is true there may be instances where some changes would be an improvement. It would be surprising if they were not. But because a few of the appointees may not be up to the mark, does not indicate that the State Board did not do its best to choose none but reputable men. When the appointing power was compelled to rely solely upon the recommendations of party managers, in a number of localities, it would not be surprising if some of their selections could be improved upon. Judging by the appointments in Boyle county, and Louisville and Jefferson county, however, the State Board has performed its duty well enough to have earned the commendation of all good citizens, and it is believed that it has provided for an honest and fair election.

How to Prevent Croup.

We have two children who are subject to attacks of croup. Whenever an attack is coming on, my wife gives them Chamberlain's Cough Remedy and it always prevents the attack. It is a household necessity in this country and no matter what else we run out of, it would not do to be without Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. More of it is used here than of all other cough medicines combined.—J. M. Nickla, of Nickla Bros., merchants, Nickleville, Pa. For sale by Z. Wayne Griffin & Bro., Drugists, Hartford.

A Friend to the Churches.

[Mt. Sterling Advocate.]

You can most generally tell what a man is by approaching him through his pocketbook. A minister of the gospel, of divine origin, would not approach a man, an enemy to the cause he represented. Do you think he would? We don't. The First Methodist congregation of Covington had built an elegant house of worship, and the pastor then in charge approached Mr. Goebel for a contribution. When Mr. Goebel asked: "What do you want?" the preacher enumerated many of the needs, one being a carpet for the house. Mr. Goebel told him he was associated with his brother in Cincinnati in the carpet business and he would see him and report the next day what they could do. He did so, and reported that his firm would furnish the carpet. The minister said: "Do you know that means at least 1,000 yards at from $1 to $1.50 per yard?" "Very well," said Mr. Goebel, "we will furnish the carpet." Can any preacher say as much for Mr. Brown or Mr. Taylor?

Ordered His Tombstone.

[Glasgow News.]

Mr. and Mrs. Jerry Jordan, of Oakland, were here last week attending the fair, and also looking after the completion of a monument for Mr. Jordan's late wife. Mr. Jordan is leaving made for himself and wife at Deering & Bro.'s marble works. Mr. Jordan is eighty-one years of age, and knowing that his race was about run, is making all preparations for the end. He has had the monument made with the name and date of birth of both himself and wife carved on it, and blank spaces left on it to engrave the dates of their death. The monument is of gray marble, is two columns, eight feet high, with an arch and urn on top, and is a very beautiful piece of work. Mr. Jordan called to see it while here, and told Mr. Deering to hurry up with the work, as he wanted to see it in position before he died.

The chance distribution of military titles was ready and liberal at the time when so many soldiers were running to civilian life, and I paid no attention to the invitation. Just then a rival bootblack passed, and imagining where the cause of my indifference lay, he advanced, and, pushing past the unsuccessful claimant, he gave me a military salute and appealed to me with the exhorting words: 'Brigadier general, shine yer boots? I had my boots shined on the spot?'

Widow with an Eye to Business.

[Philadelphia Record.]

One of Commissioner Evans' pension examiners recently discovered a strange and interesting case among the thousands of claims coming before him for examination.

A woman in 1854 married one Caldwell, who became a soldier and who died in 1867. The widow was again married, to one Field, in 1875, and was divorced from him in 1878.

In the same year she married one O'Neil, a soldier who died in 1885.

As the widow of O'Neil, she filed a claim for a pension under the act of June 27, 1890, and drew $234.

In 1892 she married one Bond, a soldier, who is now living. In 1897, while the wife of Bond, she filed a claim as the widow of Caldwell for arrears of pension from 1867, the year of Caldwell's death, in 1870, the date of her marriage to Field. The claim was allowed, and she re-

"It is with pleasure I now write to inform you that I am now a healthy woman, thanks to your kind advice and wonderful medicine. I can never praise it enough. I was a constant sufferer from womb trouble, and a leucorrhoea, had a continual pain in abdomen. Sometimes I could not walk across the floor for three or four weeks at a time. Since using your medicine, I now have no more bearing-down pains, or tired feelings, and am well and hearty. I shall recommend Lydia E. NEVER TOO OLD TO BE CURED.

S. S. S. Is a Great Blessing to Old People. It Gives Them New Blood and Life.

Age does not necessarily mean feebleness and ill health, and nearly all of the sickness among older people can be avoided. Most elderly people are very susceptible to illness, but it is wholly unnecessary. By keeping their blood pure, they can fortify themselves so as to escape three-fourths of the ailments from which they suffer so generally. S. S. S. is a thoroughly removing all waste accumulations and imparting new strength and life to the whole body. It increases the appetite, builds up the energies, and sends new life-giving blood throughout the entire system.

Mr. Sarah Pike, 477 Broadway, South Boston, writes: "I was twenty years old, and had not enjoyed good health for twenty years. I was sick in different ways, and in addition, had Eczeema terribly on one of my legs. The doctor said that on account of my age, I would never be well again. I took a dozen bottles of S. S. S. and it cured me completely, and I am happy to say that I feel as well as I ever did in my life."

Mr. J. W. Loring, of Colquitt, Ga., says: "For eighteen years I suffered tortures from a fiery eruption on my skin. I tried almost every known remedy, but they failed one by one, and I was told that my age, which is sixty-five, was against me, and that I could never be well again. I finally took S. S. S., and it cleansed my blood thoroughly, and now I am in perfect health."

S. S. S. FOR THE BLOOD

is the only remedy which can build up and strengthen old people, because it is the only one which is guaranteed free from potash, mercury, arsenic and other damaging minerals. It is made from roots and herbs, and has no chemicals whatever in it. S. S. S. cures the worst cases of Scrofula, Cancer, Eczema, Rheumatism, Tetter, Open Sores, Chronic Ulcers, Boils, or any other disease of the blood. It is made by Swift & McCreedy Co., Atlanta, Ga.
